From every hand throughout the Diocese good attendance. A good Lent brings a glo- o'clock A. M. and 12 M. rious Easter. We are sure the Clergy are doing their part to make it full of spiritual blessing to their people. Oh, may we have a renewed consecration of our people to the service of their God, a quickened life of devotion, and love, and faith. May the fruits of selfdenial and sacrifice be evidenced by increased offerings of our people for Missionary work.

Is it not as near as possible to the average of one dollar per communicant. In view of the great and important work we have to do, we, as Churchmen, should not be content with any question? If any prefer not to make pledges, less sum. There is great need of Churchmen but to pay over the money, it will be equally enlarging their hearts in this view of Diocesan Missions, and consecrating dollars where now they give dimes.

ANNUAL MEETINGS.

Much care should be taken in every parish to give due notice (at least ten days beforehand) of the annual meeting on Easter Monday for the election of Wardens and Vestrymen. Read over the Canon and see that all action is conformable to the law. We fear some of our parishes do not comply by filing and Scarborough, of New Jersey, were presthe necessary certificates with the Recorder. It is the opinion of the Chancellor of the Diocese that, proper notice being given, the meeting may be held in the evening of Easter Monday. ENDOWMENT PLAN.

Pledges for the Endowment of the Episcopate on the plan prepared by the Bishop are coming steadily in. It will be a splendid success if every one to whom the pledges have been sent and who has the ability will respond. Already several parishes and missions have made up their full proportion, or the capital which will produce their assessments. MISSIONARY ENROLLMENT.

A rousing meeting in furtherance of the plan to secure $1,000,000 in 200,000 subscriptions of $5 each before October next, was held in Philadelphia, on the evening of Ash Wednesday. Bishops Dudley, of Kentucky, ent. Pennsylvania proposes to raise one-tenth of the whole, $70,000 being already pledged. We hope the enthusiasm aroused at this meeting may be communicated to all our Dioceses, and that Indiana may catch enough of it to enroll 500 names with Mr. L. B. Martin, of Terre Haute. THE CHURCH WORKER.

The regular monthly issue of the Church WORKER is 3,000 copies. Nearly all of them are immediately mailed, in the city, in the Diocese, to outside places. The editor's eye was not on the paper when it went to press last month, hence it is proper to say that the expression "about 400 persons," in the middle of this column in the last number, should have been, about 400 more persons. That is, "If about 400 more persons who receive the paper would send the annual 50 cents to the Editor, we should feel perfectly easy finan-cially." That is just as good and true this month as it was in March. The 400 more have not yet marched up to make a remittance on subscription. We have a strong hope that they will, and more besides. The Worker goes into a thousand homes from which has come as yet no token of a financial appreciation of the paper. The expense of publication and circulation is as certain to be incurred as the paper is to be issued, every month, and twelve months heaps it up. Many subscribers are doing very kindly favor by sending regular remittances of 50 cents or

A GENEROUS CHURCHMAN.

A Churchman of Chicago, who values the services of our dear Prayer Book as a missionary, has generously supplied a number of our Missions with Prayer Books and Hymnals. He has supplied Lagrange, New Castle, Kennard, Goshen, Holy Innocents (Indianapolis), Warsaw and Elkhart. The motive that prompts this blessed work is expressed by the giver in these few words: "Knowing the great need that exists in the Church for this missionary and educator, the beloved Prayer Book, and the seeming inability of existing means to supply the demand, it was deemed wise to institute a special gratuitous distribution, supported by my personal purse; and, in loving remembrance of a long line of godly ancestry, it takes the form of a memorial." May God bless the generous giver! The books are very serviceable, having good print, and are neatly stamped on the back, "Cunningham Memorial. Christi Causa Fidelitas." worthy donor is Mr. Thomas S. Cunningham.

Among the passengers on the ill-fated steamer "Oregon" was the Rt. Rev. Dr. Churton, Bishop of Nassau. He lost all his baggage, including a valuable library. He tarried in New York a few days, anp then went on to the Bahama Islands.

O happy Easter morning! Awaking from our sle We hasten at the dawning The holy feast to keep Jesus Immanuel, hear us; Thou art to-day our Guest. O be Thou ever near us Until with Thee we rest.

WHAT ARE WOMAN'S RIGHTS.

BY CHARLOTTE BIDDLE CONARROE.

[Written May 17, 1850; published anonymously. Re-rinted November 6, 1882, the writer's Sist birthday.]

The right to wake when others sleep;

The right to dry the orphan's tear; The right to feed and clothe the poor. The right to teach them to endure.

The right, when other friends have flown, And left the sufferer all alone,

And left the sufferer all alone, To kneel the dying couch beside, And meekly point to Him who died. The right a happy home to make In any clime, for Jesus' sake. Rights such as these are all we crave, Until our last-a quiet grave.

VERY visible good effects follow the Mission at Erie, Penn., during the first ten days in March, conducted by Rev. Dr. E. A. Bradley and others. The city was thoroughly aroused. Hymns were sung by a choir of sixty voices. Holy Communion was celebrated daily. Mr. George W. Cobb helped with Bible readings. Many are now seeking to receive the Sacrament of Baptism, men and women offer themselves for active work, and the lukewarm are returning to an earnest devotional life.

BISHOP ROBERTSON, of Missouri, is reported to be dangerously ill.

ATTICA .- The following cheering news comes from Dr. Pettis: "Last Friday I went to Attica and when I went into the Church at 3 P. M. to hold a Litany service, I was most agreeably surprised at what had been done. I never entered a cleaner, sweeter, more churchly edifice in any village. They had beautifully carpeted the vestry, furnished a nice table with handsome cover on it, neat curtains to the windows and a rug at the door; had the stoves cleaned, the Church cleaned, oil cloth about the stoves, new swinging lamp in the choir stalls and additional lamps; cleaned up chancel furniture. I was glad and encouraged. Then they have raised the money for a new organ, Mrs. Pettis' girls helping them, and several persons have shown the most kindly interest. We had a good congregation at night.

BRISTOL.-During Lent the Holy Communion is celebrated every Sunday, and it is proposed by the missionary to continue it after Lent. Holy Communion is celebrated at Mishawaka at each visit of the missionary.

CONNERSVILLE .- The rector in his Lenten card asks, "Why attend Lenten services? 1. That we may more effectually put to our souls the discipline of the spiritual life, bring ing every faculty into subordination to the will of Christ. 2. That we may more perfectly acquire the spirit of a rational and devout worship. 3. That we may profitably and worthily celebrate the great facts set forth on Good Friday and Easter Day, the crucifixion and resurrection of our Lord."

CRAWFORDSVILLE,-This parish has lay services and Sunday-school kept up by Mr. D. M. Bell, lay reader and warden. They hope to secure a rector by Easter, in connection with Frankfort.

DELPHI.—The Bishop's visit here was most satisfactory and delightful. It was pleasant to see the deep interest manifested. The Church and chancel beautiful in new dress and furniture; house crowded to overflowing and a class of twenty confirmed. Surely the missionary has cause for thankfulness when and Friday evenings; Wednesday at St. Paul's we remember its low estate two years ago. The communicant list is nearly doubled by this confirmation. Many of them were children from the Sunday-school. Among those present at the service was Judge Turpie, of Kemper, and sang in the choir.

The Rev. Messrs. Braddon and Mann held a combined service in St. Mary's Church on the evening of Tuesday, March 23. At the close of service Rev. Mr. Mann baptized three children of deaf-mute parents, who had come eighteen miles for the purpose.

FRANKFORT .- St. Luke's Church. The lay reader keeps up services, and the Sundayschool meets every Sunday, Rev. J. W.

GOSHEN .- St. James' Church. The Episcopal Church of this city, under the ministration of Rev. S. Rosevelt, is showing encouraging signs of prosperity and growth, unusual insigns of prosperity and growth, unusual in-terest being taken in the services, and addi-tional members being added. Five services were held on Sunday, being the first Sunday in Lent; the first a 9 o'clock, a Communion service, followed by the regular service at 10:30; next the Sunday-school, then a 4 o'clock service, at which eight persons reo'clock service, at which eight persons re-ceived Holy Baptism, concluding with a lec-ture on confirmation. The fifth was the reg-ular evening service. These services were ular evening service. These services were largely attended, and the rector desires to inlargety attended, and the rector desires to in-vite the public toattend at all times, especially during Lent. He has selected and had printed for distribution a number of topics for discourses which will be interesting, instructive and practical, and the invitation to come and hear him is extended to all .- The Goshen Times, March 18.

The rector says in his pastoral: "As the earth must receive spring's sunshine and refreshing showers before it can put forth the signs of a returning life, so must your soul have its season of Divine refreshing; a time when out of the depths of sin, of indifference and insincerity, the new life of the soul may spring into existence. The Church is continually calling you to come out and away from self, and to Him who must be your Great Example, but more especially at this season. Seek to accomplish some lasting good for the Church, yourself and others.

GREENCASTLE.-Rev. Mr. Talbott writes: I have held services in Greencastle and Bloomington without interruption during the winter. The Church building at Greencastle is not yet under contract, but I am confident that it will be started soon. The attendance on services is good, our morning congregations filling all the room. Our Sunday-school is flourishing, the size of it being graduated to the capacity of our limited space. We need and still make appeal for Sundayschool service books, catechisms, lesson papers and past date Sunday-school papers. Please send them to Rev. R. C. Talbott, Greencastle, Ind. We see the propriety of the design to endow the episcopate and all conclude that it is the wisest and most economical thing that can be done

INDIANAPOLIS,-Christ Church and St. Paul's have union Lenten services on Wednesday and Friday at Christ Church. Daily services are held in both parishes, 4:30 P. M. at Christ Church, and 5 at St. Paul's; services well attended. Dean Bradley has formed a class in Church history, meeting Tuesday afternoon Indianapolis, who was present at the laving at 3, especially for ladies. The Woman's of the corner stone of the Church by Bishop Auxiliary, assisted by both Guilds, is preparing a box for Bishop Paddock's hospital, at Taconia, W. T. Bishop Paddock was Dr. of the directions and services therein laid Bradley's former pastor. Dr. Bradley is down will surely bring around a joyful Easter. preaching a course of Lenten sermons on the The Rector, in his Lenten pastoral says: Fullness of Blessing. He conducted a successful mission at Erie, Penn., the week before Lent, assisted by Mr. George W. Cobb.

ARMITAGE, the 12-year-old son of Rev. Dr E. A. Bradley, was seriously injured by a kick of the family horse on the morning of Ashalarm. He appears to be now happily near to a speedy and full recovery

Grace Church.-The missioners devoted themselves most assiduously to their work. and the people who attended must have been blessed by their instructions. There was no excitement in connection with the mission, no excesses of ritual, but all was orderly, devotional and helpful. Thanks are due to the missioners for their labor of love for the Master's sake, and many souls will return thanks to God for spiritual blessings vouchsafed through this mission.

Holy Innocents Church .- A series of special services was held ten evenings near the beginning of Lent, in which the rector was assisted by Rev. Drs. Jenckes and Bradley, and by Mr. George W. Cobb. They were attended with much interest, and good results are already manifest. The clergy and congregations of Christ Church and St. Paul's joined with Holy Innocents in a united service on the last evening of the series, A large congregation was present, the service and singing were hearty, and each of the rectors present made appropriate, neighborly addresses

JEFFERSONVILLE.-On Thursday, February 18, the Rev. Fred. C. Jewell, rector of this parish, was married to Miss Kate Kendall, at St. Andrew's Church, Washington, D. C. This happy event was looked forward to with considerable interest by his parishioners as the bride was known to be a most estimable lady and an excellent Churchwoman, full of good works in the parish of which she had long been a member. The vestry of St. Paul's Church sent him a telegram of felicitation, which was handed him as he entered the carriage at the Church door, after the ceremony. The happy pair spent a week in Washington and vicinity. and on their return to their home found a purse containing $100, in gold coin, on the study table. The ladies of the congregation gave them a reception at the elegant residence of Mrs. S. A. Ransom, which was attended by over two hundred and fifty of the best citizens of the place and many from the surrounding cities. Mr. Jewell has had charge of St. Paul's parish only three months, and during that short time has done much to advance the interests of the Church. The long vacancy of eleven months through which it had just passed necessarily left its mark deeply, all of which has been thoroughly effaced, and it seems as if an era had been entered upon which promises much for the old parish. More reverent and Churchly service than it enjoys could not be desired. The Lenten pastoral has been distributed, and the observance

"Let us, then, remember what are the chief and great objects of Lent. To know ourselves thoroughly. To know how sinful, selfish, pasthoroughly. LAFAYETTE-St. John's .- The rector save in his Lent pastoral: "Lent is for the closer following of Jesus, and following Jesus is the only way to eternal life. We must go to the wilderness in fasting and prayer. We must come to Calvary bringing our sins to His cross and find pardon and peace. Saith the candidates for confirmation at Bishop's visit. Lord, 'He that followeth me shall have the light of life.' Walk therefore as children of light. Make it a season of retirement, of selfexamination, of more frequent approach to the Holy Communion and for the practice of ing weaker, not stronger. There are a few LAPORTE-St. Paul's .- The rector says to his people: "I invite you to a faithful attendance it will not." Thank God for these devoted on these services. In these times of spiritual awakening be faithful, be watchful, be diligent. search the Scriptures, continue instant in prayer. In everything give thanks. Neglect not the assembling of vourselves together."

LOGANSPORT.-The rector affectionately and earnestly invites every member of the parish to attend as many of the services as possible. and urges them to give up all amusements and luxuries and devote the cost of them to the service of God. One of the parish Guilds proposes for Lenten work to recarpet the Church, a much needed improvement.

MARION.-Rev. W. W. Raymond has visited Gethsemane Mission twice during the season of Lent, once on Thursday evening, March 11, when a Cottage Service was held at the residence of Col, O. H. P. Carey, about thirty persons being present. The spacious parlors in this house make a very charming private chapel in which to hold a service. Another visit was made on Sunday, third in Lent, March 28. The morning service included a celebration of the Holy Communion, nine communicants participating. The Litany was said at 3 P. M. Evening service and sermon at 7:30. The services were held in the Court House, about forty persons attending at each. Another visit is intended near the close of Lent.

NEW ALBANY-St. Paul's - Dean Scott says in his pastoral: "We need a revival in spiritual life sought in simplicity and godly sincerity. We have much to repent of and to forsake. All our Christian duties ought to be better performed. Keep the Lenten Fast as though it may be the final call. He who lives well will die well. Bear the cross that you may wear the crown."

Judge Bicknell, of New Albany, lay reader, reports his having read the service several times at St. Paul's, Jeffersonville; and also several times at St. Paul's, New Albany, in absence of the rector.

PLYMOUTH .- St. Thomas' Church is still without a rector. The Presbyterian Church building having been burned down, permission was books as Thomas 'a Kempis' Imitation of granted to that congregation to use the Epis-Christ?" One writes: "Every day that we are without a pastor lessens our ability to care for one. We are growwomen, bound together, determined that the work in Plymouth shall not stop, and I believe women, they will succeed.

RICHMOND .- St. Paul's. The Bishop spent second Sunday in Lent with the rector, confirming a class of eight persons. Though the weather was very bad, the attendance at the services was good. Offerings were made for Diocesan Missions.

ROCKVILLE.—The treasurer writes: "The Church is getting along nicely, have paid $525 as first payment. They are painting Church on the outside, and as soon as weather permits will begin to plaster. The Church is very pretty, the handsomest in the city."

SOUTH BEND .- Rev. Frederic Towers, of Thomaston, Maine, has accepted a call to St. James' Church, and will enter upon his duties the fifth Sunday in Lent. He is highly spoken of by his present Bishop, who parts with him with great regret. In the meantime the faithful women maintain the Sunday school, and the senior warden, acting as lay reader, has a Sunday morning service. A devout member of the parish writes to the Bishop: "Would it be proper and suitable for such of our ladies as desire Lenten services, and can not be happy without them, to meet together during the season for daily devotions? And would you object to their meeting in the church, and advise cottage services instead? And one mere question: would it not be advisable to have read, in connection with the prayers, TERRE HAUTE.-The Lenten services are being well attended, and the rector is preparing a class for confirmation on the Sunday after Easter. A flourishing temperance society has been formed in connection with St. Luke's President of the ladies' society wrote the Mission, at the nail-works, with 47 signers of the pledge. The effect has been to close out a saloon near the Chapel and convert it into a bakery. In connection with St. Mark's Mission a Ladies' Church Aid Society has been organized and the envelope system has been introduced. The other Missions are doing equally well. Dr. Delafield has received and declined a call to Waukesha, Wis. He has also received a call to St Paul's Church Leavenworth, Kan. The WORKER hopes he may make the same response as did Dean Faude. Indiana can not spare her clergy, however much other Dioceses may covet them.

WARSAW .- St. Andrew's. The lay reader reports Sunday-school reorganized, and Lay services with fair attendance. The ladies' society is working hard to pay off current indebted-

SUPPORT OF SERVICES.

In the Iowa Churchman we find these tables showing what would be the result if the envelope system were introduced into our parishes and missions. We have no question from long experience that the "Pledge and Envelope System" is the best method of supporting our churches, and we should be glad to see it generally introduced. We feel sure that if properly looked after it will produce the best results.

SOME FIGURES FOR FREE CHURCHES AND MIS-SION STATIONS.

It is proposed to raise, by the envelope system, a fund for the support of the rector or missionary and for the current expenses of the mission. to each family, and a package of thirteen envelopes to each member of the family, who is expected to give something each week.

ers. There is immediate want in the city, the Diocese, the Church at large, of a vast increase in giving. How can it be obtained, except by the general adoption of a higher style of Christian giving? If the members of our churches could be generally induced to fx upon one-tenth of their income, as a fair proportion to be specially devoted to objects of benevolence (and many doubtless would feel it to be their privilege and duty to fix upon a much larger proportion), we should have, it is estimated, an immediate increase of not less than tenfold in the amount contributed to the support and spread of the Gospel, and ulti-mately far more. With such a revenue, cheer-fully yielded, and carefully laid by in store, the means would at once be provided for (1) the liberal and proper support of the Christian ministry; (2) the education of the vastly larger number of young men now so urgently required for holy orders, at home and among the heathen; (3) the vigorous prosecution of the great and growing missionary work in pagan lands, and in our own country at the South and West; and (4) all the various forms of Christian beneficence. Over and above all this, the spirituality of the Church would be greatly promoted by the full and unequivocal consecration of property to the service of our Lord, and the habitual setting apart of a certain portion of income for the purposes of Christian beneficence.

HOW SMALL COINS BECAME DOLLAR BILLS.

This is how it was: When Mr. Blank first began to attend — Church, he thought the collection taken each Sunday was a nuisance, but when it was explained to him that no parbut when it was explained to him that no par-ish could get along without money, he con-tented himself with giving ten cent pieces. After a while it dawned upon him that a ten cent piece was a ridiculously small gift from a man who spent much more than that amount in car-fare and for newspapers, etc., every day, and so he concluded to give twenty-five cent pieces.

One day, feeling in a liberal mood, he put in a fifty cent piece. "Just this once," he said to himself. "I do not know that I can afford so much every Sunday." He found, however, much every Sunday." He found, however, that he did not grow any poorer by giving to the Church, and so resolved to have a fifty cent piece always ready in his vest pocket when the wardens came around. And he did for a few months, but at the end of that time for a few months, but at the end of that time got into a severe battle with his conscience, and conscience won the day When the battle was over this is what he said: "I have no right to say that the Lord's work shall have only these small coins; I can just as easily give a dollar bill as a fifty cent piece, and I will begin next week. If I find that I can afford a larger gift, I will double it, and will keen on multi-conscience is satisfied."

A REMINISCENCE.

Approaching the city of Baltimore by the basin of the Patapsco at sunset, the most conspicuous outline against the western sky is the towers of the Church Home. This fine building is in nowise planned after the Roman Catholic religious houses, but is peculiarly adapted to the various requirements of Con-vent, Infirmary, and a Home for Aged Church People. Though built years ago for the Washington University, the site of the Church Home could not have been more judiciously selected. Away over in Old Town, the "Auld Reekie" of Baltimore, it stands on the rise of Broadway, separated from the busy and modern city proper by Jones' Falls and connected with it by numberless bridges. In Broadway Sunday lingers all the week. In this quiet neighborhood the Church Home lifts its imposing front, with its crosses glittering in the sky.
Through the gates of this building I was driven one autumn day, in company with a beloved invalid who was taken there for surgical treatment. I remember well how the serenity of the place impressed me upon our arrival-the serene smile of the portress, the serene manner of the young man in the disserene manner of the young man in the dis-pensary, who was gently pounding something in a mortar as we passed the open door, the supreme serenity of the young woman who came into our room with fresh linen on her arm. Yet I knew very soon that there were most unquiet hearts beating in the impertur-bable strucchberg of the Henry bable atmosphere of the Home.

That winter is the most distinctive one in my recollection. A very young girl, accus tomed to the freedom of an isolated plantation home, I found myself living in a house I could not leave without permission, my "hours" regulated by canonical rules, and my associates invalids and recluses. There was, however, a constant train of callers during visiting hours. A great deal of interest, and even curiosity, attached to the "advanced" movement in the Church which established the Anglican Sisterhood, and the Home was under a very strict surveillance, both from the committeemen and the prominent people of various parishes. But while reticence and order marked the regulation of the house, there was neither mystery nor secresy. Earnest and pure in heart were the women of the little community under Sister Catherine's regime, Sister Catherine! The name recalls a little woman with a pretty, young face, shaded by her sober cap, and an espit in her manners very like that of society, indeed. Yet Sister Catherine was in the right place, and a mandate in her childish treble was as imperative as the fiat of a king. Sister Eliza, a saintly woman who was chief in the nursing departwoman who was chief in the nursing depart-ment, we called "our comforter," because her daily visits to my invalid's bedside were such blessed ministrations. There was a young Sister, Helena, one of whose duties it was to ring the chapel bell, at the head of the first flight of the grand staircase. Her I loved. "In the world" she was Helen Magruder, neice of the world "she was Helen Magruder, neice of the reble gleneral and a descendant of the dis-tinguished Scotch family of that name. Sis-ter Helen was inneteen years old, and a beau-tiful girl. I remember that I often wondered if Sisters knew when they were pretty, and if Sister Helen ever thought of the pearly teeth she displayed when she laughed, and laugh she often did. I never knew a happier creature.

As the only young person in the house not a religieuse, patient or domestic, I became a small person of some importance and was allowed a few unusual privileges, such as viswards, chatting with the smiling young man in the dispensary, and playing the chapel or-gan when I could find some one willing to work it for me. I took great delight in climbing the tower stairs, which ran winding up the seven stories of the building, and drawing on my imagination for scenes from some of the old romances in the library at home. It was interesting to know that Poe died in the little room now used as a breakfast-room for our floor.

This place was Washington University in This place was Washington University in those days, but it seemed rather a singular providence that sent Mrs. Clemm, the sunt and mother-in-law of Peo, to be an immate of this Church Home. When I learned that she was living there I petitioned to be permitted to call on her, which was readily arranged by Sister Helen. I found Mrs. Clemm to be a large, dignified woman suffering with asthmat. She received us with great cordiality, which I thought very good of her, considering the attention given her by relebring all over the tention given her by celebrities all over the country. I remember how I was impressed with the careless manner in which she mentioned having received that morning a letter

We ware living in Bichwond, and my daugh. We were living in Richmond, and my daughter took music lessons at the convent. One day I received a note from the Sister who was her instructress, requesting me to call at the convent. I did so, and was told that on the preceding day Virginia had been too agitated to continue her lesson, and upon being ques tioned burst into tears and confessed that she was on the eve of a clandestine marriage with her cousin, Edgar Allen Poe.

"I took steps to prevent this marriage," continued Mrs. Clemm, "at least until my daughter grew to maturer years. But it took place soon after, and they were very happy to-

I frequently ran in to chat with Mrs. Clemm I frequently ran in to chat with Mrs. Clemm and to gaze upon the picture of the lovely Virginia. Mrs. Clemm died soon after this and was buried near to the poet's grave in old Westminister church yard. It was soon after this, also, that (most unfortunately as it transpired), Sister Catherine, accompanied by several novices, resigned her mission in Baltimore and left for a Western city, and Sister Helen went to Saint Margaret's Convent, East Grinstead, England Margaret's Convent, Last Grinstead, Last G

There were at that time at the Home representatives of a number of famous and historical names, such as Washington, Ezard, Durham and De Coin.

Ere the spring of that year fairly dawned, when the arbutus was just stretching up from the mould in the woods of my native place, I bade adieu to the Church Home, its chaplain, sisters and guests, and returned alone to the farm house weeping like a child sorely be-reaved. H. K. O.

ALL SAINTS: 1886.

November 1st, the sweet festival of All Saints, commemorates the third anniversary of the Bishop's entrance upon his work in this great Diocese. The work began in St. Paul's, Richmond, with good Dr. Wakefield and his beloved people. The hearty reception there given, and everywhere else in the Diocese, is a pleasant remembrance still. The cordial co-operation of clergy and laity with the Bishop in his arduous labors has been a constant and increasing comfort.

Though little has been accomplished in the three years, yet the review of that little from this standpoint is full of encouragement. The Bishop feels that there is a growing interest in the mission work of the Diocese, and a determination to push forward to the occupancy of many hitherto unoccupied towns. His hope and prayer is that there may be an increasing interest as the years go on. It is a matter of congratulation also that a beginning has been made in Christian education, that Diocesan schools for girls and boys have been begun in an humble way. They are of the utmost importance, and are destined, if appreciated and nourished, to become a power in the upbuilding of the Church of God in Indiana.

THE BISHOP'S APPOINTMENTS FOR the Diocese given to it, are tokens that its labors will be appreciated and that it will not have to wait long for a home of its own. The dear children of the Diocese have made a good beginning in their offerings for a Diocesan Orphanage. This fund should be increased by the loving offerings of parents as well, and we ought not to wait long for a beginning of this good work.

The grand effort already well under way for the Endowment of the Diocese, is a matter of heartfelt thankfulness in the review of three years past. The Bishop can not but feel that the whole Diocese will co-operate for the speedy completion of this very desirable fund, and that this semi-centennial year will see this good work greatly advanced if not entirely accomplished. The Bishop on this third anniversary of his entrance upon the work of the Diocese, would again heartily commend this fund to the support of the generous lavmen and laywomen of the Diocese. To many Churchmen of the Diocese the good Lord has entrusted large means. This brings stewardship. The Bishop's prayer is that those thus entrusted with stewardship will realize the privilege of consecrating their substance for the glory of God and the advancement of his kingdom upon earth by remembering in their wills, Diocesan institutions, by founding such as the Orphanage; a Home for the Aged; and endowing schools already established. The Board of Trustees of the Diocese are incorporated as a Board of Trust, to administer any legacies that may be left them for Parochial or Diocesan institutions.

The Bishop at this time takes the opportunity of commending to the loving appreciation of their flocks, those who are over them in the Lord, and who watch for their souls as those who must give an account to their Lord and Saviour. He asks for them the faithful co-operation of the laity, and appreciation of their labors and generous ministration to their necessities. Praying for God's blessing upon the work of His Holy Catholic Church in Indiana, and commending you all, dearly beloved in Christ, to his loving protection. Your friend and Bishop,

D. B. KNICKERBACKER.

TEMPERANCE SUNDAY, NOV. 14, 1886. Beloved in Christ

The grace of God, that bringeth salvation. The grace of God, that bringeth salvation, teaches us that denying ungodiliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, right-couly, and Godly, in this present world, looking for that blessed hope and the glorious appearing of our great God and Seviour, Jesus Christ. To well-grounded enjoyment of that blessed hope, sober, rightcous, and Godly living is necessary and indispensable. In laboratory of the control of the con ing for this end, the Christian ministry en counters one of the most serious obstacles in the use of intoxicating liquors, not only to the use of intoxicating liquors, not only to open and notorious excess, but in the preva-lence of indulgences less gross and pulpable but full of danger. The Church Temperance Day has been the instrument of great good in awakening the attention of our people to the magnitude of this evil, and in putting many on their guard against a perilous snare. It sustained by general and earnest co operation, it would be an eminently valuable and effective helper. The Secretary asks for a recog-nition of the important objects for which it is pledged, by the clergy of our Church making this the subject of their sermons on Sunday, November 14, 1886. I fervently hope that this request will meet with wide sympathy and general concurrence. It has my warm approval and prayer for the Divine blessing.

ALFRED LEE Presid'g Bishop and Pres't of the C. T. S.

I heartily concur in making this appointment and trust that all the Clergy of the Diocese of Indiana will preach a sermon on the subject of Temperance, substituting the day named above instead of the second Sunday in Lent, as requested heretofore.

D. B. KNICKERBACKER,

RELIEF FOR CHARLESTON.

HOUSE OF BISHOPS.

CITY OF CHICAGO, Oct. 11, 1886. To the Clergy and Congregations of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States:

BELOVED IN CHRIST:—The appalling event which has recently desolated the city of Charleston, S. C., has awakened lively sympa-tay throughout our whole land. The calamity itself was of a nature unprecedented in our past history, and the desire to extend substan-tial aid has been widely and strongly mani-fested. Our friends and fellow citizens are enduring this grievous affliction with admirable fortitude and submission, and are setting themselves with courage and energy to the work of rebuilding their ruined homes. Our brethren and fellow members of the same household of faith have peculiar claims upon our sympathies in respect of the sad condition of their Church buildings. Their holy and beautiful houses of prayer have been shattered to such an extent as to require, for their restoration and future occupancy, an expenditure beyond their own diminished resources. Your Bishops are confident that the simple statement and touching appeal of their brother the Bishop of South Carolina will meet with a prompt and generous response. That there may be united action in extending that relief. hand joined in hand, we recommend that on the Third Sunday of November, 1886, in all our congregations which have not already contributed, offerings be made, for the object of repairing the churches in the city of Charles-ton and vicinity, to be placed at the disposal of the Bishop of the Diocese. We hope and trust that the amount of these offerings will testify to your liberality and Christian love, and give effective and timely aid to this good

Signed by the Rt. Rev. Alfred Lee, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of Delaware and Presiding Bishop; and by Fifty-five other Bishops.

HOWE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

The new gymnasium has been entirely completed, and gives great comfort to the boys. Though not entirely furnished, it will be in due time. The Bishop has been able to send a hundred volumes for the library from the library of the late Rev. Mr. Luson, given to the Bishop by his wife. The number of boys has been increased to nineteen by the admission of three day scholars to the school, There is still room for a dozen more hove as boarders, and parents can find no better school for their sons than the Howe Grammar School. The Bishop heartily commends it to parents sending their sons away to school. He asks the clergy to make known its privileges to No. 26 S. Illinois Street, Indianapolis, Ind. their people; to let them know that it is our Diocesan school for boys, founded in memory of one of the noblest laymen the Diocese ever WM. S. BALDWIN, General Passenger Agent, was honored with, John B. Howe.

INDIANAPOLIS INSTITUTE FOR YOUNG LADIES.

The Diocese has reason for congratulation on the auspicious opening of this school: Already nineteen girls are pupils in the senior department and ten in the primary school. The school from the start becomes self-supporting, and Prof. and Mrs. Lyon feel greatly encouraged. The school needs many things, which we trust the friends of Christian education will furnish in good time. There is need of a piano, globes, maps, philosophical and other apparatus; also scholarships for the daughters of our missionaries, and others who can not afford to avail themselves of its advantages. Is there a Churchman in Indiana who will do for this school what DePauw has done for the Methodist University at Greencastle? To what more noble purpose could any Churchman whom God has blessed with the means devote them, than to founding a Christian school like this? God in his own good time will, we trust, bring this to pass.

GENERAL CONVENTION.

The great council of the Church has concluded its work. We are sure this work will commend itself to the hearty approval and good sense of the Church as well for what it did as for what it left undone. The deep missionary spirit, the spirit of brotherly love that pervaded all its deliberations, the generous encouragment of every good work in the Church, will give new impulse to Church work and life.

Mr. W. W. Corcoran's recent gift of $31,000 to Columbia College prompts us now to state that he was born in Georgetown, D. C., December 27, 1798, and has given to good causes largely over $2,000,000. His father was an original trustee of Columbia College, and he himself has been president of the board of trustees for some years.

Judge George F. Comstock, of Syracuse, N. Y., has given $30,000 to St. John's Cadet School for Boys, at Manlius, for a gymnasium, a natural history collection, and the laving out of the grounds. Judge Comstock is the vicepresident of the board of trustees, Bishop Huntington being president.

BINGHAM & WALKS, 12 East Washington St., Indianapolis, "A DISCOURAGING FACT"-AN EN-COURAGING RETORT. Mr. Worker Edit.

It is late in the month, and I fear you have no space left for communications, news being so much better, besides. But let me say a few words about that extract from the St. Paul is to come.—REV. iv. 8. paper (published in the October Church WORKER) which implies that the clergy are such feeble folk intellectually, and which says that the increase in the ministry to be desired is not one of numbers so much as of ability.

It is not surprising that the secular world should depreciate the clergy, but it is, to me at least, highly astonishing that the clergy so "meekly acknowledge their vileness," as they seem to do by their representatives, the Church press, when that press reprints accusations against them as though they were gospel truth

If I admitted that the rank and file of the ministry were so weak in mind and learning as they are accused of being, I might explain it by the witty saying of a learned Bishop of the Church: "The difficulty," he said, "is that we have to take our clergy from among the laity, and so long as we have such mediocrity among the laity you can not expect anything better of the clergy." But I do not care for that kind of retort more than to illustrate it. It is not true that the clergy are below par intellectually. They will bear comparison with the representatives of any other calling or profession in the world. Their average ability is equal to the average ability of lawyers, or doctors, or editors, or literary people, or merchants, or what not. The failures among them are actually fewer in proportion than the failures in mercantile life and in other quarters. The secret of the newspaper carping at the clergy is that editors love it, and it sounds great, and some thoughtless people enjoy it, and the clergy are far too submissive. There are really great men among the clergy and little men among the people-Forget it not. Indiana, October 26, 1886.

The writer had evidently been reading the New Testament, studying the Universal Belief in the Creed, and making an observation. THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

The great event for the month of October, 1886, was the session of the Triennial Convention in Chicago, commencing Wednesday, October 3, and ending Thursday, October 28, just twenty working days, with three Missionary Sundays intervening. The opening services were held in St. James' Church, about forty bishops, three hundred clerical and lay deputies, many visiting clergymen and members of various societies from all parts of the country, and an overflowing congregation being present. The sermon on "The Continuity of the Church of God," was preached by Bishop Bedell, of Ohio, from 1 Tim. III, 15, last clause: and Presiding Bishop Lee celebrated the Holy Communion. The full services occupied about

At 4 P. M. of the same day the House of Deputies was organized in Central Music Hall by the election of the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix. of Trinity Church, New York, president, and the Rev. Charles L. Hutchins, of Medford, Mass. secretary. The House of Bishops met in Apollo Hall at the same hour in the same building, the Rt. Rev. John Williams, Bishop of Connecticut, chairman; and the Rev. Dr. William Tatlock, of Stamford, Conn., secretary, The subject of the revision of the Book of Common Prayer was promptly introduced in the House on Thursday morning, by the Rev. Dr. Wm. R. Huntington, of New York. Discussion of this matter took much of the time of the session, and some changes were adopted, but not of sufficient importance to require any changing of the text of the Prayer Book during the next three years. The triennial meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held in Grace Church on Thursday. On Friday the two Houses met in joint session as a Board of Missions. The report of the Board of Managers was read by the Rev. Dr. Wm. S. Langford, general secretary, and addresses were made by the Missionary Bishops in the order of their seniority. The joint sessions of the two houses as a Board of Missions were made the order for several days, and gave rise to some of the most earnest and interesting discussions of the convention. The best part of The visit to the West must give to the memtwo or three days were spent in discussing a resolution proposing to drop from the title of the work the Church has to do in the West. the Church the words "Protestant Episcopal." It was decided in the negative on a vote by Dioceses and Orders.

There were discussions on the subjects of catechetical instruction in Sunday-schools: missions among colored people; Christian education; the judicial system of the Church: the reunion of Christendom, and revision of the Hymnal. The Annual Meeting of the American Church Sunday-school Institute was held morning and evening of Tuesday, November 12, in the Cathedral Church of Sts. Peter and Paul, and a special meeting was held on Monday evening, October 18, in Grace Church, Meetings of the Church Temperance Society, the Girls' Friendly Society, the White Cross Society and the Deaf Mutes were in such manner as to insure complete and of the House of Bishops was read in Grace already made, nearly $100,000, is reserved Church on Thursday afternoon, October 28, awaiting additions to the fund. Dr. Mahlon Norris Gilbert was consecrated a Bishop in St. James' Church on Sunday morning, October 17, to be assistant to Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota. The Rev. R. M. Kirby, of Potsdam, N. Y., was elected to be Missionary Bishop of Utah and Nevada; and the Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, of Macon, Mo, was elected to be Missionary Bishop of Idaho and Wyoming.

We have only time and room thus briefly to sketch the proceedings of this magnificent assembly of Churchmen in national council, of which the daily press throughout the country has given some account; of which all the Church papers are quite full; and of which a stenographic report furnished work enough to the publisher of the "General Convention Issue - Daily" of the Living Church to need, if it were possible, forty-eight hours in a day to accomplish it all. The offerings at the opening services ($650) were received in behalf of the suffering Church people of Charleston, S. C., to aid in restoring buildings that were damaged by the late earthquakes.

Bishop Knickerbacker made an address before the Sunday-school Institute in Grace Church; Rev. Dr. Bradley before the Church Temperance Society in Farwell Hall: and Dean Faude's speech in the "Protestant Episcopal" discussion was among the best received. Rev. Dr. Jenckes and Rev. Mr. Morris represented Indiana faithfully and ably. Judge Duy was present the first ten days. Dr. Irwin went home ill early in the session. Mr. Martin was present a portion of the time, and Judge Stotsenberg did excellent service during the first and larger part of the sessions.

Rev. Dr. E. A. Bradley was honored by the General Convention with an appointment on the Committees, to look after Evangelistic work, on the Revision of the Hymnal, and on the Revision of the Prayer Book, the Committees to sit during the three years recess. He also received a nomination to be President of the Convention.

The General Convention united in appointing the Eve of St. Andrew's Day, Monday, November 29, as a day of intercession in behalf of missions, the same day to be observed by the Church of England. MY LOT IN LIFE.

I find myself where I am, as I am. My duty is submission. My privilege is enjoyment. Because I am sick or disabled, I need not be useless or unhappy. I accept my situation as of Divine appointment, and I will try to be contented in it. Lamenting over the past will do no good—I can not recall or change it. Complaining of the present will not mend it. It may make myself and others wretched. Anxiety about the future will not of itself make it any brighter.

My Heavenly Father has permitted things to be with me just as they are. But he knows what is best. I know he loves me. I will therefore leave all with him. No rebellion therefore leave an with film. To recommon shall be cherished in my heart, and no mur-mur shall escape my lips. My Saviour has promised that His grace shall be sufficient for me. He will never leave me, but be a present help in my time of need. Trusting in Him and committing all to my Father's loving care, I will do what I can. I will make the place where my lot is cast as bright and cheerful as possible, and work and wait with patience till I am permitted to go to my Heavenly Home.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER.

Indianapolis, October 12, 1886. MR. EDITOR: When THE CHURCH WORKER first came to us there was a "Children's Corner." Has the corner been cut off, or have the children outgrown the corner? Recently the occasional letter from the Bishop is the only remembrance to the children. Now that the evenings are lengthening may we not gather their little ones in a corner that shall be exclusively their own and talk over plans of work for the coming winter? We have so many matters of interest to discuss-the Orphanage. the Child's Cot, and many missionary enterprizes that will interest them and plant seeds in the little hearts for future harvests in Church work. Dear little ones, as we gather in our corner where we are warm and happy for our cozy chat, let us remember that not all the children are so blessed as we are. There are many, so many, dear little ones that are hungry and cold. When our Blessed Saviour was on-earth he asked us to remember His poor. What can the children do? They can

A TRUE INCIDENT.

On a dark November morning, A hidy walked slowly down The througed, tunultuous thoroughfare Of an ancient seaport town.

Of a winning and gracious beauty, The peace of her pure young face Wans off as the gleam of an angel's dream In the calms of a heavenly place.

Her eyes were fountains of pity,
And the sensitive mouth expressed
A longing to set the kind thoughts free
In music that filled her breast.

She met, by a bright shop window, An urchin timid and thin, Who, with limbs that shook and a yearning look, Was mistily glancing in

At the rows and varied clusters Of slippers and shoes outspread, Some shimmering keen, but of sombre sheen, Some purple and green and red.

His pale lips moved and murmured; But of what she could not hear, And oft on his folded hands would fall The round of a bitter tear.

"What troubles you, child?" she asked him, in a voice like the May wind sweet, He turned, and while pointing dolefully to his naked and bleeding feet,

"I was praying for shoes," he answered;
"(Just look at the splendid show!)
I was praying to God for a single pair,
The sharp stones hurt me so!"

She led him, in museful silence, At once through the open door, And his hope grew bright, like a fairy light, That flickered and danced before!

And there he was washed and tended, And his small, brown feet were shod; And he pondered there on his childish prayer, And the marvelous answer of God.

Above them his keen gaze wandered How strangely from shop to shelf, Till it almost seemed that he foully dreamed Of looking on God Himself.

The lady bent over, and whispered.
"Are you happier now, my lad?"
He started, and all his soul flashed forth
In a gratitude swift and glad.

ADVENT

The Church's New Year begins with the 28th of November. It is a most solemn season that should be improved by every Churchman for deepening his spiritual life, for careful self examination and preparation for the Master's coming. We know not the time of that coming; at longest it is not far off from any of us. It may be very near to some of us. Let us all gird on our armor afresh, and be up and doing in the Master's service. Let us put off the works of darkness and put on the armor of light. Let us be watchful, prayerful, circumspect, for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed. Let us work honestly as in the day; not in rioting and drunkenness; not in chambering and wantonness; not in strife and envying. But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ and make not provision for the flesh to fulfill the lusts thereof.

NEW YEARS DAY-1887.

The rectors of our Churches in Indianapolis, Bishop and Mrs. Knickerbacker, and from 12 M, until 5 P. M. will be happy to receive friends who may call.

THE CHURCH WORKER.

It is to be noticed by the readers of the CHURCH WORKER that acknowledgements have been very light during the last six months. The Bishop in undertaking its publication felt that he could reasonably rely upon the voluntary subscriptions of the Church people of Indiana, sufficient for the support of the Diocesan paper. This subscription is placed at the minimum rate for this class of publications, Fifty Cents, and within the ability of most people. In the case of a goodly number of readers there has been no disappointment, and the interest and appreciation of some are fully equal to the interest and endeavors of the Bishop and the editor. We are doubly thankful for this encouragement; and the Bishop is willing and glad to send it to any who are unable to pay for it, making up for this by the printing of advertisements. But there are doubtless at least A THOUSAND receivers of the paper who have given nothing for its support during these three years. If any receive the paper who do not care for it, please send word to the editor accordingly, and it will be discontinued. Yet we believe the paper is needed and desired for information concerning Diocesan and other Church work, and to help to keep alive good fellowship and zeal and that there are very few who would not be sorry to have it suspended. But the printer's bills come due monthly, and the CHURCH WORKER is owing more to the printer now than at any time heretofore. Then along with all the good cheer of the holiday season, send also joyfully a subscription to the editor, that the paper may continue to be a still more welcome guest in the Church family circle.

COLLECTIONS IN THE CHURCHES.

The first Sunday in October was, by resolution of the Convention, appointed as the time for a collection for Theological Education; the first Sunday in November for the Diocesan Church Building Fund: the second Sunday in December will be the regular time, by canon, for quarterly collections for Diocesan Missions; Christmas Day for Aged and Infirm Clergy Fund of the Diocese. We have no means of knowing how many of our Clergy heeded the request of the Convention and made the collection for Theological Eduction and Diocesan Church Building Fund. If they were not made, we do hope that at some with their wives, will spend the day with the proper and convenient time they will be, and that a generous sum will be given, and Solemn pledges have been made for Dioesan Missions, and on the strength of them the Board of Missions has placed the Missionaries in the field who are doing good work, and they should be sustained. Let payments be made quarterly.

The Aged and Infirm Clergy Fund should receive attention at Christmas. In this we are providing for the future care of our Clergy, when they shall have broken down in their work, and shall have become dependent We are accumulating a fund that shall assure the Clergy, when they come to us, that if overtaken by sickness or old age, the Church at whose altars they have served will care for them and see that they do not suffer. Christmas tide is a fitting time to remember those who are over us in the Lord. How easy for Parishioners at this time to make glad the hearts of their Pastors by generous remembrances in sharing with them their basket and store. Let this be done in Indiana by Churchmen this coming Christmas. Everything that is needed and useful in your own homes will be equally so in the homes of your Clergyman. At this blessed season, whilst remembering the poor and the loved ones in your own homes with Christmas gifts, remember, also, those who minister to you in sacred things. Help them to feel joyful and thankful at this happy season by your own loving remembrance of them.

PRE-LENTEN MISSION

Arrangements are being made to hold a pre-lenten mission in Indianapolis in February, the Rev. Frederick Courtney, S. T. D., of Boston, having consented to act as Missioner. The purpose will be to enlist all the parishes in the city in a concentrated effort to regain the indifferent confirmed, as well as to win those who are not Christians. In preparation for the Mission it is proposed to hold meetings for prayer and conference which the clergy and congregations are all invited to attend. The first of these meetings will be held in the Chapel of St. Paul's Church, on Friday evening, December 3, at half past seven o'clock. This will be the first Friday in Advent and it is hoped there will be a full attendance.

VISIT OF BISHOP BOONE.

The Rt. Rev. Wm. J. Boone, D. D., Missionary Bishop of Shanghai, China, will be in this city on the third Sunday in Advent, December 12, 1886. He will be at St. Paul's Church in the morning, and at Christ Church in the we most surely hope that the collections in December will be made in every congregation. Rev. Dr. Jenckes.

THE BISHOP'S VISITATIONS.

Immediately after the close of the Central Convocation the Bishop began his round of visitations for another year. There will be little cessation of them until the convention meets again in June. Everywhere he finds a warm welcome and large congregations attend upon the services.

Thursday, Nov. 4, a visit was made to the Mission of Christ Church, Huntington, in company with the Rev. W. B. Burk, of Peru, who has charge. The Bishop was delighted by the interest manifested and the devotion of the western than the contract of the results of of the people to their voluntary missionary. In the evening the Bishop preached again, Rev. Messra, Miller and Towers taking the service. The Bishop also made an address on Church work in the Diocese, especially presenting the Endowment plan.

On Sunday afternoon, accompanied by the On Sunday atternoon, accompanied by the Rev. Mr. Towers and his senior warden, Mr. Russell, the Bishop visited St. Paul's Church, Mishawaka. This Church was well filled, and the rector had the happiness of presenting the rector had the happiness of presenting four of his flock for confirmation, making twenty-six confirmed during the past year. He had also baptized sixteen. This venerable parish is putting on new life, and has pledged all of its Endowment quota.

Monday the Bishop spent in South Bend, calling with the rector on many of his parish-ioners. Monday evening New Carlisle was visited by the Bishop for the second time. This is a mission station of the Rev. J. G. Miller, where he goes for a week day service once a month. Considerable interest has been once a month. Considerable interest has been developed and a Ladies' Guild formed that has done good work. They have purchased two eligible lots at a cost of $350, and made the first payment of $100, leaving $250, which they have two years in which to pay. The village has a population of 1,200, with Metho-dist and Disciples churches. A good congregation welcomed the Bishop. Service was held in the Disciples Church; a good response was made in the service, and serven of the Compression should family in with 1, 100. congregation showed familiarity with it.

The venerable senior warden, Mr. Hanford, was present and gave the Bishop a cordial greeting. The ministrations of Mr. Miller have been greatly blessed here also. He has baptized in the past year, twenty-two, and presented thirteen for confirmation. The Church building has been greatly improved by beautiful windows of cathedral glass. Most of them are memorials, two being memorials of former rectors, Messrs. Forgus and Wheeler. These have cost not far from $500. The Bishop These have cost not far from $000. The bishop made an appeal to the congregation to subscribe their share of the Endowment Fund—$250. The rector and warden promised to do

After the service at Bristol the Bishop, accompanied by Mr. Miller, and having been joined by Rev. Mr. Adams, of Elkhat, went to Lima. At 10 F. M. they were met at Sturgies by Rev. Mr. Spalding with two carriages and driven to Lima, reaching. Howe Graumaur School at 11 P. After the chilly ride in the rain it was a most agreeable welcome. Wednesday, Nov. 10, was Agreeable welcome. Wednesday, Nov. 10, was spent by the Bishop and clergy in visiting the school and attending recitations. The Bishop gave a short talk to the boys, and introduced Messra. Miller and Adams to them, who gave pleasant, helpful talks. The Bishop joined the boys in a game of foot ball, but found he was too heavy to keep up with the youngsters. They appeared a happy family, all bent on making good use of their opportunities. We have the same their than the same crowded. Messrs Miller and Adams took the service, and the Bishop preached, and confirmed a class of five, making fourteen confirmed the past year. The Bishop was glad to have with him at this visitation these two neighboring clergy, who were agreeably war-prised and delighted at what had been accomplished in so short a time. He wishes all the clergy of the Diocese could visit the Howe Granmar School. They would certainly be Grammar School. They would certainly be stimulated thereby to secure places therein for boys from their parishes.

Sunday, Nov. 21, was spent delightfully at Sunday, Nov. 21, was spent usingnutiny as Vincennes. The Bishop was surprised to find the Church greatly improved by having been painted on the outside and papered inside, and pews neatly arranged, providing for middle sisle. The services on Sunday were well attended, the Church being filled morning and evening, and a good number present at the early celebration. The Bishop preached morning and evening. The congregations are most reverent and hearty in their worship. The Bishop presented the Endowment plan and received a number of pledges and the assurance from the vestry that their quota of $500 should be pledged and forthcoming.

Mr. Brandt has resigned the postion of assistant to Dean Faude at Michigan City, and has accepted a like place in a parish in Philadelphia. He supplied Grace Church acceptably two Sundays in November before leaving for the east.

THE BISHOP'S LECTURE.

The visit of Bishop Knickerbacker to Gethsemane on the 24th and 25th of October was a most enjoyable event. On Sunday morning he gave us an account of the doings of the General Convention in Chicago, and in the evening a most earnest and practical sermon on the duties of Christian parents to their children. We wish that every father and mother in the city could have beard it. On Monday evening he delivered his lecture (the first in our organ fund course) on "Minneapolis Thirty Years Ago." In an easy, pleasant style he gave an account of the coming of himself and young bride to Minneapolis; how they are the country of the property of the country of the property of the property of the property of the way, and of the warm friendships they formed. It was equally interesting to the old settlers, who could recall the events, and to the later corners who had never heard of such things. Immeevening a most earnest and practical sermon who had never heard of such things. Immediately after the lecture nearly all retired to e adjoining Church rooms to shake hands with the good Bishop and enjoy the collation served by the ladies of the Church.—The Church Record, Minneapolis.

THE third conference of Church workers among the deaf was held at St. James' Church, Chicago, October 26 and 27. The Rev. Dr. Gallandet, and the Rev. Messrs. Tyle, Mann and Koehler were present. Bishop McLaren was elected honorary chairman, but was prevented from serving. The Rev. Mr. Mann was chosen chairman. The conference closed with an interesting missonary meeting, at which sign addresses were made.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

Diocesan items and reports of parochial societies, and other parish affairs intended for publication in the mittances, business matter and general communications should be addressed to the Editor, Rev. W. W. Raymond, 175 Cedar St., Indianapolis, Ind.

The Bishop was at Michigan City October the semi-centennial of the organization of the thanks. parish, and to dedicate Barker Hall. Full report may be expected in our next.

A REVIEW of the General Convention reports shows the Rev. Dr. J. S. Jenckes, of Indianapolis, to have been placed on the Standing Committee on The State of the Church, as the representative of the Indiana Diocese, in which position he has done faithful and effective service, having a zealous interest in the matter of Christian Unity. The Rev. Dean Faude was on the Committee on Elections: and Mr. J. H. Stotsenberg on that of Education Under the Auspices of the Church.

ELKHART.-A Harvest Home service was held in St. John's Church, Rev. E. W. Adams, Rector, on Thanksgiving Day. The chancel was tastily decorated, and a large congregation took part heartily in the service. The music was especially good. The offerings will be sent to St. Stephen's Hospital, Richmond. The members of St. John's are rejoicing in manifest evidences of renewed parochial life in every department.

EVANSVILLE .- A daily journal gives a full column report editorial of a sermon by Rev. Chas. Morris, rector of St. Paul's Church, preached October 31, the theme being the late General Convention and its work, paying particular attention to the title, "Protestant Episcopal." He assumed that the word Protestant, as applied to the Episcopal Church, is a misnomer, and drew a close distinction between the tenets and faith of the Romish and American churches, showing their wide differences. He concluded with a vivid presentation of the magnificent spectacle presented at Chicago, representatives from every quarter of the nation, representing millions of souls, contending for the primitive Faith and Apostolic Order, and beholding streams of light visible on the horizon of the blessed day yet to come when all would be one in the "Church of God," the pillar and ground of the truth. Rev. Mr. Morris was a clerical deputy at the convention.

FORT WAYNE .- The rectory of Trinity parish has been very much improved both within and without by the kindness of the Young Ladies' Guild. A company of the Boys of the Blue Cross and a juvenile branch of the Church Temperance Society have been recently formed in the parish.

GOSHEN .-- A good congregation attended the Thanksgiving Day service in St. James' Church. Rev. S. Rosevelt, Rector. There was a celebration of the Holy Communion.

hat this first visit may not be the last. The Woman's Auxiliaries are also very grateful for the visit from Miss Emery, General Secretary, and have the hope that soon she may come again. Of particular interest to laymen as well as to the Bishop and other clergy was the visit of Mr. Geo. C. Thomas, of Philadel-28, 29 and 30, to take part in a celebration of phia, and a hearty "come again" best expresses

A united service of all the city parishes was held in St. Paul's Cathedral Church on Thanksgiving Day. The Bishop of the Diocese and all the clergy of the city were in the chancel. A very large congregation was present. The sermon, a good, bright discourse, was preached by Rev. Dr. Bradley, of Christ Church, from Psalm cvii: 8, 15, 21, 31.

Indianapolis Institute. - This Diocesan school for girls continues to flourish under the able management of Mr. and Mrs. Lyon. The visits of Bishops Paddock and Walker were greatly enjoyed. Rev. Dr. Bradley has been delivering a course of lectures to the pupils on English Literature during the past month. Rev. Mr. Hallam, of Richmond, visited the school Nov. 2d. and Rev. W. W. Raymond Nov. 10th. The Bishop has established two prizes, one for excellence in deportment, and one for excellence in scholarship. Mrs. David Macy has presented to the school a partial scholarship. The St. Cyprian Missionary Society has been organized among the pupils, with the following officers: Miss Bessie West, President: Miss Leddie Bingham, Vice President; Miss Anna McCollum, Secretary: Miss Daisy Lyon, Treasurer. The Society is working for the Diocesan Orphanage, with the approval of the Bishop, and will hold a Fair on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 10th and 11th, at which time they will offer for sale useful and fancy articles suitable for Christmas gifts and home use. The Society invites the co-operation of all who have an interest in the work, and especially requests attendance of everybody at the Fair. We are sure the number of these young ladies will be increased in the near future by others who will be glad to share the advantages of a pleasant and excellent school.

LIMA.—Howe Grammar School for Boys. An editorial of more than a column, in the La Grange Standard, speaks of this school in the most commendatory and encouraging terms, and also of its management under Rector Spalding. The school is reported as speaking for itself in good works rather than by any outre fashion of advertising, but that it has not yet an adequate appreciation by the people of the State. The elements of a new Rugby are thrown into the institution, and the school invites the patronage of all who desire a careful attention to the moral training and physical welfare of their children, as well as the ordinary educational discipline of the best sort.

Rev. F. W. Adams, who began his work in Elkhart, October 1, has his family settled there. He has met with a most cordial reception and speaks in hopeful terms of the prospects of. the parish. He is delivering a course of sermons to young men on Sunday evenings that are well attended.

Rev. J. D. Stapley entered upon his work at Terre Haute the middle of October. He has his family, mother and two sisters settled in the rectory. The rectory has been put in good order, painted and papered by the ladies of the parish. He has made a good impression and every one is full of hopefulness. The Church has been newly carpeted, and the chancel wainscoted. The congregations are good and the rector encouraged. He will be instituted at an early day.

Rev. W. S. Hayward entered upon his charge at Frankfort the last Sunday in October. He has found some difficulty in getting a house. At the Bishop's request he held a service at Crawfordsville on the evening of November 11, and at Rockville, November 12, Rev. Reginald Collison, the new rector of Grace Church, Muncie, met with a most cordial reception from his people. They have provided a house for him, furnished it comfortably and stocked it well with provisions and family supplies.

Rev. Walter Scott reached his new field at Laporte in time to enter upon his duties November 7. The ladies had put the rectory in good order for the reception of his family. Dean Scott is one of the most faithful of our clergy and good work may be expected from him. The parish was left in good condition by his predecessor, Mr. Eastman. St. Paul's, New Albany, lost no time in securing a successor to Dean Scott, they having called Rev. Frank Page, of Fairfax Court House, Virginia, who had been well recommended to them. A good field for work is before them.

St. Luke's, Cannelton, was not ready to give up their faithful rector, Rev. E. G. Hunter, to Crawfordsville, and declining to accept his resignation, have urged him to remain with them. This he has consented to do.

Rev. Harry Thompson, who for nearly three years has done most excellent service at Logansport has felt compelled because of his wife's health, to resign the parish to accept that at Kenosha, Wisconsin. He will carry with him the best wishes of his Bishop and brethren in Indiana for his success in his new field of work, and the regrets of his flock at the necessity of parting from him.

Rev. George E. Swan, of Moorehead, Minnesota, has accepted the charge of Grace Church Indianapolis, and will enter upon his duties the first of January, 1887. He is a graduate of Seabury Divinity School, Faribault, and has been for five years rector of the parish at Moorehead, where he has done most excellent

Rev. J. P. Derwent Llwyd has returned to the Diocese to become the assistant of Dean Faude, at Michigan City. In connection with the Dean he will do mission work at Valparaiso, Hammond and Crown Point.

The Woman's Auxiliary of Indiana gladly welcomes two new parish branches organized a great day for Racine and the college. The since Convention, viz: Grace Church, Indianapolis and St. Paul's, Richmond. Both have begun work in earnest with promise of good results.

Miss Emery's visit to Indianapolis was heartily enjoyed by the Auxiliaries of that city, and a new impulse was given the work for the year.

All Saints Day, the Indianapolis Auxiliaries were addressed by Bishop Walker, and on the same day Miss Emery visited the new branch at Richmond, and after evening service by the Rector, addressed the ladies, awakening in her hearers fresh interest in Missionary Work. The Secretary writes every one was delighted with the thoroughly practical manner with which she treated the subject. She suggested several points where boxes would be acceptable, and gave a graphic description of her visit to several of the mission stations. It was quita evident that Miss Emery's address touched the hearts of some present, for at its close several ladies gave their names as members. We have now thirty-four on our list. In the evening, Mrs. Ferguson, our President, entertained Miss Emery and invited the ladies of the congregation, so that they might have an opportunity of social intercourse, and hear, in an informal way, of the working of the Auxiliary. Every one was delighted to have formed the acquaintance of Miss Emery.

The officers of the Parish Branch of St. Paul's, Richmond, are: President, Mrs. Ferguson; Vice-President, Mrs. Myrick; Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. Edmund. And of the Grace Church Branch, Indianapolis: President, Mrs. Boggs; Treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Cooper; Secretary, Miss Madison, Since Convention, the Diocesan Secretary has received the following amounts: $27.00 subscribed at the Annual Meeting, June 11, for Rev W. W. At the same time, $80.00 was subscribed to support a Medical Scholarship in Africa; $40,50 of this has been sent to the General Secretary; also $1.25 additional given on the occasion of Miss Emery's visit to Indianapolis.

INSTITUTE AND CONVOCATION

The Indianapolis Church Sunday-school Institute held the fourth public meeting on Sunday, Oct 31, in St. Paul's Cathedral Church. The day was pleasant and the Church was promptly filled with the seven Sunday-schools. Christ Church, Grace, Holy Innocents', St. George's, St. James', St. Paul's and St Philip's. The Bishop of the Diocese, with Bishop Walker, of North Dakota, Rev. Drs. Jenckes and as yet done nothing. Bradley, Rev. W. W. Raymond and Father Engle were in the chancel. After the opening service, which was choral, Bishop Knick erbacker catechised the several schools, and then introduced Mr. Geo. C. Thomas, of Philadelphia, who gave the children a most excellent address. He was followed by Bishop Walker, and the children will long remember the happy discourse of the Bishop nearest the north pole. On Sunday evening the first meeting of the Central Convocation was held in Christ Church, a united service of all the clergy and congregations of the city. Mr. Geo. C. Thomas made an address on the subject of the Missionary Enrollment, and Bishop Walker gave a most interesting account of his work in North Dakota and among the Turtle Indians. The addresses waked much enthusiasm. The offerings were for Bishop Walker's work,

On Monday, All Saint's Day, a united communion service was held in Christ Church. The sermon by Bishop Walker from Psalm 127:2, last clause, joined to the last clause of 1 Thess, iv:14, was one not to be forgotten by those who heard it. Bishop Knickerbacker celebrated the Holy Communion. At 3 P. M. the two Bishops addressed the Woman's Auxiliaries of the city in Grace Church. In the evening at Christ Church, after the Missionary service, very admirable addresses on Christian Unity were given by Rev. Mr. Raymond and Rev. Dr. Jenckes.

The sessions of Convocation were continued Tuesday, Nov. 2, with a service at Grace Church in the morning, a sermon by Rev. Frank Hallam, and a celebration of the Holy Missions.

THE ENDOWMENT FUND.

The second coupons of the subscription, due November 1st, are being gradually sent in and a goodly sum is being realized already. The number of parishes subscribing their quota is steadily increasing, and yet though this work is so important for the best interests of the Church in Indiana, though the convention has urged it upon all our people, again and again, it is astonishing to find how utterly indifferent the great mass of Churchmen are to their own personal obligation to contribute towards it. They are perfectly willing that their neighbors should do it, but for themselves, pass it by for a more convenient season. Hundreds of Churchmen in the Diocese who have received the Bishop's earnest plea and subscription blank in its behalf. have cast it aside with indifference and have

WONDERFUL WORDS.

One of the worst enemies we have to fight in trying to keep our good resolutions is words. Here is something somebody who knew their power has written about them:

Keep a guard on your words, my darlings, For words are wonderful things; ney, They are sweet like the beel 'reah nurse. They are sweet like the beel 'reah suttings. They can bless like the cheering sunshine. And brighten a louely life; They can cut in the strife of anger. Like an open, two-dged knife.

Let them pass through your lips unchallenged, If their errand is true and kind; If their errand is true and kind; If their errand their their errand their their errands of their errands errands

Keep them back if they're cold and cruel, Under har, and lock, and sen; I he wounds they make, my darlings, May peace guard our lives, and ever, From this time of your early youth, May the words that you daily utter, Be the beautiful words of truth.

ROB'S PLAN.

"Rob, how is it you never get into any scrapes? All the other boys do.'

"Oh, it's my plan not to talk back. When a boy says hard things to me, I just keep still."

A little girl who had a thoughtful Christian mother, overhearing her little brother saying his evening prayer in a careless manner, said to him:

"Willie, if you do not mind how you pray, God will not hear you. You wouldn't ask mamma in such a careless way for anything Church-Catechism? you really wanted."

DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS:

Your Bishop was glad to see the Children's Corner opened again in the last Church WORKER. He will often like to speak to you in it if the editor will allow him. The Bishop loves the boys and girls in Indiana. He always takes delight in meeting them in their Sunday-schools to hear them say their Church Catechism. Indeed, you have made great progress in the Catechism, and hundreds of you are on the Roll of Honor, having said the whole Church Catechism perfectly. We want EMBROIDERIES you all to endeavor to learn it and to practice you all to endeavor to learn it and to practice its beautiful teaching in your lives; to love S. S. BANNERS. God, and to love each other. It has been your Bishop's precious privilege to confirm a large number of the boys and girls, the older scholars of our Sunday-schools, during the past year, and his prayer is that there may be an increasing number, and that those confirmed will become faithful communicants and earnest, active members of Christ's Holy Church. Again your Bishop thanks you for your generous contributions towards the Child's Cot and the Orphanage fund. At Christmas will be a good time to remember these special objects which the children are working for.

Your Bishop wishes you all a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. You will have a happy time about your Christmas trees and in hanging up your stockings in your homes for Santa Claus to fill. We shall be with you in spirit, and hope you may have the happiest in spirit, and hope you may have the happiest Christmas you have ever seen. Dear boys and Bet. Franklin and Market Sta.

girls, learn to love God's house, and to be always in your places at time of service to worship your Heavenly Father. It will cheer and encourage your pastors, and be a cause for joy to the whole congregation. May God Rt. Rev. D. B. Knickerbacker, D. D. Visiter. bless you all. Your friend and Bishop,

GEO. L. PHILLIPS,

THE COMING MISSION. To the Churchmen of Indianapolis:

BELOVED BRETHREN: At the request of your clergy and some of the laity I have arranged for a united mission of all our parishes, to be held in Christ Church, beginning with Septuagesima Sunday (February 6th). The Rev. Dr. Courtney, of St. Paul's Church, Boston, one of the ablest of our clergy, has kindly consented to act as missioner. This mission can be a great blessing to the Church in Indianapolis, if every Churchman, cooperating with his pastor and Bishop, shall heartily enter into the spirit of the mission, determine to be present at every service possible, and to labor to induce friends and neighbors to share

The aim of a mission is to build up in our holy faith those who are in earnest in their Christian profession, and also to reach, if God permit, those who have in times past served Him and have fallen out of His service, and those who have never sought to serve Him at all. God has abundantly blessed such services in other places. May we ask all the people of God in Indianapolis to pray that God will bless them here as well? May we ask their prayerful interest in the effor ersonal cooperation in the work of for it? Your Bishop asks your pray o for your faithful clergy in their efforts reparing for the mission, and also for the missioner, that utterance may be given unto him that he may make known the mystery of the Gospel for which he is an embassador, that he may speak boldly as he ought to speak.

Praying God to bless you,
Your friend and Bishop,

The chants were nicely sung and Church, Vincennes, of the resignation of their full service rendered. One person presented rector, and their acceptance of the same with time in Knightstown. It commanded close attention of all. Knightstown is in Henry county, thirty-four miles from Indianapolis, and has a population of 1,800. We have nine communicants residing here. Dr. Bradley has held occasional service here, but need is felt now for a monthly service at least, and the Bishop will try and provide for it.

Wednesday evening we made our third visit to Martinsville. Col. Jordan having kindly arranged for the service and provided for our entertainment. Last year there were three communicants residing here, but two have moved away, and one, Mrs. Hamilton, who had entertained us last year, had died. A communicant has moved in since, but she communicant has moved in since, but she happened to be absent, so we had not a single Churchman present; but service was held in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, a good the Camberland Presbyterian Church, a good-congregation present, with the choir, and by the aid of service cards a grand and hearty response was had. Martinswille is county seat of Morgan county, thirty miles from Indian-apolis, has a population of 2000. Little oppor-tunity for the Church there at present. Thursday we went on to Worthington, and were met at the station by Mr. Austin, son of Rev. Dr. Austin, formetly of Vincennes, whose guest we were to be. Afternoon was devoted to calling on all the parishioners, many of whom deplored their deprivation of Church services. The parish has been vacant since June, when Dr. Reeves, who had served them for eight Dr. Reeves, who had served them to eight years, removed to Michigan. They have a comfortable Church and rectory, and about forty communicants, an earnest band of Church people. The good women have kept up the Sunday-school, and the Bishop urged, during his visit the maintenance of lay services. In the evening the Church was well filled, the Bishop saying the service and preaching. He also appealed to the congregation to make a generous effort to raise the means toward the support of a Clergyman, and assured them the Missionary Committee would be glad to aid them. The Bishop dined at Warden Mr. Miller's, with the members of the vestry, in Mr. Miller's beau-tiful new home. The determination was expressed to do what they could for securing a Clergyman.

Friday afternoon we went to Spencer county seat of Owen county, with a popula-tion of 1,800. Here reside three or four mem-bers of tre Church, one of whom (Mr. Lawrence Law) had arranged for the service in the Presbyterian Church, with the chants and hymns. After the second service a child was baptized. A large congregation was present and joined heartily in the service. The Bishop was entertained by Mr. Calvin Spen cer, his host on his former visit, who had kindly invited the Churchmen to meet the Bishop, and also the Presbyterian minister.

Four of the class seven and addressed them. Four of the class were men, two of them coming with their wives. The next morning at 10 c'clock we confirmed a sick person in private. At 12 celebrated Holy Communion in the Church,

St. Philip's is a complete and New Castle. St. Philip's is a complete and beautiful Church building, capable of seating one hundred and fifty, and has cost only $750. The seata had just been completed, a bell placed in the gable, and a pretty font of home design and construction added. It was crowded at 7 f. M., when, after Evening Prayer and a sermon, two persons, a man and his wife the first fruits of the Mission, were con firmed. Three others were to have been con-firmed, but were prevented by a death in the family. After the service we returned to New Castle. Wednesday morning we celebrated Holy Communion at 10, and at 11 for sick persons. Dined at Mr. Murphy's, and in the afternoon went to Wilkinson, another station of Mr. Engle's where he has a lot promised and good hope of building another neat Church the coming year. Service was held in a hall, and a good congregation was present and mani-fested great interest and took good part in the service. The Church has made a good impression here and it must bring forth fruit in due season. The growth of the Church in New Castle is not exceptional. The same results can be attained in any town in Indiana, if we can have the same earnest spirit in the hearts of the few Churchmen that was manifested in New Castle - a determination to have their New Castle —a determination to have their own Church services and not to be without them. Mr. William Murphy is superintendent of the Sunday-school, and has over one hundred children, all the Church is able to accommodate. There will be good fruits for the Church from this Sunday-school in due

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY.

At the meeting of the Indianapolis branches of the Auxiliary held during the Convocation, November 1st, it was resolved to give four missionary teas during the winter and spring. The first of these was given by the Christ Church branch, at the residence of the rector, Dr. Bradley, Thursday evening, December 16th. Tea was served from 7 to 8 o'clock, followed by music and a most interesting conversation on missionary work in China, Mrs. Boone, wife of the Bishop of Shanghai, being present and giving many facts new to her hearers. Mrs. Hale read a bright paper on Missionary Boxes, from the standpoint of sender and receiver. The mite collection amounted to $7.66 and was devoted to Diocesan Missions. Dr. Bradley made a short address at the close of the evening, in which he mentioned that the day (December 16) was the anniversary of the election of the first rector of Christ Church, Rev. J. B. Britton, and the consecration of the first Church building, December 16, 1888; and also of the consecration of the first Bishop of Indiana, Rt. Rev-George Upfold, D.D., LL.D., in that old Church, December 16, 1849. Several were present who attended the latter service, and one, Mrs. Deborah Moore, who was present at the first. The next tea will be given by St. Paul's branch in January.

Christ Church branch has packed and sent a box of clothing, bedding and Christmas gifts to White Earth Mission, Minnesota, value $120. The cost of sending was $8, which was cheerfully given by a few members of the Auxiliary Grace Church has made a good beginning of work, and has sent a box of Christmas gifts to an Indian school at Anadarko, Indian Territory. This is a government school, but taught by a Church girl from Columbia City, Indiana. The box contained dressed dolls: workbags, with needles, thread and thimbles; reticules, with pocket handkerchiefs; tops; bags of marbles; books; candles for the tree; aprons; pocket mirrors and combs; worsted, with crochet needles; toy watches, and other toys. The box was valued at $10; cost of sending, $1.85.

The Indianapolis Auxiliary branches have also adopted the plan of making their monthly meetings social in character, meeting at private houses and having a programme prepared, consisting of a paper on some missionary topic of interest, a reading from the Spirit of Missions, followed by conversation and music. By this means we hope many more will be reached and interested in our work. At the December meeting of the St. Paul's branch Mrs. G. C. Duy read an interesting paper on Indian Missions, and conversation was led by Mrs. Tanner on the same subject. Christ Church branch met at the residence of Mrs. W. P. Bingham, December 6th. Mrs. Hale read a paper on Missionary Boxes, from the standpoint of sender and receiver, and Miss Carrie Howland read selections from the Spirit of Missons.

CATECHETICAL INSTRUCTION. Questions and Answers Relating to the Church

Services. BY JUDGE WILLIAM MACK, OF TERRE HAUTE. No. L.

A necessity exists for better information among Church people concerning the Ritual forms and other observances of Church service I propose to write a series of short papers on matters pertaining to this subject, and in doing so, will shape them in questions and answers, the questions being such as are every day put by others to Church people.

Ques. Why do you Episcopalians change positions by rising, sitting and kneeling so

Ans. We have a simple rule and easily remembered. We arise to give thanks or praise; sit to receive instruction; and kneel for prayer. A moment's consideration will show these are all natural positions. well bred person stands to return thanks to an individual, and if proper among men, how much more do we owe this respect to Deity. Ques. But you stand when you read the psalms and say the creed psaims and say the creen?

Ans. True, we do. The Prayer-Book says these parts "may be said or sung," and in many Churches all are sung. The psalms are generally only read with us, the minister reading one verse and the people one alternately but at the close of each psalm the "Gloria" is sung. There are from three to five psalms read every service, and they are always considered a means of praise.

Why do you stand when the Gospel is read in the Communion service Ans. The Gospel speaks of the doings of the Saviour on earth, and we rise out of respect to him.

Ques. When do you sit?

Ans. We sit to hear the reading of the lessons from the Old and New Testament, during the reading of the Epistle, the announcements, and the sermon. So we say "we sit to hear instruction." Every one will concede that to be the natural position for such purpose, in or out of Church.

Ques. Then you kneel for prayer.

Ans. Yes; we feel it our duty, in asking our Maker for favors, to approach him with humility, and therefore kneel in prayer.

These positions seem to be the natural suggestions of the occasions, and besides this, they serve to relieve and rest the body during service.

There is a beautiful and appropriate reason for all the forms and emblems used in the service, and nothing adds more to the culture and interest of Church people than the study and appreciation of these matters.

WANTS AN EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

No observing man can fail to have noticed the social and ecclesiastical power of the pres-ent Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Indiana. He has fifty-three pastoral charges, which he visits twice every year, and his visits are occasions of great interest and profit to the Churches and the communities visited, and he goes not only where there are Churches, but where he wants to plant Churches. It is no exaggeration to say that to-day Bishop Knickerbacker is exerting an official influence in Indiana that no Methodist Bishop ever did, whether living in the State or out of it, and Indiana's experience with a resident Bishop leads us to say that, except the pleasure of social intercourse thus afforded to a few, there is nothing in it. Under his faithful and apostolic methods that Church has assumed an aggressiveness never before known. The missionary Bishops of Wyoming, Idaho, Utah and Washington are building up Episcopalianism in those sparsely settled countries by their presence. We have The Church Worker needs subscriptions. no Bishop in any of them, except as he travels on the express train in a hurry to get through, and almost sure never to return. We through, and aimost sure never to return. We want a Methodist Episcopal Church, and we would write "Episcopal" always in capitals, and speak the name of our Zion with the emphasis always on the second word. It will come to this; the sooner the better.—Indiana Christian Advocate

WANT THE OLD-FASHIONED LENT, The Presbyterian ministers met this forenoon and discussed the "week of prayer."
It was admitted that the interest therein was waning of late years, and the idea was freely expressed by Dr. McLeod that, as at this season people were engrossed with the festivities incident upon the holidays, and were disin-clined to give the week of prayer that attention its importance demanded, it would well to change the date to the first week in Lent. A resolution was adopted admitting the Lent. A resolution was adopted carmtung the need of a revival in religious matters, and suggesting that the various Churches so ar-range their meetings so as not to interfere with each other.—Indianapotis Daily News,

THE General Board recommends Sunday, 16, as the day on which to take offerings for Foreign Missions.

THE exhortation sent out to its readers by our city contemporary, The Church at Work (Presbyterian), with concurrent purpose, is (Frestylerian), with concurrent purpose, is well suited to ourselves, and betokens common interest. The great subject before us in January for our gifts and our prayers, among all our beneficiaries, is Foreign Missions. What are you going to give this year, this January? Are you going to alip in a dime or a quarter and expect God to bless you. dime or a quarter and expect toot to bless you.
and expect to prespect yourself, and expect to pray Thy kingdom come, and mean it? Do you expect to give fifty cents or a dollar? Why, you wasted that much on cigars last week, or gave that much for a trinket for a very ordingare that much for a trinket for a very ordin-ary friend. Come, come! Let us think about this! Are we in earnest? Are we simply play-ing religion and obedience? Are we simply joking about missions? Let us bring a gift worth giving and lay it down at the feet of the King!

LENT

Before the next issue of the WORKER the Church will have entered upon another Lenten season. Our hope is that throughout the whole Diocese the blessed season may be devoutly observed. May the people avail themselves of more frequent opportunities for public worship. May there be searching self-examination, solemn renewal of vows, study of God's word, more frequent reception of the Holy Eucharist, erection of family altars and a great spiritual advance throughout our Diocese. With it all may there be a consecration of more of our substance for God's service, self-denial for Christ's sake in order to extend His Kingdom. We need a greater appreciation of our precious privileges in the Church of God. It is the season of preparation for confirmation in many of our parishes. May the clergy be faithful in the spiritual training of their candidates, that we may have fewer cold, and careless, and indifferent Church people. Our heart goes out toward the many children of the Church scattered abroad without a shepherd, May these revive their devotion by faithful study of the Holy Scriptures and the Prayer Book, firm clergy fund of the Diocese. This is reand by diligence in private prayer,

LOOK AT THE FIGURE.

Immediately before, or directly under, the initial letter in the address of a Church WORKER subscriber may be found a single figure. If it be the figure 5, it signifies that the paper was paid for once, in 1884 or in 1885, and not since. If the figure be 6, the year Book Society. 1886 was paid for. If the figure be 7, payment is made for this current year 1887.

Does some reader find no figure at all? We are sorry, and so are you; but nothing has been paid at any time for that paper. In that case please send the editor a dollar, indicating your desire to have the paper continued, and the figure 7 will appear with your address. Or send 50 cents once and 50 cents again. Is the figure a 5? Please send a dollar and the 5 will be changed to 7, signifying full payment for last year, 1886, and this year, 1887. Is the figure a 6? Your previous subscriptions are paid in full, and now 1887 is here awaiting another subscription. Does an aster-isk (*) appear with the figure? You have paid us a larger sum than 50 cts, for your annual grateful thanks; as also all are both generally and particularly thanked for their substantial support, who have paid at any time for the CHURCH WORKER. The insertion of these figures has cost considerable time and some expense, but they will now serve as a visible token of the yeariy subscription. The figure 6, with a liberal allowance, stands with most names. Another subscription sent will change the 6 to a 7, and so advance from year to year according to the payment.

This February number is the last of the third volume; the next (March, 1887) will be the first number of the fourth volume. From favorable expressions which come from many quarters, it is certain that the majority of readers of the CHURCH WORKER have an earnest desire for its continuance. A good number of regular subscribers are Church friends outside the Diocese; but urgent biddings for subscriptions are made to those within the Diocese, for whom the paper is more especially intended

Some error may have crept into this review and numbering, and a figure be omitted possibly where one should be placed, and less possibly one stand where it ought not.

SUNDRY OFFERINGS.

We hope every parish in the Diocese made at Christmas an offering for the aged and inquired by canon. If any have neglected it et them take some early opportunity to make the offering.

On Ash Wednesday will be a good opportunity to make an offering for the Theological Education Fund of the Diocese if it has not already been done, or for the Bible and Prayer

The Diocesan Church Building Fund should not be forgotten. Liberal offerings should be made to this important Diocesan interest. The good fruits of this fund are evidenced in our five new church buildings, Frankfort, Rockville, New Castle, Greencastle and Kennard.

It will be good Lenten work for the entire Diocese to see that all pledges made for Diocesan Missions be collected during Lent. Every dollar will be needed. Only two of our missions are vacant at this time, and it is hoped to fill them at an early day. They are Worthington and Connersville.

The Missionaries of the General Board need not be disturbed at, not receiving their appointments from the Secretary for the remaining three-quarters of the year. It will subscription, for which you have special and be all right and they will receive their stipends at the regular time.

COME, and bring somebody with you.

COME to the beginning service in Christ Church on the Circle, Sunday evening, Feb. 6. What is a Mission? A Mission is a special effort to win men to Christ. It is an earnest en deavor to reach all who have not been reached by the regular ministrations of the Church, and to help all who are attending upon them to benefit more by them. Its first object is to rescue. It seeks also to instruct and confirm in faith and godliness. It is an extraordinary call to the careless to repent, to the doubting to believe, to the believing to serve God more earnestly. The Misston is held for Christ's sake, and all Christians are asked to pray for the Mission and to come to the Mission.

Lay readers should send in their reports for the past year's work at once to the Bishop. Already a good number have done so. Re-newals will be made at request of the rector. There should be a lay reader in every parish,

We hear be able to have Communion on Christmas nothing but praise of Mr. Stanley. He has day. For three years the Missionary has already won the respect and confidence of faithfully ministered to this congregation, latificity ministered to this congregation, and though there has not been any great growth, yet there have been some valuable acquisitions to the Church, and in good time we trust there will be decided growth. It is here as it is elsewhere, the people forget their own priesthood, their own obligation to work for Christ and the Church. Where all are workers and all at peace among themselves, then the increase will come.

On the Sunday after Christmas the Bishop visited St. Paul's Church, Indianapolis preached, confirmed two, and celebrated Holy Communion. In the evening Holy Inncents' was visited. The Bishop preached and confirmed thirteen and addressed them. The Church has recently been carpeted and was beautifully decorated for Christmas.

The last visitations for 1886 were at Shelby-The last visitations for 1806 were at Shelby-ville and Greensburg. At Shelbyville we were the guest, as on former visits, of Alfred Major. The beautiful, new Presbyterian Church had been secured for service at which a large congregation was present. The music was rendered delightfully by the Methodist choir, the precentor of which is a Churchman, and another member of the choir was a choir-boy in Chester Cathedral, England, for seven years. The afternoon of Wednesday was spent in calling on all the Churchmen we knew—seven or eight in number. We heard of a venerable clergyman of our Church, re-siding here with his daughter, in great weak-ness of body. We visited him and arranged ness of body. Here also resides an aged Deacon of the Church—82 years of age—Rev. Mr. Page. He had kindly made arrangements for the service at the Methodist Church, where a large congregation was present and the choir to render the music. The Baptist and Methodist clergy-men were present. We have a number of friends of the Church here, and several who rrends of the Church here, and several who were formerly members of the Church have united with other religious bodies. In all these towns the Church should have been established forty years ago. Met the Church people at tea at Judge Moore's.

Our first visitation to St. Stephen's, Terre Haute, since the advent of the new rector, Mr. Stanley, was made January 8th and 9th. We were met at station by Mr. Stanley and taken to the rectory to be his guest. The services are in charge of two lay readers—Messrs. Longman and Fletcher, the rector visiting the C for service and sermon every other Sunday afternoon. The Bishop preached and celebrated Holy Communion, a good number re-ceiving. In the evening, after service and sermon by Mr. Dunham, the Bishop made an address on Church work in the Diocese. Of-ferings were received at morning service for Diocesan Church Building Fund and in the evening for Diocesan Missions. At a full meeting of the vestry on Monday morning, they gave unanimous endorsement of the endowment plan and pledged themselves to do all in their power to further it and secure their proportion of it.

Sunday, January 16th, second Sunday after Epiphany, was devoted to Evansville. Here we were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles we were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Viels. Sunday morning was devoted to St. Paul's. The beautiful new Church was welf filled by an attentive congregation. At 9:30 we visited the Sunday-school, superintended by Mr. Patrick, music in charge of Dr. Green. About 100 children were present and passed an admirable examination in the Church Catechism. At 10:45, after service said by rececnism. At 10'20, after service said by rec-tor Rev. Chas. Morris, I preached, confirmed a class of nine and addressed them, and cele-brated Holy Communion. Rev. Mr. Mann was present. He had held a service for mutes the evening previous and in the afternoon at a service, baptized two mutes. A large num-ber of the faithful received Holy Communion. The offering of $41 was for Diocesan missions We were delighted to learn that Mr. and Mrs. Viele had decided to build a beautiful stone Chapel the present year, at a cost of $4,000; and to rebuild the building purchased for a rectory two years ago, at a cost of $2,000. These devoted friends of the Church are unwearied and generous in their efforts to promote its welfare in Evansville. At 2:30 P. M., I visited with Mr. Morris, the Chapel of the Good Shepherd, where 100 children are gathered in a Mission Sunday school, with a faithful band of teachers. Their recitation of the Catechism was excellent. This portion of the Catechism was excellent. This portion of the work should have the care of an assistant and would well repay faithful labor. At 3:30 I visited Holy Innocent's Sunday-school, which has 100 children and a band of faithful and has 100 children and a band of faithful and attentive teachers. The singing and answers to the Catechism were very good. Mr. Cole feels much encouraged by the progress of his Sunday-school, as also by the increased attendance of the congregation. In the evening at 7:30 the Church was filled. Rev. Messrs. Morris and Cole took the service and the Bishop preacher commend and the Bishop preacher than the contract of the contract o work. A large congregation, numbering perhaps 250, was present in the evening. The choir of the Church was present and ang the hymns nicely. By the aid of the cards a good response was had. The Methodist minister, who had been educated in England, in a Church school, was familiar with the service and led the responses and music. Mr. Cole will hold occasional services at Booneville. We found only one member of the Church there, who was glad to have the opportunity of joining once more in the service. We heard of an English settlement of farmers ten miles out in the country, and Mr. Cole will visit them. We returned to Evansville after the service.

On Tuesday morning we visited New Harmony and received a cordial welcome, as usual, and were the guests of Prof. Richard Owen. Mr. Cole had held monthly services the past year. A fund has been collected for the reshingling of the Church. A colored description of the control of the reshingling of the Church. the reshingling of the Church. A colored dossal cloth has been placed back of the altar. Service was held at 2 F. M., with a good attendance. One adult and two children were baptized by the Bishop; one person confirmed. Mr. Cole said the service and the Bishop preached. The offering was for Diocesan missions. A good interest in behalf of the Church exists here now and we look for steady increase under Mr. Cole's faithful service.

On Wednesday, on our way to Bloomington, we stopped for an hour or two at Vincennes and was glad to learn that the parish had called a rector, Rev. Dr. Harrison, of the Diocess of Springfeld, who has the call under consideration. Mr. Macfarlane's departure is greatly lamented. The Sunday-schools are being kept up by the teachers. The Mission pile. It is maintained by the liberality of one communicant. From this parish, we received, January 1st, $100 cash from Major Gould, to be applied to the endowment—the first cash payment from this parish. Other first cash payment from this parish. Others we are sure will follow this good example. During the brief ministry of Mr. Macfarlane, 100 baptisms took place. A delighful reception was held in the parish previous to Mr. Macfarlane's leaving.

Our fifth visitation to Trinity Mission, Bloomington, took place on Thirdy January 20. The day was spent in calling on the members of the mission. This, perhaps, has been one of the feeblest of our missions, but there are indications of decided improvement. One of the new professors is a communicant, whilst another and his wife are regular attendants. A number of Church students also attend the service. Two or three Churchmen have moved into the town. We miss good Dr. Dodd and his wife, who had always here-tofore entertained us. Mrs. Morley came down and spent the day and gathered a choir together, who rendered the music nicely. The Chaple was well liked and after service before the control of the con tendants. A number of Church students also offering made for Diocesan missions. We need, here, very much, a new Church and need, here, very much, a new Church and when our present property can be disposed of to advantage, it will go far to secure it. This is one of the most substantial and convenient of our new Churches, and our brethren of Greencastle are to be congratulated on securing it. It marks a steady advance in the work of the Diocese and is the fifth new Church secured in towns not before occupied by our Church. Since services were begun in February, 1884, thirty-five have been confirmed and the parish must now number fifty communicants.

THE OPENING of the new St. John's Church. Greencastle, on Sunday, January 23, by the Bishop, was followed with a series of services. Rev. Dr. E. A. Bradley preached on Monday evening, Rector Talbott Tuesday, Rev. J. D. Stanley Wednesday, and Rev. W.W. Raymond Thursday.

THE APPROACHING MISSION.

Let every Churchman in the Diocese pray for God's blessing on the Indianapolis Mission. Neighboring Clergymen who can conveniently attend will be cordially welcomed. We give below the earnest address of the distinguished Missioner.

Once more we ask the Churchmen of Indianapolis to attend the Mission and bring as many of their friends as possible. Let the Church be crowded from the start, and if it proves too small the Mission will be moved to St. Paul's Church. We should be glad to see that grand building crowded to overflowing, and it will be if our people all heartily cooperate in making it a success and a blessing:

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

Diocesan items and reports of parochial societies, and other parish affairs intended for publication in the CHURCH WORKER, should be sent to the Bishop. All remittances, business matter and general communica-tions should be addressed to the Editor, Rev. W. W. Raymond, 175 Cedar St., Indianapolis, Ind.

BRISTOL.-The Young Ladies' Altar Guild of St. John's parish, is worthy of special men-tion. Their badge is a cross and crown painted or embroidered upon a white satin ribbon, and their motto "Be Thou Faithful unto Death, and I will give Thee a Crown of Life." It is needless to say that their works are in accordance with these tokens of their purpose. As a Christmas offering, they have just furnished the parish Church with a beau-tiful dossal cloth, of the richest old-gold plush. The interior wood work of the Church being all of solid walnut, the dossal cloth presents a pleasant contrast in color, and the effect is bright and beautiful.

The little girls of St. John's parish have been organized into a guild which they have named "The Ruby Seal." It is their devout purpose to help all they can in work for Christ and the Church. The first fruits of their labors was a Christmas-box of children's clothing, sent to the Orphan's Home, at Mishawaka, of which their rector is chaplain.
The box was of goodly size and well filled, and was sent by the children as an offering to

CRAWFORDSVILLE.—St. John's parish is again rejoicing in the services of the Church with the beginning of the new year. Rev. Mr. Jenner, of Iowa, entered upon service with them and already all are beginning to feel hopeful about the work. Mr. Jenner is young and energetic, has had good experience in mission work in Texas and Iowa, and we feel confident will do a good work. He will be instituted by the Bishop on Septuagesima Sunday. Mr. Jenner will also care for Rockville, holding one Sunday service and one week-day service per month. Already the little band of faithful ones there are full of hopefulness and a Sunday-school has been formed, and every Sunday, Miss Belle Garnet acting as Deaconess, there will be service and Sunday-school.

EVANSVILLE.-A beautiful marble font with brass cover has been presented to St. Paul's Church by Mrs. Charles Viele. It is from J. & R. Lamb, New York.

Evansville. On the afternoon of the following Sunday, he held another service and baptized two deaf mute brothers. On the follow ing Tuesday he took the morning prayers at the Institution, Indianapolis, INDIANAPOLIS .- Christ Church .- A meeting of workers preparing for the Mission, has been held in Christ Church every Wednesday evening, with encouraging attendance, the Bishop and Clergy of the city all taking part. The advent of the Mission is looked forward to with great hopefulness. Mrs. J. R. Nichols and Mrs. Ransford of this parish, have been seriously ill. We are glad to hear that both are improving. The ladies of Christ Church Guild are going earnestly to work to put a new carpet in the Church by Easter, and the Young Ladies' Guild have undertaken to cushion the Church, with help from members of the parish.

Grace Church.-The new pastor, Rev. G. E. Swan, arrived in time for Epiphany services, and a good congregation welcomed him to his new field of labor. In the evening a reception was given him by the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, at the Bishop's residence. Full a hundred of his new flock met him and in their behalf Capt. F. E. Marsh, in a pleasant address, welcomed him to their midst and pledged their hearty co-operation in building up the parish. In a few modest Holy Innocents. words Mr. Swan responded, expressing his appreciation of the kind welcome extended. A neat chapel for week-day services and Guild meetings has been fitted up in the school building. Mr. Swan feels greatly encouraged by the outlook.

KENNARD.-Four adults and five children have recently been baptized in St. Philips Church. The new and handsome font with its elegant cover, is the offering and handiwork of John Wilson of Kennard. A Sunday-school is to be organized the first Sunday in February, under the superintendence of Andrew J. Daniels.

KNIGHTSTOWN.-The Rev. Willis D. Engle held service in the Knight of Labor hall, which has been secured for regular service, on January 18th, and will probably hold semi-monthly services hereafter.

There is good prospect that during the present year the old Church will be greatly im-proved and made more meet for holy worship. NEW CASTLE.-Mary Hamilton, confirmed at the last visitation of the Bishop, died January 17th. She was a young girl much beloved, and her funeral was very largely attended.

South Bend.-Affairs in this parish are running smoothly. A successful fair and sale was held the week before Christmas, and $125 was realized and paid upon the Church debt. This parish has an earnest band of women workers.

VINCENNES .- In the two years Rev. Mr. Macfarlane was in St. James, he baptized 109, and presented for confirmation 52 persons. On his last Sunday he baptized 34, most of them from North Vincennes Mission.

THE CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES.

The joyous festival of the Nativity was duly celebrated in all the Churches of the Diocese with happiness and thankfulness. Christmas festivals for the dear children were held and participated in with great pleasure. Many were held on Christmas Eve, some on St. John's Day, and others on the festival of the Grace Church, Indianapolis, had a Christ-mas tree on Christmas Eve, the Bishop conducting the services, catechizing the children and distributing the gifts. The ladics deco-rated the Christmas tree beautifully, under the direction of Major Marsh. A very happy occasion was made of it.

St. Paul's and Christ Church had their children's festivals on the evening of St. John's Day; Holy Innocents, St. George's, and St. James' on Holy Innocents evening.

At Holy Innocents Church a wreathed and decorated ladder was set up instead of a tree; the beautiful carols were joyfully sung, with the accompaniment of both organ and orchestra; a brief questioning on the Bible, the Church-Catechism and the Christian Year was conducted by the rector. The Bishop, who was present with Mrs. Knickerbacker, made a brief address, and rector, teachers and scholars were all remembered with pleasant gifts, special premiums being presented to the scholar in each class who had been present mi-monthly services hereafter.

In Trinity, Church, Fort Wayne, Christmas passed very pleasantly, with the best music ever heard in the parish. The surpliced choir is regarded with great favor by the congregation generally, and is rendered more effective by the addition of a few lady voices.

Christ Church, Madison, reports a truly enjoyable Christmas, the Church handsomely decorated, the music unusually good, and the Sunday-school festival and distribution of gitts very happy.

St. John's, Lofayette, has a very similar report; and they are now looking forward to a semicentennial of the organization of the parish, March 27, 28, 29, 1887.

The Sunday-school of St. Paul's, Richmond, held their festival on the evening of St. John's Day. Each class came marching in with a bright new banner, and each child brought an offering for the Orphan's Home, at Richmond,

In St. James, Vincennes, the Christmas services were all of extraordinary interest. Thirty-four Communicants received at 6:30 A. M., and thirty-six at 10:30 A. M. The decorations were beautiful, and the music inspiring. On Sunday afternoon thirty children and adults were baptized, chiefly from the prosperous North Vincennes Mission. OUR SCHOOLS.

The Howe Grammar School opened its second session for 1887, with eighteen boys. There is room for twelve or filteen more. There are that many boys and more, some of Churchmen, sent to boarding-schools outside the State, where they have no better advantages, if as good as they have at Lima. We ask Churchmen of Indiana again to patronize home institutions, and to help their Bishop to build up good educational institutions within our cown horders.

It is intended in September next to open the boarding department of the Indianapolis Institute for Young Ladies. The Bishop would be glad to have the promise of twelve girls for that department. Farents contemplating sending their daughters to boarding-school-next year should write to Prof. James Lyon, principal of the Institute, for circulars, setting forth the advantages of our own home school for girls. Prof. and Mrs. Lyon are giving good satisfaction, and we hear nothing but praise of the school from the patrons and pupils.

NORTHERN CONVOCATION.

An unusually interesting session of the Convocation of the Northern Deanery was held at Plymouth Jan. 25th, 25th and 27th. There were present the Bishop of the Diocese, Dean Faude, Bector Kemp, and Rew Mesera Adams, Braddon, Miller, Rosevelt, Scott and Webb. The opening sermion on Tuesday evening was preached by Rev. S. Rosevelt; the sermon at communion, Wednesday morning, by Rev. Walter Scott. Rev. W. N. Webb presented a thoughtful paper Wednesday afternoon on Lay Readers, followed by an interesting discussion. On Wednesday vening Dean Faude fousion.

preached an instructive sermon on the life and character of St. Paul, and the Bishop made a brief discourse on the office of the Sunday-school, followed by a confirmation of a class of thirteen, whom the Bishop addressed. On Thursday morning Rev. J. G. Miller read an able paper on the Church teachings of Obedience, followed by discussion, and Rev. F. W. Adams preached a sermon. Rev. Mr. Braddon presented a paper in the afternoon on "Mission work in our District," and a stirring Missionary meeting was held in the evening. The congregations were large. The ladies gave a reception at the residence of Mr. G. S. Cleveland on Wednesday evening. The next Convocation was appointed at Lima, the last of April.

ENDOWMENT OF THE DIOCESE.

About one-third of the parishes and missions of the Diocese have pledged or agreed to furnish their full quota of the endowment fund. A good many other parishes have made considerable pledges by individuals. A very few have as yet done nothing; perhaps are waiting to see or hear what others have done. It will be accomplished when every Churchman resolves to do his own share towards it without waiting for others. No more fitting time to do this than the beginning of the new year. The Bishop will be glad to supply blank pledges to any who have them not. The fund has received its largest sum in December, a cash donation of $800 from Mr. James B. Howe, of Lima. Surely Mr. Howe is worthily representing his lamented and generous brother in the spirit which has moved him to do thus generously for this great and important interest of the Diocese. May many be moved to imitate his worthy example and the fiftieth anniversary of the Diocese will see the whole sum pledged, In addition to the noble gift of Mr. James

B. Howe of Lima, St. Paul's parish, Jeffersonville, has completed its entire subscription for the Endowment Fund, $800, and sent in the subscriptions the past month. Major Gould, of Vincennes, sent a check for $100 cash. Mrs. Merriwether, of Fort Wayne, a check for $60. Mrs. Charlotte Winn sent in a third installment from Crawfordaville, making $50 cash contributed by her the past year. Nearly the entire amount of the second coupons of the subscriptions are constantly coming in. The first of the year is a good time for all to make their subscriptions.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY.

The parish branch of St. Paul's Church, Indianapolis, sent a Christmas box to Rev. Jas Russell, Lawrenceville, Va., valued at $10.

The Diocesan Secretary received $30 from this branch for Diocesan Missions, and forwarded it to Treasurer of the Diocese, Jan. 17. One dollar annual dues is also acknowledged from parish branch of Holy Innocents, Indianapolis. Ten dollars was received from parish branch of Christ Church, Indianapolis, for African Medical Scholarship; and $3.50, individual subscriptions from same parish, and forwarded to Miss Emery, Jan. 6.

The Diocesan Secretary would be glad to hear from the parish branches throughout the Diocese of their work, that it may be published in the CHURCH WORKER. The following report comes from Fort Wayne:

Fifth Annual Report of the Woman's Auxiliary of Trinity Purish, Fort Wayne, Ind.

The whole number of meetings held during the year was thirteen; the number of names enrolled thirty-six—an increase of five over the preceding year; the stendance has been fair, during Lent there was a full attendance. The result of the Lenten meetings was a box sent to Colorado, valued at $76.45 The freight was $10.50; in addition to this box a cleral suit was ordered from New York, costing $21.60 making a total of $10.85.5 A Christmas box was sent to Minneseta, valued at $85.7 treight on same, $44.00 making total of $89.50.

The financial condition of the Association is quite encouraging. We began the year with a balance in the treasury of 25 cents, and ended with a balance of $17.15; money raised during the year amounted to $74.25.

During the extreme warm weather no meetings were held. Previous to adjournment for the summer the sum of $50 was pledged to Diocesan Missions, and our first efforts upon reassembling were directed to obtaining this amount.

CHRISTIAN UNITY.

If there be any one work greater than any or all others in the proceedings of the late General Convention, it is that which looks to the reunion of Christendom, the best result of which is embodied in the following Message (No. 36) from the House of Bishops to the House of Deputies, Wednesday, Oct. 20, 1886:

The committee to whom were referred sundry memorials addressed to the Bishops in Council, and to the House of Bishops, praying that some plan may be devised which, in a practical way, will promote the restoration of Christian unity, all which memorials emanated from certain of the clergy and of the laity same the full and earnest consideration which the gravity of the subject and the fervent prayer of the petitioners demanded. The conclusions of your committee are set forth in conclusions of your committee are set form in the following preamble and declarations: WHEREAS, In the year 1853, in response to a memorial signed by many Presbyters of this Church, praying that steps might be taken to heat the unbappy divisions of Christendom, and to more fully develop the catholic idea of the Church of Christ, the Bishops of this Church in Council assembled did appoint a Commission of Bishops empowered to confer with the several Christian bodies in our land who were desirous of promoting godly union and concord among all who loved the Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity and truth; and

WHEREAS, This Commission, in comform ity with the terms of its appointment, did formally set forth and advocate sundry sug-gestions and recommendations intended to accomplish the great end in view; and Whereas, In the year 1880, the Bishops of the American Church, assembled in Council, moved by the appeals from Christians in foreign countries who were struggling to free themselves from the usurpations of the Bishop of Rome, set forth a declaration to the effect that in virtue of the solidarity of the Catholic toat in virtue of the solidarity of the Catholic Episcopate in which we have part, it was the right and duty of the Episcopates of all national Churches holding the primitive faith and order, and of the several Bishops of the same, to protect in the holding of that faith and the recovering of that order those who have been wrongfully deprived of both, and have been wrongfully deprived of both, and this without demanding a rigid uniformity or the sacrifice of their national traditions of worship and discipline or of their rightful autonomy; and

WHEREAS, Many of the faithful in Christ Jesus among us are praying with renewed and increasing earnestness that some measures may be adopted at this time for the reunion of the sundered parts of Christendom :

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the action taken in 1858 for the healing of the divisions among Christians in our own land, and in 1880 for the protection and encouragement of those who had withdrawn from the Roman obedience, we, Bishops of the Protestant Epis-copal Church in the United States of America. in Council assembled as Bishops of the Church of God, do solemly declare to all whom it may concern, and especially to our fellow Christians of the different Communions in this than of the different Communious in this land, who, in their several spheres, have contended for the religion of Christ:

(1) Our earnest desire that the Saviour's prayer "that we all may be one" may, in its deepest and truest sense, be speedily fulfilled.

That we believe that all who have been duly baptized with water in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, are members of the Holy Catholic Church.

(3) That in all things of human ordering or human choice relating to modes of worship and discipline, or to traditional customs, this Church is ready in the spirit of love and humility to forego all preferences of her own.

(4). That this Church does not seek to absorb other Communions, but rather, co-operating with them on the common basis of a common Faith and Order, to discountenance schisms, to heal the wounds of the Body of Christ, and to promote the Charity which is the chief of Christian graces and the visible manifestation of Christ to the world.

But, furthermore, we do hereby affirm that the Christian unity now so earnestly desired by the memorialists can be restored only by the return of all Christian Communions to the principles of unity exemplified by the undi-vided Catholic Church during the first ages of its existence; which principles we believe to

of the Church, the former numbering about one thousand and the latter nearly two thouand Order committed by Christ and His of the Church, at home and abroad, and prosand, beg to report that they have given to the

As inherent parts of this sacred deposit, and, therefore, as essential to the restoration of unity among the divided branches of Christ endom, we account the following, to wit:

(I) The Holy Scriptures of the Old and

Testament as the Revealed Word of God. (II) The Nicene Creed as the sufficient statement of the Christian Faith. (III) The two Sacraments-Baptism and the Supper of the Lord, ministered with the unfailing use of Christ's words of institution and of the elements ordained by him.

(IV) The Historic Episcopate locally adapted in the methods of its administration to the varying needs of the nations and peo-ples called of God into the Unity of His Church.

Furthermore: Deeply grieved by the sad divisions which afflict the Christian Church in our own land, we hereby declare our desire and readiness, so soon as there shall be any authorized response to this declaration, to enter into brotherly conference with all or any Christian bodies seeking the restoration of the organic unity of the Church, with a view to he earnest study of the conditions under which so priceless a blessing might happily be brought to pass.

A PRAYER FOR CHRISTIAN UNITY. [From the "Vade Mecum.

O Gop, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, our only Saviour, the Prince of Peace, give us grace seriously to lay to heart the great dangers we are in by our unhappy divisions. Take away all hatred and prejudice and what ever else may hinder us from godly union and concord; that, as there is but one Body and one Spirit, and one hope of our calling; one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism, one God and Father of us all, so we may henceforth be all of one heart, and of one soul, united in one holy bond of truth and peace, of faith and charity, and may with one mind and one mouth glorify Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A COLLECT FOR CHRISTIAN UNITY. [From The Spirit of Missions.]

ALMIGHTY GOD, who didst send Thy only begotten Son into the world, that He might draw all men unto Him; Gather again, we beseech Thee, Thy scattered people into one communion and feilowship, that the world may believe that Thou hast sent Him, and Thy Kingdom come; through the same Thy Son, JESUS CHRIST, our LORD. Amen.

THE BISHOP'S LETTER.

DEAR CHILDREN: Lent is coming. Ash Wednesday will be February 28d, and Easter THE Day April 10th. Your Bishop's wish is that the children of this Diocese may keep Lent. Attend the services of the Church when it is possible. Read daily some portion of the Holy Bible. Be faithful in saying your prayers morning and evening. Be regular at the Rector, Sunday-school with good lessons. Devote less time to play that you may have more time to attend to religious duties. Lent is a time for self-denial for our dear Lord. For three years the Lenten offerings of the dear children of our Sunday-schools have been asked for Diocesan Missions, and the liberal response made by them encouraged the Bishop and members of the Diocesan Board. It has averaged $300 for each Lent and met the full stipend of a missionary. We shall ask your Lenten offerings, dear children, for the same object, the coming Lent, and we hope you will all do as well, if not better, and help the Church forward in your own beloved Diocese. Our need is greater than last year. so, dear children, resolve at the beginning of Lent that you will deny yourself in some way to aid this blessed work.

Praying God to bless you all and that you may have a hallowed season,

Your friend and Bishop, D. B.KNICKERBACKER.

LENT

We are now fairly entered upon the precious season of Lent. We learn from various sources of the efforts made by the faithful clergy to render it a profitable one for their people. May the people co-operate with them and derive great benefit from the privileges offered. May the whole spiritual tone of the Diocese and parishes and individuals be deepened and strengthened and the religious life of Churchmen in Indiana made a grand reality. It is a glorious thing to be the sons of God. Oh, may our life, the life of every individual Churchman, correspond with their relationship. May we show forth our Divine in the world.

AN APPEAL TO THE CHURCH WOMEN OF INDIANA.

Dear christian women, it is intended to open the boarding department of our Diocesan School for Girls, in September. It will require at least one thousand dollars to furnish the building properly. A christian school for girls, under the care of our own Church, concerns us all. There can be no more important work for the Church of Christ than this. The Bishop therefore appeals to the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese, the Ladies' Aid Societies and individual ladies for contributions for the furnishing of our Girl's School. Contributions of bedding and furniture, suitable, will also be acceptable. Send all offerings to the Bishop, 75 Circle street, Indianapolis.

DIOCESAN MISSION REPORTS.

From the reports of the following missionaries, the Churchmen of the Diocese can form an idea how faithfully they are discharging their duties, and what encouragement they have in their work :

Rt. Rev. and Dear Bishop:

I drop you a line to say that I spent yester-day with the little flock at Warsaw. In the morning we had service, sermon and celebration, followed by Sunday-school, which is increasing in numbers and interest. CANNELTON, IND., Dec. 30, 1886.

My Dear Bishop

I herewith report that during the past quarter I have continued services regularly at Cannelton, and have answered to calls of various kinds in the country back, and also in Hawesville and Cloverport for a service and a funeral. The attendance at services and also at Sunday-school in Cannelton is much as in the past. The progress of the school dur-ing the year has not been perfectly satisfactory, yet there is an improvement over the year previous. A roll of honor for the parish has been instituted and seven names were placed upon it at Christmas. Those having obtained 85 per cent, of the total number of marks for lessons, attendance and conduct during the year, and have attended morning service for 42 Sundays, are entitled to have their names placed upon the roll of honor.

The Christmas services were held at 8 and 10:30 A. M., and at 6:30 P. M., with quite good attendance, and quite satisfactory. The chancel was very nicely decorated in honor of the feetival, with illuminations and evergreens.

The offering was for the disabled and infirm clergy fund, and amounted to about $4. Young People's Guild also made an offering of $40 for parish purposes. Our Quarterly Diocesan offering was $2.75, and our Advent offering for General Missions was $2.

The Young People's Guild hold sociables at private houses every two weeks, and serve re-ireshments. They hope to be able to meet the insurance when due, and thus relieve the parish treasury of its payment.

The Ladies' Aid hold monthly meetings.

and have undertaken to supply the needed coal for the church for the winter. Thus the parish goes on in its usual way, doing a quiet work, and if not as full of zeal and active in the work of Christ, yet is not sleeping. Early in the New Year I hope to arrange for instruction for Confirmation, and arrange for instruction for Connimation, and to begin the preparation of any who may seek the spiritual gifts therein, that they may be prepared for your usual visitation.

Yours very respectfully,

EDWIN G. HUNTER.

GOSHEN, IND.

My Dear Bishop.

I have performed the usual number of services here during the three months ending January 1, 1887. Three services each Sunday, one every Friday, and on all holy days with Holy Eucharist. No baptisms, two marriages. Holy Eucharist. Next Sunday we expect to make an offering for Foreign Missions, and so on through the year, follow-ing out as near as possible each canonical rerement in regard to stated offerings.

Our Chapel is just completed, at an expense of $470. The young ladies of St. Agnes' Guild have raised sufficient money to furnish it with carpet and chairs. All work on the rectory is at a standstill for the present, but as soon as the weather moderates work will be resumed,

I have answered a call for service and Holy Communion from Warsaw, and in a way looked after the Church people of the several stations committed to my charge, but have accomplished nothing satisfactory.

Our usual Christmas services passed off with hearty good will and profit. The number at early communion was unusually large.

Our hearts were saddened by the death of
Mr. Tyler, who passed to his rest Sunday evening, December 26

THE INDIANAPOLIS MISSION.

The parishes of Indianapolis have been for nine days in the full enjoyment of the rare privilege of a Mission. There had been for more than a year in the hearts of both clergy and laity a growing and expressed desire for a and latty a growing and expressed desire for a season of special reviving and refreshing. The first germ of the matter which came to so perfect a ripening, seems to have been planted in the mind of the wife of one of the city rectors in the fail of 1884, who, on a va-city rectors in the fail of 1884, who, on a va-city rectors in the fail of 1884, who can all Saints Chapel, Newport of the second of the con-traction of the second of the second of the con-traction of the second of the second of the second chapel, Newport of the second of the stranger to her, she was told on inquiry that it was the Rev. Dr. F. Courtney of Boston. She immediately remarked that such a man was needmediately remarked that such a man was necu-ed to hold a Mission in Indianapolis. In August, 1886, Rev. Dr. E. A. Bradley had an inter-view with Dr. Courtney with direct reference to the desired Mission. Receiving encouragement, he made report to Bishop Knickerbacker, who at once entered into correspond ence with Dr. Courtney, and the affair was definitely agreed upon in time of convention at Chicago, and direction given into the hands at Chicago, and direction given into the hands of the Missioner. Preparatory meetings were held and special prayers offered during Advent and Epiphany. These were none too well attended, none too heartily entered into, which was interpreted to be a good exponent of the need of the Mission. The clergy and a few kept fowarding the movement with determin-February 5, on the morning of which day Dr. Courtney arrived from Boston.

After this preface we despair of making any adequate report of the Mission, or to signify in words a clear apprehension of the fact of the realization of its blessed effects. It is written, "All things work together for good to them that love God," of which words there was at this time a certain fulfillment. The Mission was carried forward on a basis of four distinct lines of thought and presentation of Gospel truth, each of which, separate from the other three, would have made the occasion memorable and marvelously helpful. Begin ming on Saturday evening with an address to "The Workers," from the passage, "Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord," the Missioner preached on Sunday morning to the congregation of Christ Church, in which, be-Court House at noon for the six week days, and the final one in St. Paul's Church, at 4 P. M. of Stunday, February 13. There are many men in the city who will remember these addresses with thankfulness for the received good. The universal conscience which men have of a God and of a hereafter, the access to God, "Our Heavenly Father," His love for all the sons of men, the nature and effect of all manner of sins, the fervent appeals to rise up to righteousness in purity of life and per-fectness of character; these discourses to all sorts and conditions of men were the body of the feast which the Mission furnished for hungry souls. Would that all men might speedily have the privilege and the willingness to hear such messsages of God to manly and heroic lives.

The morning services and discourses, including a daily celebration of the Holy Communion, were more particularly adapted to Church people already under vow and faithful. The theme was drawn from Eph. vi., 18 to 17. beginning Monday with the whole armour of God and continuing Tuesday with the girdle of truth; Wednesday, the breastplate of right-eousness: Thursday, the feet shod with the cousness: Inursagy, the feet shod with the preparedness of the Gospel of peace; Friday, the shield of faith, and Saturday, the helmet of salvation. An old warrior would have longed to fight his battles over again after such description of the use and fitness of the Christian's armor. The week-day 4 P. M. addresses, after evening prayer, were more specifically to various classes of people, though there was no exclusion nor lack of interest of any in the attendance and hearing. These six addresses, to full congregations, were in the order: to communicants, to Sunday-school teachers, to aged people, to mothers, to young people and to children. Each address was a rich volume of concentrated thought, with happy illustrations showing the diversified gifts and powers of the Missioner and his inimitable and acceptable manner in present-inimitable and acceptable manner in presenting whatsoever subject.

The full purpose of the Mission was carried out, of course, in a popular way at evening, by sermons delivered to congregations without respect of persons. Despite the drizzling, dark and changeful weather, the church was full to overflowing. The discourses were of remarkable excellence, setting forth continually the lowing Fatherhood and goodness of ually the loving Fatherhood and goodness of God toward his loving and trusting children and the conscience of the relations between the breathed into man's spirit and apprehended by the intellect, while exhortation was medieut by the intellect, while exhortation was made sincerely to engage in all Christian acts and exercises. Sunday evening, February 6, it was, "Devry one shall give an account of himself to God," and on the following Sunday, "The pure in heart shall see God." The sermons on forgiveness, prayer and sacrifice, were vividity new revealments of the true principles of devotion. Services on the second Sunday were all in St. Paul 6 Church, which is Sunday were all in St. Paul 6 Church, which is much more capacious, and yet was filled to the full, and happily the day was fair. The closing service was held in Christ Church on Monlng service was held in Christ Church on Mon-day evening, February 14, an occasion of praise and gratitude for the blessings of the Mission, with an exhortation to run "the race set before them." A little souvenir, "Memo-rial of Blessings," bearing the autograph of the Missioner, was handed by himself to each with a parting clasp of the hand. Only one voice of united thankfulness goes out from all who were so happy as to be present, of whatever Christian name or calling, and one voice of prayer lifted up that Dr. Courtney may be preserved and sent by the Lord to do good to many peoples. The immediate results of the Mission are not so visible as the remoter fruits assured. There was no excitement except such as is naturally incident to so intent, continuous and thoughtful service, but every one felt himself borne up by degrees of swift succession into an atmosphere that seemed at times to be other than that of earth. So far as the Missioner is concerned, he may add at least another thousand to the number of his friends who know that they have been blest of God through the ministration of His servant, and the revealed heaven is more attractive in the hope of meeting there such a sincere and self-sacrificing spirit as mani-festly is his own. The Bishop was in constant attendance after the first day, the four city rectors, two other ministers resident, four from the Diocese, three from Southern Ohio and one from Kentucky were present, with rapt interest and attention. The sermons and addresses of the Missioner were thirty-two in all, and on each occasion the word was with power.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS should remember during Lent to make offerings for Diocesan Missions.

OBITHARY

The members of the Woman's Auxiliary of Trinity Parish, Fort Wayne, Indiana, desire to place upon record an expression of the loss the Society, in common with the Church and community, has suffered in the death of Mrs. Adelia L. Bond.

On the anniversary of the death of one inexpressibly dear to us, the hand of the Lord is again laid upon us and we are called to part with another equally dear.

No formal resolutions can adequately express the sense of our irreparable loss, for it was no common tie that bound her to our hearts. We thank God that she lived, and that it was our privilege to know her, and therefore to love her. Closely interwoven, as she was, with all our plans, and accustomed, as we were, to depend upon her for our success. our souls cry out in sorrow at our bereaveour souls cry out in sorrow at our believe-ment, and almost refuse to be comforted. Yet "The loved—though wept—are never lost." She lives in the hearts of the many she has comforted in affliction, of the many—and God alone knows how many—she has helped in their need, and of all who knew her. To her Church she was faithful in season and out of season, a lover of her beauties, an obedient follower of her counsels, and in all things an unostentatious pattern to all within her fold.

This Society especially, of which she was one of the founders, and which, even to her last days upon earth, was present in her mind and dear to her heart, will always feel the influence of her devotion, sweetness and unselfish love; and the power of her example will go with us and help us in all our endeavors. Surely she rests from her labors and her works do follow her. The Master has called the noble worker home, but He has left the work with us. What more fitting tribute to her memory, and what more acceptable one to her, can we bring, than a determination that in addition to the work we are already doing, each of us shall strive to do something more

To the loved family of our dear friend we tender our deepest sympathy. Great as is our personal loss their's must be greater. To them she has been the true, the pure, the loving mother and friend, their strength in weakness, their gentle comforter in sorrow, the guide to their walk in life, and now their bright inheritance in the better home to which she has led the way. After the fulfilment of such a life, death is a blessing to the departed. May this thought hallow the sense of grief and loneliness, and may the peace of God which passeth all understanding be their stay and comfort.

Has not some one a be supplied by organic unity, and no doubt not desire and work for the accomplishment second-hand cabinet organ that they would many of the unchristian methods used in the attempt to preserve that unity had their origin in the conviction that organic disunity meant destruction or decay. But if the unity which our Saviour enjoined had then existed, organic disunity would not have ensued. And we may be sure that a union of hands would never have converted the world without a union of In fact, herein lies the difference (which should be carefully kept in mind in the discussion of this question) between union and unity. Union is of the head and hand; unity involves the heart.

The Divine command of unity is universally acknowledged by the Church. A sense sally acknowledged by the United. A sense of the necessity for its consummation and a hearty desire that it may be speedily brought to pass, seem equally universal. The question of the day, then, seems to be. What can be done to hasten this result? By what comromise or concession can it be brought about? And right here the ancient idea seems to be revived. Unity is regarded as the absence of clash rather than as the adhesion of parts, and the physical is substituted for the spiritualworld would be hastened thereby. While heartily favoring organic unity, I do not be-lieve that such would be its result. Unity is condition, not an agreement; a matter of development, not of compromise. An agreement or a compromise may be reached in an hour, but a condition can only be developed in God's own good time and in His own good way. Outward differences Outward differences may, by com-consent, be immediately laid aside, but internal unity can not be so assumed. It must be the work of time. The individual must be at unity with God before he can be at unity with his fellow men, and this involves heart can expedite the process. Paul may plant and Apollos may water, but God only can give the increase, and He will not give it plant and Apollos may water, but God only

And the common desire which draws Christians together, is what dis-tinguishes division in the Kingdom of God from division in the Kingdom of Satan. various bodies which compose the Kingdom of God on earth, however widely separated now, gravitate toward a common center and travel on converging lines. In the Kingdom of Satan repulsion is the rule. Breaches apof Satan repulsion is the rule. Breaches ap-pear only to widen. Disintegration and decay are conspicuous in every department. No influence exists to preserve or restore. Its cohorts resort to organic union with greater facility than do the children of the Church, but a confusion of purpose more deadly than the confusion of tongues dooms their efforts to short life and little effect. Satan is a wedge, and his cividing influence is most strikingly illustrated among his own followers.

How far any branch of the Church should andon its organization and methods for the sake of unity must depend upon the extent to which its conscience enters into its policy. It is sometimes a matter of principle to adhere to what we believe to be the highest policy. We may bid God-speed to the efforts of those whose methods we believe to be less wisely chosen than our own, but we can not adopt them without feeling that we are burying part of the talents which have been committed to our keeping. It is safe to say that sweeping changes would be of doubtful utility, if not actually dangerous. Better travel on converging paths leading to one common destinati than diverge from them at angles for the sake of traveling toward each other. RICHMOND, IND., Jan. 22, 1887

No. II.

HENRY THE RIGHTH NOT THE FOUNDER OF THE Ques. Was not old Henry the Eighth the

ly founded by this profligate monarch. There-fore, it will be well to look at the facts. When Augustine was sent as missionary of the Pope to bring the Anglican Church in subjec-tion to the Roman, about the close of the sixth century, he found the Church had been estab-lished there for centuries, substantially as it exists there to-day. It was presided over by various native Bishops, who did not know or recognize the Pope. During the centuries of the zealous self-sacrificing labors of Rev. J.

what is known as the "Errors of the Church' were forced on the English Church, and for many centuries the Catholic doctrines pre vailed; but not universally. In Wales the greater part of the people never yielded to Roman influence, and it was not till after the time of Wickleffe, who has been called "The Morning Star of the Reformation," in the fourteenth century, that heresy was punished by death.

The "Errors of the Church," which were engrafted by Rome, and afterwards reformed by-not under Henry, but under his son-Edward Sixth and Elizabeth, were: "that Priests should not marry, enforced confessional, sale of indulgences, worship of the Virgin and images, denial of the Bible to the people, service in Latin, withholding the cup, etc.

While the liberty-loving people chafed under the influence of Rome there seemed little means of relief, until 1213, the Barons, with their retainers, arose and forced King John at Runymede, to grant the great charter of liberty, known as "Magna Charta."

The first article reads as follows: "By this, our present charter, we have confirmed for us, and our heirs forever, that the English Church shall be free and shall have her whole rights and liberties inviolable."

The Pope soon issued his Bull of Excomnunication and forced the weak King to dis-regard this article. Twice, between this period and that of Henry (1530), the people forced their Monarchs to renew this article of their charter. But, on each occasion the power of the Pope and ecclesiastics held the power of the rope and ecclesiastics neid the Church in subjection to Rome.

Henry the Eighth is classed with those whom Pope described as "the greatest and the meanest of mankind." No English monarch has been his equal in intellect, force and courage. A personal and selfish demand, made by him and refused by the Pope, brought on the collision. Henry declared his independence; bade defiance to Rome, and placed himself at the head of the Roman Catholic Church of England

With him it was only a change of Popes. Henry, instead of Pope Julius Second. Col. R. W. Thompson, who is a Methodist, and conceded to be the best informed man in this country on these questions, in his book on "The Papacy and Civil Power" says, Chap.

"Henry the Eighth never was a protesiant, except so far as he resisted the papal encroachments upon the practical properties of the papal encroachments upon the practical properties of the protess of Eighth and Protess of Eighth and Protess of the Protess of Eighth and Protess of the Protess of Eighth and Ei

He burnt persons as heretics, simply because they did not believe the water to be the cause they did not believe the water to be the real body of Christ. He never intended to establish the Protestant Church, and to the last day of his life, fought it with sword and fagot.

He however, for another purpose, and for other ends, made England independent of the power of the Popes. And, after his death, his son and successor, Edward the Sixth, known as "The Boy King," in his short reign, established the English Church—by wiping out the "Brrors" or "Dogmas" of Rome. The Bible was put in the hands of the People. The Communion was given in both kinds. Priests were allowed to marry. Images were removed, Masses for the dead abolished. The forty-two Articles of Religion were adopted. The service was in English. And the "Book of Common Prayer" as now used, with unimportant alterations, was completed by Cramner Watches, Jewelry and Silverware, and adopted.

Col. Thompson in the book before quoted, says, in italics, page 505, "To Edward the Sixth justly belongs the honor of having been the first protestant King of England." His short reign was succeeded by that of "Bloody Mary." She burnt Cramner and his Book of "Common Prayer "as her father Henry would have done. But the Reformation had taken firm hold on people and the short and sanguinary reign of "Mary the Catholic," followed by the long, prosperous and tolerant reign of "Elizabeth the Protestant" gave us the English Church. It is hoped that no Churchman will ever let the statement, that Henry the Eighth was the father of our Church, go without contradiction. It is without foundation in truth. If the Church of England, as we know it, could have existed for a week, when Henry was King, he would have beheaded or burned every

SAYING PRAYERS.

- I often say my prayers; But do I ever pray And do the wishes of my heart
- Go with the words I say? I might as well kneel down
- And worship gods of stone As offer to the living God The prayers of words alone.
- For words without the heart The LORD will never hear Nor will He to that child attend

Whose prayers are not sincere. ADDRESS TO CHILDREN.

Rev. Dr. Courtney, the Missioner, made an address to children in Christ Church, Indianapolis, at 4 P. M., Saturday, February 12, the house being well filled with children of all ages. Many more would have been present if it had been known what a rare treat was in store for them. The Missioner asked many questions--chiefly about "the baby," which first after it is born, breathes, cries, and begins to grow. The baby, breathes, and eats, and sleeps, and continues growing. Dr. Courtney taught the children to say, I have a body I, have a mind, I am a spirit. Body, mind and spirit need food, and exercise, and rest. Breathing is the baby's exercise. The food for INDIANAPOLIS INSTITUTE either the body, the mind or the spirit, should be good food. The "food" for the spirit is the Word of God; the "exercise" for the spirit Rt. Rev. D. B. Knickerbacker, D. D., Visitor is to do the Word of God; the "rest" for the spirit-the Doctor did not say what that is. He did say that every child should go to Church to worship God, whether he goes to a Sunday-school or not. How many children go to Church every Sunday morning? Perhaps that is the "rest" for the spirit.

The Missioner recited the little poem that is printed above, which he learned when he was a child, and which the editor wrote down for the CHURCH WORKER. We think it is as good for American children as it is for English children.

EASTER JOY.

the cross will have soon again been traveled reach it. Some Churchmen in Indiana are

RASTER COMMUNION.

Let every communicant avail himself if possible of the privilege of the Holy Sacrament on Easter Day. This is one of the great days of obligation, when every Churchman is expected to renew his allegiance to his risen Saviour at the holy altar. Churchmen living distant from the privileges of the Church should try and arrange on this day, if practicable, to be at Church, even though some sacrifice is required to accomplish it. Let those who are not able to arrange to be at Church read over in their homes the Easter service of their Prayer Books, and realize thereby the Communion of Saints. If any Churchman remote from Church services, and living in towns which the Church has not reached, will communicate with the Bishop, he will try and arrange occasional services for them.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.

Do Churchmen of Indiana realize what opportunities are opening for the extension of the Church within our borders? We fear not. and yet they should have some appreciation standard set for our missionary offerings is an more missionaries in the field. We have falits closer communion with the Saviour, its They are beginning to realize that our wealth them up to the importance of each one doing

It will be thankfully acknowledged.

CHURCH EXTENSION.

Reports of Diocesan Items will indicate how nobly some of the rectors of our Churches are engaging in outside mission work in towns adjacent to their cures. Oh, that more of them would seek to engage in it. There is such glorious opportunity and the results are so encouraging. It does these lonely Churchmen, who have lived so many long years without the services of their Church, so much good. They are so thankful for these visitations. Those who engage in them assure the Bishop that they are often a happy relief from parochial cares and vexations, and add no burdens to their work.

ENDOWMENT OF THE DIOCESE.

Easter tide will be a good time for the Churchmen in all our parishes and missions to fill out their pledges for the Endowment Fund of the Diocese and send them to the Bishop. The fund of $60,000 will be raised, but it can only be accomplished by every Churchman assuming his own share in the of it by the monthly reports spread before fund. It is too important a matter for any them in the columns of the WORKER. The one to shirk or give it the go-by. The Convention has imposed upon the Bishop the task average of one dollar per communicant per of raising it. It expects him to do it, and he annum, two cents per week. The Diocese celebrates its Jubilee at the Convention in June. What a glorious Jubilee it will be if the Bishop can report to the Convention that the Churchmen of Indiana have come forward nobly in this matter, and pledg ed a sum that will lift a great burden from all our parishes and missions, and place the Diocese on a solid foundation. Churchmen of Indiana, rise in your strength and come forward at once. Relieve your Bishop from the necessity of going from house to house in all our parishes, asking Churchmen to subscribe to this fund. Let it be a voluntary, generous offering on your part. Let it be done cheer fully, thankfully, generously.

THE BISHOP'S VISITATIONS.

The Bishop's visitation to a parish or mission should always be made an important occasion. It should always bring a benediction -a real blessing in encouraging the clergyman, and stimulating every parish interest. If there are any sick and aged ones who can not attend the services or call to see him, the Bishop will always be glad to call upon them. He is always glad to meet the vestries or societies at these visitations when they wish to confer with him; or to meet the people socially as may be arranged. Wardens and vestrymen should always try to take time to call upon the Bishop when he visits a parish simply out of respect for his office, if for no other reason. The Bishop visits the Churches twice a year The offerings are usually for a Diocesan purpose, either Diocesan Missions or Church Building Fund; they should be by their liberality a generous expression of the love of the people for their Diocese and the great work of Church extension. They should represent the ability and well-to-do character of Churchmen The wealthy Churchmen of the Diocese should give intelligently, and with some appreciation of the importance of giving according to their ability. This point for some reason or other has not yet been attained. It seems sometimes as if the congregations have been reserving their dimes and nickels for the Bishop's visit. It is not unusual to receive from some of our large congregations, when from two to three hundred people are present, an offering of from $15 to $20. This would not be the case if people would pause and reflect a little. We should occasionally find a $5 note in the basins, and dollars and half dollars would not be so scarce as they sometimes are. We plead for improvement in this respect.

INDIANAPOLIS INSTITUTE.

The Bishop has presented the school with a piano the past month, bought of Baldwin & Co., and saving $5 a month to the school for rent of an instrument. It is to be hoped that a generous response will be made by the Churchwomen of Indiana to the appeal of the Bishop for a furnishing fund for the boarding department of the Institute. No better Church department of the means for a Church minister, taking the service.

HOWE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

On Washington's birthday Mrs. Howe presented the school with a new flag, that was raised on the gymnasium. She has also pre sented the school with a new piano, so that those of the boys who desire can take lessons. Three new boys have entered since Christmas. A new teacher of German and English branches has been secured. One of the students is to study for the ministry. An application for entrance to the school has come from Pekin, them. China, from the American minister there, Col. Denby, indicating the good reputation of the school abroad.

BISHOP AND DIOCESE.

Even in the hard field of Indiana, where so many Church people have been merged into the sects for want of missions established at an earlier day, Bishop Knickerbacker's self denying labors are beginning to show visible He visits Sunday-schools, catechises the children, calls on communicants where there is no Church, preaches and baptizes in any place he can get, and stays with a missionary long enough to know him.—The sionary long Church Eclectic.

BISHOP'S VISITATIONS

On Quinquagesima Sunday, February 20 the Bishop visited New Albany and preamorning and evening and addressed the Sun-day-school. Judge Bicknell, the lay reader, said the service. The Bishop celebrated Holy said the service. The Bishop celebrated Holy Communion at the morning service and baptized an infant and confirmed four persons and addressed them. Judge Bicknell has read service and a sermon every Sunday with a good attendance. Mr. Marshall is superintendent of Sunday-schools with a good corps of teachers-among them these veterans, Drs. Hoover and Newland. The vestry are striv-ing diligently to secure a rector and expect to have one by Easter.

At 3 P. M. the Bishop visited St. Paul's,

Jeffersonville, and preached, the rector taking the service. The Church has been much improved with dossal altar cross and elegantalms basins. There is to be daily service during Lent.

The Bishop visited Christ Church, Madison, on Monday, February 21. The ladies held a pleasant reception and tea in the afternoon, at which the Bishop had the pleasure of meeting many of the parishioners. In the evening the Church was crowded, many having to stand. when the Bishop preached and confirmed an interesting class of twenty (seven being young men) and addressed them. After service the Bishop met the class in the rectory. The Disnop met the class in the rectory. The Church property has been greatly improved the past year, Church, Chapel and rectory having been re-shingled and painted. All is in most excellent order. The Bishop, after Evening Prayer, received six children to the Roll of Honor and addressed them.

February 25th, first Friday in Lent, the Bishop visited Grace Church, Muncie. The pretty church was well filled at 7:30 p. m. Evening prayer was said by the rector Mr. Collison, and after sermon by the Bishop, a class of seven was presented by the rector for confirmation, and addressed by the Bishop. The parish are lamenting that their rector has felt it his duty, under the urgency of friends, to return to London to accept the chaplaincy of a large hospital. Mr. Collison has rendered acceptable service during his brief ministry, and all will part from him with regret. In conference with the vestry after service on nomination of the Bishop, the vestry called a successor to Mr. Collison, and it is hoped there will be no long interregnum.

couraging news from these brethren of their different fields of work. Returning in the evening to Goshen, we were the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Latta.

First Sunday in Lent, February 27th, the morning service was held in St. James, with sermon by the Bishop and celebration of Holy Communion. Though a severe blizzard was prevailing, the attendance was large, a good number being present at Holy Communion. After the service the Bishop cate-chised and addressed the flourishing Sundaycnised and addressed the flourishing Sunday-school. There is evidently a deepening of the spiritual life in this parish that is very pleasant to observe. The neat and coey rec-tory is drawing to completion and will soon be ready for occupancy. The completed chapel makes a very convenient place for Sulid and weak day services. The service has Guild and week-day services. The parish has now everything needed for effective work. They have only $150 to secure also to complete their endowment subscription. This will be forthcoming before Convention.

St. John's, Elkhart.—It was found neces-sary to drive over to Elkhart for evening service, the train on which we expected to go, being two and one-half hours late, would not being two and one-mai nours rate, wound now reach there in time. Mr. Rosevelt accom-panied us. Though the evening was disa-greeable, the people could not all get into the church. We had never seen St. John's so crowded. Mr. Rosevelt said evening prayer, the Bishop preached and the rector had the pleasure of presenting an interesting class of twenty persons for confirmation. Mr. Adams' brief ministry has been greatly blessed, and gives promise of good work in the future The parish was never working more heartily and hopefully than at present, and its rector has great reason to thank God and take courage. A rectory is greatly needed in this par-ish. They have a desirable lot adjoining the Church, and it is much to be desired that all forces be united and a strong effort made to secure it. The Bishop, during his stay at Elkhart, was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Jones. Monday, February 28th, in order to reach Albion, the county seat of Noble county. we were obliged to take a train at an early hour and then wait at Milford Junction sev eral hours. For this wait we were prepared with reading matter and a tempting lunch we passed through Goshen. Arriving at Abion, we were met by Mr. Nichols, whose guest we were to be, and at his house we met Mr. Jephson, the new incursion of the met Mr. Jephson of the Mr. Jephson of put up by Mrs. Dr. Latta and handed to us as uel Mission, Garrett, who had kindly come over to assist in the service. In the afternoon we were able to call on all the church people, a half-dozen families, and nine communicants. In the evening at 7 o'clock, service was held In the evening at 7 o'clock, service was held in the Presbyterian Church, which was crowded to its full seating capacity, fully two hundred being present. After service said by Mr. Jophson, the Bishop presched to an attentive and appearently deeply interested congregation. After service the friends of the Church were invited to meet the Bishop at Mr. Nichol's, where, after a conference, St. Matthias Mission was orgunized, Mr. Russell being appointed Warden, Mr. Molen and Mr. Matthews Vestrymen, Mr. Nichols Secretary, and Mrs. Nichols Treasurer. A Ladies' Guild was organized, Mrs. Russell being chosen President, Mrs. Kingsbury Secretary, and Mrs. Nichols Treasurer. Arrangements were made to rent a place for service, and Mr. Jephson was placed in charge of the Mission, agreeing to supply them with a service every fortnight. Subscriptions were made to meet expenses, the Bishop promising a supply of prayer books and hymnals. Albion has a population of 1,200 and is growing. The next morning at 10 o'clock seven of the communicants gathered at Mr Nichols', where the Bishop celebrated Holy Communion and made a brief address.

EMMANUEL MISSION, GARRETT.-For the first time in nearly two years the Bishop visited Garrett. He had not had the courage to go, the accounts which had come to him of the desolation and desecration of the beautiful Church building had taken away all desire to visit the place until he could secure a missionary who might restore it and resume services. Fortunately, January 18th he secured the services of a missionary, Mr. Jephson, who has been able to command the confidence of the people, and to inspire their enthusiasm in be half of the Church, and the building that had the appearance of a ruin has, at a cost of $125 been restored to a respectable condition-the inside calsomined and varnished, the floor carpeted and beautiful altar vestments se cured. In every way it was quite restored for its sacred uses and, what is better, is filled every Sunday by an enthusiastic worshiping congregation, and a Sunday-school of fity children has been gathered. The Bishop was met on his arrival by a company of six prom-inent citizens, with whom he dined at the hotel, and who expressed great satisfaction in having the services of the Church once more established under such encouraging auspices. They spoke very commendably of the zeal and devotion of their missionary, who had already gained the confidence of the commun-At 4 p. m. in the Church the Bishop met the children, catechised and addressed them. At 7 p. m. the Church was filled, the service said and the Bishop preached, and after service thanked the ladies of the congregation for their zeal and devotion in restoring the Church and pledging $25 a month for stipend of the missionary. After service the Bishop was tendered a reception in the Rink, fully three hundred people being present, a band of music adding zest to the occasion. After an address of welcome to the Bishop, he responded warmly, thanking the citizens for their kindness in tendering this reception, and for their interest in behalf of the Church. which the Bishop hoped would prove a great blessing to all the community. He thanked the large number of railroad employees pres ent for the interest they had shown in the Church restoration. After this there was music by the band and refreshments distributed to the crowd by the good ladies of the mission, and a generous collection made to-ward repairs. The mission has just purchased a new organ. The rector has a large congregation in preparation for confirmation in April. Altogether the outlook for Emmanuel Mission is a most hopeful one.

Auburn, county seat of DeKalb county, five miles from Garrett, is under the care of the missionary at Garrett, and every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock service is held in the German Methodist Church. So far, it is filled every Sunday. The collections meet the expenses of the visits. It is hoped a mission may be organized here, and a good work for the Church he accomplished. The Richer the Church be accomplished. The Bishop visited Auburn on Wednesday evening, March 2d, and after calling on all the Church people an interesting service was held in the evening, a large congregation being present. We have about eight or ten communicants here

March 4th, visited St. John's, Greencastle, for the third time this year, the rector having written me he had another class prepared for confirmation. The beautiful church filled, and after evening service by the rector, I preached, confirmed a class of eight and addressed them, making thirty-one confirmed within the past four months. The offering was for the General Board of Missions. The missionary receives his stipend from the General Board.

A large double store room had been fitted up as a Chapel and rented for a year. A suitable chancel is secured by boarding off robing room and wood room on sither and chaince is secured by boarding off robing room and wood room on either side. This is carpeted and furnished with an altar, donated by Trinity Church, Peru. A lecturn from St. James, Gosben, and prayer desk from Grace Church, Lashyette. The mission has a surplice and altar linen, donated by the All Saints Sisters of Philadelphia, and a communion service presented by Miss Lizzie Yarnell, of St. Mary's Church, West Philadelphia.

They have an organ, purchased by the ladies of the mission, and prayer books and hymnals from the New York Bible and Prayer Book Society, Mr. James Pott, agent. The aisles are carpeted and sittings for two hundred persons provided. It was very encouraging to see the progress made in this, one of the first missions organized by the Bishop after his advent to the Diocese. In another year we hope to see a pretty stone church under way. Too much praise can not be given to the little band of devoted women who have labored and prayed and given for the success of this work. A Sunday-school has been or-ganized and already numbers thirty children, under the superintendence of Mr. Fred Wilson a graduate of Racine College, who also acts as Warden of the mission in place of Mr. Foster, removed. The Bishop put in two busy days calling on all the members of the mission, celebrating Holy Communion, beptizing six children and two adults, preaching four times, making four addresses and three instructions, and confirming eight persons. Altogether he held seven services and made twelve calls. This mission must now have twenty-five communicants. Among those confirmed were with their wives, and two other heads of families. This mission has already paid in $125. of its endowment capital, leaving only $75 to be secured, and has contributed liberally to Diocesan Missi ns. There is a good future for the Church in Marion. At both evening services the chapel was full, one hundred and fifty persons or more being present, with most of the ministers of the town.

THE Goshen Times says Rev. S. Rosevelt re-ceived an urgent call from Nebraska, which he declined, and the Newssays he is domiciled in the new and handsome rectory adjoining St. James' Church.

The Laura Franklin Free Hospital for children was formally opened recently in New York. It was erected at the sole cost of Mr. Delano, in memory of a niece, and is to be in charge of the Sisters of St. Mary. It has cost $300,000.

BARKER HALL, Michigan City, is one of the best appointed educational institutions to be found. Dean Faude, Rev. Mr. Llwyd, Miss Martin and Miss French are an excellent corps of teachers. Nearly a score of boarding pupils have been "declined" for want of accommodations

A PRACTICAL Question Book on the Bible for Juvenile Scholars, by Miss L. L. Robiuson. is published by The Young Churchman Company, Milwaukee; price, 6 cents. It appears to be a book that can be used with much profit to classes of ten to twelve years of age for a one year's study.

FIFTY THOUSAND COPIES of the elegant Easter number of The Young Churchman have been issued for Sunday-school supply. It is been issued to Sultuay-school supply. It is handsomely printed in two colors, with a full first page illustration. ONE CENT each, in any number. Address, The Young Churchman Co., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

A DEVOTED CHURCHWOMAN in Northern Indiana writes: I do believe that the people who stick to Indiana's flinty soil will have a reward suck to indiana's finity soil will have a reward which will make the one that crowns any or-dinary field of labor pale. I don't think heathen ignorance and superstition can be more discouraging than this terrible indiffer-ence. But it is God's cause, and our Bishop is a tower of strength, and we will just work along and not worry about results.

A YOUTHFUL LETTER from a parish in the A YOUTHFUL LETTER from a parish in the Diocese in Ohio contains the following: "The Bishop is going to be here soon, so our rector said this morning. The congregation here are very peculiar. Some Sundays the Church will be crowded, and the next Sunday there will be crowded, and will be only a few; but it is quite a large and wealthy parish." Sic est alia! Verily! Verily!

HYMNS AND TUNES for the Children of the Church, compiled and edited by James War-rington, is a new Sunday school book pub-lished by John R. Rue, jr., Philadelphis, Pa. It is neatly and clearly printed in black note music. Some of the old favorites are found in good form and many entirely new hymns and tunes. The proof of these latter must be determined in the using. The brief devotional portion is too much of a peniten-tial order, rather than of the cheerful. Responsive readings are not provided, neither an every-time rehearsal of the Greed. Every new essay in this direction tends to make us more contented with the Prayer Book and the Hymnal common to all, although additional music of a right and bright character is desirable.

OUR thanks are due to Mrs. Sarah Simpson, of Oldham, England, for a copy of the Oldham Church Almanack

MR. E. D. RICHARDSON, the venerable Senior Warden of the Church of the Holy Communion, Lake Geneva, Wis., has a copy of the first number of the Gospel Messenger, published in Auburn, N. Y., sixty years ago. Mr. Rich-ardson was born in Cooperstown, N. Y., and was well acquainted with Bishop De Lancey, who married a sister of James Fenimore Cooper.

THE NAME of "Kenyon Grammar School," Gambier, O., has been changed to "Kenyon Military Academy." The school is more than full and thoroughly successful.

THE BISHOP'S VISITATIONS.

Thursday, March 10th, left Marion at 7:80 a.m. for Huntington, to visit Christ Church Mission. Rev. Mr. Burk has been very faithful in giving two week-day services a month to the mission, not without fruit. At this visit he had two adults prepared for Holy Baptism. The members of the mission gathreed at Mrs. Clayton's at 3:30 p. m., and the missionary presented the two candidates to the Bishop for baptism; and the Bishop made an address to the little band, thanking them for their interest and steadfastness in the work of the mission, and encouraging them to continue faithful. In the evening after service in the Presbyterian Church said by Mr. Burk, the Bishop preached to a large congregation; three persons were presented for confirmation. The Holy Communion was administered, and seven of the twelve comauministered, and seven of the twelve com-municants received. The ladies have about $80 on hand towards a Church fund, the fruit of their labors. Dr. Irwin, of Fort Wayne, has read service and sermon for them recently on a Sunday, much to their edification. In good a sunday, much to their edincation. In good time we may hope to make a permanent lodgment in Huntington for the Church. The Bishop was hospitably entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Clayton in their lovely new home.

At Trinity, Peru, the services of the Church have been quietly and faithfully continued by the rector, Mr. Burk. No striking advance has been made. A few Church people have moved in to take the places of those removing. A band of faithful women are working hard for the Church's welfare. The vestry attend faithfully to their financial obligations. At the service in the evening of Friday, and seemed deeply interested. The Bisson and seemed deeply interested. All remittances, business matter and general communics tions should be addressed to the Editor, Rev. W. W. Rav. mond, 175 Cedar St., Indianapolis, Ind.

WORK OF REV. MR. MANN.

Our missionary to the deaf inutes of Indiana, on a second visit to Indianapolis, baptized three of the pupils of the state school for deaf mutes, and two sisters living about a mile from the school. At Goshen he had a service for the mutes in March and a mixed service in the church, and baptized an adult. At Evansville, also, he has candidates preparing for confirmation. No one of our missionaries is doing more faithful work and reaching a larger number of souls than Brother Mann. On a recent visit to Indianapolis he presented five mutes for confirmation in Christ Church, where his services are usually held.

BRISTOL.-The missionary writes that his people are attending the Lenten services and that the young people of the parish are manifesting good interest in the Sunday school. Steps are being taken to raise their quota of the endowment fund in time for the semicentennial celebration of diocesan organization. It will be a great step gained for this parish.

BLOOMINGTON .- Rev. Mr. Talbot is encouraged by increasing interest and attendance at this mission. The wife of one of the professors of the university is aiding in the music effectively, and two of the professors are constant attendants, and some of the students Members of the mission are much encouraged with the outlook.

BLUFFTON,-On a Wednesday evening in February Rev. Mr. Webbe, of Fort Wayne, held service in Bluffton at the Bishop's request. It was a disagreeable night, but he had a pleasant service. A very nice company of people were present, who joined heartily in the service and seemed to enjoy it. The day following he went to Pinito, spent the afternoon making calls with Mr. King, a churchman residing there. Had a rehearsal of the music at the church at 4 p. m. When you come again the building won't hold them." One old gentleman thought the Bible I read from wasn t the same light in the Baptist church, who had kindly furnished the Bible for the occasion. There is no church or congregation between Fort Wayne and Muncie. I think there is plenty of work for a live man along the road between those points.

CRAWFORDSVILLE.-Rev. Mr. Jenner has brought his family from Iowa and is now fully settled in charge of this parish and of St. field of work and has entered upon it with zeal and determination to do all in his power to promote the growth of the church in the ingathering at that time. field committed to his charge. THE WORKER is glad to welcome him as a co-worker in the Diocese of Indiana.

DELPHI.-Rev. Mr. Braddon has resigned the rectorship of St. Mary's Church, to take effect April 14. He has served the parish faithfully, greatly improving the church property and largely adding to the communion by confirmation. He hopes to go east for settlement. His departure will be greatly regretted.

ELKHART.-The rector writes they are hav ing a blessed Lent. He is making it almost a continued mission. Holy Communion weekon new life and strength. Already the rector last of April to confirm another class. A church at Easter. parochial Sisterhood of St. Mary has been organized by the rector to aid him in looking up the neglected classes by visitation from house to house and inviting the people to the House of God. It is already bringing forth fruit. Oh, may all our parishes be thus revived in this holy season, and the Church's children go torth conquering and to conquer.

EVANSVILLE.-We learn that the attendance upon the Lenten services are larger than ever before in the history of the parish. Dr. Vibbert, of Chicago, made a brief visit recently, and very much admired the beautiful in Chicago. The rector has invited Judge Prince to make a visit to his parish in behalf of the General Church Building Fund.

LENT IN INDIANAPOLIS.

All the parishes here have felt the good effects of the mission of Dr. Courtney in the increased attendance at the Lenten services, and the larger attendance at the regular Sun-John's, Rockville. Mr. Jenner finds a good day services and Holy Communion. A good number in each parish are also preparing for confirmation at Easter. We look for a large

Grace Church has been greatly improved by the extension of the chancel platform and the papering of the walls, taking away the gloomy appearance, rendering it light and cheerful. The congregation deserve great praise for their ready co-operation with their pastor, Mr. Swan, in accomplishing this important improvement. Some new altar brasses are to be presented at Easter. The congregations at Grace are steadily increasing and the pastor is winning the hearts of his people.

CHRIST CHURCH.-Dr. Bradley gives a brief ly; frequent evening services with sermon address at each daily service in Lent on some and good attendance. The parish is putting aspect of the Christian life. The congregations are good. We hear the ladies are to asks from the Bishop a second visitation the furnish a new carpet and cushions for the St. Phillips Colored Mission, begun last September by Mrs. R. H. Hall and others, has gone quietly on gathering a good number of children in its Sunday-school and adults in attendance upon its services. It has demonstrated the good work open to such a mission among the large colored population of the church, saying it was prettier than anything city. The Church in Indianapolis should come to the relief of the mission and furnish it a suitable abiding place. As it is now, the rent of the mission hall and organ costs $225 per annum. This would soon build a suitable chapel. The effort will be made by the friends of the mission to raise $1,000 from churchmen in Indianapolis to erect a chapel this spring, Let every one aid it who can. This sum should be cheerfully given for this important work. The Bishop heartily commends it. and so do the rectors.

MISHAWAKA -The Lenten services are well attended. The congregation is intending to make an effort at Easter to pay over their full quota of endowment and then turn their attention to a building fund for a new church.

The Young Ladies' Altar Guild of St. Paul's parish has furnished the church with a beautiful violet set of hangings for the Lenten season, consisting of frontal and super-frontal for the altar, and antependia for the lecturns. the credence and the prayer desk. This nearly completes the sequence of colors for the seasons, and the effect is rich, graceful and conducive to reverence. The young ladies are worthy of the highest commendation for their zeal and devotion.

MOUNT VERNON.-Thursday, March 10th, Mr. Cole was at Mount Vernon and held service in the Christian church. Had a congregation of eighty-five, and found the few faithful ones very anxious to have regular services. I left another appointment for April.

All the money was raised and the work done by the members of the Guild, for which they deserve great credit. Funds are also on hand with which to get material for a white set to be ready by Easter.

There was a good attendance at the Ash Wednesday service. Daily service is held through Lent; Wednesdays and Fridays at 7:30 p. m., other days at 4 p. m., and at each service a lecture or sermon will be delivered by the rector; on each Sunday there is an early celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 a. m., except first Sunday in the month.

Mr. Cole visited Petersburgh in connection with Washington in March.

WILLOW BRANCH .- The Rev. Willis D. Engle held service for the first time at this point, which is a town of about one hundred and fifty inhabitants five miles west of Wil-kinson, on the I., B. & W. R. R., as yet with out any church accommodations, on the evening of March 23.

These prayers are to be used earnestly for blessings on the brotherhood, and for the strengthening of the members.

I. O, Heavenly Father, bless every member of our brotherhood. Inspire our faith and love with Thy Holy Spirit, that we may earnestly work to bring men to their Saviour in His Church, and so fulfill in our lives what we profess with our lips, to Thy honor and glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

II. I confess to Thee, my gracious God, my weakness in my fear of what men will say and think of me. Help me to care more for what will please Thee. Make me stronger by Thy Holy Spirit, to do my duty in speaking to my fellow men, and give me wisdom to speak as I ought to speak. Make me an in-strument for the good of Thy Church, for Jesus Christ's sake. Amen

LAY READERS' REPORTS.

The following reports will indicate in some degree the work being done by the faithful band of lay readers and preachers in Indiana. The Bishop desires to have reports from all before their licenses can be renewed.

Rev. Mr. Spalding sends the report of Mr.

James Beamish for Lagrange.

With one or two exceptions on account of sickness, he has held service every Sunday. A Sunday-school has been established of about twenty scholars and four teachers. The gitts of the congregation, ranging from twenty to thirty-five people, have not been more than enough to defray expense of fuel and lights and to provide some necessary Sunday-school books of instruction. Beside Sunday service, the lay reader has spent at the mission every second Saturday for visiting, etc. I have been obliged to manage Lagrange almost wholly by the lay reader. It is hoped in time I may have clerical assistance, which will make the missionary work more effective. Mr. T. W. Edmunds, of St. Paul's, Richmond, reports: During the rector's absence in the summer, at his request I undertook to conduct a morning service for the four Sundays, reading a sermon. At the request of members I conducted a sunset service also, making two services a day for the four Sundays, and they were well attended, and quite a number of the members who attend to worship God and not man, very warmly thanked Muncie, Ind., Jan. 12, 1887.

My Dear Bishop: During the past year as lay reader, I have read services several times for St. James' Mission, New Castle. In my own parish Church, during the vacancy in the rectorate, I read service from the middle of May until August 1st, every Sunday. Was absent during the months of August and September and on my return again read service until the coming of our rector in November. In July, at the Deaf Mute Convention held in the Delaware county fair grounds in this city, I read service for the Rev. A. W. Mann.

Very respectfully yours, EDWARD OLCOTT.

TERRE HAUTE, IND., Jan. 18, 1887. My Dear Bishop: The following is my re-port as lay reader of St. Stephen's parish, for the year 1886:

Held Sunday-school and Evening Prayer at St. Matthew's Mission till the end of May; as-sisted in the services at St. Stephen's Church once; officiated at a funeral in July; from June till the present time have held Sunday-school and Evening Prayer at St. Luke's Mis-

St. Luke's Sunday-school is prospering. I an very glad that we have a rector once more, and especially one who gives so much satisfaction. I am willing to do anything in my power to assist the Rector.

Very respectfully yours, George Longman.

NEW ALBANY, IND. My Dear Bishop: While Mr. Scott was Rector of St. Paul's, New Albany, I read the services, and a sermon several times when he was absent. He left us about Nov. 1, 1886, and since then I have read the services and a sermon every Sunday, except one, when it was so cold that I read the services only, omitting the sermon. I also read the services and a sermon on Thanksgiving day. On Christmas a clergyman from Louisville was here. Respectfully submitted, George A. Bicknell.

EVANSVILLE, IND., Jan. 15, 1887. My Dear Bishop: I have held service on several occasions in the absence of Rev. L. F Cole, and have assisted in the Sunday-school,

Indianapolis, Ind , Jan. 25, 1887. My Dear Bishop: My work as lay reader and catechist during the past year may be summed up as follows: Services held in St. George's Chapel, Sundays and Thursdays, about eighteen times; services held in Christ Church, Sundays and week days, three times; Morning service at Grace Church, once; Sundays at New Castle, twice. Total, twenty-four.

While it may be the privilege of a layman to exercise his inherent powers as a member January 1st, 1887.

My Dear Bishep: As lay reader in the Church of Holy Innocents in the past year. I authority, of the Church, through a liense from my Bishop, and under the direction of my Rector. It is, doubtless, better to be sent than to go without the sending. The Word of God has been sown in weakness, but I trust there will be a greater yield of wheat than of tares. Respectfully submitted, ISAAC H. KIERSTED, Catechist.

TO THE CHILDREN.

Dear Children: How many of you read the CHURCH WORKER and are interested in hearing monthly from your Bishop? We hope a large number. Lent is drawing to a close. Your Bishop trusts you have been keeping it in such a way as to gain great good; that you have read your bibles daily, and been particular about saying your private prayers and going to Church and Sunday-school regularly; that you have each of you been practising some self-denial in order to give something to the missionary fund. We shall look out anxiously to the report of the Diocesan treasurer to learn what the Sunday-school offerings during Lent have amounted to. We need more than ever your generous help in this mission work, and we do hope you will not be weary in well doing in its behalf. Will all rectors let the Bishop know at Easter what the Sunday-school offerings have amounted to? Dear children may you have a bright, happy Easter, and may God bless you all.

Your friend and Bishop, D. B. KNICKERBACKER.

DIOCESAN CONVENTION.

On examining the records it is found that the meeting of the Convention in June is not our semi-centennial Convention as was supposed last year. That event will not occur until next year. The preliminary meeting for the organization of our Diocese took place in June 1838, and the actual organization was accomplished in August, 1838. This event, then, will be duly celebrated next year. Nevertheless we hope we shall have a full representation of all our clergy and parishes at the meeting on the 7th of June, in Grace Church, this city. The order of proceeding will be about as follows: The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will take place in Grace Church on Tuesday morning, June 7, at 10:30 o'clock, with sermon by Rev. Louis S. Osborne, Trinity Church, Chicago, and celebration of Holy Communion by the Bishop. It is hoped there may be a full attendance of the clergy, and a representation from all branches of the Woman's Auxiliary and Churchwomen interested in parish work. After morning service there will be a lunch provided by the Woman's Auxiliary branches in Indianapolis for all their guests in the school-room; after which the report of the Diocesan Secretary and other interesting papers will be read.

The Annual Convention will assemble in the same Church at 7:45 Tuesday evening, and after evening prayer, the annual address of the Bishop will be delivered.

Nine A. M., Wednesday, divine service and Holy Communion, after which the business of the Convention will proceed and be consummated as far as possible on that day. A lunch will be provided at 12:30 in the schoolroom for all members of the Convention. After a recess the business of the Convention will proceed. In the evening at 7:30, in Christ Church, there will be the usual Diocesan missionary meeting, with report of the Board, presented by Dean Faude, and addresses by the Bishop, Rev. Lewis F. Cole, Rev. Mr. Jephson, and Rev. Frank Hallam. After this meeting a reception at the Bishop's residence for the members of the Convention and Churchmen of Indianapolis, from 9 to 11 Should the Convention not finish its business, it will resume its session in Grace Church, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

DIOCESAN ASSESSMENTS AND PLEDGES.

GLORIOUS EASTER.

Never in the history of the Church in Indiana was there a more glorious celebration of Easter than this present year. The weather was perfect. From all over the Diocese come reports of large congregations, liberal offerings, devout Communions, and joyful children's celebrations. It was the result of a good observance of Lent. In Holy Week there were services in nearly all our Churches. morning and evening, with a good approach to Sunday congregations. In many Churches the three-hour services were observed on Good Friday, with increasing attendance. In nearly all the parishes a weekly Communion was observed during Lent, and the number of parishes adopting the weekly celebration throughout the year is increasing. This is a good sign of spiritual advancement, full of hopefulness for the future good of the Church. We give in detail such mention of Easter observance as has come to hand through correspondence.

MICHIGAN CITY, TRINITY CH.-Easter day was bright and beautiful without, exultant and jubilant within, at this Church. -Am. Tract Society. THE EDITOR'S GOOD-BYE.

As it is shown in other columns of this number of the Church Worker, the editor, Rev. W. W. Raymond, retires from farther care of the paper. This action is necessitated by the farther fact that he has resigned the rectorship of Holy Innocents Church, Indianapolis, the resignation to take effect by a reluctant consent of the vestry, on Wednesday, May 11, 1887; and also that he has accepted a call to become the Rector of the Church of the Holy Communion, Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, to begin service, D. V., in that parish on Sunday, May 15, fifth after Easter.

No one but himself, as he writes these words, can apprehend all the real sorrow that weighs down upon their writing as he gives them form; and to none more than to himself is this change a most unexpected one until very recently.

His work in the Diocese began with Advent, 1880, and during the six and one-half years of this quite eventful period, he has with hearty zeal entered into the continuous labor, and has been closely identified with various interests, both parochial and diocesan. Endowed with a very active temperament his attachments are as deep and strong as his energies are untiring. It is therefore with no

But from the introduction of this matter to its finality, first in the quiet of his own reflections, and then by full consultation, he has sincerely endeavored to leave the whole matter to the Lord's direction, studying faithfully to determine what is the Lord's pleasure. So the decision has been made to go. His relations with his Bishop have been most intimate and friendly, and so, under God's providence, they will, with a lengthened cord, cesan Board, to be applied elsewhere. ever continue.

He has never been more thoroughly at home with any household than with the clergy of the Diocese of Indiana. Warm remembrances and heartfelt prayers for the success and happiness of all will go out with him into the new field, with earnest desire to hear of your labors and triumphs and to see your faces once again. Pardon what may seem to be a desertion from the ranks, trusting that it is the Lord's sending of His servant to a people who need his service, and who, with God's help, shall be able to get some measure of good out of their united and faithful labors. With a full heart he gives thanks to one and all for the many kindnesses shown and the confidences, and praying for God's blessing to fall upon you in increasing measure, he says-most hesitatingly and affectionately-

INDIANAPOLIS, CHRIST CH .- On Good Friday the Church was filled at half-past ten. A number remained for the three-hour service, and many who could not remain returned in an hour's time. In the evening a large congregation was present; eight adults were baptized. On Easter evening, at the half-past four service, a number of infants were baptized. At the early celebration Easter Day, seventy-five communicated; at the later service, one hundred and seventy-five, making two hundred and fifty out of four hundred communicants. The Church was crowded four times. At the children's celebration in the afternoon, St. George's Mission School and St. Philip's Colored Mission School joined with the Parish School and a delightful service was held. The children's offerings for Diocesan Missions amounted to $50. In the evening twenty-four were confirmed by the Bishop and a liberal offering was made for the Diocesan Church Building Fund. HOLY INNOCENTS .- The congregations were large, sixty receiving Holy Communion; the offerings liberal, the children's celebration joyful. JEFFERSONVILLE, St. PAUL'S CH.-Lent has this parish. The interest and attendance upon all of the services was most cheering and gratifying. On Good Friday there were three services, with a full church at them all. It was feared that the attendance upon the three-hour service would not be what it should, but it speaks well for this solemn and impressive way of observing the hours of our Lord's passion, that the attendance was larger dience due to God from man-the crown of than at the other two services. Easter day dawned bright and beautiful. There were two celebrations of the Holy Eucharist, and children's carol service in the afternoon. The little church looked most beautiful, inviting, and churchly, with its new white sanctuary hangings, and its profusion of flowers. The music, which was grand, surpassed any previous effort of the choir, and reflects upon them great Sanctifier, holding thus a three-fold claim credit. What was the most gratifying thing exceeded any since the rector began his labors here. The offerings, the largest in the the fund for a new Church. The old vestry was re-elected on Easter Monday night. At a meeting held directly after the election, they appointed a committee to procure at once an eligible lot, centrally located, and push the matter of building a new Church as fast as possible. St. Paul's is awake and full of enthusiasm, and while growing temporarily, is not neglectful of things spiritual.

The three-hour service on Good Friday attracted a large congregation; as a consequence, a large number of the faithful received ast he two celebrations, and immense congre-gations were present. The repair and enlargement fund has reached $2,500, and arrangements are being made to make old St. John's one of the most beautiful Churches in the Discousat the two celebrations, and immense congre the most beautiful Churches in the Diocese.

THE CHURCH'S TEACHING ON OBE-DIENCE.

BY REV. J. GORTON MILLER. Paper read before the Northern Convocation of the Diocese of Indians, at Plymouth, January 27th, and published by request.

Any proper view of the Church's teaching on obedience must begin with a recognition of that authority to whom obedience is due. We take, then, as our postulate, the absolute sovereignty of God. The Author of being may justly write the work of His hands, and claim the obedience of all a gradua of the And that not only in the lower grades of be-ing where nature is unconsciously swayed by the volition of God, and her voices are but an echo of Jehovah's thunder. Chiefly is obenature, the type of the infinite, the image of God-from man, to whom is given the power to disobey, and who, also, has tasted the forbidden fruit of disobedience.

To man, as a free moral agent, the law of To man, as a rree moral agent, the law of God is presented as an appeal addressed to his moral sense. And that appeal is most intensely felt within the range of Christian teaching; for there we learn that God is not only our Creator, but also our Redeemer and Caretifer behaling thus a three field selections.

upon human obedience. And yet the mass in the name and authority of God. Not with ance, faith and obedience are the terms of the of men have largely forgotton the obedience due to God.

Man was created in the divine image and placed under law, for the proper guidance of his spirit unto immortal life. But the divinely given potency within the soul has broken down its barriers and transgressed the law of God. The result is universal wretchedness and woe. "For as by one man sin entered into the world and death by sin, and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned."

But the first appearance of sin in the world was the signal for a divine revealment, and the Gospel teaches us that "as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous. For God, Himself, in the person of the eternal Son, has entered the sphere of sin and death, and rendered a perfect obe-dience, even unto death. Our Lord Jesus dience, deven unto destance of the control of the control of the control of the control of the season of the control of the control of the season of the control of the control of the season of the control of the control of the season of the control of the control of the season of the control of the control of the control of the season of the control of the control of the control of the season of the control of the control of the control of the season of the control of the control of the control of the season of the control of the control of the control of the season of the control of the control of the control of the season of the control of the control of the control of the control of the season of the control of the season of the control of the and power and might and dominion and every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come." Our theme, therefore, may be well expressed in the burning words of St. Paul to the Church at Corinti. "Casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ.'

The verbal teaching of our blessed Lord, although in a line with all previous divine revelation, was original and alone. It far surpassed all other teaching of his time in excellence and purity of precept, and in the excellence and purity of precept, and in the excellence and purity of precept, and in the excellence and all Gentile philosophy as far as heaven is above the earth. And yet, with all these points of excellence, the words of the Lord Jeeus arrested attention chiefly because, with authority, and not as the serflee." The Jewish doctors did not presume to be more than interpreters of Moese and the prophets. Even the sacred writers of the elder canon, though moved by the Holy Ghost, were but the servants and instruments of God. But Jesus spake as the Dyine Lawgiver, in His The verbal teaching of our blessed Lord. Jesus spake as the Divine Lawgiver, in His own proper person. Therefore He spake with an authority unparalleled.

His message to the world to-day is indeed uttered in terms of the tenderest love, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn of me, for I am meek and lowly in heart, and my yoke is easy and my bur-den is light." And yet it is a message of divine authority, with stern invective and threatened judgment against the children of disobedience disobedience.

Jesus Christ is Very God of Very God. In this momentous truth we find the sanction for all authority possessed by the Church.
For she is His Body, the fulness of Him that filleth all in all. The holy Church throughout all the world is the embediment of divine substituting in the auth. Our Lord's ascencion. authority in the earth. Our Lord's ascension into heaven was not a departure for distant astronomic realms. It was but an entering "into that within the veil." He is hidden "into that within the veil." He is hidden from mortal view indeed, but ever with us still, with a real, personal presence, in His mystical body, the Church, in all the world and in every place to the end of time. By means of the Church, He uffills the promise, "Lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world." The Church is the visible exponent of a perpetual divine presence. In her apostolic ministry the Christ still touches us with the touch of healing, at the found and at the altar, still speaks to us in adfent and at the altar, still speaks to us in adfont and at the altar, still speaks to us in admonition, reproof and absolution voice of thunder, paralyzing the world into a feigned obedience. In sweet and loving tones she echoes the Master's appeal, "Come unto me and be at rest." Hers is not the im-perious mandate of the scarlet woman who hath her seat in the seven-hilled city. Neither is it the confused clamor of sectarian tongues. It is the voice of her who is clothed with the sun and crowned with the apostolic diadem. to whom it is given to bring forth sons and daughters unto God. The Church, one, holy, catholic, and apostolic, claims our obedience, not by temporal right, but by virtue of the Life, the Truth and the Way, dwelling within her, a claim enforced by appeal to the issues of the world to come.

II.

But what is the obedience commanded by the Church? It is, first, an obedience of human intellect to divine truth. is and must forever be at variance with all human thought that seeks to soar above the truth as it is in Jesus. Not that there is any just antagonism between faith and reason between religion and science. But, slas, natural human reason is blinded by sin, and human science bears the stains of passion and infirmity. To the carnal mind, the Gospel, the highest revelation of truth, is an offense, and men, asserting themselves to be cham-pions of freedom, affect to spurn what they deem the bondage of faith, they themselves being in the gall of bitterness and the bond of iniquity.

Fealty to truth is the highest freedom.

There is a realm of spiritual truth above the range of natural reason. The mysteries of the faith are beyond the scope of human intellect, and the secrets of the infinite she can not grasp, except by faith, in response to

The obedience commanded by the Church is, secondly, that of our affections to the im-pulse of love divine. "If any man love not puise of love divine. "If any man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be Anathema, Maran atha." Such is the apostolic impreca-tion upon those who spurn the Saviour's re-deeming love. The love of Christ constrain-eth us. The story of the approximation eth us. The story of the cross is an appeal to our affections. Christian truth is not only a theology, but also a religion, speaking to the heart, meeting us in the midst of our wants and woes, and distilling the dews of a wondrous love upon us.

The intellect and the affections being sub-dued, the will may yield obedience to Christ, in the fount of cleansing, the apostolic bless-ing, the Bread of Life.

III.

The beauty of the cosmos is the product of obedience to law. So in the Church, a like obedience begets like results. All orders within the Church are under law. Faith is governed by the written Word and witnessed by the undisputed General Councils, of which it bath hitherto pleased the Lord to permit but six to the universal Church. He, Himself, must need convene the seventh. This He will do when He coment to judge the law of the season of the se quick and the dead, to settle all controversies, to require of His apostolic messengers an account of their stewardship, and to bring about the unity and obedience hitherto held in abeyance.

Each member of the undivided episcopate, although supreme within his own jurisdiction, must obey the universal and provincial canon law. The priests and deacons, likewise, in their respective orders, are under the canon law, and are subject, not to any caprice, but to the just command and godly admonition of those who are over them in the Lord. Indeed, the Church intends that all her children, even from the cradle, are to obey her teachings, nor does she contemplate that they shall, for a moment, be left to the un-The Church, then, commands our obedience, guided impulses of a fallen nature. Repent-covenant, and these are instilled into the mind as duties, while the infant brow is yet moist with the waters of regeneration. TV

Disobedience is attended by penalty. As the violation of physical law is punished by disease and death, so like fruits are the result of disobedience to spiritual law.

Branches of the Church may be punished for failure to obey the divine calling. As the Churches of the Orient were, for their dead-Characteristics of the Orient week, for the source of Mohammedanism, so the American Church, for her failure to go in and possess the land in her own proper character and title, is being punished by God to-day, with the scourge of sectarianism. Nor will that scourge be re-moved until our people awaken from their sloth, selfishness, unbelief and hardness of heart, and consecrate themselves, body, seul and spirit, to the service of God.

Lack of reverence for the Church's authority and teaching likewise has its reaction in the family circle. Disobedience to parental, as to all other, authority is one of the marked features of the present age, and of our country in particular, where individualism reigns so in particular, where individualism reigns so largely. Boys and girls grow up pert and reckless, being no longer restrained by the staid proprieties of the past. Through pa-rental indifference, children disregard all obligations to baptism, confirmation, and the Christian life. As a result, the land is filled with vice and crime. The daily press reeks with accounts of youthful indiscretion, heaty marriages, and divorces easily obtained. streets resound with drunkenness and blas-phemy; the saloon is the most potent factor in National and State politics, and anarchism and murder are the final outcome of disobedience

In the providence of God, the historic Church is placed in this, our land, to act as a conserving force, and by her influence to restore the true ideal of obedience to divine authority. It is her mission to be as a city set on a hill, a flavor of salt in the midst of corruption, a light shining in the darkness. Obedience to her teaching will beget true conformity to the image of God, and eternal life in the world to come.

Are you intending to go fishing, prospecting, recreating, sailing, summering, visiting, during the season now opening? Take the Cincinnati, Wabash & Michigan Railway for Northern Indiana, Southwestern Michigan, Chicago, and all points northward from Indianapolis. Leave the Union Depot by the Bee Line, and without change of cars go straight north from Anderson to Lake Michigan, and places intermediate or beyond. You will go first through the center of the natural gasarea of Indiana, with a lighter at Pendleton, a burner at Anderson, a blazer at Alexandria, a roarer at Fairmount, a gusher at Jonesboro, and five boomers at Marion. The Lord makes the gas, and men, whom God hath also made, are finding it and using it. It is very wonderful! Going on north from Marion you reach Wabash, on the banks of its namesake river; Warsaw, with its three beautiful, clear lakes; Goshen, the loveli-est flower of the prairie; Elkhart, thriftily spread around the confluence of the Elkhart and St. Joseph rivers; Niles, Mich., in the val-ley; and finally Benton Harbor, and the neigh-boring St. Joseph, looking from the bluffs out on the wide waters of Lake Michigan. The Bible says, "Joseph is a fruitful bough," and St. Joseph, Mich., must have been contemplated by its namer as a fruitful field, a fishing ground, and one of the fairest places on the coat the earth. Here is a life saving station, worth a careful inspection of its boats and crews. When you must depart, you can return, reviewing, on a round trip ticket, or you can take a magnificent steamer for Chicago, the second city on the continent, and find no end of growth and interest. THE WORKER.

We desire to say what has often been said before, that we are desirous of having the Worker reach every Church family in Indiana. Our paper will be sent to any address sent to us and we never send bills for subscription. If after a reasonable time no return is made for the paper, we reserve the right of ceasing to send it. Any of our readers who do not care to receive the paper can refuse to take it from the post office, or send a postal card to the editor to that effect, and it will be discontinued. It will give us pleasure to send the paper freely to any who wish it and are unable to pay for it. Those who can remit the small sum of fifty cents to aid us in its publication, we ask to do it. To all who have done so, we return our hearty thanks and ask them kindly to continue their interest under the present editor.

IT is gratifying to the Bishop to be able to report such substantial interest taken in the endowment of the Diocese. That at the close of the first year of efforts in its behalf. about one-third of the parishes will have subscribed their full quota and nearly another third, a good beginning has been made, that augurs well for the future, and that the parishes are very few where nothing at all has been done. The jubilee year ought to see the great work accomplished. If earnest effort on the part of the Bishop shall be met with a corresponding appreciation on the part of churchmen, it will be accomplished.

In no one year since the Diocese was founded have there been more confirmations than during the present conventional year, and the material composing the classes has been of a high character-largely, the young life and blood of the Church. It gives good promise for the future. There has not been wanting, also, evidence most cheering to the Bishop of painstaking and careful prepara-tion by the clergy of their classes. The candidates give evidence of a thorough understanding of their religious obligations and the responsibilities of the christian life. In many cases the Bishop has been summoned a second and sometimes a third time, to confirm in the same parish or mission.

WE hope no clergyman of this Diocese will let the missionary year of the General Board of Missions, which closes September 1st, pass without an offering in its behalf. This is now made a matter of obligation by the Canons of the Church, and the Bishop requests that in every parish an offering be made for the General Board and also for the General Churchbuilding Fund. The clergy have no right to withhold the opportunity from their people. Indiana needs to take a high stand in this respect and do her full duty. Let the opportunity be given them for these objects before September 1st.

An arrangement has been made with the Dennison House of Indianapolis to entertain at reduced rates delegates to the convention. Yours, truly, W. Vail, Treasurer.

THERE is surely something wrong when a Churchman fails to feel his responsibility to the Church, as well as to his parish. We would not stigmatize it as a moral defect, but we can not but call it a judicial blindness. A parish, any more than an individual Christian, can any more than an individual Christian, can not be so poor, or need so many things for itself, as not to be able to divide with some who are poorer, in that they have no Gospel, or no Church privileges whatever.

It is a dangerous fallacy that, till a church has so many communicants, or such and such articles of furniture or comfort, or is able to pay so much salary, it should not be asked to give for the Diocesan, Domestic or Foreign Missions, or that cuts off its gifts in those di-

We live by admiration, hope and love; there are parts to train that are neither of the mind nor the body; there are spirits to train. We have bodies, it has been said, but we are the spirits; and education is, in its highest and truest function, the education of the spirit; that alone can teach us, after all, the only of life, which is always that we shall be faithful to the best we know—faithful to God, faithful to our country, faithful to our fellow-men and faithful to ourselves. Our education will never be perfect unless, like the ancient temples, it is lighted at the top. It is only a religious education after all, which can give us true happiness and real and permanent success.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE

Every phrase of Church life and success depends upon your regular presence at divine service. To too large an extent this obligation is sadly neglected. I fear there is lacking a true sense of our responsibility in this mutter. Do we realize that it is our bounden Wednesday morning at 10:30 Ray Walter duty to attend church? We really have no choice in the matter: we are positively called upon to come into the Lord's house. "Keep | His everlasting kingdom.—Church News. holy the Sabbath day and sanctify it," is a command too hoary with age to be dwelt upon. "Forsake not the assembling of yourselves together." It is the Lord's day, and in it we are to give all our time and thought to the Lord. What right have we to rob God of a service which belongs to Him? We do it at our peril. Is it not a fearful thing to trifle of the excuses with which we have justified Thursday morning, after prayers by the our absence from church and we will see for ripen into an excuse. It must be neither too ripen into an excuse. It must be neither coot that no not too cold. All the adjuncts must lend ligion or charity can not call himself just, their aid, business, household duties, trifling even though he owes no man a dollar. The The Indianapolis Institute will have its an-ailments and petty anxieties. We are kept entertained, or a hundred minor buttors we might mention, develop into excuses for absenting ourselves from church. Not seeing it as a sacred and bounden duty, we reverse the vital question and regulate ourselves from the wrong end of it. Or, in plain words, not appreciating our responsibility, we make our church-going dependent upon our sur-roundings, instead of making the surroundroundings, inseal of making the surroundings dependent upon our church going. We say, if all things are convenient and fit the hour, I will attend service, instead of making all things convenient to fit the hour and forcing the surroundings into a favorable result. So fertile is the field that produces our excuses that you know yourselves, dear friends, neglect of divine service is justified in the easiest manner. We would blush with shame to give the same excuse which keeps saame to give the same excuse which keeps us from church in justification for a broken engagement with a friend. God can be trified with, dishonored, disregarded, with a sub-terfuge we would not employ with a fellow-sinner like ourselves. If these words sound emphatic, it is because the fault demands strong words. Why prince words in a matstrong words. Why mince words in a mat-ter of this kind? The surgeon must need use the knife when a mortifying limb must be removed; any other course would be culpable and insure-death. Superficial treatment and soothing salves will not do then. Neither will soft words or misconceived kindness, the parents of false security, do in a case of this kind. The life of any religious organization depends upon a regular, systematic, devout attendance at divine service. Any other course will produce a weak, puny af-fair, so feeble that the first strong wind of adversity will puff it out. I urge you to give versity will put it out. I trige you to give this subject a religious, searching considera-tion, so that you may shape all your plans, your pleasures, your duties, into that course which will lead up to God's Holy Temple, where our prayer, our praise and worship, as sweet incense, may ascend to the courts of

UN ERMENTED WINE.

D. D. CHAPIN

As the proposed amendment to the constiaution of this state makes no provision for the tution of this state makes no provision for the exception of the use of wine for sacramental purposes, and as those who conscientiously make use of the fermented product of grapes make use of the fermented product of grapes are constantly told, as was said in your paper recently, that they should use "unfermented wine," it is worth while to know something of what the latter substance usually is or may be. It is not the easiest thing to tell what it be. It is not the easiest thing to tell what it is, as purchased at the drug stores, any more than it is to tell what that is which is sold for "wine" of the common kind. But I have had occasion to examine several samples of the article which have been sent to me, and I have come to some conclusions in regard to it, and come to some concussons in regard to it, and these conclusions have been confirmed by tests which others capable of judging have made. The basis is, probably, in most cases, boiled down grape juice, prepared as farmers boil down cider; but in this condition, unless boiled to a syrup, it will not "keep," and so it is necessary to add some antiseptic drug; for this purpose various things are used, salicylic and boracic acids commonly, making a nau-seating mixture; or possibly, copperas (sulphate of iron), or even corrosive sublimate, a phate of iron), or even corrosive such hate, a most active poison but a strong antiseptic; but most commonly alcohol is said to be added, as this is the best of all antiseptics, and samples have been analyzed containing from samples have been always of that. It is this fifteen to twenty per cent of that. It is this sort of thing that people are likely to get who sort of thing that people are likely to get who sort of thing that people are likely to get who flatter themselves that they are using the pure "fruit of the vine." The fact is that "fermen-tation" is a purely natural process with all fruits—an unnatural one with all grains. It fruits—an unnatural one with all grains. In in nature's mode of preservation, and not man's mode by drugs; so, and so only can the "truit of the vine" be kept in all climates and in all lands; so only can the command of the Lord be compiled with. There is no such thing as "un'ermented wine;" there can not such the true is a missoner, a contradiction. So, the term is a missoner, a contradiction. be; the term is a misnomer, a contradiction. This subject is a very large one and there is a large literature upon it. If you, Mr. Editor, or any of your readers, will call at my study, I think I can furnish you a large amount of solid reading upon it. I became interested in it years ago, and obtained from England III. it years ago, and obtained from England all the arguments I could get upon the "unfer-mented" side especially. After careful and unprejudiced weighing of the evidence, I was convinced that the advocates of this side have "not made their case;" presumption and fact are all against them. Notwithstanding the assertion of a public lecturer the other evening, I doubt of a public lecturer the other evening, a would if one per cent. of the 40,000 clergy of the Anglican Communion in England and the world otherwheres, use "unfermented wine" at the sacrament. The great body would certain the sacrament. tainly consider it akin to sacrilege to do so. Strange that Rome and ultra-protestantism should meet on the common ground of "re-fusing the cup." Of the position of the Epis-copal Church in this country there can be no doubt, whatever may be the views or opinions and practices of individuals here and there. and practices of individuals dere and states, at the general convention held in Chicago last fall, the House of Bishops passed the following resolutions, and as far as I know, there

"The House of Bishops informs the House of Deputies that it has adopted the following resolutions, which it respectfully communicates for the information of the House of Deputies:

"Resolved, That it is the judgement of the House of Bishops that the use of the unfermented juice of the grape, as the lawful and proper wine of the Holy Eucharist, is not warranted by the example of our Lord, and is an unauthorized departure from the custom of the Catholic Church.

"Resolved, That the mixture of water with the Eucharistic wine is lawful and in conformity with the usage of the Catholic Church, and that there is no objection to the use of the mixed cup, provided it be not ritually intro-duced until it be authorized by the rubric."

This may fairly be considered the "voice of the church."—Allegan Journal and Tribune.

SACRAMENTAL WINE.

Dear Union Signal: In the Convention number of the Union Signal, in the reports of the section meeting at which the subject of sacramental wine was presented, the statement was menual wine was presented, the statement was inade that Bishop Knickerhacker, of Christ Church, Indianapolis, used the unfermented at the Sacrament. I well remember how grateful we all were to learn of this attitude of an Episcopal Bishop, as we knew what a land Episcopal Bishop, as we knew what a help it would be to our women in that Church throughout the country. I also remember how carefully you questioned the lady, that how carefully you questioned the may, that there might be no mistake in your report. You will, therefore, be grieved and disappointed to learn that Bishop Knickerbacker denies the statement, and that he does not sanction the use of unfermented wine

As my attention has been called to this, and as the W. C. T. U. desires in all things to stand by the "truth" at any sacrifice, will you kindly publish this communication?

Fraternally, Mrs. George S. Hunt.

PORTLAND, ME.

Drunkenness impoverishes the people, increases taxation, limits the productive power of the nation-it is, therefore, a question for the statesman; drunkenness deteriorates the race, renders life less worth living by increasrace, renders life less worth living by increas-ing its sorrows, multiplying its peris, aggra-vating its evils—it is, therefore, a question for the philanthropis, for the pioneer of national liberty. But drunkenness locks up the king-dom of heaven, bars the channels of grace between the soul of man and the life giving Spirit of God, defiles the temple of the Lovy Ghost, crucifies the Son of God afree and must Him than open shame; jeastfuls seekenned Ghost, crucines the son of cod mires and puts Him to an open shame, is earthly, sensual, devilish, and, therefore, it is pre eminently a question for the accredited shepherds of the souls of men

As regards the argument drawn from the As regards the argument drawn from the smallness of numbers, the Toronto Mail well says: Much has been said as to the absurdity of one of the smallest Christian bodies in the United States opening its doors to invite all others to come in. A correspond-ent of the New York Tribune asks these critics to extend their view and to look at the religious statistics of the whole English speak-ing people. He gathers the following figures from the reports made by the more prominent religious bodies on the 1st of January

The Boston Transcript good-naturedly satir-izes some of the alleged worldly tendencies of the Churches in a way that Church members the Churches in a way that United members themselves will enjoy-caricatures though they are. Here are two or three of its sketches which it puts under the heading, "What may be expected one of these days: The Brick Lane Church was last evening filled with a large and fashionable audience filled with a large and isshionable audience gathered to welcome the Rev. Mr. Stellalite, who comes to this city with the most flattering testimonials of the pulpit and press of the West, where he has filled long engagements in nearly all the large cities with unqualified success. His welcome last evening was a complete ovation, and his efforts from first to last were rewarded with the most unmistaka-ble approval of his delighted listeners. Mr. Stellalite's engagement covers the current week only, and all who wish to hear him (and who does not?) should go early. Every evening, with matinees on Wednesday, Saturday Every evenand Sunday.

"A movement is on foot in the Swell Street Church to have the choir and pulpit change places. It is high time that this improvement were effected. The worshipers at this Church have too long been subjected to great inconvenience in having to turn their heads to see the singers. It was at one time pro-posed to remove the pews and substitute swivel chairs, but the suggestion being made that this would be an unnecessary expense, as nobody, of course, cared to face the pulpit at notody, or course, carea to age the purpose any time during the service, it was determined to meet the difficulty by the change we have already mentioned. Strange that this was not thought of before. Other churches will undoubtedly follow the good example of this enterprising congregation.

We are requested to say that none but those coming in carriages will hereafter be admitted to the services at Nazarene Church. The practice of admitting pedestrians had resulted in the attendance of scores of persons sulted in the attendance of scores of persons of the lower classes almost every Sunday, until the annoyance became quite unbearable. The Nazarene Church has made a move in the right direction.

We shall expect to hear of re-awakening of interest among the worshipers at this new convenience. Indexequence of this new convenience. Indexequence of this new convenience. The greas movement among Churchwomen which has marked the last decade, has thus far found its chief expression in works of charriy and mercy. Yet the tokens of further calargement are many. The work so wisely begun will surely develop to the wonderful erriching of womanly intelligence and char-As there must be indeed a root before living leaves can be put forth, so must of necessity every growing leaf push its tiny tissues on and on, downward as well as apward, till the whole tree is enlarged and the root deepened, and so fitted to bring forth more fruit.

There is needed now a quickening of the intellectual life in the direction of spiritual intellectual life in the direction of spiritum truth, and such as by God's blessing would bring with it a quickening of the conscience also if we would reach the full beauty and blessedness of Christian life and be fitted for its manifold service. Happily a cry as of the hungry for bread is beginning to be heard all over our land, from those who find themselves most ignorant in subjects of the

The society above mentioned is an attempt to supply this want—a beginning, at least, that looks trustfully for increase. It is earnestly hoped that one result at least may follow-a higher standard of fitness among the flow—a higher standard of ntness among the teachers in our Sunday-schools. The full course in Holy Scripture will ex-tend over three years. In the first year the subject will be the Acts of the Apostles and the Canon of Holy Scripture.

In the second year the Gospel of St. John and, perhaps, also the Harmony of the Synoptics. In the third year one book of the old Testament, with some general outline of the history. A fourth year is contemplated, for those desiring it, in which choice may be made of the Psalms, Prophecy, or the Epistles of St. Paul.

In Church history a course has been outlined which will occupy four years. Mem-bers who are able to take both courses at once will be allowed to do so, or either may be taken alone.

Each member passing the examinations in the full course of either division will receive the Bishop's certificate to that effect.

In bespeaking for this effort the sympathy of the Church, one final consideration may be urged. Whether we will or no, and with many fears of our best and wisest, a great wave is bearing woman onward to new positions and to fresh influence. Can we find a better way to utilize the safe elements of this progress, and to steady her nature against that which is unsafe, than thus to train the minds which can not be remanded to inactivity, in the faith once delivered to the saints by our Lord and His Holy Apostles, and as afterwards taught, defended and lived out in the lives of His faithful servants? All experience testifies that the outcome of such reverent study is more heavenly mindedness, more humility, and more true honor from God and His Holy Church.—Church Work.

The Society above mentioned has already in its first year, and before the admission list was closed in January, a membership of over two hundred, more than fifty of whom have entered for the examinations which take place in June.

We desire to call the attention of our readers to this Society at this time, because next year's classes are being formed, and Miss Smiley wishes to receive the new appplicants as early as possible that books may be secured in time, and also at less expense. The papers requisite for beginning their study will be you can outargue it.

Preliminary papers, with blank forms enclosed for answering the few questions asked on admission, will be sent to all applicants, who will doubtless remember to enclose a stamp for postage. Letters should be ad-dressed to Secretary S. H. S. H. S., Box 74, Saratoga Springs, New York.

Our readers are referred for further infor mation to articles by Miss Smiley in November, January and March numbers of Church Work, the monthly magazine edited by Mrs. Twing, and from which the above paragraphs have been taken.

MY DEAR RECTOR—Henceforth a portion of my time is at your service; will you kindly assign the duties you wish me to perform? I will endeavor to do them satisfactorily.

Yours, sincerely.

In all talk about persons, let it be their merits that we hasten to disclose, their good deeds that we gladly unfold. In all discussions on character, let the good come into prominence. In all our uttered hopes for the future, let our highest ideals receive the emphasis. Let truth and not error, light and not darkness, love and not hate, be our themes. So shall we increase and perpetuate all that is good by frank utterance, while evil will decrease and disappear under the thick drapery of silence.—Philadelphia Ledger.

CHARLES KINGSLEY says: Some eighteen hundred years ago there went to and fro on the earth One who preached to grown up men and women that they should repent and be converted and become as little children; but now a days, it is the fashion to go about preaching to children that they should repent and be converted, and become like grown

If you want her to submit to your judgment, never ask her to submit to your selfishness. 5. A woman's life is made up of little things. Make her life happy by little courtesies. 6. Love is a wife's wages. Don't scrimp in your pay.

When once the sense of the great effects of what we call trifles seizes the mind, life resolves itself into a devout practice of duties. The feeling flies that we can do nothing for religion or humanity because our lives are taken up with housekeeping and shopkeeping, profes sional work and earning a living.

You can outlive a slander in half the time

A priest who was examining a confirmation class in the south of Ireland asked the mony?" A little girl at the head of the cleanswered: "Tie a state "What is the sacrament of matrimony?" A little girl at the head of the class answered: "The a state of torment into which sowls enter to prepare them for another and a better world." "Bein," said the priest, "the answer for purgatory." "Puther down," said the curtae-"put her down of the class." "Lave her alone," said the priest; "for anything you or I know to the contrary, she may be parfictly right."

The first duty of every person who has any religious belief is to attend the services. Giving for the support of God's cause is another duty. The responsibility of discharging the duties rests with each individual. It will not do for you to say that you will not be missed. Every one's example is worth something. No man can free himself from the relations he bears to society at large. Regular attendance at public worship is the casting of one's influence on the side of religion, with of one's influence on the side of religion, with sail that word implies. Habitual absence from Church is a blow aimed at alt that makes life beautiful and good. Those who have not much to give in the way of money can feel that, in always being present at the Church's services, they are yielding a support that counts largely toward the Church's strength and growth.

Business and pleasure blind men to the true purpose of their life. Even among the bap-tized members of Christ there does not seem to be a loyal devotion to His service, nor is He and His cause first in their thoughts. The evidence of this worldliness among Christians is found in their eagerness after Carristants is found in their eagerness after gain and pleasure, the amount spent on self, the little given to Christ, inattendance upon public service and the blessed scrament, the way we gratify ourselves and the small amount of real self-denial we practice.

No words can express how much the world wes to sorrow. Most of the Psalms were born in a wilderness; most of the Epistles were written in a prison.

The fiftieth annual Convention of the Diocese of Indiana assembled in Grace Church. this city, on Tuesday evening, June 7. The church was well filled, and the service was a delightful one-the music rendered by the vested choirs of Christ Church and Grace Church. The tenth selection was sung, instead of the psalms for the day. All were agreeably surprised and delighted at the great improvements made in the Bishop's church. After evening service the Bishop delivered his annual address, some portions of which we furnish our readers in another place. The address was full of encouragement to every lover of the Church in Indiana. The progress of mission work, of building mission churches, the encouraging progress made in the endowment and the educational work were clearly brought out, and gave great pleasure to the Bishop to mention.

Little time was given to tinkering canons, but much to the consideration of the mission Chicago, was a noble missionary sermon, stirwork of the Diocese, and how best to raise the means to extend it. The ladies of the city parishes furnished an elegant lunch in the we give in another place.

The report of the Treasurer of the Diocese showed that more money had been raised for Diocesan missions than in any previous year; $5,200 cash had been paid in on endowment; the Aged and Infirm Clergy Fund amounted where. now to $1,700, and was steadily advancing from year to year.

The Bishop reported about 500 confirmations. This was an advance on any previous lunch, provided in the school-room by the record. The missionary meeting at Christ Church was well attended.

After the Bishop's address on Tuesday evening, Judge Prince, the representative of the American Church Building Fund, addressed the Convention, placing in clear light the importance of this fund and the duty of every parish and mission to aid in it. The result must be that every clergyman present will ask an offering from his parish each conventional year for this fund.

The Bishop also urged in his address that an offering be made in every parish for the General Board of Missions before September 1. WOMAN'S AUXILIARY.

The Woman's Auxiliary meeting this year was full of interest and enthusiasm. While the attendance from without the city was not large, the four parish branches in the city were largely represented. THE most important item of Church news which has reached the ears of Churchen for many a day, is the movement, now thoroughly and successfully at work, to erect a suitable cathedral for the great Diocese of New York, This has been stimulated into action by the princely bequest of Miss Catharine Lorrilard Wolfe, who recently passed away. It will be one of the grandest structures on the continent, fitly exhibiting the consecrated wealth of the great metropolis, and furnishing a power-ful center for the missionary and benevolent work, throughout the city, under the leadership of its noble and wise Bishop. The Bishop has issued a statement and appeal to the peo ple of the Diocese, which is well worthy of great purpose. There seems to be great en-thusiasm on this subject, the rectors of Trinity and the other leading parishes of the city have taken strong hold of the enterprise, and the clergy of other religious bodies are giving it a hearty endorsement. A marked feature is that laymen of these religious bodies are among the first and most liberal contributors. They all want to see, in the midst of New York's collossal fortunes and immense traffic. a prominent landmark, and witness for the faith of God, from which all shall go out, in steady flow, a vigorous missionary and char-itable blessing to all its people.

Do the clergy take as much interest as they might in seeing the diocesan paper do all the good possible? We desire to be constantly improving in quality, in circulation and general usefulness.

REV. E. G. HUNTER, of Holy Innocents', Indianapolis, has recently published a valuable tract; subject, The Episcopal Church; a few Questions of History Briefly Answered. This is a most excellent tract for circulation. Copies may be had of Mr. Hunter at five cents each.

An excellent little book to be in the hands of every Churchm in has just been re-published by The Young Churchman Co., of Milwaukee, entitled, "The English Reformation and the Book of Common Prayer." It gives in compact form the salient points in the reformation period of the prayer book's history, with summaries, and comments thereupon. Fifty cents, cloth.

A GOOD PARISH ENACTMENT.

A small parish in a western Diocese having had its harmony sadly marred by the com-plaints of two or three dissatisfied parishioners against the existing administration, a parish meeting was called, which, after passing a vote unanimously sustaining the rector, adopted the following resolutions without a dissenting voice. If every parish in the land would adopt a similar canon, and obey it, parochial disturb-ances and ministerial changes would be the rare exception, instead of being, as now, the general rule :

Resolved, That as representatives of ——Parish, ——, charged with the duty of promoting, in every practical way, its highest interests, we desire to place on record our hearty disapproval of a practice which is sometimes the cause of much parochial disturbance, namely, the practice of making complaints against the rector's conduct on the part of our parishioners, not to him, but to one another; thus wounding his feelings, marring his influence, and working up strife, prejudice and discontent.

Resolved, That if parishioners feel themselves aggrieved by anything which the rector has said or done, or left undone, it is their bounden duty, to go first, and at once, to him, and make a frank and friendly statement of their grievance; and when he has refused to make explanation or to give satisfaction, there will be time enough (if duty requires it) to make complaint in other quarters.

Resolved, That in our opinion, if this course were Received, That in our opinion, it this course were always honeeld ypursued, it would prevent a large when have home to the solid the purity of private Christian charges, mar the peace of the Church, and hinder its growth; and we hereby pledge ourselves to our rector and to each other, that we will conscientiously pursue this course, if emergencies demanding it should ever arise.

PERSONAL.

Rev. Mr. Githens, a former clergyman of the Diocese, called upon the Bishop the day after convention. He was on his way to Europe for a few months' visit.

Father Engle celebrated the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the ministry June 2, by gathering his family for tea.

Rev. W. H. Bamford, a graduate of the Seabury Divinity School, and ordered Deacon by Bishop Whipple in the Cathedral, Faribault, has come to the Diocese, and will be assigned to work by the Bishop.

A pleasant incident of the convention was the presence at the communion service, on Wednesday morning, of Rev. Dr. McLeod, of the Presbyterian Church. After the convention had organized for business the Bishop mentioned the presence of the doctor, and kindly welcomed him, the convention recognizing his presence by rising. The Dr. gracefully and cordially responded to the welcome

A little daughter was a welcome guest to the home of the rector of St. Paul's, Jeffersonville, born May 14.

Rev. Jesse R. Bicknell, of Florida, was in the city during the convention, the guest of Rev. Dr. Jenckes.

Rev. Mr. Mann writes, "I would be glad if the clergy would help me by hunting up deaf mutes and encouraging them to come to the regular services, and by having some one near them to find their places in the prayer book till they can find them alone, My field, being so large, I can not do every thing. I will try and visit more places in the Diocese this year.

Rev. Mr. Ramsay, of Aurora, was detained from the convention. He writes that both mission and parish are looking up numerically and in outward exhibitions of life.

Rev. John Moncure, of Madison, was detained at home by sickness in his family.

He was one of the most eminent of the American Episcopate; a great preacher, a profound historical scholar, an accomplished gentleman. By his decease Bishop Whitaker succeeds to the Episcopate of the Diocese of Pennsylvania.

Subscriptions of lifty cents per annum from all who have not paid for 1887 will be thankfully received by the editor. It is hoped that by these subscriptions and advertisements the WORKER may become self-supporting, and still be sent to every church family in Indiana. We are pleased to know that the WORKER is a welcome visitor to the homes of church families, and it will be our endeavor to make it deserving of the appreciation it always has had.

HOWE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

The examinations of the school at the close of the third year were entirely satisfactory to the Principal. The boys have done good work. Many of them will return next year. and the Bishop is very desirous that the advantages of the school shall be thoroughly known and appreciated by Churchmen in the Diocese. We should have thirty boys there next year.

INDIANAPOLIS INSTITUTE FOR GIRLS.

The closing exercises took place on Thursday evening, June 16, with a large attendance Gospel,' etc." of patrons and friends of the school, who were delighted with the essays and declamations of the pupils. The Rev. Geo. E. Swan said the the Tersanctus in the Communion office. He opening prayers, Dr. Jenckes presented the prizes, and the Bishop made a brief address and gave the benediction. The first year of the school has been of great encouragement. Prof. and Mrs. Lyon have won the confidence and respect of the patrons. The school has acquired a good name. It has passed beyond at Evening prayer on that day, partly to disthe question of experiment. It has been demonstrated that a good school can be maintained and will be patronized. The promise of pupils for the next year is full of encouragement.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Lyon held a reception for friends of the school at their residence, 477 North Pennsylvania street. This is a substantial double residence, and it has been placed in thorough order and newly furnished for the boarding department of the Institute. The furniture is neat and of substantial character, and it gives a home look to all within that must prove attractive to the pupils. This great Diocese should furnish twenty pupils to begin with.

Dr. Kemp, the Rector at Plymouth, has secured the choice of rooms for a young lady of his parish whose parents will furnish the room. Will not all the clergy bear this school in mind, and call attention to its advantages? A full corps of teachers is engaged, and every advantage of the best schools will be afforded at the reasonable price of $300 per annum. Clergymen's daughters half price.

THE PRESENT "USE."-READ CARE-FULLY.

I. THINGS NOT LAWFILL

- 1, It is now no longer lawful to use the old table of Lessons, nor, in view of the permitted desire now to offer up their praises and abbreviations of the Evening Prayer, to omit tnanksgivings for Thy late mercies vouchsafed one Lesson for the purpose of shortening the to them."
- 2. It is not lawful to use the "Collect for aid against perils" as it is printed in our Praver Books. The only lawful form is that which has been adopted from the English book, "Lighten our darkness, we beseech thee, O Lord." etc.
- 3. It is not lawful to use the Prayer for the President in the evening service as it is printed in the Prayer Book, but a new prayer beginning, "Almighty God, whose kingdom is everlasting and power infinite," etc.
 - 4. It is not lawful to use the Doxology at the end of the Lord's Prayer which begins the Communion service. That portion of the office is considered penitential in character, and the best liturgists agree that the Lord's Prayer is in this place to be said by the Priest alone, and not by Priest and people. And this is indeed the exact reading of the rubric.

5. It is not lawful for the people to remain seated until after the announcement of the Gospel. They should rise as soon as the minister has said, "Here endeth the epistle," for the rubric before the Gospel has been altered so that it reads: "Then, the people all standing up, he shall read the Gospel, saying, 'The Holy

6. It is not lawful for the people or choir to join with the Priest in saying the preface to alone says, "Therefore with Angels and Archangels," etc., and the people join him at the words, "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of hosts." 7. It is not lawful to read the 141st Psalm of the Psalter at Morning Prayer on the 29th day of the month. It is now made the first Psalm tribute the two portions more equally, and partly because it is evidently an evening Psalm, containing as it does the verse, "Let my prayer be set forth in Thy sight as the incense, and let the lifting up of my hands be an evening sacrifice.'

8. It is not lawful to omit the word "again" in the Apostles' Creed. "He rose again from the dead," that being the full and true translation of the Latin "resurrexit," and conforming the language to that in the Nicene Creed and in the Holy Scriptures, and of our Lord Himself. The words "rose again" have also a doctrinal significance, asserting the reality and identity of our Lord's resurrection body.

II. NOTICEABLE CHANGES IN THE DAILY SERVICE

1. The Benedictus has been adopted entire as found in St. Luke i, 68-79, and has been given the place of prominence as an evangelical canticle or Gospel hymn to be used in preference to Jubilate even on Festival days All the verses, however, except the first four may be omitted save on the Sundays in Advent. Instead of special prayers and thanksgivings, there may be inserted in the Prayer for all conditions of men, and in the general Thanksgiving, a clause referring to special cases, viz: "Especially those for whom our prayers are desired, particularly to those who

3. At evening prayer the minister is permitted on Sundays to omit the exhortation "Dearly beloved brethren," and on week days to omit exhortation, confession and absolution. Also on any day to end the Evening Prayer after the Collect for aid against perils. So that the evening service is very materially shortened, and for this reason, as already remarked, both Lessons from Holy Scripture should be read, because the Church hath ordered that the abbreviation shall not be in "hearing the Word of the Lord."

as the preferable canticle, is now authorized the Gospel Hymn, "Magnificat," St. Luke i, 46-55; and after the second Lesson "Nunc Dimittis," St. Luke ii, 29-82. These hymns, together with Benedictus will be found printed in the Hymnal just before the index.

5. Provision is also made for an anthem after the "Collect for aid against perils." Westminster Abbey, in the days of the late Dean, at the close of the anthem the sermon followed, and after the sermon the offertory and a hymn; the service closed with the remaining prayers of the evening service and the blessing. Thus the intercession of Eventhe blessing. Thus the intercession of Even-ing Prayer followed the sermon, when the hearts of the worshipers might be supposed to be better attuned to such ministry, and their prayers and their alms were more closely linked together as a memorial before God.

6. In the Litany immediately after the suf-frage for Bishops, Priests and Deacons, there has been inserted this petition, as follows: "That it may please Thee to send forth laborers into thy harvest," with the response, "We eseech Thee to hear us, good Lord."

7. Instead of the canticles after the first and second Lessons of Evening Prayer, during Lent, two Psalms from the Psalter may be used, namely, 42 and 48.

III. NOTICEABLE CHANGES IN THE COMMUNION SERVICE

1. The first "Lord's Prayer" is to be said without the Doxology.

2. The Ten Commandments may be omitted at an early celebration if another celebration at an early celebration if another celebration is to follow the same day.

3. The longer exhortation, "Dearly beloved in the Lord," etc., need be used only on one Lord's day in the month.

4. The people and choir do not say the preface of the Tersanctus, but join with Friest at the Tersanctus, but join with Friest at the Tersanctus, but join with the tersanctus itself, "Holy, Holy, Holy," etc. IV. NOTICEABLE CHANGES IN THE CONFIRM-ATION OFFICE.

1. The Preface may be omitted, "To the end that confirmation may be ministered," etc. 2. The people are instructed by the rubric to stand "until all kneel for the Lord's Prayer." V. OTHER CHANGES

There are slight alterations in some of the occasional offices, but they are not of a nature to affect the part which the people take in these services. All the changes will be incor-porated in the Prayer Book after the next meeting of the General Convention.

CONFIRMATION AT CHRIST CHURCH.

The Right Reverend D. B. Knickerbacker. D. D., Bishop of the Diocese of Indiana, was present at Christ Church yesterday, and confirmed a class of twelve persons. Bishop Knickerbacker is acting in the place of Bishop F. A. Jaggar, D. D., of Southern Ohio, who is at present in Switzerland on account of ill health. Meantime, in his enforced absence from his diocese, the standing committee provide the services of neighboring bishops for all Episcopal acts. The Bishop of Indiana is a fine-looking man, and of pleasing, dignified a fine-looking man, and of pleasing, dignined appearance. Before the confirmation he preached an able sermon from the familiar text, "Come ye that are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest." The class confirmed were mostly young persons. The five ladies were appropriately dressed in white. The Bishop's address to the candidates, who are now received into full membership in the Church, was very kind and fatherly, and his advice and encouraging words will doubtless be long remembered. The Bishop preached again at Ascension Chapel last evening. Today he goes on a like mission to Christ Church, Glendale. He has many friends in Christ Church parish, and he will always be a wel-4. After the first Lesson at Evening Prayer, come visitor here.—Dayton (O.) Journal.

THE BISHOP'S ADDRESS.

To me it is a sincere pleasure, dear brethren, that at this, our fourth Diocesan Convenren, that at this, our fourth Diocesan Conven-tion since I came to you, I am permitted to bring you a good report of the progress of our beloved Church in this Diocese. In no year in the history of the Diocese have there been so many confirmations, a greater num-ber of Mission Churches built, or more liberal offerings made. Notwithstanding many changes of the clergy, we are able to keep up the number and to supply all the vacancies as fast as the parishes or Missions are ready for them. True, we have not secured yet all we need. If we could receive a dozen single men of earnest, self-sacrificing spirit, who would allow themselves to be sent by the Bishop to allow themselves to be sent by the Distript of favorable openings in prosperous, growing towns, for the establishment of the Church, we would gladly accept them and assign them to duty where we feel certain they would be cared for, and where, in a comparatively short space of time, they would gather congregations and build comfortable Churches. There can be no more favorable missionary field in the whole American Church than we have right here in Indiana, and it is high time the Church assert herself more boldly, and go forth deter-mined to win and conquer for Christ and the Church. The experience of the last four years has demonstrated that there are no obstacles to the Church's progress in Indiana that may not be overcome by patient, perse-vering and wise work, and that there is no Diocese that will make more liberal return for work bestowed upon it.

The steady increase of offerings for Diocesan Missions and Diocesan Church Building Fund has been most encouraging, and the part the children of the Sunday-schools have taken by devoting their Lenten offerings, has not been an unimportant one, exceeding that of any previous vear.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

The work of Christian education, which I consider one of the most important branches of our work, has made decided progress the past year, and is full of promise for the future. By anticipating the income of the Howe trust fund for a couple of years, the means were secured to greatly enlarge the capacity of the Howe Grammar School. The old particle Church decayed by Mr. James Howe and ish Church, donated by Mr. James Howe and Mrs. John B. Howe, was moved over to our school property and converted into commo-dious school and recitation rooms on the first floor, and dormitories for twenty-five boys on the second. Mrs. Howe put in bath rooms and a furnace, and presented the school with a piano. She has also built a suitable gym-nasium. Besides this generous expenditure of their means for the proper equipment of the school, they and their friends have pro-vided several scholarships for deserving boys, two of them sons of the clergy, so that now we have accommodations for from thirty to forty boys. The number of pupils in attendance the past year has been twenty. The management of the school by Mr. Spalding has been entirely satisfactory. The patrons of the school have expressed their delight with the progress of the boys. I can honestly recommend the school to the parents of the Diocese as a safe place for their boys, and in all its arrangements above the average of similar schools.

The Young Ladies' Institute, of Indianapo-The Young Laures institute, of infutinispo-lis, alluded to in my address a year ago, was opened in our Diocesan school building by Froi. James Lyon and wife, in September last, as a day school. The attendance for the year was beyond our expectation, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyon have given entire satisfaction to its patrons. Thirty-two pupils have been in attendance, and the income for tuition left a comparatively small balance for the Bishop to meet. The promise for the second year is to receive twenty boarding pupils in September, and the Principals have engaged an able corps of teachers to aid them in their work. We ask the generous patronage of Churchmen in this effort to provide a Christian school for the training of their daughters in our midst. It is a bold venture of faith to attempt this work, but its importance to the Church and society warrants, in the judgment of your Bishop, the venture. It will be a grand success if Churchmen will entrust their daughters to its care in preference of sending to other institutions, where it may cost more, but the advantages and opportunities for intellectual and moral training will be no better, if as good.

BARKER HALL, MICHIGAN CITY.

It gives me great pleasure in this connection to mention the continued success of the tion to mention the continued success of the venture in Christian education of the faithful Rector of Trinity Charch, Michigan City, the opened a school a year ago last September in the basement of his Church, and was agreeably surprised to receive seventy-fee children, requiring three teachers. He has made it a first class school in every respect, and the community have appreciated and materials of the contraction of the contr patronized it. A generous layman of his par-ish, to whom God had given the means, notic ing the cramped and unsuitable character of the accommodation for the school, was moved, as a memorial of dear children taken to Para-dise, to erect beside the Church a splendid school and parish house, completely equipped and furnished for its work, at a cost of $10. 000. This I had the pleasure of dedicating on the first Sunday in Advent, on the occasion of the celebration by the parish of the semicentennial of its organization. The school now enrolls ninety pupils, with a corps of four competent teachers. In the Master's name, I thank him for this consecration of his means for the blessed work of Christian education. It is worthy of imitation.

I take especial pleasure in mentioning another school which, though of a somewhat different character, is none the less doing a blessed work. The parish of St. James', Vinblessed work. The parish of St. James, Yin-cennes, last, year secured a valuable property, located in the north part of their city, in the midst of a large working population. A Bun-day-school and Industrial School was gathered by the hard-working Rector. Major W. P. Gould, U. S. A., seeing the opportunity for a useful work in behalf of the children, offered useful work in behalf of the children, offered to provide the entire support of a day echool in the Chapel building. The offer was ac-cepted, and a most interesting school, enrolling fifty pupils, has been maintained throughout the year, with marked good effect upon the pupils and the neighborhood. All praise for this wise devotion of means to a noble IMPROVEMENT IN CHURCH PROPERTY.

In many of our parishes there has been a care manifested in the maintenance and improvement of the Church buildings and furniture that is delightful to observe. Christ Church, Madison, has spent $1,800 in putting their entire Church property — Church, Chapel and Rectory in first class condition. St. James's, Vincennes, spent several hundred dollars in building a parish room, enlarging the Rectory and refitting and repairing their Church, and are about to purchase a new pipe organ at a cost of $2,000. Grace Church, in this city, has spent several hundred dollars in the improvement of its building. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Viele, of Evansville, besides maintaining Holy Innocents Church among a large working population, have just built a beautiful stone chapel at a cost of $5,000, beside their elegant parish church, and have ex-pended several thousand dollars in rebuilding the house adjoining the Church property for a rectory, all of which is freely given to their parish Church, making with Church, chapel, rectory and commodious parish buildings, one of the finest Church properties in the country.

It is a great pleasure to mention the beneficence of this devoted Church family to the Church, and it is worthy of imitation in its degree in other places.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Latta, of Boston, but still retaining their summer home at Goshen, have built a pretty and admirably planned rectory, furnished with furnace and bathroom, beside St. James' Church, and deeded it to the vestry. It has cost $2,500. Our gratitude is due to these friends for their generous remembrance of their former parish.

There has been a great revival of Church life in St. John's, Elkhart, under the ministrations of Mr. Adams, culminating in a united effort to build a rectory on their eligible lot adj ining the Church, and resulting in the sum of $1,500 secured, and a comfortable rectory is of $1.000 secured, and a comfortable rectory is now being built. This substantial gain to these two parishes of a home for their clergyman, and the saving of heavy rent, must render them soon independent of missionary aid. There have been great improvements in the Church building of St. Thomas', Plymouth, and the earnest and devoted Rector has been greatly encouraged by the hearty co-operation of his people. Christ Church in this city, has put in new furnaces, re-carpeted and cushioned their church, and put beautiful tiling in the vestibule at a cost of $1,500. St. John's, Lafayette, are about to build a new chancel, organ room and vestry room, and greatly improve their Church building, at an entire cost of $3,000, which has been secured. I might mention many other cases, but time fails. Substantial reduction of Church indebtedness has been made in Trinity, Fort Wayne;

ENDOWMENT OF THE DIOCESE.

ENDOWNEST OF THE DIOCESS.

At the request of the Convention I undertook the work of the endownent of the Diocees. In the plan I adopted I allowed seven years for its completion, and every parish and mission to do the own full share by subscribing the capital, which, at 6 per cent, produces the capital, which, at 6 per cent, produces the The August State of the with. The progress made thus far has sur-passed my most sanguine expectations. Wherever it has been presented its reasonableness and desirableness has been admitted and the method of accomplishment commended. The Treasurer reports at this date mended. The Treasurer reports at this date $5,000 to the credit of this fund. I am able to report that about one-third of the parishes have subscribed their full proportion of the entire capital, about one-third more have made a substantial beginning, whilst in about one-third more nothing has been done as yet, and the Bishop has had no opportunity of per-sonally presenting it to them. I feel confident that within the time set this grand object will be completed, an object which all lovers of the Church in Indiana should wish well, and do what they can to further. In a number of parishes it has not been presented because the Bishop does not deem the time opportune. They have been engaged in parish improvements or the payment of indebtedness which, when paid, will prepare the way for this.

There have been some generous offerings made, of which I will mention only one at this time. Mr. James Howe, of Lims, paid in cash the whole quota of his parish, $800. On all amounts paid in, previous to this Convention, the parishes will be entitled to a discount of 6 per cent. on their annual assessments, and so on at each Convention.

and so on at each Convention.

SIX DELUSIONS WITH RESPECT TO THE ENGLISH CHURCH.

1. It is a delusion that the Church of Eng land was ever Roman, or ever acknowledged. as a Church, any subjection to the Pope, or any other relation but that of an independent English Church (or Churches) established by the preaching of missionaries from Rome, accepted by kings and people of what we call England.

2. It is a delusion that the Church of England second or separated from Rome, as in-deed she could not if she was always independent of her. She was, in fact, so insular that she had no occasion even to protest, as the German Protestants at Spires. She renounced certain mediæval errors promulgated from Rome, and at a certain stage in her reform the Pope desired all English who would follow him to withdraw from attending English Church services, and so the Pope made a (not very large) Roman schism in England, which remains till this day in our English Roman

3. It is a delusion that the Church of England was a different Church after the Refor mation from before, any more than England is a different country because she has abrogated the slave trade, or had a Reform Bill, or than a drunkard's personal identity is lost if he reforms

4. It is a delusion that King, Queen and Parliament either reformed the Church or ordered that the Pope should no longer be her hes The Church declared, what she has repeatedly testified on occasions of encroachment, that the Pope never had any more authority over her than any other foreign Bishop. Civil en-actments maintained that declaration, at home and abroad, in secular action upon it.

5. It is a delusion that the recognition of o. It is a declaration that the recognition of the Royal supremacy meant or means any spiritual headship, or anything else than what had always been asserted—that the clergy of England, as well as the laity, are subject to English law, without appeal against it to a foreigner like the Pope; that the last appeal of all alike is to the Sovereign. It is strange, in the face of the very strong works of Henry and Elizabeth, that any delusion on this exists.

6. It is a delusion that Parliament settled the Church of England, or even that the Church is subject to Parliament now, except in matters affecting personal or property rights. The Church reformed her errors herself; her Prayer-book and her Articles are her own work. The Act of Submission, which is the limitation of her action, is in theory no more for her than for Parliament itself. It requires Convocation, as the Conqueror required, to be summoned by the Sovereign, as Parliament itself must be, and it requires that canons must have Royal assent for their enactment, just as Acts of Parliament themselves must have it. That has been the relation of councils and princes since Christianity was a recog-nized religion. Personal and property rights cover a great deal of ground, and civil compulsion in such matters can only be derived from acts of Parliament; but Church author-ity is often of as much importance as civil force for obtaining action in Church matters, and the limitation upon that is not Parliament, but the Crown, as it has always been in Eng land, at least since the Conquest.

HAVE YOU MADE YOUR WILL.

If so, is God remembered therein? The silver and the gold are His. Have you given Him His tithes? He it is who giveth the power to get wealth. Have you rendered in acknowledgment of His goodness, a thank-offering to His Church and cause? All you have is His. Have you given use Him these base is His. Have you given unto Him that which is his due—that which He has given you to use for Him? The Church's missions demand remembrance; the work of the Diocese should not be forgotten; our college and theological hall, our schools for girls and boys are to be provided for; there are Church charities to be started and sustained; the Episcopate fund should be increased; the Episcopate fund should be increased; the greater endowment of our diocesan missionary work is especially to be desired; there are parochial activities to be supplied with means; the older and still feeble congrewith means; the older and still feeble congregations of our communion scattered throughout the State require help. There is much to be done. The "unrighteous mammon" may be made a friend by a wise and Christian use of it. Think of these things in arranging for of it. Think of these things in arranging for the control of in your last will and testament; and if you are Christ's, and have given yourself to Him, "keep not back part of the price."—Iows

LETTER TO THE CHILDREN.

Dear Children .-- I have no offerings to report to you this month, but I am glad to be able to tell you that our Treasurer, Mr. L. B. Martin, reported to the convention that there was in the bank for the Orphanage Fund $363, and for the Cot Fund $175. Now we enter upon a new year, and let us all try to do our best to have these two funds grow as fast as possible the coming year. You know these two objects belong to the children to care for.

FAMILY PRAYER.

There is one mark of a household in which There is one mark of a household in which god is known and loved, and which is too often wanting in our day—I mean the practice of family prayer. Depend upon it, the worth of a practice of that kind can only be measured by its effects during a long period of time; and family prayers, though occupying only a few minutes, do make a great difference to any household at the end of a year the contract of the contract of the family, the old and the young, the parents and the children, the master and the servants, meet on a looking of perfect equality before the Eternal, footing of perfect equality before the Eternal in whose presence each is as nothing or less than nothing: yet, to whom each is so infinitely dear that He has redeemed by his blood each and all of them? How must not the bad spirits that are the enemies of pure and bad spirits that are the enemies of pure and bright family life flee away—the spirits of envy and pride, and untruthfulness and sloth, and the whole tribe of evil thoughts, and make way for His gracious presence in the hearts of old and young alike, who, as He brings us one by one nearer to the true end of our existence, so does He, and He alone, make us to be "of one mind in a house," here within the arrow resence of each home within the narrow presence of each home circle, and hereafter in that countless family of all nations, and kindred, and people and tongues, which shall dwell with Him, the universal parent of all eternity.—Canon Lid-

LETTER FROM THE BISHOP.

GREAT BARRINGTON, MASS., July 21, 1887. Dear Worker: We left Indianapolis for our summer vacation Wednesday evening July 13th, at 7:30 P. M. The thermometer was well up into the nineties and the heat almost prostrating. But when we had gotten well under way and out of the city a reviving breeze was created by the rapid motion of the cars and we passed a comfortable night, the first in a week. We breakfasted at Cleveland, and at 2:30 P. M. arrived at our destination, Chautauqua Lake, and were cordially welcomed at the Chantauqua House as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Fox of the Becksel House, Dayton, and proprietors also of the Chautauqua, commanding a beautiful view of the lake and its surroundings. Here we were cordially welcomed also by Rev. P. Macfarlane, the late rector of St. James, Vincennes, where he did a splendid work for the church. He has returned to Mayville, his old parish, for the benefit of his wife's health. He has a pretty village church and is much beloved and respected, and is doing an excellent work. We were indebted to him during a week's stay here for many courtesies. One day was devoted to a trip on the lake to Jamestown, getting a good view of all the summer resorts here, Chautauqua Point, Lake Side, Chautauqua, etc. The air was delightfully cool and refreshing, though the reports from all over the country indicated a fearful temperature. One any benefactions to the church as yet, but it day was spent in visiting the former Chautau- is to be hoped they will come. We have qua Assembly grounds, in which we were learned of one noble act of this lady worthy much interested. The assistant secretary, of mention. Her Rector here, an old friend ampitheater with seating accommodations for should be restored. It is pleasant to learn of 5,000 people. A concert rehearsal was in such an act of generosity to one of God's progress. We looked in upon the hall of phi-servants. We go from here next Tuesday to which we were grateful.

On Lay Work—Rev. J. J. Faude, Rev. Dr. losophy and found a large audience listening Bradley, Rev. Dr. Kemp, Messrs. F. E. Marsh, to a learned discourse which we had not time to a learned discourse which we had not time to take in. Then the hall of languages, an immense new building just completed, in which all kinds of languages are taught for summer recreation. We saw, also, Jerusalem in plaster, and Palestine also. A part of a day was spent delightfully in taking a glance at this famous place.

> Sunday I preached morning and evening in the village church for Mr. Macfarlane, and attended the early celebration at 7:30 A. M. Mr. Macfarlane has a vested choir and a delightfully hearty service. It was a pleasure to spend Sunday with him, and made us regret the necessity for his departure from Indiana. Mr. Macfarlane has a mission station in the country three miles distant, where he holds a service every Sunday afternoon in a beautiful chapel, erected during his former ministry. Wednesday, July 20, we arrived at Great Barrington, among the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts, for a week's stay at the Berkshire House, filled with a hundred summer boarders from all parts of the country. The weather is delightfully cool, the scenery charming and our surroundings of the most delightful character. The rector of the beautiful stone church here has kindly invited me to preach next Sunday morning and on Monday evening, being the Festival of St. James and the anniversary of the parish. He has also given the opportunity to me to make an appeal in behalf of the mission work in Indiana and to give the Sunday morning offering, a privilege I was not slow in accepting, and hope it may be a generous one.

In this village resides Mrs. Hopkins, a wealthy churchwoman, widow of one of the California millionaires. She is building a home, or rather a villa, to cost $1,000,000. She has built for the Congregational Church here, to which her parents belonged, a $100,000 stone parsonage, and placed in their church a $24,000 organ. She is a comparatively recent convert to the church, and we do not learn of Mr. Whitesides, a churchman, placed a car- of mine, broke down in health, and she sent riage at our disposal to drive about the him and his family, wife and five children, grounds and showed us many attentions, for out to California, and took care of them for a year, and placed a liberal sum in bank subject We visited the grand assembly-room, an to his order, to care for him until his health spend a week in New London, Conn., thence about the 1st of August to my old home at Schaghtcoke, where, and in its vicinity, we shall spend the month of August recuperating for another campaign in Indiana, one which, we hope and pray, may bring forth good results for the advancement of the Church. With good wishes for the readers of THE D. B. KNICKERBACKER.

If we have not genuine piety at home we have it not anywhere. If we have not genuine grace in the family circle, all our outward and public plausibility merely springs from a fear of the world, or from the slimy, putrid pool of our own selfishness.

BISHOP HOLLY.

J. Theodore Holly, the nagro Bishop of Hayti, a native of the United States, and con-secrated in Grace Church, New York City, who, during the gathering of the Bishops of the Anglican Church in London, was much honored by all his brethren, and who preached in Westminster Abbey on St. James' day, closed his address with the following eloquent words and remarkable prayer:

"And now, on the shores of old England, the cradle of that Anglo-Saxon Christianity by which I have been in part, at least, illuminated, standing beneath the vaulted roof of this monumental pile, redolent with the piety of by-gone generations during so many ages; in presence of the

'Storied urn and animated bust'

that hold the sacred ashes and commemorate that hind the secret sames and commemorate the buried grandeur of so many illustrious personages, I catch a fresh inspiration and new impulse of the divine missionary spirit of our common Christianity; and here, in the presence of God, of angels, and of men, on this day sacred to the memory of an apostle whose blessed name was called over me at my baptism, as I lift up my voice for the first and perhaps only time in any of England's sainted shrines, I dedicate myself anew to the work of God, of the gospel of Christ, and of the salvation of my fellow-men in the far distant isle of the Caribbean sea that has become the chosen field of my special labors.

"O, Thou Saviour Christ, Son of the living

God, Who, when Thou was spurned by the Jews of the race of Shem, and Who, when delivered up without cause by the Romans of the race of Japheth, on the day of Thy cruci-fixion hadst Thy ponderous cross borne to Golgotha's summit on the stalwart shoulders of Simon, the Cyrenian, of the race of Ham; I pray Thee, O precious Savior, remember that forlorn, despised and rejected race, whose son bore Thy cross, when thou shalt come in the power and majesty of Thy eternal king-dom to distribute Thy crowns of everlasting glory

"And give to me, then, not a place at Thy right hand or at Thy left, but only the place of a gate-keeper at the entrance of the holy city, the New Jerusalem, that I may behold my redeemed brethren, the saved of the Lord, entering therein to be partakers with Abra-ham, Isaac and Jacob of all the joys of Thy glorious and everlasting kingdom

THE CHORAL SERVICE

The late Henry Ward Beecher, who visited

The late Henry Ward Beecher, who visited England a few years ago, in one of his letters gave the following graphic description of the effect upon himself in listening to the choral service of the Church of England: "The service began. You know my mother who, until her marriage, in the communion of the properties of the provide of the provider left me as I sat, grateful for the privilege of worshiping God through a service that had expressed so often her devotions. I can not expressed so often her devotions. I can not tell you how much I was affected. I had never had such a trance of worship, and I shall never have such another view until I gain the gate.

"I am so ignorant of the church service that I can not tell the various parts by their right names; but the portions which most affected me were the prayers and responses which the choir sang. I had never heard any part of the supplication—a direct praye sung by the choir; it seemed as though I had heard not with my ear, but with my soul. I was dissolved; my whole being seemed to be was unsorver, my wince being seemed to be waited gratefully toward (60... The Drivine presence arose before me in wondrous majes-try, ineffable gendleness and goodness, and it seemed irresistibly, yet gently, drawn toward 60... My soul, then thou didst magnify the in consideration in the selection of the num-Lord, and rejoice in the God of thy salvation! ber and character of her studies.

And then came to my mind the many exalta-tions of the Psalms of David, and never before tions of the resume or DAVId, and never before were the expressions and figures so noble and so necessary to express what I felt. I had so necessary to express what I felt. I had where David was when he conceived the things which he wrote. Throughout the serv-vice—and it was an hour and a quarier long— wherever an 'Annen' occurred, it was given by the choir, accompanied by the organ and the congregation.

that swell and solemn cadence vet "Oh! ringing in my ears. Not once, not a single time, did it occur in that service, from beginning to end, without bringing tears from my eyes. I stood like a shrub in a spring morneyes. I stood nike a shrub in a spring morn-ing—every leaf covered with dew, and every breeze shook down some drops. I trembled so much at times that I was obliged to sit down. Oh! when in the prayers breathed forth in the strains of sweet, simple, solemn music, the love of Christ was recognized, how I then longed to give utterance to what that love seemed to me! There was a moment when the heavens seemed open to me, and I when the heavens seemed open to me, and 1 saw the glory of Golf. All the earth seemed to me a storehouse of images, made to set forth the Redeemer, and I could scarcely keep from crying out. I never knew, I never dreamed before, of what heart there was in the word Amen. Every time it swelled forth and died away solemnly, not my lips, not my mind, but my whole being, said: Savior, so let it be."

A queer sign of the times is the fact that a Romish bishop of this day and country, pre-sumably a man of some learning, finds it ndecessary to his cause to revive the absurd and worn-out "Nag's Head" story, in order to discredit the orders of the Church of England. He speaks of churchmen as "willing to place their dependence for time and for eternity upon a ceremony held at a London tavern, doubtful as to fact, doubtful as to form, and denounced by many of their own number (!) as a blasphemous comedy." It would be interesting to hear the name of one among these mythical "many;" even one to set against the well-known Roman Catholic names of Lingard, Courayer, Bossuet and Butler, illustrious in theology and history, the last of whom says that "if there is one historical fact which the existing evidence should render indisputable, it is the fact of the consecration of Dr. Parker at Lambeth, December 17, 1559." Surely "Bp. Healy of Portland" ought to have chosen better ground to demolish Anglican Ordinations than this exploded fable of the seventeenth century.

"EXERCISE thyself unto godliness." The word in the original refers to gymnastics. Practice in being good. Use means, arts, selfdenial, labor, be ingenuous in seeking to be godly. It requires practice, training, exercise. This exhortation was to Timothy, a minister from the great Apostle.—Dr. N. Adams.

[From Prospectus Indianapolis Institute.]

In arranging a plan of study care has been harranging a pain of study care has been taken to keep in view the sphere of woman in her home and in society. The Indianapolis Institute aims to provide a finished English course, combined with a practical acquisition of the modern languages and of the other accomplishments.

Pupils whose parents wish them to pursue a classical course will be prepared to pass the examination required for admission to the college they expect to enter.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

ATTICA.—The Missionary at Attica has been supplied with tracts, prayer-books and bibles, by the Bishop. A church lady at Pittsburgh, near Attica, has begun a Sunday-school.

AUBURN.-Increasing interest is manifested here, and the time must soon come when a church building will be needed. From Garrett as a center, two county seats are ministered to Albion. The interest in the church in this growing county town is also full of encouragement. The Odd Fellows' Hall has been rented for service for six months, at $6 per month, and has been fitted up nicely by the ladies with chairs, lamps, etc. A lot has also been purchased as a site for a church. Owing to the difficulty of securing a regular place of meeting for services, the necessity is forced upon the mission of taking immediate steps toward building a church. The mission has some earnest workers, and we doubt not they will find sympathy and substantial encouragement in the community. They will need generous aid from the Diocesan Church Building Fund, Mr. Jephson has gathered a Sunday-school of 40 children, and his efforts deserve, and doubtless will, find encouragement BRISTOL .-- On Sunday evening, July 10, a delightful missionary meeting was held in St. John's Church, Rev. J. G. Miller, rector. The church was well filled with an attentive congregation, the responses hearty and the music good, accompanied by organ and cornet. The Bishop and Mr. Spalding drove over from Lima, a distance of twenty miles, and Mr. Adams from Elkhart, thirteen miles. The address of Mr. Adams on Diocesan Missions, and Mr. Spalding on Christian Education and the Endowment, produced a marked impression. The determination was expressed by many that the parish quota of the Endowment Fund should soon be forthcoming. The venerable Senior Warden, Mr. Hanford, though very feeble, made a special effort to be here and at Mishawaka also. H. has a Sunday school of seventy-five scholars at Bristol.

COLUMBIA CITY.-An excellent church woman here sent a donation for the endowment fund and for diocesan missions, adding: Our church prospects are about the same as when you were here. They do not brighten, but I kindly furnished the paint for painting the hope that some time we may have the bless church, and a citizen has promised to apply it. ing of our Church here.

who are nobly sustaining their pastor in his efforts to build up the church in their midst. They intend to fence the church yard, lay down the sidewalk and put all in good order. The progress of the church here the past six months has been most encouraging.

GOSHEN .- On the 5th Sunday after Trinity an interesting service was held in St. James Church that drew a large congregation. A military company of young men were present at church, and the rector preached on Christian manliness. The weekly communion has been established in the parish. The rector has recently organized his young ladies into St. Agnes Guild for the purpose of uniting those who have been confirmed in such a bond that they may be helpful to one another in their efforts to serve God faithfully and to do good in their generation. Every member is expected to observe the following rules: 1. To use daily the memorial and collects of the Guild. 2. Unless reasonably hindered, devoutly to prepare for and receive the Holy Communion at least once a month. 3. To attend meetings of the Guild. 4. To perwith the other members and to behave modestly and gently at all times.

INDIANAPOLIS .-- Christ Church is to celebrate the semi-centennial of the founding of the parish in October. It will be a great event in the history of the parish. Steps are being taken to make it a red-letter occasion. GRACE CHURCH.-The Rev. W. H. Bamford has presented to the Bishop's church an elegantly carved altar and super-alter of black walnut wood. Mr. Bamford will be permanently associated with the work of Grace Church.

LAFAYETTE.-The work of improving St John's Church is progressing favorably. Dr. Pettis will spend his vacation in looking after it. The vestry have had the excellent sermon present. Mr. Miller is doing a good work preached by Rev. Allen Johnson, at the semicentennial celebration, printed; also, the chaste and eloquent memorial addresses of Judge Turpie and Mr. John L. Wilstach, commemorative of the founders of the parish. It is a valuable historical pamphlet.

LAGRANGE .- Mr. James Howe, of Lima, has

ORDINATION SERVICES AT LIMA .- On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 7, 8, and 9, the Bishop presided at the examination of William Sunday in July twenty-three received the G. Woolford, a graduate of St. Stephens College, Annandale, and the General Theological Seminary, N. Y., Rev. Mr. Spalding and Dr. Barton acting as special examiners for the occasion. The candidate passed his three examinations most creditably, and to the entire satisfaction of the Bishop and the examiners. The ordination took place in the St. Marks Church, Lima, Sunday, July 10, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., a It is being finished energetically by the con- large congregation being present. sion has an earnest band of working women, He also preached the sermon, which was beautiful and touching in its allusion to the affectionate relations that had existed between the preacher and the candidate. The newly ordained candidate read the gospel and assisted the Bishop in administering holy communion. Major F. E. Marsh, of Grace Church, Indianapolis, was present, and served the Bishop in cassock and cotta. One young man was presented by Mr. Spalding, the rector, and received confirmation. The large number of communicants present and receiving was a notable feature of the service. The organ was presided over by Mr. James Howe, who for forty years has discharged this labor of love. The music was excellent. This beautiful memorial church was admired by the strangers present

Madison.-We clip the following from the Madison Courier: Rev. John Moncure tendered his resignation as pastor of Christ Church last night, this climate not agreeing with Mrs. Moncure's health. The resignation takes effect August 1. This announcement will be read with sincere regret by the many friends of the popular young rector, both in form faithfully the work appointed by the and outside of his congregation. Mr. Mondirectress. 5. To cultivate friendly relations cure has made a host of friends since his residence here by his genial manners and amiable character. During his pastorate the accessions to the church have been unusually large, and increased life has been manifested in every direction. The Courier voices the sentiment of the community in wishing him God-speed wherever he goes and the complete and permanent restoration to health of Mrs. Moncure.

> MARION.-The Rev. Mr. Henry, of Muncie, kindly visited Gethsemane Mission on the first Sunday in July and held two services, celebrating holy communion. The mission is to have the benefit of a resident clergyman for a time, the Rev. Mr. Woolford going there until the middle of September. It is hoped to secure a clergyman to take charge of the mission in the autumn.

> NEW HARMONY .- Rev. Mr. Cole, who visits here, is greaty encouraged by the interest taken in the services and in the renovation of the church building. Substantial subscriptions were also received from this mission the past month for the Endowment Fund of the Dio-PETERSBURGH AND WASHINGTON. - Dean Cole visited these missions in June and July, and had good congregations. The mission at Washington will endeavor to secure a place for Sunday services, and will be associated with St. Matthews, Worthington, for alternate Sunday services as soon as a clergyman can be secured for them.

A sermon both short and good is perfect, A sermon both short and good is perfect, and needs no spology. A short, poor sermon has an apology for its poorness in its brevity. A long, good sermon has an apology for its length in its goodness. But a long, poor sermon admits of no apology, and the attempt to make one makes it both longer and poorer. Therefore proceed to business without apology.—Christian Advocate.

THE Christmas term of the Howe Grammar School for boys and girls, at Lima, opens on the second Wednesday in September, the 14th day of that month,

This is a double number of the Church WORKER. Our next issue will be on the 28th of September of the October number. We hope then to enter upon a new era of usefulness and financial prosperity.

THE hot season is upon us and there will be a lull in church work for a couple of months and a gathering of strength for pushing work in the autumn. Still, our Diocesan items indicate that there is considerable life in the rural parishes, and that the good work goes on summer and winter.

THE Bishop has recently purchased a tract of thirty acres of hard-wood timber land on a beautiful chain of lakes in the vicinity of Lima, with a view of erecting, in time, a summer resort for the clergy and churchmen who may desire to avail themselves of it. An association, in due time, will be formed, the tract laid out into lots, and privileges disposed of to churchmen for cottages. The plan includes a chapel, clergy house and cottages, boat-house and boats, bath-house, boarding-house, park, etc. It is the most northerly part of the State, in a charming section of country, easily ac- gous to good health and strength in body.

cessible; the air clear and bracing and the nights delightfully cool. The tract is situated on Twin Lakes, high and dry. It connects by an outlet with Pigeon River and Pigeon Lake. The fishing is fine, and the situation combines many advantages for a healthful, in July. quiet and moderate summer resort. It is intended to organize a joint stock association for its development, a share of the stock entitling each shareholder to perpetual lease of a good sized lot for cottage site and other common advantages. It may take a little time to mature plans and command means for its development. Here the clergy of the diocese will enjoy special privileges and advantages for a summer visit and change for their fam ilies at a very moderate rate. Here retreats may be held and convocations of the clergy. Here, also, churchmen who desire a quiet resting place and change, with church privileges, may find them at the least possible cost. The location is also within easy reach of the Howe Grammar School, and here the boys will spend their holidays and have their boathouse and bathing-house. It will prove an additional advantage to the school.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.

The arrangement was made by the Missionary Committee at the Convention to have the Deans of Convocation visit the parishes in their several districts with some of the neigh boring clergy and hold special missionary meetings to deepen the interest in this work and draw out the full measure of support for it. The aim will be to raise $5,000 the present Conventional year. Already the Dean of the Southern Convocation, Mr. Cole, is at work, and Dean Faude, for vacation work, is taking hold in the North. Attended by Mr. Rosevelt he held a rousing meeting at Garrett on the 25th of July. Dean Bradley, after his vacation. will also attend to it in the Central District, We look for grand results from these special missions in making churchmen familiar with the greatness of the work and their personal responsibility to make sacrifices to further it.

THE INDIANAPOLIS INSTITUTE FOR YOUNG LADIES.

The Bishop desires to speak an additional word of commendation of this school, He earnestly requests parents to consider its claims. No better school can be found in or out of the diocese. Will not parents and churchmen help to build up good institutions and of these institutions, and the sorteness of of learning in our midst? We have now a these privileges. If they are set apart to be grand opportunity if it is appreciated. Every affect will be made to make the school worthy are to tell fathers and mothers where their effort will be made to make the school worthy the patronage of churchmen. The house is furnished elegantly throughout. The rooms are large and airy. The location beautiful. The influences good, Already applications are coming in and the indications encourageing. THE HOWE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

The indications are that this school will receive a number of new boys. We should be glad to have its full capacity taken. Parents who send their boys will be more than satisfied. Already applications have come for three new boys from Indianapolis, one from Chicago, one from Aurora, and two from Fort Wayne. The Bishop heartily commends the school to parents.

How shall the educational provisions we now have come to be known and appreciated? This will be done whenever the ordained teachers of the Church, the Clergy, aided by a conscientious and impartial Church press, make it their stated and frequent duty to acquaint the laity with the nature and service sons and daughters may be safely guided and fed within the fold of Christ; they are to within the fold of Christ; they are to watch personally over the minds and hearts of the young of their flock; they are to point parents and children to accredited fountains of spiritual and intellectual light as stewards of God's manifold grace.

IMPORTANT TESTIMONY OF A BISHOP.

The following words are from the pen of the Assistant Bishop of Kansas, and are of such clearness and weight that we are inclined to give them a prominent place in our columns. Says he:

Never since I have been a minister in the Church of Christ have I known so many of all denominations feeling so kindly toward us, and inquiring with such interest in regard to the Episcopal Church. Prejudices against our ritual are fast giving way, and mistaken impressions in regard to our exclusiveness are fast being corrected.

The Anglican Church is now looked upon by the Greek, and the old Catholic, and the Lutheran, and by many in the denominations about us, as the only possible rallying point of a broken and disorganized Zion.

No body of Christians, it must, I think, be conceded by all, is more broad or more truly Cuthotic, than the Protestant Episcopal Church of America. We have an advantage, even over the Church of England, in that we are over the Church of England, in that we are not hampered by political connection with the state. We have taken for our model, not the Church of Constantine, but the Church of the Church of Constantine, but the Church of Timothy and Titus and Ignatius. We require no creed but the Apostles. We insist upon no human theories. We have no theory of inspi-ration, resting content in the belief that the Scriptures contain the Word of Life. We have no theory of the Trinity, but believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of Heaven and Earth; in Jesus Christ, His only Son our Lovel and in the Hoy Ghart. Her's was no common mental or spiritual life, and the manner of her demise was in accord with the beautiful service which she had for many years rendered to the church of her love, both in England and America

Her house was always open when occasion demanded, and her purse as well. She gave freely, not only of money but of sympathy and labor.

Although possessing a thorough education and rare accomplishments, Mrs. Miller was peculiarly an humble woman, reticent in regard to her own gifts, and rarely speaking of herself.

Her loss is one alike to her household, her social circle and the Diocese of Indiana, while the memory of her profound trust in God and The despites evitation taking which is a size of city, with twenty members, has raised $225 in the devotion to His church will be an inspirate and expended it for church improvements.

OPINIONATED RELIGIONISM

A Rev. Dr. Somebody has said that "In the great day of account, the Judge of quick and dead will not ask men what they thought about baptism, or to what church they be-longed," etc., and this very original remark is immediately quoted in the religious weeklies with approbation and evident satisfaction. It seems never to occur to the mind of the ordinary preacher that pert remarks of this sort are as silly as they are rash and irreverent. Who told the Rev. Dr. Somebody that the Judge of the quick and the dead does not care Judge of the quick and the dead does not care what men think about baptism? On what authority does this glib preacher set aside with one wave of his hand the words of Scriptwith one wave of his hand the words of scrip-ure? Jesus Christ will be the Judge of quick and dead; nothing is more certain than that. He does care about what "church" they be long to. He came to set up a kingdom. He long to. He came to set up a kingdom. He sent out the seventy to announce it. He commissioned a ministry to go everywhere, preaching, teaching, baptising—that is, receiving men into that kingdom. Said expressly "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." When men said to the Apost use, "What shall we do?" Hey said: "Repent and be baptized." Yet preachers and papers and the present of t ask men what they thought about baptism, or to what church they belonged." The impression intended is that these are matters of no sion intended is that these are matters or no importance; that the Savior does not care what we think as to these things. He does care. Why should He bave said all that He did about the Kingdom of God, if it be of no importance? Why have enjoined baptism, if mipotance: why have enjoured options, it be that about which it does not matter what we think? In the future as in the past, rash and irreverent men will, no doubt, presume to know what God thinks and what He will do. Still, it might be supposed that they would not contradict Scripture and the very words of our Savior.

REV. ALEXANDER CUNNELL, D. D., rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Washington, and one of the ablest and most distinguished of colored men, has written an interesting and instructive paper on the social and moral progress of his race in that city, in which he holds, among other things, that: "Since eman-cipation fully one third of the black race has risen to a superiority which runs parallel risen to a superiority with the country." Writing of the risen the south, he says: "The freed people of the South are feeing in large numbers from the rural districts, and overflowing both the large citize of the Atlantic sea-board and most and one of the ablest and most distinguished of large cities of the Atlantic sea-board and most of the great internal cities and inland towns. What caused this vast exodus? It is owing chiefly to the vile state of semi-serfdom int which the black farming population is held, and which has taken the place of the old system of slavery." He goes on to show that by means of the odious tenant system of the means of the odious tenant system of the South the colored people, as a rule, are pre-vented from acquiring landed interests, and that they are held in a perpetual bondage of debt, from which they finally flee in sheer deperation, seeking refuge where they may, seeking refuge where they may, cent outbreaks in South Carolina and Louisi-

HOWE GRAMMAR SCHOOL

The closing exercises of this school took place Thursday, June 30, the examinations having begun the previous Monday. The occasion was a significant one for the school, for now, at the end of its third year, its num-bers warranted a more formal closing than bors warranted a more formal closing than heretofore. Beginning three years ago with two boys, it has had an attendance the past year of twenty-one. This result has been attained quietly, and not by advertising, the astisation of the patrons of the school inducing other: to seek its advantages for their sons. These advantages are equal to the best. The examinations showed that the work had been faithfully done, in most cases by pupil as well as by teacher. It is seldom that so many perfect marks are given and deserved as in these examinations. This fact deserved as in these examinations. This late bears witness not only to earnest intellectual effort, but to the value of the system of the school, which sees to it that boys shall do their work, and by attention to their physical

Thursday morning all were engaged in decorating the school-room for the closing exercises. It was gracefully hung with flags and evergreen wreaths, and the portrait of the late John E. Lima, was wreathed in evergreens and flowers. In the afternoon the boys assembled for "last day," and, to witness their final efforts, a large audience was present, among them the parents of some who lived near. The closing exercises were the examinations in declamation and composition. After prayer, the boys sang heartily the 141st (Trinity) hymn, one of their number, Fred D. Eversole of Logansport, being the organist, and another, Henry S. Wade of Evansville, playing the violin. The "Wedding March," from Mendelssohn, was given as an overture upon the organ by Prof. Buddemeyer, the popular instructor in music, whose degree is from the Musical Con-

The three youngest boys of the school,
Frank Wade and Willie Yeagla, of Lima, and Perry Smedley, of Fort Wayne, followed with declamations and composition. The two first declamations and composition. The two first delighted the audience by the neatness and simplicity of their work, while Master Smed ley, who had made that continent a study, probably told the company more about Australia than many of them knew before. The interlude now was a Phantasie Capriccio from Mendelssohn. Thoughtful composi-tions followed from Edward J. Jones and William Rawles, of Lima, two of the older boys, and David Studebaker, ir., of Decatur, Ind., by his well studied declamation, gave us a foretaste of the pleasure of the juries who will listen to him hereafter.

The piece is difficult, but the boys acquitted themselves well, and their schoolmasters were especially well, the contrast between the wicked joy of Shylock at Antonio's losses and his abandonment to sacred grief for his own loss of the jewel which "he would not have given for a wilderness of monkeys."

The interlude was a pleasing duet of violin and piano by Charles Howe and Prof. Budde-meyer. Bryant's "Thanatopsis" was then excellently declaimed by Reginald Pearce, of Providence, R. I.

Charles King entertained all with "The Philosopher's Scales," and Fred Eversole en-lightened us, though in the daytime, with "The Moon." This composition should be heard to be appreciated. It was a capital mixture of science and fun; but all will sympathize in the consolation the author took to himself for our having as yet found no means to reach the moon. He spoke of the difficulties and pleasures of school life, and compared the "breaking" up at school with many more serious ones in life, and said that, many more serious ones in life, and said that, in spite of pleasant anticipations of vacation, we could not part without some serious thoughts. WHY "HISTORIC?"

The law of "succession" pervades all life and nature. Day succeeds day, and night night; and we do not question that to day is a successor of the first day. Harvest succeeds harvest; ripeness, ripeness; our grain and fruit are the success ors of the first grain and fruit of the earth. Parentage is succession, and we are all successors of Adam. In religious affairs there is the same law of hereditary transmission. If there be not a Biblical succession, then to and behold! have we no Bible. If the Bible from which the lessons and text of last Lord's day were taken be not in the succession, then it is a thing of yesterday or of some other recent origin, and therefore no Bible at all. If the ministry be not in due line of ministerial suc cession, then it is a recent invention, and of only that authority which comes of voluntary acceptance. Thus stands the question of his-toric orders upon the same basis upon which the Bible itself does. It is not a unique questhe Biole user does. It is not a unique ques-tion. It is not arbitrarily designated "his-toric;" historic it must be, or modern and self-willed. It is inherently an "historic" mat-ter; ministry, Bible and sacraments are all questions to be referred to authority, and authority is historic essentially. If there is no ministerial succession, there is no Biblical; but there is both.

INDIFFERENCE to, or entire neglect of, the church services on the Lord's Day, is the portentous evil of our times. Yet those culpable in this respect were nurtured in the Sunday-school. But on the plea of making the school pleasant, the children were bribe with prizes, festivals and picnics, the schools being crowded just before one of these occa-sions and depleted immediately after. But when the scholars get half way through their teens these inducements lose their attractive ness, and they desert the school altogether. They do not attend church because they never went to Sunday school out of love, duty or affection. And the Church has no bribes to offer when they leave the Sunday-school; there being nothing to attract them to the church, they remain away.

MANY think that the property of the English Church was taken from the Roman Catholics. This is not so. Most of the possessions now owned by the Church of England came to her either before the Norman Conquest. or since the Reformation. Saxon kings quest. or since the Reformation. Saxon kings and landlords gave it. From early days to the Conquest, the property was mostly glebes and estates. Since the Reformation, the property has largely increased by repairs and renovations, all paid for by non-Romanists. From the Conquest to the Reformation, the Church property consisted chiefly of monasteries and their endowments. Of these the Os a parish card we find the following inits:

"I AM on the bright side of seventy," said an aged man of God; "the bright side, because nearer to everlasting glory. As ripe fruit is sweeter than green fruit, so is age sweeter than youth, provided the youth were grafted into Christ. As harvest time is a brighter time than seed time, that is, if youth were a seed time for good, as the completion of a work is more glorious than the beginning, so is age more glorious than youth, that is, if the foundation of the work of God was laid in youth. TERMS.

It is believed that, owing to its advantage of location, its provision for the health and comfort of the pupils, its comprehensive course of study, and its superior corps of teachers, the Indianapolis Institute offers advantages unsupassed and in many respects unequaled. Parents are cordially invited to visit the Principals before deciding upon a school for their daughters.

FORWARD.

The cool weather has come. Clergy and people have returned to their homes refreshed and invigorated, and the WORKER is glad to welcome them back. The WORKER feels benefited by the rest, and intends to do its best work this year for the Church in Indiana. Let this, our jubilee year, be made the best in the history of the Diocese; the best in the spiritual fruits gathered in; in baptism, confirmation and faithful communions: the best in devotion and consecration to every good work. Let every individual churchman resolve to do his whole duty; to be a worker in God's vineyard; to help in the parish, the Sunday-school, the guilds. Let all work with one heart and mind. Resolve to put forth earnest, continued efforts for the extension of Christ's Holy Church in Indiana. Let the laity hold up the hands of the faithful clergy. Let the clergy lead on in doing good works. We have much to encourage us. What has God wrought for us in the past four years? Noble Christian schools founded; old mission churches, long closed, reopened; ten new mission churches built; five rectories built; services established in many new places, others asking for services; a hospital doing its merciful work; a nucleus for an orphanage; offerings doubled and trebled. Surely we ought to thank God and take coursge. Let the watchword all along the line be, Forward! Forward in every good word and work. Forward in occupying the noble places in Indiana. Forward in gathering the dear children into our Sunday-schools. Forward in preaching the blessed gospel. Forward in enlarging our offerings for missions and every good work. The good Lord helps those who help themselves. Let our missions go forward in aiming to become self-supporting as soon as possible, that the missionary -and they are very ready-may be allowed to go to build up the good work in other destitute places. Forward in the name of the Lord, dear brethren, all along the line in In-

THE ENDOWMENT FUND OF THE DIOCESE

The Bishop intends to push the securing of subscriptions for this important object as rapidly as possible the present year. The good beginning that has been made warrants the hope of its entire accomplishment at an early day. The work of securing it can be made light for the Bishop if every Churchman will realize the importance of it, and determine each one for himself, or herself, to do their full share. This accomplished, Indiana will be on a footing with the great majority of the Eastern Dioceses. Our parishes and missions will be relieved of what seems to many a sore burden to bear. The Bishop, then, would again call earnest attention to the matter, and ask Churchmen individually to send to him pledges of the amounts annually they will contribute toward it. Already two hundred pledges have been secured. We 30. should have a thousand before our Jubilee Convention. How many will contribute $1,000 each? How many $500? How many $250? How many $100? How many $50? How many $25 ?

LAY READERS.

The Diocese of Indiana has between thirty and forty lay readers. They should be a great 18 help to their respective clergy in aiding them in mission and outlying services, in organizing mission Sunday-schools, in visits and services at poor-houses, jails and infirmaries Every parish and every clergyman should have its outlying missions and Sunday-schools. The subject of lay work and lay co-operation is receiving a good deal of consideration from the clergy. Mr. William Cornwall, of Kentucky, and Judge Stotsenberg, of our own Diocese, have written wisely and well upon the subject. We trust the committee on lay work appointed at our last convention will give the subject careful thought and attention. in view of the great needs of our own Diocese, and will evolve some plan that shall interest the laity in church work to a far greater degree than has yet been done.

THERE will be a meeting of the Diocesan Board of Trustees at the Episcopal residence on Monday, October 8, at 11 o'clock.

As one of the first fruits of our mission at Greencastle, and as indicating the importance of our work at these educational centers, a graduate of DePauw University, who first came to know and love the Church through our mission there, has offered himself a candidate for Holy Orders. The number of our candidates is increasing, and it is important that every parish should remember the Theological Educational Fund this year.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

Though the month of July was intensely warm, and nany of the clergy taking their vacations in August, the Diocesan items below will indicate that there has been no general let-up to the work of the Church in Indiana; but that in a quiet, steady way much good work has been going on. We have been able to welcome a number of clergymen to the Diocese, from whose patient faithful labors the WORKER shall expect to receive many items. The WORKER, with the Bishop and clergy of the Diocese, extends to these newcomers the right hand of fellowship, and bids them welcome to the Diocese, and bids them Godspeed in their good work.

ALBION.-A lot has been secured for the site of a Church building for St. Mathew's Mission. If the community will encourage the project, by the aid of the Diocesan Church and thus the Church establish herself in another flourishing county seat. CRAWFORDSVILLE .- St. John's .- The missionary, Mr. Jenner, took a vacation in August, visiting Chicago and Plymouth. The work of this parish is going quietly on, and with promise of good things in the future. Mr. Jenner secured a pupil for the Indianapolis Institute.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of the Rev. A. George E. Jenner, for the purpose of organizing a Rector's Aid Society or Guild, which is to work under the direct supervision of the Rector, and by bi-weekly social and other entertainments it is hoped that in a short time a considerable sum can be raised toward the new Church Building Fund. A subscription list will be passed around in a few days, and it is hoped that liberal assistance will be given to this project in which the whole community should be interested. It is proposed to push this matter vigorously, and in a short time to erect a handsome edifice which shall be a credit to the city. The new Guild, which consists at the start of about twenty-five members, will not let the grass grow under their feet, and with fairly liberal aid can hardly fail to do much toward accomplishing this really necessary object.

DELPHI .- St. Mary's .- The missionary finds encouragement in holding services in Pittsburgh, a suburb of the town; also in visiting the poor houses in the two counties in which his work lies. He has distributed a good number of tracts and prayer books, and in this way is quietly making the Church known, With cooler weather he intends pushing his work in every way possible.

THOUGHTS TO ENCOURAGE.

We are all of us prone to see our own difficulties and the advantages of others, and there is great danger lest we exaggerate each, and, yielding to discouragement, relax our efforts where God has placed us, and, perhaps, with-out sufficient cause, change the field of our labors just when success was coming. Changes, are, indeed, sometimes necessary; but always something of risk is included, and usually there are certain losses. It would seem a safe rule that we should continue in the work to which God has been pleased to call us until He makes it plain that He wishes us for other service. The task He assigns us He will give us strength to fulfill; the work we think preferable might prove too hard for us. "Seekest thou great things for thyself? seek them not," is God's word to His servant of old, and his word to us now. Let us not be anxious for present ease or earthly enjoy-ment, remembering—

"Cruz ante coronam, Requies post laborem."
"The cross before the crown is won Rest comes when labor's done."

In no part of His vineyard is there more encouragement for faithful work than in this American Church, and in no part of it more than in the stirring West, so full of life and en, where God gives us our work to do. let us be "steadfast, unmovable, always abound-ing in the work of the Lord," and we shall find it preëminently true in our case that "labor is not in vain in the Lord."

MUNCIE. - Grace Church. - The lay reader, Mr. Edwin Olcutt, spent the months of August and September with his family at Charlestown, New Hampshire, where the Bishop had the pleasure of spending a week with him and his brothers. The parish has sustained a sad loss in the death of Mrs. Mary F. P. Kirby, wife of the Senior Warden of the Mission. She was a most devoted friend of the parish, doing all in her power to promote its welfare, and by her life and conversation manifested the life of Christ as imbibed from the Church. She leaves a husband and four dear children to mourn her departure, as well as aged parents. Her loss will be greatly felt in this par-the Mission Chapel, where girls are taught ish. Her end was peace. Rev. Mr. Henry, her pastor, ministered to her most acceptably in her sickness. Her memory will be very precious to this parish.

NEW ALBANY .- Mr. Leman is getting the work of this parish well in hand. He begins to know his people and his people to know him. We doubt not they will work together most cordially, and that a good work will be accomplished. Mr. Leman took a vacation through a part of September.

NEW CASTLE .- St. James' .- Mr. Engle, by the aid of lay readers, has a service here every Sunday, himself going the alternate Sunday. Rev. Mr. Bamford, of Grace Church, has given two Sundays here with great acceptance, and a good and quiet Church growth is going on.

NORTH LIBERTY .- Nr. Philip's .- Mr. Scott gave a Sunday evening service in August for Dr. Kemp. The Warden of the Mission has a lay service with good attendance every Sunday, and a Sunday-school with an attendance of fifty scholars gathering every Lord's day.

It is to be hoped that the parish may not remain long vacant.

PLYMOUTH.-Dr. Kemp remained at his post all summer, looking after Maxinkuckee and his various missions besides. His congregations have kept up well, and the outlook is good for another year of successful work.

RICHMOND.-Dr. Wakefield is to pay a visit to his old parish during October. He will be cordially welcomed to his old home and to the Diocese. He has done a noble work in California. His good wife will accompany him.

SOUTH BEND .- The WORKER has received from the Rector a copy of a printed sermon, on the relations of a Rector and his vestry, delivered the last of August. It is an able sermon, setting forth clearly the authority and

He speaks of the great kindness of his people. St. John's Mission School has been reopened, with Miss Wilson and her sister in charge-the same noble layman becoming responsible for the teachers' support who furnished it last year. This work is full of promise. The Chapel has also been fur-nished with an altar and dossel, and furniture for proper rendering of the services. An in-dustrial school is held on Friday afternoon at Ine anission Chapei, where girls are taught sewing and boys wood carving. Heathcoate R. McIlvaine is Superintendent of the Sun-day-school. On Thursday evening of each week there is a choral Evensong with address.

WORTHINGTON.-St. Mathew's Parish, so long vacant, has at last secured a Rector in Rev. J. A. McGlone, late of Western Michigan. He entered upon his work September 1, receiving a cordial welcome from the people. A general revival of Church life will be expected here. Mr. McGlone brings with him a good eputation as a worker. May his labors be greatly blessed.

Mr. Editor : The treasurer has gone to considerable trouble to notify the several parishes of their delinquency, and that the Diocese was in need of the money; also that the first quar-terly assessment for the year would be due September 1. This large delinquency on the part of the parishes should not be, and would not be, if the treasurers of the several parishes not be, if the treasurers of the several passesses would take hold and personally solicit among the parishioners. This would relieve the treasurer of the Diocese of a good deal of unnecessary work, and place the finances in such shape that the Bishop would not have the annoyance of looking after things that he should be relieved of. This is a duty the parishioners owe to their Bishop, and in no other way can the Diocese prosper

He was received most cordially and kindly, and every one seemed to be unanimous that it would be a grand thing to secure it. LAYING OF THE CORNER-STONE OF ST. MARY'S CHURCH, WILKINSON.

The Bishop, accompanied by Drs. Bradley and Jenckes, Rev. W. D. Engle, the missionary in charge, Miss Mary Engle as organist, and Mr. Taylor, of Christ Church choir, as cornetist, visited Wilkinson on Friday afternoon, to lay the corner-stone of the new Church in course of erection. The weather was beautiful; the attendance very large. The prescribed service was said by the Bishop who then made a brief address and introduced Dr. Bradley, who made an interesting and eloquent address suitable to the occasion. FILLING VACANCIES.

It is strange how little idea Vestries or the officers of missions have of the difficulty of RT, REV. D. B. KNICKERBACKER, D. D., Visitor. finding ministers.

As an illustrative case, the Bishop, after painful correspondence and inquiry, finds a clergyman whom he has reason to think will prove an excellent selection. He writes the Parish. They have nothing to say against the person, from the information they have they should judge he would be the minister they need. But they are not just ready; they borrowed a sum to pay up the late Rector and it has not yet been paid, or they have had a debt for some time, and this seems a good way to pay it.

So they decline to act, the Bishop's correspondence and anxiety is all lost, the clergyman finds work in another Diocese.

man finds work in another Diocese.

Time passes on. Finally there comes a letter from the Vestry. Things are in a bad way. The people are getting scattered, raising money in the vacancy has not proved a success; the Sunday-school, the Ladies Society, everything, is drooping. The Bishop This is no favor wise/or, there are Parishes Defining the Company of the Compan

THE following timely words of the good Bishop of Western Michigan, in the Church Helper, we are glad to transfer to our columns. The experience of the Bishop of Indiana is very much that of his brother of Western Michigan :

"He would not suit our parish." This is a common remark, even when the Bishop rec-ommends a minister. It compels the Bishop to say, "Well, then, you must find a clergy-man for yourselves. I have done all I could to help you." The remark generally implies, to help you." The remark generally implies, 'Our parish is very particular—we want a good preacher, an excellent pastor, and a man who will fill up our Church, and make the support easy." Of course this is all very desirable, but such ministers are not to be found lying around loose, they are generally in good places, and there must be some decided at traction to draw them away.

Do our friends ever think there is a good deal in our parish that would not suit the clergyman we want?

In most employments the compensation is reasonableness that keeps a parish vacant un-til it is less and less desirable for any minister. Often in the end the Vestry are glad to get any one to take it.

LETTER TO THE CHILDREN

Dear Children of the Church in Indiana-How do you all do? You have had, I hope, a happy summer, and, with September, have entered upon another school year determined to improve your opportunities and make good progress in your studies I hope, too, you have entered upon Sunday-school work with determination to do your best in learning and comprehending the good old Catechism of the Church. I am anxious to have all our boys and girls understand it thoroughly, and to love God's house, and to love to go to Church. I hope you are going to do good work this year for the Cot Fund and for the Orphanage, as also for our Diocesan Missions. Ithink nearly every one of our boys and girls can do something handsome for the Orphanage this year if they try real hard. We have now about $400 in the Orphanage Fund and $175 in the Cot

Miss Wright's class of five little girls in St. Mark's Sunday-school, Lima, viz.: Nellie Curtis, Ella Tibey, Jennie Atwater, Bertha Frank and Grace Binita, sent me $3.07 for the Cot. What a grand thing it would be for every class to do something in this way. A niece of the Bishop's, Mrs. Kate Jay, gave him $5 for the Orphanage, and a cousin, J. K., $4. Then your Bishop held a service in the old red school-house in his native town of Schaghticoke, and here he received $2.50. So you see the fund is growing and we hope it will in With love, crease very fast this year.

JUBILEE YEAR.

This is the Jubilee Year of the Diocese of Indiana. The next Diocesan Convention proposes to celebrate it in a becoming manner by having the history of the Diocese recounted. It will be a noble record of self-denial and honest, hard work and sacrifice for the Church of Christ. Every Churchman of the Diocese should be interested in the coming celebration of the semi-centennial. It is proposed by the Diocesan Missionary Committee to double the offerings of the Diocese this year for Diocesan Missions. This means each parish doing the Worker not identified with parish or misat least double for these objects this year what sion, who do nothing for the support or help has been done any preceding year. All have not reached the standard of $1 per communicant. Hardly over fifty cents a communicant has yet been paid. Let us this Jubilee Year come up to this fair standard.

Then, this Jubilee Year the subscriptions for the Endowment should be completed. Every Churchman should take stock in it; should assist according to his ability. The Bishop will try to reach every parish, but it can not be expected that he can call on every individual Churchman. It should not be necessary. Every reader of the Worker who has not Endowment Fund should do so at once Prompt action on the part of every reader of the WORKER will insure success in the matter, and add greatly to the joy of the Jubilee.

THE CHURCH WORKER is intended to reach the home of every Churchman in Indiana. If any of our readers know of a Church family were only earnest and faithful sons and daughwhich does not receive it, we shall be glad to ters, a few in each town would be the little send it to them if they will forward the name to the editor. should put themselves in correspondence with the Bishop or the nearest clergyman, and a visit will be arranged for without cost. It is not necessary always to secure a church building; a cottage service can be held in any home, the baptism and Holy Communion celebrated therein. Semetimes we find it is not easy to procure public buildings, because of trouble or expense attendant upon it. Never mind it; arrange for the service in some home. The dear Lord has promised His presence wherever two or three are gathered together in His name.

THERE are a large number of the readers of -mu should be regular contributors to our mission work, Church building fund, and for the support and endowment of the Diocese. One of the greatest hinderances to our growth is the number of "dead-heads"-people who do nothing for the advancement and support of the Church, whose children they are. All should be workers and helpers according to their ability. If this article should be read by any who have not aided hitherto, let them begin this year by sending to the Bishop some offering for the work of the Church. Some are pledged his or her proportion of the $65,000 doing nobly, but we wish all to be workers and helpers.

No doubt if the children of the Church realized their obligation to their mother, and how desirous the Church is of helping them, ercise and play, and healthy minds by studious we should have many more missions than we have. CENTRAL CONVOCATION

Tuesday, October 4, was devoted to a very interesting meeting of the Central Convoca-tion, at Christ Church, Indianapolis, in contion, at Unrist Univen, Indianapous, in con-junction with the semi centennist celebration of the parish. On Monday evening, October 3, a very suggestive and helpful paper on the work of Sunday-schools was read by Rev. J. D. Work of Sidnay-Schools was read by Rev. 5. Exanley, of Terre Haute. It was his first appearance in Convocation, and he made a good impression. The opening sermon of Convocation was preached Tuesday morning by Rev. Dr. Jenckes. It was an earnest, Churchly ser-mon, calculated to stimulate the devotion and zeal of those who heard it. The Bishop celebrated Holy Communion.

At 2:30 P. M. Rev. Mr. Hunter, of Holy Innocents, read a paper on Convocational work, urging, ably and earnestly, for increasing Con-vocations to seven, dividing the Northern and Southern and making three of the Central. The paper made a good impression, and a committee was formed to consider the details of it and to confer with other Convocatans of it and to confer with other convoca-tions. It was ably discussed by Deans and others. Reports of Musion work were pre-sented orally by the clergy of Convocation, showing that all were more or less engaged in Mission work outside their several parishes and cures. A determination was expressed to do all in their power to secure the propor-tion of the $5,000 for Diocesan Missions as-signed them. Rev. F. Hallam, of Richmond, sent as excellent paper setting forth the advantages of Diocesan Endowment. It was read by Rev. Mr. Ayers, of Connersville. It was determined to have three more meetings was determined to have three more meetings of Convecation this year, at Crawfordwille, Connerwille and Moncie. A resolution was passed, as had also been done in the Northern Convocation, requesting the Bishop to provide a retreat for the clergy some time before Lent. A resolution was a considerable of the organization of a branch of the Church Unity Society. The Convocation had the pleasure of welcoming Dr. Wakefield, of California, who was on a visit with Mrs. Wakefield to his old home and parish at Richmond. The Doctor read the paper of the evening, setting forth the advantages of the Church as a center of unity. He was followed by Dean Cole, of the Southern Convocation, who, in an eloquent address, set forth the utterance of the House of Bishops as a bugle call to the Church to of bishops as a bugic can to the Charlet wo work and pray for unity. Dean Bradley fol-lowed in a delightful address, and closed by reading the constitution of the Church Unity Society and its different objects, and asking Society and its different objects and assurg for the enrollment of members. About third enrolled. Dr. Ingraham, of St. Louis, was present at the session of Convocation; also, Rev. Messrs. Jenner, Hayward, Hunter, Stan. ley, Swan, Ayers, Drs. Jenckes, Bradley and the Bishop. All yoted the Convocation as helpful, and requested the Dean to have them frequently.

The interior of the rectory has been greatly improved by papering and painting, in which the rector has saved a large bill of expense by his own deft skill in doing the work with his own hands. The Bishop, at his recent visit, presented the subject of endowment to the congregation, and it is hoped to learn at an early day that their full quota has been pledged.

BRIGHTWOOD .- The new Mission here is full of promise. Already an effort is on foot to secure two lots and a chapel building. During the summer the grounds about the Church were filled up and graded in part. The Ladies' Guild, under their efficient President, Mrs. Ingles, have been very busy, and doing good work in aiding the finances of the Mission.

The work of Church improvement has dragged somewhat, but is drawing toward completion, and St. John's in its new dress will hardly be recognized. The "Answer. With us the Church year is divided parishioners of St. John's deserve great praise into eight unequal periods, each intended and for the accomplishment of this good work, suited to teach and impress some Christian infor the accomplishment of this good work, and we hope it will be the beginning of a new era in parish life and work.

LAWRENCEBURG, TRINITY .-- Holy Communion is celebrated in this Mission on two Sunday mornings of the month, and a service with sermon held every Sunday evening. At the Bishop's recent visitation, the matter of raising their quota of the Endowment was presented, and the little band of faithful workpresented and the make an honest effort to sefort to sef The faithful Warden of the Mission, Mr. Hib bits, spoke in the warmest terms of the labors of their faithful clergyman. The ladies of the Mission are proposing to make some improvements in the interior of their Church.

> WASHINGTON, St. GEORGE'S MISSION.-The Masonic Hall has been rented here for service of Worthington, in charge. It is to be hoped that a lot may be secured this winter, upon which a neat Church may be erected another year. CHURCH SEASONS.

No. 8.

Question. What do you mean by Church struction and discipline. These periods are called Church Seasons.

Ques. How are they divided?

Ans. The Church year begins at Advent
Sunday, which is about the last of November, being the fourth Sunday before December 25th, and lasts till Christmas. It is called Advent Season. Then follows Christmas-tide, which lasts till January 6th. Then Espiphany, which continues till Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent. The Lenton Scace last forty days besides Sunday, being forty-six in all, followed by Enter-tile but ten days. Then comes "Whitsuntide," or "Pentecost." This has but seven days to "Trinty Season," which is the last, and continues nearly six months, to Advent.

Ques. Why don't you commence with " New Year's day?

Ans. For several reasons. One is that the Ans. For several reasons. One is that the Church year was established long before the secular year was made to begin January Ist. Until 1756—just 136 years ago—the 26th of March was the beginning of the year. Then by act of Parliament it was changed to January 1st; but it was not regarded as a holiday till the present century.

Ques. How are these seasons observed?

Ans. In each full Church service there are four lessons read from the Bible; the first from the Old, the second from the New Testa-ment; one from the Epistles and one from the Gospels. These are all selected with a view of directing the mind to the contemplation of the important event of each season. In Advent, any one who will look at the portions of Scripture set apart to be read will they all refer to the Son of God taking on His human nature, and thus preparing the mind for the birth of the Savior at Christmas. Christmas-tide lasts twelve days. It is the only season that has a fixed period and limit; it is a season of rejoicing, of union and fellowship, of happiness and peace; it was ushered in with the song of the angelic choir, "Peace on earth good will to men;" it is the period of Christianity's origin, and all lessons and services relate to that fact.

Ques. Why do not other denominations besides you and the Roman Catholics celebrate Christmas with religious observances,?

Ans. I can not fully answer. One of the reasons is that after the Reformation the Puritans made fierce opposition to the observance of holy days, as they did to altars, emblems, church-spires, crosses, etc., and they have not yet fully abandoned their prejudices. It is

THE second Sunday in November is appointed by the American Church Temperance Society as a day especially to remember their work and to preach temperance sermons. It is well to observe it, It is important that our friends who receive the CHURCH WORKER should aid us in meeting our obligations for its printing. Fifty cents is a small sum-so small that many who receive the paper do not think it worth the trouble to send it. Will not our readers who have not sent in their subscriptions do so at once? We shall be grateful to all who will.

On the second Sunday in November the American Church Building Fund Commission ask an offering from every parish that has not already made such offering during the year. Judge Prince's address at the convention should not be forgotten, nor the resolution of convention. The Bishop would second the appeal, and ask that an offering be made where it has not already been done.

MENTION was made in the August number of the Worker of the purchase of a tract of land by the Bishop on the Twin Lakes, in La Grange county, near Lima. It is intended in due time to form an association and incorporate it under the title of Woodlawn Park, or some other association; to issue 100 shares, at $150 per share, payable in three annual installments; each shareholder being entitled to a good-sized lot for cottage sites. The proceeds of sale of shares to be used in building hotel, chapel, bost-house, amount of the process hotel, chapel, boat-house, amusement hall, etc. Already a number of persons have signified their desire of taking a share. weather. It is intended to be somewhat on the Chautauqua plan. The lots will be located around a beautiful park; the lake front kept open for public use. Any person desirous of taking a share in such an enterprise can signify such desire to the editor of the WORKER. It may take some little time to develop the plans, but this will depend largely upon the number who will appreciate the desirability of having a beautiful summer home within our own borders. At the recent meeting of the Northern Convocation, information having been given in regard to it, the following resolutions were passed:

This Convocation has heard with great pleasure and gratitude the announcement of the Bishop of the Diocese of his purchase of a tract of land in La Grange county for the purpose of establishing a summer home for the clergy of the Diocese and the people of the Church in Indiana.

We realize the benefits to be secured in welding together the faithful, and the cheer and consequent strength for our common work which may reasonably be expected from association for a period of each year. We trust that the Diocese of Indiana will manifest its sense of appreciation of this far-seeing ef-fort of our Bishop, and lend such aid as may be needed for the completion of the plan.

Resolved, That the Bishop of the Diocese be requested to make known to the clergy and laity of Indiana the venture thus undertaken, and to invite subscriptions for stock in an association to be formed for the purpose of completing plans.

Resolved, That the Bishop is hereby requested to appoint a committee to aid him in the preliminary arrangements for such an istion Goshen, Ind., Sept. 29, 1887.

NORTHERN CONVOCATION.

The meetings of the Northern Couveation are always interesting and helpful. The Convecation held in in St. Ames' Church, Geshen, September 27, 28, 29, was no exception to this rule. From the beginning to the end the liveliest interest substantial that the subjects discussed were imported and timely, and each one to whom a part had been assigned gave to it the most careful study and consideration.

The parishioners of St. James' Church, Goshen, extended a hearty hospitality that made all feel at home, and seemed to consider it a favor that the sersion was appointed there. It revived and aroused their interest. Present at the Convocation were the Bishop, Dean Faude, Rev. Messrs. Scott, Miller. Towers, Adams, Dr. Kemp, and the rector, Mr. Rose-velt. Rev. Messrs. Webbe, Jephson, Spalding and Miller, of Logansport, were prevented attending, and their absence felt. The open-ing sermon by Dean Faude was an able, help-ting discovery. ful discourse. A strong paper on the function and power of the Christian preacher of to day was read by Rev. F. Towers and discussed by the Dean and Messrs. Miller, Adams and Hayward. The subject of Christian unity was discussed by Dr. Kemp, Mr. Miller and others, and an eloquent address on Diocesan Missions made by Rev. Mr. Scott, of La Porte, and the Dean. The Bishop preached on the Festival of St. Michael and All Angels, and celebrated Holy Communion each day. He also met the Wom-an's Auxiliary and addressed them, as did also Dr. Kemp. The members of Convocation were all entertained at lunch by the ladies of the parish, and a delightful social reunion was held. The Northern Convocation determined that their full quota for Diocesan Missions should be raised; that each clergyman would do his best to reach all his neople and secure pledges for the work. Dean Faude, because of his confinement to his school and chaplaincy, expressed a strong desire to be relieved of the office of Dean, but the Convocation unani mously requested him to continue in the office, and he consented. Seldom have we seen more interest at any meeting of Convo-

Katherine Roberts, daughter of W. C. and E. T. Andrews, was born in Worthington. Ohio, July 15, 1842 Was married to J. E. Miller, May 10, 1866. Died September 29, 1887. In the death of Mrs. Miller the Mission at Worthington has loot not of its most devoted workers, and a Churchwoman whose life and conversation was a living testimony to her Savior. Her hospitable home was ever open to Bishop and clergy. In Sunday-school, in choir, in Ladies' Guild, she was always a willing worker. She was present at the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese in June, and took a loving interest is attumn she moved into a lovely new home in which she looked forward to years of comfort and happiness, but it pleased her Heavenly Father to take her to the better home and rest of Parndise. May the same loving Father confort the bereaved hearts of the father and husband and sisters who are left to mourn her departure.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Martin, one of the pioneers of the Church in Indianapolis, long a communicant of Christ Church, died recently at a ripe old age.

One by one these faithful souls go to their rest—the rest of the people of God. Mrs. Martin was a woman of great intelligence, and had led a useful life.

SEMI-CENTENNIAL OF CHRIST CHURCH, INDIANAPOLIS.

If the WORKER had double the space at its command it could not give one-half of the good things connected with this very happy occasion. The weather was good. The presence of Bishop Tuttle, of Missouri, and the Bishop of the Diocese, Dr. Ingraham, of Grace Church, St. Louis, an old and beloved rector, and the brethren of the Central Convocation, added interest to the occasion. All the papers read on the early history of the parish were full of interest. Wednesday, the women's day, was of especial interest, with celebration of Holy Communion by the Bishop of the Diocese, the helpful sermon of Dr. Ingraham on woman's work, and the papers prepared and read by women in regard o what women had done for the work of the Lord in con ection with Christ Church. We hope all may be collected and published in a pamphlet. It is well worth preserving. On Sunday morning prayer was said at 9:30. At 10: 30 Holy Communion was celebrated by the Bishop of the Diocese, and a splendid sermon preached by Bishop Tuttle on the motherhood of the Church, concluding with some important memoranda of parochial history. The Bishop of the Diocese delivered a brief address f congratulation. In the afternoon the two Bishops visited the Sunday-schools of the parish and addressed them and catechised the children, and were delighted with their famil-iarity with the Catechism. Mr. Parker and Mr. Kiersted also gave int resting histories of the Sunday-school. Christ Church Sunday school was organized in November, 1857, with three teachers and thirteen scholars. In the evening Bishop Knickerbacker gave a review of fifty years of Mission work is the Di-and Bishop Tuttle of fifty years of Mis-sion work of the Church at large. Large congregations were present morning and evening. On Monday evening, after an ad-dress on Sunday-school work by Mr. Stanley, dress on sunday-school work by Mr. Kiersted and others gave interesting parish reminiscences that it was delightful to hear. The first Missionary was Rev. J. B. Britton, now living in Pasadena, California, who came to Indianapolis July 4. 1857. The parish was or anized July 10th. The corner-stone of the first Church was laid May 22, 1838; first services held in the new Church November, 1838, and it was consecrated by Bishop Kemper December 16, 1838. The present Church was erected during the rectorship of Bishop Talbot, at a cost of $20,000. There have been 1756 baptisms, 976 confirmed, 337 marriages, 627 burials. During the last thirty years $134,670 contributed for various Church purposes. At present there are 409 communicants and 400 Sunday school children. At the woman's meeting on Wednesday, an interesting paper was the diary of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Martin, recently deceased, who came to Indianapolis in 1821, and who was one of the oldest members of the parish. Miss Mc Donough read a paper on the work of the young ladies of the parish. Mrs. R. R. Parker gave an account of the charitable work of the gave an account of the character work of the parish in sustaining Mission Schools, Mothers' Meetings and Industrial Schools. Miss Upfold gave sketches of the Bishops who had been connected with the Diocese and made visita-tions to the parish. Mrs. Cady gave a history of the Sewing Society of the parish, and what it had done to promote the good work. Mrs. Josephine Nichols concluded with a stirring address on the development of woman's work expressing the hope that the good time would soon come when we might have organized sis erhoods devoted to educational and benevolent work, and as parish visitors to aid the rector on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild, at which there were present a large attendance of parish ioners and Church people generally, and the clergy of Convocation. Thus ended a most delightful series of services. The rector and Christ Church are to be congratulated on the successful celebration of the semi-centennial of the parish.

The celebration of the semi-centennial closed with a social reunion at the house of the

The Bishop has urged, from the beginning of his work in Indiana, the importance of every rector doing some outside missionary work, to have one or more stations adjacent, where he shall hold regular services and seek to establish the Church. Many of the clergy have aided nobly in this work. We hope all will endeavor to do it. Bishop Dudley, of Kentucky, calls the attention of his clergy to this in the following timely words:

"LET US GO INTO THE NEXT TOWNS."

We can not, then, dare expect in any near tuture to increase our appropriations for missions, while on every hand are towns and villages in which the Church has not yet preached the gospel, and in which there are doubtless men and women waiting for the message as she knows how to speak it.

What remains? Only a return to Apostolic practice, that every man shall go into his next town and preach. We know very well, and rejoice to know, that instances of such self-denying missionary labor have not been lacking in our Diocesan history. We knew very well that a large part of the parishes now were well than a large part of the parishes now were well than a large part of the parishes now were well than a large part of the parishes now that the part of the several convocations are doing missioned with the part of the several convocations are doing missioned with the part of the several convocations are doing missioned with the part of the several convocations are doing missioned with the part of the several convocations are doing missioned with the part of t

There are now 5.014 separate dwellings, containing 11,150 rooms, and the average rent of each dwelling is less than $1.25 a week.

Mr. L. D. Carpenter, of Seymour, Indiana, has lately sold out his bosness in order to go as missionary, at his own charges, to labor among the Ainos (or aborigines of Japan), in the island of Yesso, where his brother, the Rev. C. H. Carpenter, also a self-supporting missionary, is already working.

CHURCH SEASONS.

[Continued from page 59.] difficult to say why, among those who profess to be Christians, they will join in appropriate memorial services in honor of the birthday of distinguished men, such as Washington, Burns or Shakespeare, but refuse to open Churches dedicated to the Savior on His birthday. How ever, matters are gradually changing for the better in this regard. Epiphany always commences January 6th, but its duration differs with each year, owing to the fact that it equitinues till Ash Wednesday. This day comes lorty six days before Easter, and Easter comes forty six days before Easter, and Easter comes on the first Sunday after the first full moon following the 21st of March. Easter may come as early as 25d of March, or as late as 25th of April. Epiphany represents the manifestation of Christ to the Gentless. The wish the three "wise men" to the inlant Set of this commensurated by the continuous control of the commensurated by the control of the control season. The lessons for this season carry us heason. The lessons for this season carry us through the life of our Savior to the time of His temptation in the wilderness, and contain a very good account of His childhood, boyhood a very good account of His childhood, boyhood and ministry.

The last three Sundays, known as Septuageinn, Serageinn, Serageinn, are classed with Epiphany, but they seem to be a kind of intermediate. The lessons for the seem to be a seen as have been selected to enforce Christian distribution. discipline, in which temperance, justice, forti-tude and charity are portrayed, and form a fitting introduction to the solemn observ-ances of Lent.

Ash Wednesday, so called because certain ashes after being blessed were used by the priest to make a cross on the forehead of those who knelt before him for the purpose. As he made the cross, he said: "Remember, man. that thou art dust, and unto dust must return.

Lent is the most solemn season of the Church, human nature and Christian experience, and he who lives up to its teachings will elevate his human nature almost to Divine, The les-sons and services all lead gradually to the crucifixion, through the gloom of Good Friday, to the glorious resurrection of Easter.

This solemn season of forty days has ever been regarded by the Church as a period set apart for self-denial and self-examination; for humility, for prayer, and attendance at Divine worship.

Ques. Are you Church people required to fast during Lent?

Ans. There is no rule strictly requiring this. The Sundays of Lent are all feast days, and while the Church leaves it optional with mem bers as to the degree of abstinence or fasting, all sincere Churchmen feel it a duty to avoid places of gayety; to attend, if practicable, the daily service; observe temperance in eating and drinking, and, as a matter of discipline, abstain from certain foods or meals during the week. Whoever observes carefully the requirements of Lent will be benefited physically, mentally and spiritually, and be fully prepared to enter into the joys of Easter.

Easter tide commences with resurrection morn and continues forty days, representing the time Christ was on earth after He rose from His tomb. All the lessons and services relate to this period.

Ascension, commemorative of our Lord's ascent to heaven, embraces a period of ten days, when the day of Penteoost or Whitsunday, which commemorates the descent of the Holy Spirit, the Comforter, and the foundation of the Christian Church. This day has been strictly observed from the time of the apostles, and to add, if possible, to its sanctity with Churchmen, on Whitsunday, June 9, 1552, the first prayer-book in English, instead of Latin, was used. making in fact a Book of Common Prayer, which could be read and understood by all the

Whituntide continues a week, and closes only seven seasons; the eighth and last is Trinity. This season extends from Whitsun week to Advent, from twenty-four to twenty-seven weeks, owing to the fact that Easter comes earlier or later in the spring.

The great cycle in which our Lord and His works are commemorated has closed. His injunction to the apostles was, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

This long season is devoted to Christian in-struction. The teachings constitute a system of illustrations of Christianity. The lessons from the Old Testament begin with Genesis. From the New they treat of love to man and love to God. These teachings continue till the end of the Church year, when Advent Sunday again appears.

Throughout these Church seasons all the principal parts of the Bible, and especially all that hear on Christ or His Church, are read WILLIAM MACK. each year.

The first question that often arises in the The first question that often arises in the minds of a popular audience when a subject is announced to them—the first question that often comes to the readers of papers when they see the headings in print—is, " Is it inter-

Of course, that depends, and as much upon the taste and caliber of the listener and reader rathron the intrinsic merits of the subject. Things are interesting after various fashions, and after the manner of their peculiar spheres. The Endowment of the Episcopate is not interesting after the fashion of a piece of fiction, it is not interesting as a card party, it is not beautiful as a picture from some master hand, it is not even full of the grace of polite literature and ringing with the melody of verse. is not a matter of transient and vapory and exhilarating interest But it is, in its sphere, a matter of the highest, and, it may be, the most momentous, interest to the thoughtful and earnest hearted people who long for the prosperity of our beloved Church in the Dlo-cese of Indiana. And it is a matter of permanent and unfailing interest to the Church

What does it mean? It means that the people of the Diocese of Indiana shall contribute from sixty to seventy-five thousand dollars, to be invested in permanent securities to furnish at 6 or 7 per cent. interest—not of the intel lectual and emotional character, but in solid what we know of the life and acts of the Savior.

Ques. I can see how beautiful and systematic service has been arranged, but this only takes up a little more than half the year. How shout the other portion?

Ans. I was coming to that. I have named only seven seasons; the eighth and last is extrawagant outlay. It is after the fashin of the poor man who pays the seasons; the eighth and last is the creditor who pays the amount of the principal of the debt he owes over and over again in the long years through which the interest drags its weary and ruinous length along. In other words, the people of Indiana are paying usury that would satiate the avarioe of a modest-minded Shylock.

It seems astonishing, but let me demon-strate. The Diocese looks to St. Paul's Church, Richmond, for $3 000 of, say, $60,000 needed sicemond, for $5000 of, say, $00,000 needed for the Endowment. The parish pays annually $200 under the present arrangement. Fitteen times 200 are 3,000. In fitteen years, therefore, St. Paul's would, without Endow-ment, pay the full amount necessary to relieve itself forever, and yet the burden would be upon it still, and all the subsequent payment would be a waste. Apply this to every parish in the Diocese and it holds good. Apply it to the Diocese as a whole and it is the same. the Liocese as a whole and it is the same, with the present method, with the salary fixed at $3,000 per annum, the Diocese will have paid out the entire $60,000 in twenty years, and be none the better for the method. If the Endowment Fund were all complete to-day, the Diocese would save $60,000 in the may, the Diocese would save becomes meet twenty years.

The Endowment means another thing. It means after the one great effort to effect it the permanent relief of the parish from annual contributions to the Episcopal Jund. It constitutes an everlasting absolution. It makes, in this line, the financial peace of the right-eous forever and ever; and the parishes can cons forever and ever; and the parishes can at least dram or picture what this would be. They are familiar with the cry of the parish treasurer that the treasury is empty. They know the embarrassment of the poor in pocket when appeal is made to them for their per-sonal quota, and they can not furnish it. They sonal quora, and they can not furnish it. They know the stolidity and indifference and im-patience of those who are forever pleading other obligations to avoid the one in hand, who give grudgingly, who postpone payment again and again, who will not pay at all, who complain of men and methods, and criticise companies of the satt memode, and clientees anything or everything to satisfy or excuse themselves. Should we pass such circumstances by in silence? Alas! they are a gnawing canker, over which vestries toil and worry in honest perplexity, and we can not be at-lent, if only to show the blessings of relief through the sharpness of the agony.

The Endowment means another thing; it means the opportunity to press onward to a larger life and a happier activity in parish enterprises, and in charitable work for the Church at large. Nothing is a greater hindercollars—for the annual salary of the Bishop.

And what does this mean? This means It hinders really and it hinders felliously, that the people who contribute to the support. Where it is peakitely difficult to pay, it op in the treasury, and all the hardship and wonderment as to ways and means that fol-low; it causes appeals from the parishes to the Diocesan Convention to be relieved of assess ments, or to have them reduced, or to have arrears remitted. And, whatever the justice or necessity of the case, it is rarely with abso lute and perfect grace that such appeals can be made, because it must be that they are made with either regret of humiliation. when the Convention can not conscientiously view the matter quite as the parish does, it is not one of the most beautiful of spectacles.

And yet once more, the Endowment means relief to the Bishop himself—far from the least important among the benefits conferred Doubtless our Bishops have the courage and the fortitude to endure all necessary strains but the Dioceses should never impose upon them any that are not necessary. They should on the contrary, come to the rescue, and life all the burdens possible. Burdens diffused throughout a whole Diocese must necessarily rest more lightly upon individual shoulders than when concentrated upon a single Bishop It is, doubtless, easier for parishes to raise their quota than it is for one man to forego it out of his living expenses. It can not be grateful to the ears of a Bishop to hear continual reports about the difficulty of raising his salary. He may not be anreasonable; he may be very sympathetic; he may have his feelings in-cased as it were in coats of steel, but he is rarely invulnerable, and now and again a bow drawn at a venture may smite "the king between the joints of the harness." He may have to remit a portion of his salary, greatly to his own inconvenience; he may be delayed to his own inconvenience; he may be delayed in the receipt of it; he may generously pay it out of his own pocket for complaining parishes. He would, doubtless, very much prefer so doing, when possible, to listening to the parish pleadings real or safected—of poverty; or to listening to the wranglings and discussions or the subject its convention. Really, or to listening to the wrangings and discus-sions on the subject in convention. Really, the Bishop should not be permitted to hear a a word of such things. It is just as offensive to him as it would be to you or to me. The cooks and other domestics in our households, the mechanics employed in trade, and the clerks in stores and offices, would assuredly not endure continual talk of their employers about the difficulty of raising the amount of their wages, and frequent delays, and petitions for forgiveness of parts of the debts. And, certainly, we should not impose upon our Bishop that which would drive our cooks out of the kitchen. The office of a Bishop is too high, too venerable, too sacred, for such things. The intellectual and moral qualities necessary to fill the office demand a greater reverence and consideration. The social position of a Bishop, and the labor and self-sacrifice of his calling, call for his freedom from annoyance. If he is a man of susceptibility of feeling— and the higher the organization the greater and more acute the susceptibility—the worry and care about salary and delinquencies, and complaints about them, will crush out a part of the man's higher powers of mind and heart, and harass him in his official duties. But all the evils named are more or less inseparable from the present method. What a magnificent thing it would be to put them forever behind us, and to have an apostolic leader secured to to prosecute it with all his powers of mind body, and through successions in the office still always to have a leader thus secured throughout all time!

It is a great privilege to be able to contribute Is is a great privilege to be able to contribute to the building of an edifine that shall never crumble nor pass away; to build for the future; to build for posterily. Sometimes it is argued that there is no righteous demand for it; and I do not know that even in the sacred canon of the Scriptures, the fountainhead of all moral law, there is a compulsory statute to cover the case. It is argued that future generations may provide for them-selves; that the new Churchmen may provide for the exigencies of the Church's future life for the exigencies of the Church's future line; sons growing up to take the places of their sires before the contribution box, and fresh blood from the fresh conquests of the cross being infused into the financial circulation. But the argument is at once an evasion of responsibility and an evasion of privilege. We to day are the custodians of the interests of our brothers in the years to come. The legacy that our gifts will leave behind for "a of cold water in the name of a disciple, for the bro her who lives a century after we are dead, will be as lofty and as loving a gift of righteousness as that which is given to the parched lips and burning throats of the pres-ent botr. Time levels distinctions, and eter nity blots out distinctions of time, and the Christian of the future will rise up in the judgment to call us blessed.

We ourselves are the beneficiaries of the gifts and legacies of the past. The parishes of to-day and the Dioceses of to day are the fruits of labors done by the Christians of by-We have entered upon our in heritance, and it imposes upon us the obliga tion of transmission to posterity. We must add to the pounds and talents given to us, that and to the pounds and talents given to us, that the Lord of the treasury may receive His own with usury. Even if it were not an obli-gation, it would be, and it is, a splendid oppor-tunity. The grandest monument of Sir Chris topher Wren is in the enduring fabrics that topiner when is in the enduring matrice that stand, and promise to stand through centuries. Thousands and tens of thousands bless the memory of the man whose divine skill wrought such wonders out of the solid rock. The humblest workman whose hand contrib uted to the laying of stone and mortar pile on pile in England's great cathedrals has im-mortalized himself in them. - There is nothing nobler than to live for the coming centuries; for what shall be the ending of the ephemeral works of wood and hay and stubble but to be burned in the fire and to go out in smoke and ashes? But greater than "the abbeys and the arches and the old cathedral piles," greater than the monoliths and the pyramids of Egyptian antiquity, standing serene and strong through ages, is the deed of love, the immortality enshrined in Christian sacrifice, that shall forever live to bless the hearts and souls of Christ's chosen people, that shall help to call the weary sinner to the mercy-seat, and gain its own everlasting reward in the "Well done, good and faithful reward in the "Well done, good and faithful servant: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." One more question suggests itself: Can the Endowment be accomplished? The answer is that the same thing has been accomplished in many other quarters that do not present proportionate advantages over Indiana. It has been done in two-thirds of the Dioceses in the United States, and is being done in all the remaining Dioceses. Their wisdom should be infectious, their example inspiring. Larger funds have been raised where necessary, and Indiana should be ambitious to move into the rank of her advancing sisters. Besides this, in Indiana $5,200 of the amount desired has been already paid in. Twenty thousand dollars has been subscribed being more than one fourth of the largest amount hoped for. The people of many par ishes have subscribed, and it only remains for the people of the other parishes to come to the front and stand with them. Certainly it is true that Indiana has the wealth, and that the Churchmen in Indiana have it. Looking over the parishes, we see again and again mer and women worth ten thousand, twenty, fifty a hundred thousand, or even several hundreds hundred thousand, or even several hundreds of thousands of dollars. The total estimate of the wealth of these Church people would be far up into the millions. What can they do better with such accumulations than to set the Diocese upon its feet forever? True, there are other demands, but what greater or more honorable than this? Besides this, there are thousands of people with smaller fortunes and with liberal incomes—many who can give their dollars where others can give their hundreds and thousands.

The plan adopted is excellent, although any plan would be excellent if the people would only live up to it. Contributions may be made in cash, or upon notes or coupons exnade in cash, or upon notes of coupons tending over a period of seven years, which puts it in the power of all to contribute who do not absolutely live up to every dollar of their income. Thus thousands of dollars may their moone. Finds thousands of dollars may be given by people living upon small wages and salaries. Abundantly is it in the power of the Diocese to do this thing; and it only remains for every Churchman to do his duty, remains for every Churchman to do his duty, without waiting time and dissipating the willingness of other people by criticisms of the plan and prophecies of failure and reminiscences of past failures. The plan ought to succeed, and it will succeed under the strong hand of perseverance. You and I may give or not give but God will reward us according

Dear Children: During October we have received some additions to our Orphanage Fund. On the Bishop's visit to Plymouth the Sundayschool gave an offering of $2.25, and three little girls, grandchildren of the rector, gave five bricks for the building, or fifty cents. It is estimated that it will take a good many thousand bricks for our Orphanage, and that these will cost ten cents each; but if all of our four thousand children will set to work to procure bricks, or what is the same, ten cent pieces, and send them to the Bishop, it will not take long to secure enough to make the building. What do you say, dear children, will you all try? The one hundred children in St. Thomas Sunday-school, Plymouth, all agreed to try and secure as many bricks as possible. We have received a generous offering of $8 for the Orphanage from the Indianapolis Institute. It was the premium on some beautiful pictures exhibited by Mrs. Lyon at the state fair. St. Paul's Sunday-school, Richmond, that is always doing generous things, sent in September $13.69 for the Cot Fund. It looks as if the Church children of Indiana have not lost their interest in these two good objects, and were going to do splendidly for them this year, and this pleases your Bishop, who loves you.

ADVENT

The Church has led her children into another Christian year. The call of the bridegroom has come to watchfulness for the coming of the Son of Man. We are pointed back to the first coming to be our Savior, and forward to that second advent when He shall come to be our judge. Shall we heed the Church's call to repentance, to watchfulness, to preparation for that second coming? Do we value the Church's teaching in the Advent season as we should? Death, the Judgment, Heaven and Hell are the themes she calls us to reflect upon, so that when the Son of Man cometh we may be found a people prepared and waiting for our dear Lord. Having on the wedding garment of righteousness, purity and faithfulness, let every member of our dear Church in Indiana resolve to put off the works of darkness and gird on the armor of light and consecrate themselves anew to the Savior's blessed service.

Yes, dear brethren, it will are made payable quarterly, in advance. They do not realize, or at least fulfill, their obligation. If every one would set aside a definite sum and place it in an envelope and contribute it through the offertory on Sunday morning, then the parish treasurer would be made happy, and the rector receive every Monday his weekly support. It is important to the success of it that every person be called upon at least once a year to pledge the amount he or she will give. None should be overlooked. The office of vestryman or treasurer is not always appreciated. It is a labor of love, an important labor, which, if parishioners appreciated, they would strive to make as easy as possible by giving cheerfully and without solicitation for the support of their Church services.

Where Churches are supported by pew rents these are made payable quarterly. Pewholders should not wait to be called on or dunned, but at the beginning of each quarter send the amount to the treasurer or place it in an envelope upon the alms basin on the first Sunday of the quarter. A little more thoughtfulness on the part of parishioners would relieve the annoyance and difficulties of parish finances.

ASSESSMENTS.

The cry comes up from the Diocesan Treasurer that he is unable to meet Diocesan obligations. By action of the Convention these fraction of the parishes have sent in a single quarter's assessment. Some parishes wait until Convention, and then hustle around and make up the whole sum. In the mean time the Treasurer is left to meet the obligations and shortcomings as best he can. Perhaps this is one of the advantages and beauties of the assessment plan; but it is hard for a Diocesan Treasurer or the creditors of the Diocese to realize it. Mr. Miller is winning the confidence of his people, and we anticipate a revival of Church life and interest in this old parish. No parish in the Diocese of Indiana is better equipped for work, being entirely out of debt and ing a substantial stone church and chapel, and a comfortable rectory. The vestry takes an interest in affairs, and an earnest band of Christian women are constantly at work furthering the interests of the parish. We were glad to learn that Mr. Eversole, the jun-ior warden, had decided to remain here. At a social at his house the week before great in-terest was manifested, and $18 contributed to the ladies' fund.

J. L. Hynes for priest's orders, Dean Cole and Rev. Charles Morris acting as examiners. Evening, attended reception in the parish house given by St. Paul's parish to myself and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Viele as a testimonial of appreciation and love for these noble beneof appreciation and to be of these none cene-factors of the parish.

Saturday, Nov. 19, spent in canonical ex-amination of Rev. Mr. Hynes, with Dean Cole and Rev. Charles Morris, examiners. The examination was in every way satisfactory to the examiners and they so certified. Sunday before Advent, Nov. 20, 9:30 A. DIOCESAN ITEMS.

ATTICA .- Rev. Mr. Hayward has visited Grace Mission twice, and will, as opportunity offers and the people desire it, continue his ministrations. At a recent visit to Frankfort he gave the Holy Communion to a sick member of the Church at Kelmix, five miles from AUBURN.-The Mission here has suffered by the death of a faithful communicant and devoted Churchman, Mr. Hodge, who was formerly an active lay reader at Warsaw and Lagrange. He has been a teacher for many years, and was very much respected wherever he lived as a consistent and earnest Churchman. He died suddenly of hemorrhage of the lungs. At the funeral service the Holy Communion was celebrated with his sorrowing family.

COLUMBUS .- Rev. B. A. Brown, of Albion, Western Michigan, has accepted the appointment of missionary here, and will enter upon his work at the beginning of the Advent season. Mr. Brown comes to us well recommended as a faithful worker, and we have good hope of substantial progress and growth in the Church at Columbus.

CRAWFORDSVILLE,-Interesting Mission services were held here early in November for a week, deepening the spiritual interest of the people and quickening their interest in their own parish work. Mr. Jenner writes: "I have to report that, in obedience to your request in the CHURCH WORKER, I have visated Covington and Thorntown, and arranged for a regular monthly service in both places. I was most kindly welcomed, and I think the prospects are good. Thorntown appears to be a particularly promising field. If you care to give me two more points, I will gladly undertake them, as I can manage to give one day in each week to this work without serious interference with my work here. I find this work very interesting, to my no little surprise. and will gladly push it all I can.

DELPHI-St. Mary's. - The ladies have organized a Girls' Guild in aid of the Cot Fund, and to procure bricks for the orphanage

ELKHART-St. John's .- Our brother, the rector, and his family have been sorely afflicted in the death of a dear adopted daughter under painful circumstances. He and his good wife have the sympathy of his Bishop and brethren.

HARTFORD CITY .- Rev. F. W. Henry, of Muncie, hopes to resume regular monthly services here. Mrs. Hubbard has been away for some time; on her return arrangements will be made for services as formerly. The town is improving since the discovery of natural gas, and it is hoped with the new growth some Churchmen may come in.

MARION-Gethsemane.-Rev. J. David Adams has taken charge of this promising Mission. and been cordially welcomed to his work. Mr. Adams will also have the care of the Mission at Huntington. A new brick sidewalk has been laid in front of the Church lot. A very successful musicale was held recently through the kindness of a friend of the Mission, and $22 realized. NEW ALBANY-St. Paul's.-The earnest rector is greatly encouraged by the evidences of co-operation of his people. There is good and all acquitted themselves well. At least $50 hope of erecting a Mission chapel for the colored people, and also one for work among the whites in East New Albany. The Ladies' Aid Society has quadrupled in members, and is doing good and enthusiastic work. New Albany will give a good account of itself in the near future, and their good work will not cease until they have a respectable parish church.

PETERSBURG-St. John's Mission.-The ladies are active in making arrangements for the R. R. Parker, Esq., "The Temple;" December monthly visit of the clergyman, and good congregations always meet him in the Presbyterian Church ROCHESTER .- Dr. Kemp has visited here twice, and finds much to encourage him. In the hands of Dr. Kemp no opportunity will be allowed to pass for pushing sugar or some other good thing as a token of the good work.

VINCENNES-St. James'.- Rev. A. A. A Brotherhood of St. Andrew is organized and is doing good work among the young men. The Ladies' Guilds are also in splendid working order, and have furnished the decorations of the rectory. A new dossal of velvet has been placed in the chancel. All are interested in St. John's Mission in North Vincennes, and take a live interest in its welfare by furnishing teachers and clothing and books as they are needed. Major Gould and wife have recently started for a trip around the world. Many good wishes and prayers will go with them for a safe return. Mrs. Will Niblack, of Chicago, and Hood, of old parishioners, have been on a visit to their old home. Mrs. Laura Austin, a daughter of the former rector, Dr. Austin, died July 25, and was buried beside her father at New Albany. She was a devout and faithful member of the Church, and her decease is a great bereavement to her home and parish.

RUSHVILLE,-A promising Mission has been opened in this important city of 5,000 inhabit peace. ants by Rev. Mr. Avres, of Connersville. The services have been gladly welcomed. A guild of ladies has been organized with Mrs. Capt. Manzey as president, Mrs. Joseph W. Brown, vice-president, and Mrs. Louise Link, secretary and treasurer. The Baptist Church has been rented for services, and two week-day services a month will be given. At the first service sixty were present; at the second, seventy-five. Mr. Ayres has good hope of success here as well as at Connersville.

HUNTINGTON,-Rev. Mr. Adams, of Marion, visited this place on Tuesday, Nov. 15, called upon all the Church people, and held a service in the evening in the Presbyterian Church, at which twenty-five were present. Mr. Adams will hold at least a monthly service here, and oftener if the way opens.

GREENCASTLE AND BLOOMINGTON .-- Mr. Prentiss is getting his work in hand. No more important points for the Church to be well intrenched in are in the Diocese. A new church is needed at Bloomington before the Church can make progress.

MOUNT VERNON.-Dean Cole baptized two children at the Bishop's visit.

MY DEAR BISHOP KNICKERBACKER: Wherever I went in Indiana your great work and zeal in behalf of the Church were spoken of affectionately. Indifference and despondency shout Diocesan matters have been changed to hopefulness and faith in the progress and fut-ure of the Church in the state. Nothing could exceed the warmth and heartiness of my welcome to my dear old parish, outsiders as well as the congregation of St. Paul's over-powering us with kindness. With many pleasant memories of our visit to you at In-dianapolis, faithfully and affectionately,

A PASTOR contemplating a removal to another field of labor, after a brief settlement, gave to a friend the reasons for so early a change. One was to this effect; "The Church pays what it pleases when it pleases, although the call which I accepted reads, $—— a year, payable monthly." There were other reasons, but this has such a bearing that we single it out for particular remark. CHRISTMAS OFFERING

The Christmas offering, as all the clergy know, is set apart by canon for the Aged and Infirm Clergy Fund of the Diocese. Several of the larger parishes have failed to pay any attention to this requirement hitherto. The Bishop wishes to remind the clergy of their obligation, and as Christmas comes on Sunday this year the offering should be a large and liberal one. The state provides for aged and broken down officers in the army and navy, and why should not the Church do it on behalf of those who have spent their life and ness. strength serving at her altars? The Diocesan tressurer reported at the last convention $1,620 to the credit of this fund. This is all that has been collected in the fifty years' history of the Diocese, and $900 of this are the offerings of the past four years. When some provision is made by the Church for those who break down in her service it will not be so difficult to supply the ranks of the clergy. We should have at least $500 added to this fund as the result of our Christmas collection. Let nothing prevent this or take the place of this offering on Christmas day.

To the Churchmen of Indiana:

Our Diocesan School for Girls has begun its second year with over fifty pupils, besides many special students in French, German and instrumental music-more than three times instrumental music—more than three times the number it opened with last year. This result is largely due to the interest you have nanifested in the school. With your continued help, I trust the advantages of the school will be brought more and more before parents throughout the Diocese, and that next year we shall be able to report to you a still greater increase.

Two facts are especially gratifying to us— chiefly because parents are the best judges of a school. The first fact is that every pupil in a school. The first fact is that every pupil in attendance last year having a sister has brought that sister this year; the other is that, although we have received many pupils from other schools, none have left us to go elsewhere. The reason is evident: the Ineisewhere. The reason is evident: the in-dianapolis Institute supplies a needed want. The Diocesan School offers many advantages not to be obtained in any other school in In-dianapolis. Our course of study is comprehensive and practical, our corps of teachers in every department is the best, and, above all, those religious influences exist without which traits of character we admire in woman can not be developed.

It has been asked how it is we can afford to make the terms so low-little more than one-half those of other schools of the same character. In answer, I will state that the school was not established for mere money-making, and because the school-building and the school residence belong to the Diocese

The school is now thoroughly established, and the buildings having lately been entirely freed from mortgage, there is no danger of their ever again being used for any other than school purposes.

By mentioning the facts stated above, every Churchman can sow the seed that will next year ripen into fruit. As opportunity offers call attention to the school. It is not the spasmodic, but the continuous, persistent, united, efforts of Churchmen that will enable the principals to build up a school in every respect worthy of this great Diocese.
Faithfully your co-worker in the Church,

THE NEW CHAPEL OF ST. PAUL'S CHURCH, EVANSVILLE.

It is purely gothic in design, and, while dif-fering in shape and proportion from the church, still bears such resemblance to it as to make one feel instinctively that it belongs to and is a part of it. This has been the aim of the donors, and the success is largely due to the good taste and judgment of Mrs. Viele, who has from the beginning so faithfully as-sisted the architects in carrying it out in de-

THE CONSECRATION OF ST. PAUL'S CHAPEL, EVANSVILLE.

CHAPEL, EVANSVILLE,

This beautiful stone and brick chapel erected "to the glory of God and in remembrance of many mercies" by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Viele, was solemnly consecrated by Bishop Knickerbacker on Friday, November 18. The request to consecrate was read by Rev. Chas. Morris; the sentence of consecration by Dean Cole, of Holy Innocents. Morning prayer was said by Rev. Mr. Sundey, of Terre Haute. The lessons were read by Rev. Mr. Hanne. The ressons were read by Rev. Mr. Hynes, of Cannelton. The address of the Bishop was extempore. In the Master's name he thanked Mr. and Mrs. Viele for what they had done for the Church in Evansville. Holy had done for the Church in Evansville. Holy Innocents Church and rectory, built years ago in memory of dear children in Paradise, and maintained for the sons of toil; the chapel of the Good Shepherd, erected for the training of the children of the poor; the stately Church, the grandest parish Church in the Diocese, largely due to their generous con tributions; the commodious rectory in memory. of Mrs. Viele's father and mother, founders of of Mrs. Viele's father and mother, founders of the parish and its first junior warden; and not the parish and its first junior warden; and not the parish and its first junior warden; and not the parish and its first junior warden; and not the sunday and really "mover the sunda

The Bishop expressed the hope that there might be daily service and the weekly celebration of the Holy Communion. He then congranulated the vestry and congregation on being the recipients of this noble cift, and dwelt upon the obligations of the parish to the Church at large in folidiling its missionary work, and to the Diocess in occoperating for the extension of the Church in our own borders. He uvered attention to mission work the extension of the Church in our own bor-ders. He urged attention to mission work in the city, and especially in behalf of the colored people in their midst. The offerings were received for the Church Building Fund in the city, and the finding from the city and the colored people in their midst. The offerings capacity is 150. The pews and all the chancel turniture are of oak; the gas brackets are of polished brass, and the burners are for the Diocese, and the Bishop then celebrated in Holy Communion. In the evening a reception is the color of the Diocese, and the Bishop then celebrated in Holy Communion. In the evening a reception was called in the property in the Diocese.

It is the city, and the Bishop then Collebrated in Holy Communion. In the evening a reception was held in the Farish House for Mr. and Mrs. Viele and the Bishop, given by the vestor perfect and beautiful Church property in the Diocese.

A pleasant incident of the evening was the presentation of a set of elegant prayer-books and hymnals to Mr. and Mrs. Viele on the part of the vestry, and a resolution of thats from the Sunday-school teachers and scholars for their chapel.

SOUTHERN CONVOCATION.

A most interesting session of the Southern Convocation was held in St. James Church, Vincennes, on Tuesday and Wednesday, No-vember 15 and 16. Besides the rector, Rev. A. A. Abbott, there were present the Bishop, Rev. E. G. Hunter, of Indianapolis, Dean Cole and Rev. J. A. McGlone. On Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock the Mission School of St. John's, North Vincennes, was visited, and after a choral service led by the rector, the Bishop catechised and addressed the children. The Bishop and clergy were delighted with the orderly and neat appearance of the children, forty in number, and by their prompt and intelligent replies. The school is free, and maintained by Major Gould; is taught by the Misses Wilson, and visited almost daily by the rector. It is hard to see how the money could be more wisely and advantageously expended for the good of society. There children are entirely from the homes of working people, and are taught daily religious truth with sequilar knowledge. The Bishop and clergy were delighted with

In the evening, at seven o'clock, the Church was filled, and after choral evening prayer by the rector, Messrs. Hunter and McGlone read-ing the lessons, Dean Cole preached a grand and stirring practical sermon. The rector then presented thirty-two children who had learned the whole Catechism to be received on the Roll of Honor of the Diocese. The Bishop welcomed and congratulated them and them catechised them. The two Sundaythem catechised them. The two Sunday-schools show remarkable familiarity with the

Is the confession in the Communion office we are taught to say, "The burden of them is intolerable." Id on a laways feel that degree of self-abasement, some one may say. Yet who is olde to blevie, i. e., bear, his own sins? Recall the derivation of the word. Only Christ can bear so great a cross. He only can tolerate or supports for us this burden; hence, they are to us literally and really "intolerable."

DIOCESAN ENDOWMENT.

The good news comes to the Bishop from the missionary at Lawrenceburg that he has secured pledges for their quota of the endowment and hopes for the same good result in Aurora. At the Bishop's visitation at Cannelton a substantial addition was secured there, leaving only $25 lacking of their full quota. Some additions have also been received from St. Stephen's, Terre Haute, and others are anxiously looked for in response to the Bishop's solicitation there. Some responses have come from New Albany, and others are expected. The Bishop has secured a subscription of $500 from a lady member of Christ Church, Indianapolis. The semi-annual payment of coupons due November 1 has generally been met, carrying up the cash payments to more than $6,000. The following letter to the Bishop, provoked by Brother Hallam's able paper on the endowment in the last number of the WORKER, is thought too good to be kept to ourselves. The honorable gentleman wields the pen of a ready writer. We hope more of our readers have read Mr. Hallam's paper, and we should be glad of a thousand responses similar to that of Judge

PLYMOUTH, IND., Nov. 1, 1887-1 A. M. Rt. Rev. David Knickerbacker, Indianapolis:

REVEREND AND DEAR SIR-Old men may take some liberties, and, although our acquaintance is limited, I am about to take one by writing to you. Happily ignorant as to your views about levity, I risk the exhibition of humor, assuming that you recognize the fact that no thing can exist without an opposite, hence there can be no gravity if there be

This is the eve of All-Saints', and "hoodlums" here are trying to celebrate it by a vicious custom of committing trespass on everybody's property who is not on the watch. A gang—one of several—are now hoisting a lot of stolen gates up the derrick on the ropes at the defunct gas well. I am on the watch, as it is easier than it would be to hunt up in as it is easier than it would be carried off if I should sleep. The hired people are tired, so I let them sleep. It is chilly outside, and while sitting inside a few minutes I picked up the CHUECH WORKER for November and fell onto the article of Rev. Frank Hallam about the Endowment Fund, of which I had not heard before, and out of that grows this letter, which I am compelling you to tolerate, and which I will, in advance, release you from all obligations to answer.

I had a hearty laugh on reading that arti-cle. The Rev. Frank has a most happy and forcible way of putting things. Pity so much of it is lost by coming only before Church people. Such an argument in a secular paper of wide circulation would, it seems to me, find of white circulation would be the entrance to many a pocket whose owner is not clothed and warmed by Christian grace, though he may be by Divine mercy. It has into mine and I inclose a small sum toward the $75,000 -as much as I feel able to spare now—as much as I rectable to spare now—on the principle that $5,205 is more than $5,200 already paid in. If a thousand other wicked old fellows like me would do the same, the sum would be considerably incressed

Mr. Hallam is right in his view that it is s "priviledge" to be able to contribute to some-thing that will not crumble nor pass away. It is a "knock-down" argument to those who demand that each generation shall take care of itself, and do no more, when he reminds them that they are living on the opportuni-ties created by their predecessors. His hu-mor is grim enough when he shows that Bishops are human and dislike to support the people who have hired them to work, on promise of wages, and require the work; and that Bishops can not fill the full measure of their capacity or duty if they be treated in a manner that would drive the cook out of the kitchen. In short, the Reverend Frank is a numorist, a critic, a cynic, a logician, a persuasive reasoner and a crystallizer of much truth in a small space; hence, he is a paradox. Now, he would not like to hear me say that, and yet it is just that which enables him to exert the force he exhibits in this article whatever he may show elsewhere. I have not the pleasure of knowing him, but I think he must be "one of our kind of folks," or he must be "one of our kind of folks," or he would not so readily impress me with the idea that he is. The endowment is a good proposition. What a pity some rich man would not create a dozen of them instead of giving $1,500,000 to a single institution— and more—as some have done! What and more—as some have done! What a world of good I could do by judicious distribution of even the income from a million if I had it, and "live like a prince" besides! And if I had the million to distribute it would build many edifices that would never decay or crumble away. Let Mr. Hallam 'wake the echoes in rich men's ears on that theme, in bis peculiar style, and see if something will not come of it. "Judicious distribution" of even the $300,000 one woman lately gave to one thing would endow three equally good things and effect three times as much good. There will be enough large gifts for notoriety only. Let the truly benevolent, having much to give, consider the subject of "judicious distribution," and let the worthy would-be recipients force it on their notice. The Church fills the place of and saves a standing army in this country. Remove it, and only a garrison of soldiers in every town could preserve order The Church is cheaper and more effectual, if we take only a worldly view. Remember the time and the vicious custom I mentioned and forgive me this trespass. Very respectfully and kindly yours,

A CHAPTER FOR MEN.

Most men prefer that their wives and daughters should be members of the com-munion of the Church. Unless they happen creed, and kneel down and say her prayers, but he, the lord of creation, the image of God, can do nothing of the kind. This specimen of God's image had better do a little thinking for himself. He will not be here many years longer; will have to go forth some of these days, and there will be no wife to wait on him or help him; he will go forth a stranger, into a strange country, and at the appointed time will have to stand up; can no longer loll and vote Christ's service a bore; will have to stand up before the Christ he was ashamed of, and account to Him for the way he lived, what he did, and for what he did not Certain, is it? As certain as the sunrise. O man, made in the image of God, redeemed by the precious blood of Christ, bestir yourself and act as one who must soon give an account to the Righteous Judge.

THE APOSTOLIC SUCCESSIONS.

The following is a complete list of bishops The following is a complete list of bishops of the Anglican Church, showing the "apostolic succession" of Bishop Huntington on one line of descent, through the Welsh Church back to the Church of Jerusalem. The line of Bishops is also traced, perhaps more fully, through the Church of Lyons to the Ephesia Church and St. John, and through the Roman line to St. Peter and St. Paul. The descent from the Church of Jerusalem is as follows, the date of each Bishop's consecration being given with

The rule of the Church is that at least three must unite in every consecration; so that the succession may be varied secration; so that the succession may be varied many times for each line of Bishops. The last given is from the records of the Anglican Church, and is one of the three commonly given in defense of the Aposticis succession. It will be seen that this line of Bishops is separate from that derived through the Churches of Rome and of Lyons.—Gisca Biorning Herald.

SOMEBODY has written a beautiful little poem on "The Little Cavalier:

He walks beside his mother And looks up in her face; He wears a glow of boyish pride With such a royal grace

Her little Cavalier!

He proudly waits upon her, Would shield her without fear, The boy who loves his mother well-

No boy can be his mother's cavalier unless he is a thoughtful boy. A thoughtless boy doesn't remember to wait upon his mother— his mother waits upon him. Some boys that nis mouner waits upon him. Some boys that we have seen love their mothers very dearly, but they will go off to play and leave the coal-cuttle empty, or the wood-box unfilled, or something else to be done, when they know there is nobody but mother to do it. A noble, many boy delights to wait wrope his many boy delights to wait wrope. manly boy delights to wait upon his mother, and to save her strength is always watching opportunities to do something for her. There is no home, no matter how much hired help there is in it, but that there are a great many things the children can do for the comfort of things the children can do for the comfort of the loved ones there. Anything done for love's sake and by loving hands is so much better appreciated and enjoyed than anything done by hired hands! The thoughtful kindness and consideration of our children fill our hearts with happiness, and thoughtful children are always happy ones. The consciousness of bringing happiness to others makes us happy

A LETTER TO THE CHILDREN. Dear Children of the Church in Indiana.

Before another issue of the Church Worker you will have entered upon another Christian year in the holy Advent season, and you will have celebrated with joy and thankfulness, your Bishop trusts, the glad announcement of the angels of a Savior's birth. You will have gathered around your Christmas trees with happy hearts, and sung your joyous carols in remembrance of that birth, and received your gifts in recognition of God's great gift of His own dear Son to be your Savior. Your Bishop wishes you may have a happy Christmas; that every dear boy and girl of his Diocese may be made very happy at that glad season. He will think of you all as being happy. About Christmas time he hopes to send to the children a red card marked with bricks, each brick representing five cents, and which he hopes the children will be glad to secure for the Orphanage. Ask your rector or your Sunday-school superintendent for them, and through him send your bricks to the Bishop. At his visit to Logansport the Sunday-school gave him $1.35 for the Orphanage, and Bessie and Lucy Simpson, of the same school, gave him 50 cents each for the same object. Some of our Sunday-schools are making their offerings through Advent for the General Board for Domestic Missions. Some in Epiphany will give them for Foreign Missions. This is well.

God bless you all, dear children. Merry Christmas and a Happy New-Year. FROM YOUR BISHOP.

CLERGYMEN'S SALARIES.

Some of our parishes have got into a very careless way as regards the payment of the salaries of their clergymen. This is very unfortunate. Our clergy, at the best, are only paid a bare living salary, and arrearage to them means their arrearage to their butcher, grocery man, landlord, etc. A little thoughtful attention on the part of vestrymen and parishioners will remedy this. Pledges for the support of a church should be esteemed sacred obligations, and should be met promptly-quite as much so as any other obligation. Indeed, parishioners should scarcely wait to be called on for their church dues. The money, placed in an envelope and placed upon the offertory basin, is a good way to pay it. The first of January is a good time for parishes to square up with their clergyman. See that he starts out in the new year with his salary fully paid up, and then let all try to keep it up, and your clergyman will work with a great deal better courage than when you are all behind. The apostolic exhortation, "Owe no man anything," is a good one for churchmen to act on. effect, and had a joyous time.

ENDOWMENT FUND

Trinity, Michigan City, has been the banner parish in mission and school work for some time, and it has proved itself the banner parish in providing its full quota and the largest amount yet contributed by any parish in the Diocese for the endowment. The cheerfulness and readiness with which this was done made it a pleasure to canvass, and was in refreshing contrast with the slowness and indifference of other parishes quite as able if they had the willing mind. But on every hand there is a growing realization of the importance of this matter, and one after another parishes are wheeling into line. MERRY CHRISTMAS

Bright, happy Christmas has come and gone, with its joyous, blessed services. From every part of the Diocese we learn that services were well attended, and that dear children were all made happy with their Christmas trees and joyful carol services.

In Christ Church, Indianapolis, the services were well attended. A tinge of sadness was given to the celebration here by the possibility of losing their beloved rector. The children's Christmas festival was held on St. Stephen's Day (Monday evening). The church was crowded with the children and their friends. A bright carol service, with appropriate recitations by the children, distribution of prizes to the choir and children, and a bag of candy for all. The Bishop was present, and said a few words of greeting.

St. Paul's on Christmas Day was well attended. The children's festival was held in the church on Monday evening. The bootblacks and newsboys were all invited to share with them, and were present in good numbers. The schools were addressed by the Bishop, Rev. Mr. Norton, of Cincinnati, and Dr. Jenckes

Grace Church held this Christmas celebration on Tuesday evening, in the school-rooms. There was a good attendance, and it was made a very happy occasion for the dear children. On Sunday (Christmas Day) there were two celebrations. The Bishop preached at the second service, and celebrated Holy Communion. He was assisted in the services by Rev. Mr. Gurr, of California, a classmate of Mr. Swan, and by Rev. Mr. Norton, of Cincinnati, the secretary of Bishop Jaggar.

At Holy Innocents, on Christmas evening the Bishop preached to a large congregation. The church was tastefully decorated. The vested choir sang nicely. The children's festival was appropriately celebrated on Holy

The church has been recently painted on the exterior and the chancel improved. An organ has also been purchased at a cost of $50 and paid for through the efforts of the ladies. A series of mission services were held, beginning at the Bishop's visit December 13. Dr. Bradley preached Wednesday evening, December 14, Rev. W. D. Engle Thursday evening, December 15, and Rev. F. W. Henry Friday evening, December 16. The services were well attended and their influence must have been for good.

NORTH LIBERTY.-Dr. Kemp held his closing service here with a good congregation December 6. Mr. Scott, of La Porte, will take charge of the mission from December.

The Sunday-school enrolls seventy-five scholars, with efficient teachers. A Young Ladies' Guild is also rendering efficient service. Twenty-six persons have been confirmed. All work together harmoniously, Trinity Church, Fort Wayne, through its Woman's Auxiliary, has contributed $50 to aid in the good work and a Sunday-school library. Mr. Jephson has great reason to be encouraged by what has been accomplished.

ALBION, St. MATTHEW'S MISSION .- A year has not passed since this mission was established and a hall secured for services. The Ladies' Guild has met all the expenses of the mission, rent and furnishing of hall, traveling expenses of missionary, etc.. They are to hold a sale before Christmas, in hopes of raising a considerable sum to pay on their lot. They need an organ very much. The Bishop would be thankful to any churchman who would send him about $40 to purchase an organ for the mission. At present they are paying $1.50 a month for use of organ. MICHIGAN CITY, TRINITY.-The St. Andrew's Brotherhood is arranging for an art loan exhibition the latter part of January. The ladies made between $600 and $700 at their fair the early part of December, which extinguishes the debt of the parish. Twenty have been baptized in this parish since convention. A parochial temperance society has recently been organized, and two rousing meetings have been held.

BISHOP KNICKERBACKER again made us rateful by his presence. His coming is grateful by his presence. INFORMATION

About the General Mission Work of the Church Important for Every Churchman to Know.

First, domestic missions in our own land: Whole number of workers is 421; missionary bishops, 11; missionaries, 348; 39 are engaged in work among colored people of the south; 1 among Chinese in San Francisco; 2 among deaf mutes; 30 among Indians. They minister at about 1,000 different places.

Eighteen native catechists and 8 men and 9 women helpers, white, are engaged in educational and mission work among the Indians in 4 boarding-schools and 72 stations. Five unordained men and 21 women are employed as teachers in colored schools.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Stations, 149; in western Africa, 65; China, 32; Japan, 35; Greece, 1; Hayti, 16. Laborers, 272; missionary bishops, 3; presbyters and deacons, 59; physicians, 4; foreign lay workers, 27; native catechists, teachers and lay readers, 177. In Athens, Greece, 1 foreign lady with 14 native assistants. In China, a bishop, 23 clergymen, 3 physicians and 83 lay workers and teachers. In Africa, a bishop, 14 clergymen and 18 other helpers. In Japan. a bishop, 10 clergymen, 1 physician, 58 lav helpers. In Hayti, a bishop, 18 clergymen, 36 lay helpers. There are 16 boarding-schools, 7 in Africa, 4 in China, 4 in Japan, 1 in Hayti. A divinity and medical school and college in China, and a divinity school in Japan. Pupils in boarding-schools, 514; day schools, 61, containing 2.657 pupils: 52 Sunday-schools, with an attendance of 2,283 scholars. Number of communicants in Africa, 1,630; China, 574; Japan, 429; Hayti, 385. This blessed work is sustained by the free-will offerings of the church. Surely, every parish and mission in Indians should lend a helping hand and have an annual offering for these different departments of mission work. Only 27 parishes, or about one-half of our whole number, contributed last year. Let us do better this year. Let every parish be on the roll of honor.

A YOUNG Englishman, a recent graduate of Cambridge, is going out at his own charges to labor under Bishop Bickersteth, at Tokio. An English lady, who has been giving largely to the mission in Japan, has decided to give herself as well as her means to the work, and Miss Mary Vaughan, of Brighton, is going at her own charges to labor in the mission at Hang Chow, China.

It is just as easy to cultivate the acquaintance of your mercies as your miseries, and it is a great deal pleasanter for your enjoyment; just as it is a great deal pleasanter to be introduced to your friends than your enemies.

If one only wished to be happy, this could be readily accomplished; but we wish to be happier than other people, and this is almost always difficult, for we believe others to be happier than they are.

THE crosses we make for ourselves by anxiety as to the future are not the crosses sent by God.

AGE FOR CONFIRMATION

ted by Rev. H. C. Randall When our Church declares that baptism is sufficient to salvation, she speaks only of children who commit actual sin, or (as it was worded in the First Book of Edward V "depart out of this life in their infancy." To such, indeed (as all our former prayer-books affirm), no man may think that any detriment shall come by deferring their confirmation. But when children come to that age that, partly by the frailty of their natures, partly by the assaults of the world and the devil, they begin to be in danger of falling into sin, they declare that it is most meet that confirmation be ministered to them that be baptized, that by imposition of hands and prayer they may receive strength and defense against all temptations to sin, and the assaults of the world and the devil.—Wheatley, "Common Prayer, 381.

The doctrine of our Church is, that it is certain by God's Word that children which are baptized, dying before they commit actual sin, are undoubtedly saved; in which words the undoubted sufficiency of baptism is extended no farther than to the time of committing actual sin .- Rev. Dr. Waterland, Works,

The Bishop of Winchester, confirming recently some children of tender age, including a boy of nine, told them that none were to be held back on the plea of being too young. "When," said he, "did our blessed Lord reject any from approaching Him on account of der age? On the contrary, we read that He took little children in Hisarms, put His hands upon them, and blessed them. Would that the Bishop's sentiments were shared by the entire Anglican Episcopate! The spectacle, now only too common, of nominal Church people living and dying unconfirmed, or of young people confirmed and lapsing into indifference, would be of less frequent occurrence.—

The Church requires what both God and reason require, that children shall begin to serve God when the age of accountableness begins. Let but one year elapse after this age, and there is so much unimproved time for this land is now groaning consists, first, in keeping children out of the Church; secondly, in trying to convert them in adult years.-

It is a mistake to suppose that persons advanced in life come to confirmation in a spirit more acceptable to God than the young do; their irreligious lives for so long a period may call for a much deeper repentance.— Church Journal, Oct. 17, 1872.

It was a change brought about by the influence of the Roman Communion .- Rev. R. W. Randall, Vicar of All-Saints', Clifton

VISITATION OF SCHOOLS.

The Bishop, in his capacity of visitor, visited Howe grammar school Dec. 6 and 7. He joined with the school in their evening and morning chapel services, and was pleased with the devout and reverent deportment of the boys, their hearty responses and singing. He found twenty-one boarders in the school, and six day scholars, making twenty-seven in all, with prospects of several more boys after Christmas that will take up the full capacity of the school until larger buildings are secured. They are under the charge of Rector Spalding, sided by four teachers, Rev. W. G. Woolford being head master. The boys all seemed contented and happy in their school work. In honor of the Bishop's visit a holiday was given the school, and the boys enjoyed a grand skating time, as the ice was in good condition. The Bishop was very much delighted with his visit.

BARKER HALL.

On Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 27 and 28, the Bishop took the opportunity to pay visits to Barker Hall, visiting the different schoolrooms, attending the chapel exercises and witnessing the drill in calisthenics. The magnificent school building makes it a pleasure to attend school, and Dean Faude is very fortunate in his selection of teachers, who are thoroughly up to their work and must produce the best results. Dean Faude gives constant attention to the school as principal, devoting a part of each day to hearing classes. We found eighty scholars present in the different departments, and all had the appearwhich account must be given. The source of ance of enjoying the advantages afforded the wickedness and irreligion under which gan City have reason to be proud of their school, and great good must result from it. We were pleased to learn that a number of pupils from the country around come into town and board for the sake of attending the school. A boarding hall for such would be a great advantage.

INDIANAPOLIS INSTITUTE.

December 23 the Bishop was present at the closing exercises of the Christmas term of the Indianapolis Institute for Young Ladies. These consisted of calisthenic evolutions, songs and recitations by the little ones, giving evidence of careful training by their teacher. The senior department gave recitations in English, French and German, and evidenced great improvement in elecution. We are glad to learn the school has received another boarder, and we trust other applications will come in during the Christmas holidays.

In the affairs of life activity is to be prefer-red to dignity, and practical energy and dis-patch to premeditated composure and reserve.

One reason why the world is not reformed is because every man would have others make a beginning, and never thinks of himself.

THE DEAF MUTE MISSION

Rev. A. W. Mann spent Sunday, December 4, in Indianapolis, holding services as follows Nine A. M. and 2 P. M. at the state school for deaf mutes, and 4 P. M. at Christ Church. About 200 attended the latter service. In the evening at 7:30 o'clock he addressed the pupils in the institution chapel. Several deaf mutes are candidates for confirmation, and Mr. Mann expects to be present at the Bishop's next visitation at Christ Church.

RIGHT USE OF THE LITURGY.

It is a common saying that there are many strong prejudices against our Church. much of the prejudice against the use of forms of prayer grows out of the fact that Churchmen themselves make so little right use of the liturgy. Take the intelligent dis-senter and place him in a congregation where the minister reads the service in a hurried and heartless manner, as if his main object was to get through with an uninteresting duty as soon as possible, while the people respond as soon as possible, while the people respond in a whisper, as if either abamed of the service or afraid of their own voices, one-half of whom are siting down when they should be standing, and drowally lolling when they should be devoutly kneeling, and what would be his impression from such an exhibition of indifference? Would be love Churchmen more than before because of this apparent demonstrates. onstration of a greater affinity on the part of the people with the sentiments which he has entertained of the worthlessness of a liturgy? On the contrary, it would deepen his prejudices. He would find fresh evidence to fix his conviction that the whole was a heartless form.

But let this same person go into a congregation where the service is carried out in the true spirit-that is, where it is made to express all that it was intended to express, and all that it is capable of expressing; let him see the clergyman perform his part in a manner which shall indicate that he is employed in the most solemn of all duties that can engage the human mind and heart, the public worship of the Most High God; let this stranger behold a devout congregation, every member of which, old and young, is paying the utmost attention, all rising at once and listening devoutly to the exhortation, all kneeling together and making confession of their sins to God in tones, earnest, and distinct; let him behold them again rising as one man and joining heartily with uplifted voices in the praises of the Church; let hin hear the music of the many tongues, as the sound of many waters; let him hear alike the voices of "old men and maidens, young men and children," all united in a common song of thanksgiving to God for His mercies; let him see that same congregation quietly resume their seats, and intently listen to the instructions of God's Word, and again, with their minister, bow down upon their knees, and join with him in the prayers which the Church has provided for the use of all who worship in her courts; let this prejudiced per-son satisfy himself that there is no idler, no gazer, no lounger, no sleeper in the courts of the sanctuary, and when the services are con-cluded, let him note the unbroken stillness that fills the house, and seems to say that every soul within its walls is holding silent communion with heaven, imploring a blessing upon the services of the occasion; and what would be the effect of all this upon the prej-udiced visitor? If any thing would convert him to Episcopacy, so far as the beauty, pro-priety, and expediency of her services are con-cerned, it would be just such an illustration as this.

There are very few congregations in our Church which do justice to her liturgy. We attribute to prejudice against her forms what belongs chiefly to the manner of employing them. It is truly distressing to witness the faint responses, which are made in some of the churches, so low that the officiating minister hardly knows whether there be any response or no. It is vain to praise our liturgy, while we murder it in cold blood by suffering it to freeze to death.

MISSION WORK

The plan of assigning outside stations for mission work for settled clergy is working well. An amount of mission work is being done that is most encouraging. So far as reported to the Bishop for November and December: Mr. Webbe held an interesting service in the Methodist Church at Decatur; found two new church families had moved into the place; Mr. Hunter held an interesting cottage service at Franklin; Mr. Miller, of Bristol, visited New Carlisle: Dr. Kemp held a cottage service at Rochester; Mr. Rosevelt has held two services in Warsaw with encouraging attendance; Dr. Bradley officiated in the Presbyterian churches in Shelbyville and Greensburg with large congregations; Mr. Miller, of Logansport, held a cottage service in Kokomo and at Crown Point; Mr. Jenner held services in Thorntown, Lebanon and Covington: Mr. Hayward in Attica and Colfax; Mr. Adams, of Marion, at Huntington; Mr. Henry at Poneto, Anderson and Hartford City; Mr. Ayres at Rushville; Mr. Engle at Willow Brook, besides his four regular stations; Dean Cole at New Harmony and Mount Vernon; Mr. McGlone at Petersburg and Washington; Mr. Scott at North Liberty. Let the good work go on, and every clergyman have some outside mission work in hand, and glorious will be the result.

MRS. WALTER HASTINGS, sister of Mr. passed to the rest of Paradise. She was a libtoo late to reach there in time to be with her Again Indiana has been honored by the selection of one of her clergy for one of the most important parishes in the land-St. Luke's, Brooklyn-they having called to their rectorship, to succeed Rev. Dr. Van De Water, Dr. Bradley, of Christ Church. The doctor has not signified his decision at this writing, but doubtless he will feel called upon to accept a work of so much importance, and for which he is eminently qualified. He has been rector of Christ Church for nearly sixteen years, has done a grand parochial work, is beloved by his people, who will part from him with the greatest regret. The Diocese will share with his parishioners in their sorrow at his departure. As President of the Standing Committee of the Diocese, and as Dean of Convocation, as delegate to General Convention, asa true and loyal presbyter to his Bishop, he has served the Diocese faithfully, taking a deep interest in all missionary work, and will be greatly missed. > THE Bishop has received from Mr. William Cornwall, of Louisville, a large number of pamphlets, containing an article by himself and one by Judge Stotsenburgh on lay work. The Bishop will be glad to send them to lay readers and laymen who may request them by postal card. The argument of Mr. Cornwall's paper is that the true religion was sustained in all countries where the Jews were tained in all countries where me Jews were dispersed by lay reading, exhorting and cate-chising; that the system was sustained by our Lord and His Apostles. Second, we, with a pure liturgy and capable men, are the people above all others to evangelize the land, and our church legislation has opened the door. May the Lord bless and enlarge the plan of sending the Gospel to all destitute places.

LETTER TO THE CHILDREN.

Dear Children: What a happy Christmas you have all had! How your Bishop would have liked to have heard your sweet carols, and shared with you the pleasures of your Christmas festival! He was with you in spirit. Your Bishop the past month has visited the Sunday-schools at Michigan City, Goshen, Bristol, Albion, Garrett and Peru. He has been delighted with their proficiency in the Church Catechism, and the interest the children take in their Sunday-schools. At the spring visitation he hopes to welcome many to the Roll of Honor of the Diocese, and to have the pleasure of confirming a number of the older ones.

Liberal offerings have come from St. Paul's Sunday-school, Richmond, for the cot and orphanage fund. A nice offering, also, from the Sunday-school at Albion and Garrett. The brick cards are going off rapidly, and during the Christmas holidays I am sure a great many bricks were gathered. There is no telling what 4.000 children in our Sunday-schools will do when they set to work in real earnest. Ask your rector for a brick card or write to the Bishop for one, if you have not received one

Again, dear children, your Bishop wishes you a happy New-Year, and prays that '88 may be full of blessing to the dear Church children in Indiana. Affectionately,

YOUR BISHOP.

SECRETARY OF THE CONVENTION. REV. WILLIS D. ENGLE, INDIANAPOLIS

MR. L. B. MARTIN, TERRE HAUTE.

THE CHURCH WORKER.

This number closes the fourth volume of our little Diocesan Church paper. It has had but one end in view: making known to the Churchmen of Indiana the work of the Church in our own Diocese, its great needs, and stirring up their pure minds by way of remembrance to do and dare for Christ and the Church. It has accomplished more than we expected, and has done a work that has repaid fourfold the labor and cost. The Churchmen of Indiana have appreciated this labor, and would not now be without their own Diocesan paper. The returns, in the way of subscriptions, have been perhaps all we could expect, and yet not all we hoped for. Our work is one of love; all we ask for is sufficient of making their pledges to meet the expenses. Not more than 1,000 of the 2 500 families to whom it has been sent have paid for it in any one year. Our advertising patronage has greatly aided us in meeting its expenses; without this we should have run much further behind than we have. The Missionary Board have made up for the shortcomings of our friends to whom it is sent. We desire every family to receive it; we want them to know about the work of the Church in Indiana, whether they care to pay for it or not. At the close of our fourth year it will be gratefully appreciated if many who have not done so heretofore will send the small amount asked as a subscription, 50 cents per annum. If not able to do this, 25 cents will be thankfully received. And will not those who are wont to send their annual subscription send promptly now, that we may start the volume with no indebtedness for past work !

ENDOWMENT

A grand impetus was given to the endowment early in January by the subscription of $4,500 in Christ Church parish, Indianapolis. This is the largest sum secured as yet from any single parish. The Bishop spent three days with Dr. Bradley, calling on the parishioners. The cordiality with which they were received, and the prompt and liberal response 15. Ash Wednesday, Grace Church, Indianmade, were delightful, and made it a very easy and pleasant task.

The Bishop also took the opportunity of his visit to Madison to canvass, with the rector, two days in behalf of the endowment. They were most cordially received by all, and nearly $1,000, one-half of their capital, was pledged cheerfully. The balance will undoubtedly be forthcoming when a number of Churchmen, who were absent from the city, shall have returned and have the opportunity Already more than half of the parishes have completed their full quota, and one-half of the endowment sought ($30,000) has been pledged, and nearly one-fourth of it has been paid in.

CENTRAL CONVOCATION.

The Convocation at Muncie, January 10 and 11, was one of the most delightful ever held in this Diocese. The cordial hospitality of the people, the good attendance on the meetings, the ability of the papers and sermons delivered, made it full of interest. Dr. Bradley resigned the deanship, which he had held for ten leges. Let there be a felt self-denial for Christ's years, and resolutions expressing the high appreciation in which he was held and the faithfulness with which he had discharged his duties were unanimously adopted by a standing vote. Dr. Pettis was nominated to fill his homes and move all to a better living, to place, and was confirmed by the Bishop

LENT.

The precious season of Lent is close at hand. In all our churches there will be more frequent services, and in many of them classes will be formed preparatory to confirmation. Lent is the harvest season of the Church year We hope it may, indeed, be greatly blessed to our whole Diocese, that every Churchman may derive benefit from its devout use. Let. there be a real retirement from the world and a devout appreciation of spiritual privisake and sacrifices for the Church welfare. May the family altar be erected in many a home where it has heretofore been neglected. Let the spirit of this holy season pervade our careful self-examination, to a consecration to God's service. Pastors can not be too particular and careful in preparing their candidates for confirmation. This is an opportunity which, if neglected, can never be recovered. They should be made intelligent Churchmen and Christians and realize fully what is meant by the confession of Christ before the world need not so much members as men and women of prayer and godly life-men and women who will witness for Christ and let their lives shine. Again we say, may our Diocese of and conform our lives neares to His holy life,

A church property worth at least $1,200 was secured for $450, the congregation agreeing to raise $300 and the Diocesan Church Building Fund pledging $150. The property is in good condition, occupying two lots on a corner, well fenced, and, with a little alteration, will be in every way suitable for service. It was furnished with organ, chairs and stoves. Mr. Engle has also organized a Sunday-school in the Mission, and is greatly encouraged by the hearty cooperation of the people of the Mission.

MIDDLETOWN, CONN., Jan. 4, 1888.

Right Rev. and Dear Brother: ragnt Res. and Dear Brother:

I address you with some hesitation, and only at the request of the committee appointed at the late General Convention to take in hand the "Missionary Enrollment Fund;" proposed to be raised before October, 1889. I hope this request will secure me from any imputation of "stretching beyond my measurements."

The Enrollment plan was adopted, you will remember, by the General Convention, sitting as the Board of Missions, and comes, therefore, before the Church commended by the highest authority.

The committee believe, and it would appear reasonably, that if the work of enrollment could be taken up simultaneously, with the approval and indorsement of the Bishops, in all our Dioceses during the coming Lent, making it the great work of the season, the plan might be successfully carried on, if not carried ou.

This will demand the co-operation of our entire Episcopate, and it is in the hope of securing this that the subject is now brought before you and your favorable consideration invoked.

It is not necessary that payments should be made at once. Subscriptions can be made payable on or before the 1st of January, 1889. While, as to details, etc., the committee will send such suggestions as they may have to make with this circular. The next General Convention will occur at the close of one hundred years from the adop-tion of the Constitution and Book of Common Prayer of this Church. What a fitting rec-ognition of the manifold blessings which the ognition of the maintain the state of the Church has showered on us for all those years, would such an offering as the Enrollment plan proposes be!

Your affectionate brother,

J. WILLIAMS,

Presiding Bishop of the House of Bishops.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16, 1888.

Right Rev. and Dear Sir: The Central Committee on the Missionary The Central Committee on the Missionary Enrollment Fund beg most respectfully to call your attention to the inclosed letter from the presiding Bishop. There has been so much already said about this subject, and you are doubties so familiar with the plan, that we need not here do more than to state the consistent in unsulfate and prompt sation if necessity of immediate and prompt action, if the trust committed to us by the General Convention of the Church is to be fulfilled. We therefore beg your earnest co-operation, as we believe that, if efforts are made at once to enlist the whole Church in this important work during the coming Lent, it can not fail to place the matter on the road to success, if not entirely complete it.

As you are aware, the lay deputies in each Diocese were appointed a committee to take general charge of the matter, and in many of the Dioceses they are actively at work; but the plan will not prove successful without your own personal aid and influence and the hearty and entire assistance of your clergy.

Please reply on or before the 25th of January, and believe us, with the highest respect, most faithfully yours,

No true work since the world began was over wasted; no true life since the world began was ever wasted; no true life since the world be-gan has failed. Oh, understand those two per-verted words, failure and success, and measure them by the eternal, not by the earthly, stand-ard. What the world has regarded as the bitterest failure has often been, in the sight of heaven, the most magnificent success. When heaven, the most magnificent success. the cap, painted with devils, was placed on the brow of John Huss, and he sank amid the embers of the flame, was that a failure? When Francis Xavier died, cold and lonely, on the bleak and desolate shore of a heathen land, was that a failure ?- Exchange.

A scheme of securing 25 cents from each adult Churchman in Indiana toward the Diocesan home for the aged and orphan has been set on foot. LETTER TO THE CHILDREN.

Dear Children: In many places your Bishop Delivered in Grace Church, Indianapolis, Dehas been glad to learn of your active interest in disposing of bricks for the Orphanage. The acknowledgments will show that already a goodly sum has been returned as the result of this activity. The Bishop desires that all returns be made to him before Ash Wednesday. During Lent he asks that all the Sundayschools of the Diocese render their aid and do all they can for our Diocesan missions. It would be a good thing if, as the fruit of Lenten self-denial, $500 should be given for this important work, aiding in sustaining our own hard-working missionaries. Let all rectors clesiastical matters, Bacon foresaw, discussed and superintendents direct the earnest efforts of all their Sunday-school children to this end, The Bishop presents here a little letter he received from Logansport:

"Deur Bishop: We saved our Christmas pennies in a little jug, and our mother said that part of the pennies must go for bricks for your Orphanage. She said that we might be orphans ourselves some day. So we send a hundred pennies and our Christmas love.

"THREE LITTLE PRATTS FROM LOGANSPORT. The Bishop is glad to hear from the children. Nellie A. Daily, of Peru, wrote him, sending 60 bricks, or $3; and Maud Sulzer, of Cannelton, 60 bricks, $3; and Fred E. Osman. of Logansport, 60 bricks, $8; Baby Deverill and sister Marie, of Chicago, grandchildren of Mrs. L. S. Purcell, of Logansport, $1; and the King's Daughters, of Madison, $13.87; St. Paul's Sunday-school, Indianapolis, --; Miss Pettis' school, Lafayette, $1; birthday offering of Sunday-school of St. John's, Elkhart, $4; Mrs. Breisford, of Anderson, $2; Mrs. W. B. Russell, of South Bend, $2; and then we have interest added this month, $9.56-making, in all, to the credit of the Orphanage, $521.71.

For the Child's Cot in St. Stephen's Hospital we have received in January: Dividend in savings bank, $4.34; Mrs. Brelsford, Anderson, $2; and from Rev. R. S. Eastman and wife, of Pennsylvania, in memory of their dear little one buried at Laporte, $2.50-making, in all, $217.24. So you see, dear children, your little favorite funds are growing nicely, which greatly pleases your Bishop.

BY JUDGE STOLSENBURG, OF NEW ALBANY, When I speak of Bacon as a Churchman, I don't mean merely that he was a regular attendant upon the services, a hearer of ser mons or a partaker of the Sacraments, but an active, zealous lay worker, as a Christian writer and poet, when such help was needed. The Church then, as now, needed wise advisers and sagacious counselors. In civil and worldly matters, Bacon was ahead of his age two hundred and fifty years. And so in ecand solved the problems which yex the Church to-day. Take, for instance, the question of Christian Unity. That question has got to be met now. It can't be postponed. There must be a union of Protestants (call that union by what name you will) for united aggressive work for Christianity. Let all the Churches hear Bacon.

Religion, being the chief band of human society, is a happy thing, when well contained within the true band of unity. The quarrels and divisions about religion were evils un known to the heathen. There appear to be two extremes, for to certain zealots all speech of pacification is odious. Contrariwise, certain lukewarm persons think they may accommodate points of religion by middle ways and taking parts of both, as if they would make an arbitrament between God and man. Both these extremes are to be avoided, which will be done if the fundamental points of religion were truly distinguished from points not merely of faith, but of opinion, order or good intention.

In Church matters, the substance of doctrine is immutable, and so are the general rules of government; but for rites and ceremonies and for the particular hierarchies, policies and discipline of Churches, they be left at large. And, therefore, it is good that we return unto the ancient bounds of unity in the Church of God, which were one faith, one briptism (not one hierarchy), one discipline. and that we observe the league of Christians as it is stated by our Savior, which in substance of doctrine is this," He that is not with us is against us," but in things indifferent this, "He that is not against us is with us." In these things so as the general rule be observed that Christ's flock be fed; that there be a succession in Bishops and ministers, which are the prophets of the New Testament; that there be a due and reverent use of the power of the keys; that those that preach the Gospel live of the Gospel; that all things tend to edification; that all things be done in order and with decency-all the rest is left to the holy wisdom and spiritual discretion of the master builders and inferior builders in Christ's Church, as it is excellently averred that Christ's garment was without seam, and yet the Church's garment was of divers colors-'In veste varietas sit scissura non sit."

which believe in an open Bible, in praying and ministering the Sacraments "in such a tongue as the people understandeth." which believe that transubstantiation is repugnant to God's word, and that the cup of the Lord can not be denied to the laity, can have no union with Papal Rome while such false doctrines are maintained.

But Protestants can unite; Protestants must unite: Protestants will unite sooner or later as Charles W. Shields puts it in the December Century, "in some comprehensive polity, which shall be at once Congregational, Presbyterial and Episcopal, and wherein Protestant freedom and intelligence shall appear reconciler with Catholic authority and order.

If I had my way, I would have the subject of Christian unity, by the general consent of all Protestant denominations, discussed on a stated day in the near future by Protestant ministers in every Protestant pulpit. Let the ministers awaken the people to a sense of their responsibility.

General Conventions, Conferences, Councils and Synods are not hurt in their efforts to extend Christ's kingdom by the importunate supplication of the laity.

And I would say to the people in every Protestant church, join at once in a petition to the governing powers of your Church, urging, for the good of Christianity, that a conference or council of commissioners and delegates, clerical and lay, from all Protestant Churches in our land, shall be held during the coming year, at some central point like Indianapolis, for instance, wherein a plan of union can be first wisely and practically digested and agreed upon, and then submitted to and ratified by the respective Christian bodies which created the conference. It was, you remember, the plan of union of the colonies, adopted by commissioners at Albany, in July, 1754, under the wise guidance of Franklin, which produced, first, colonial union, next, a Continental Congress, and then a Federal Union, which has blessed us and our progenitors for a hundred years.

It is the laity of the Protestant Churches who must lead in this movement. They must cry sloud for Christian union-a union for the preservation and extension of the principles of the New Testament-a union for the dissemination of a pure Gospel everywherea union of the soldiers of the Church Militant under one Captain, the Lord Jesus Christ. Nothing can stop the movement for Christian unity, if it is now urged by the people and wisely directed by the clergy.

REMEMBER THE CHURCH IN YOUR

"In the midst of life we are in death." The words form part of the Burial Office which the Church has appointed to be said over the bodies of all her children. Her object in using them is to remind the living of the shortness and uncertainty of life, and to prepare them, therefore, for their own departure at no very distant day

In the Office for the Visitation of the Sick the Church directs her priests to advise the sick to make their wills, if they have not already done so; and especially are they directed to "move such sick persons as are of ability, to be liberal to the poor." But we are also told that "men should often be put in remembrance to take order for the settling of their temporal estates whilst they are in health

It is a very wrong idea that some people have that only wealthy persons ought to leave anything in their wills for the work of the Church and for charitable objects. person who has anything at all to will over and above his lawful debts, ought to leave a certain proportion for the work of God's Church, and this ought to be considered not only as a duty, but as a privileg

"We brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out." While here, we are like stewards intrusted with our Lord's talents. Surely, some portion of the profits ought to be given toward the extension and carrying on of His work.

In the majority of our parishes, and in the work of the Church at large, we find that we can not depend upon the large gifts, but upon the many small ones, and so it should be with our wills. All ought to contribute something our wills. All ought to contribute something in this way to supply, as it were, the loss experienced by their several departures. It ought to be just as much a matter of course for a Christian to leave something for the Church in his will as it is for him to contribute his portion while he lives.

I have quoted the above from an exchange in pursuance of my duty to urge all, wh living and in health, to make their "wills." Now, in the last month in the year, which reminds us forcibly of old age and death, we should consider this duty. Your daily experience is sufficient argument not to neglect the setting of your affairs in order, but I want you to consider the matter in connection with one definite object which most men strangely forget. You will remember your families, but you are apt to forget from whom came the strength and help to accumulate what you have. You are but stewards of God's gifts, and it is a bounden duty to leave no less than one-tenth to His work. How many carry their selfishness with them into the grave and rob the Lord of tithes and offerings! Of the 400 buried with the Church's prayers in this parish, I recall no one who did not let his good deeds die with him. Shall it always be so? I trust not. But let me again remind you of our need of an amply endowed parish school and parish house. Let me re-mind you how in the noble work you could have a part, though sleeping, and keep your memory green among us. Let this be in your mind, and by your example teach those left behind you how to live and how to die, so that they may rise up and call you blessed, since your good works do follow you. If all would act thus, and bequeath their little or their much cheerfully to this object, it would not be long before their gifts would be training the young to become good citizens and good Christians. In leaving money for such a grand purpose you would simply be doing right, but what better monument could any one ask than a young life growing up in health and holiness? It is the little drops of water which make up the mighty ocean, and though your legacy be small it will rob no one, but bring a Divine blessing on them.

Make, then, your wills, or re-make them in tice, however, that the Book of Common the fear and love of God, to whom we and all Prayer, as thus revised in 1559, was quietly we have belong.

PIUS IV AND THE ENGLISH REFOR-MATION

The offer of Rome to recognize the reforms made in the English Church, on the one con-dition that the Bishop of Rome's supremacy should be recognized, is so old an affair, and so often adverted to and substantiated, that it is almost unnecessary to go over the ground again at this late day. But the following arti-cle, from the pen of the Rev. Mr. Little, is so excellently to the point that we can not refrain from giving it entire. Says he:

"I have received so many inquiries in re gard to my assertion in article xxiv that the Bishop of Rome, Pius IV, 'agreed to recognize all the reforms under Elizabeth, if only she would recognize his supremacy, that it seems best to turn aside from the general argument in order to give a few authorities for the state

It is asserted in almost every history of the Anglican Church that Pius IV agreed ognize the English reformation, provided that is own supremacy should be acknowledged. This concession on his part is valuable as showing that our Church had lost nothing which, even in the estimation of Rome, is es sential to a true Church.

"Hore, in his 'Eighteen Centuries of the Church of England' (page 348), says: 'Pope Paul IV, having died on August 18, 1559, was succeeded by Pius IV. The new Pope sent his nuncio with a letter to the queen announcing his approval and willingness to accept the Prayer-Book, as well as the Communion in both kinds, if only the queen would acknowledge his supremacy.

"Jennings, in his excellent 'Eclesia Angli-cana' (page 319), says: 'Convinced that nothing was to be gained in England by hostility ing was to be gained in England by nostility to the throne, Pius made friendly overtures to Elizabeth. We have it on good authority that he offered to sanction the Prayer-Book of 1559, provided the English Church ree ognized the supremecy of Rome.

ognized the supremacy of nome.

"Cutts, in his "Turning Points of English Church History' (page 237), says: "A new Pope, Pius IV, in 1860 addressed toher (Elizabeth) a letter of very different tenor, making overtures for a reconciliation. He offered on condition of her adhesion to the See of Rome, the Pope would approve of the Book of Common Prayer, including the Liturgy, or Communion Service, and the Ordinal. Although his holiness complained that many things were omitted from the Prayer-Book which ought to be there, he admitted that the book nevertheless contained nothing contrar to truth, while it certainly comprehended all that is necessary for salvation. He was therefore prepared to authorize the book if the queen would receive it from him and on his authority accepted by the great body of Romanist laity; and also that the Pope himself saw so little to object to in it that he offered to give the book object to in it that he offsred to give the book his full sanction it his authority were recognized by the queen and the kingdom. And he quotes Sir Edward Coke as saying that the Pope, Pius IV, before the time of his excommunication against Queen Elizabeth denounced, sent his letter unto her majesty, in which he did allow the Bible and Book of Divine Service, as it is now used among us, to be authentic and not repugnant to truth. But that therein was contained enough necessary to salvation, though there was not in it so much as might conveniently be, and that he would also allow it unto us without changing any part, so as her majesty would acknowledge to receive it from the Pope, and by his allowance, which her majesty denying to do, she was then presently by the same Pope excommunicated. And this is the truth concerning Pope Pine Quartus, as I have faith to God and men. I have oftentimes heard avowed by the late queen her own words, and I have conferred with some lords that were of greatest reckoning in the state, who had seen and read the letter which the Pope sent to that effect, as have been by me specified. And this upon my credit, as I am an honest man, is most true. Blunt, moreover, gives a list of is most true: Dunn, moreover, gives a ins of authorities, viz.: 'The Lord Coke, his speech and charge, London, 1607. See, also, Camden, Ann, Erizabeth, page 50, edition 1615. Twys-den's Historical Vindication of the Church of den's Historical Vindication of the Church of England, page 175. Bramball's works, if, see in the Principle of the Principle of the English Ordinations, if, 360, 378. Har-rington's Pius IV and the Book of Common Pennet 1886. Prayer, 1856.

Our own Van Antwerp, in his very readable and comprehensive 'Church History,' volume iii, pages 144-5, gives the same story. The reader will also find it in Hardwicke's Reformation, and in scores of other reliable works. I have never seen the story controverted or even questioned.

"Since writing the above, my attention has been called to an additional authority for the fact that Pius IV made the above mentioned overtures for the reconciliation of the English Church, viz.: Butler in his memoirs of the Catholics, volume i, pages 152-3. The testimony is especially valuable as coming from a learned Roman Catholic.

HEAVEN is the day of which grace is the dawn; the rich, ripe fruit, of which grace is the lovely flower; the inner shrine of that most glorious temple to which grace forms the approach and outer court.—Dr. Guthrie.

"Blunt, in his historical introduction to the Prayer-Book (page 85), says: 'It is worth now with the most invincible resolution.—Seneca.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

Of Trinity Parish, Fort Wayne, for the Year ending November 30, 1887.

The whole number of names enrolled during the year was thirty-two (32), the same as that of the preceding year. The number of meetings held, including the Lenten weekly meetings, was eighteen (18).

In December a package was sent to the Rev. Mr. Ostenson, Oway, Colorado, valued at $22.55, express on same being $2.50. Later, un-derwear was sent, for which $2.70 was paid, making a total to Mr. Ostenson of $27.75.

At the end of January the society was greatly saddened by the death of Mrs. Adelia Bond. In affectionate remembrance of her Bond. In attectionate remembrance of her the Lenten work was undertaken. An Old Ladies' Home, in Fort Wayne, was already projected, the establishment of which was earnestly desired by Mrs. Bond. The work and collections of the Lenten weekly meet-ings were devoted to the furnishing of a room in the Home, with the following result: $4.01 was collected and a quilt, towels, pillows and cases, sheets, and afghan and a rug were pre-cases, sheets, and alghan and a rug were pre-pared or promised.

In April a special meeting was called to consider giving aid to Emmanuel Church, Garrett. The society pledged $50, besides devoting the collections of semi-monthly meetings during May and June, and the work of those meetings toward a fair bid in work of those freelings oward a last read in June at Garrett. The collections, $7.04, the sale of fancy articles, $48.35, and lamps sent by Mr. Ward, which netted to the church $48, amounted to $103.89, making a total for Garrett of $158.39. In April $50 was also Garrett of $105.39. In April $90 was also pledged for Diocesan missions neetings were held, and upon reassembling in November the society felt the necessity of combined effort to meet the obligations already pledged, and directed its energies to the completion of the room in the Old Ladies' Home. The year closed with that undertaking almost received for and indiging from the neat, the provided for, and, judging from the past, the Woman's Auxiliary may confidently expect continued success.

Respectfully submitted, .
ALICE P. DRYER, Secretary.

THE Rev. Dr. Joseph Parker, in the Christian Chroniclessys: "Feeling is of just as much use in religion as steam is in an engine—if it drives the engine it is good; but if it does not it is not good for anything but to fizz and hiss and buzz. There are some people who seem to be like yard-engines, that people wno seem to be like yard-engines, that never go anywhere, but keep putting and blowing and hissing, and running up and down side tracks, doing nothing, going nowhere. Feeling in religion is of no value at all it it does not propel us along the track of duty toward our final destination—Go. Fine feelings, glorious feelings—we all have them after our own measure; but fine feelings, quick the contraction of the contraction responsive sensibilities-do you know that they have been the occasion of the ruin of some of the greatest geniuses that God ever gave to the human race? Feeling is a miserable, cheap substitute for duty. It takes more than being happy on Sunday in church to be religious. My friends, religion never stops short of holiness. It means that, first and last. Religion does not stop at feeling; religion does Religion does not stop at feeling; religion does not stop at tradition, or at respectability, or at ecclesiasticism, or at painted windows, or at spacious cathedral sides, or at eloquent preaching, or delicious music; religion means, always has meant, always must mean, the actual communion of the human soul with God in righteousness and holiness. And that kind of religion costs; it takes the best laters is in a man to be religious in that way. there is in a man to be religious in that way,

On the subject of parochial assessments, reign of the Lord of all, and it is no open Bishop Gillespie, in his convention address, question as to whether we shall pray and give says: "An assessment or a pledge is a debt for missions. It matters not for what field of that has a special relation to the conscience of mission work our seal is first awakened, for it the individual or the parish. It is beneath the tone of a holy convocation that there should be any creeping out of discharge to the uttermost farthing, because, instead of bond required, honor is trusted. It is disloyalty not to be named that a parish honored by its connection with the Diocese, and under the protection of the convention, should take shelter in self-defiance of the law it has helped to CHRISTIAN duty ought to be above the dis turbing influence of petty incentives and petty drawbacks. No doubt the performance of duty under perfect conditions, amid congenial surroundings and in agreeable companion-ship, would be very much easier than among the hinderances and imperfections of every-day life. Never in this life, at least, can we expect to find any such a paradise as work without friction and workers without faults. without friction and workers without reaches. The fact that we can never meet with just the set of circumstances and just the circle of people which satisfy our filters, and do not rouse our dislikes, is often forgotten by Christian workers who become restless searchers of the state of the after such a sphere as they imagine possible. Duty that waits to find perfect opportunities and easy channels will never accomplish its mission. Discount your likes and dislikes. These can not after duties nor remove re-sponsibilities. Christ worked on with Judas even after Judas had his hand in the bag. The personal duty of the individual has a mission with which neither thorns nor stumbling-stones should interfere.

But the obligations of the disciple are not fulfilled even when there is strict and conscientious attention to the duties of the parish if the work ends there. A most victous spirit it is which at times pervades parishes—the vice of congregationalism, or independency, which, in this connection, is but another name for selfishness, the spirit which, so long as one's own wants, spiritual or temporal, are satisfied, recks little whether the world around perialtes or not. The autidote for all this is the missionary spirit. If our hearts are warm with Christian zeal, then we will pray for the success of mission work, talk about it, and, as God has blessed us, give for it. Every parish, every mission, every congregation, should throw itself into this work with all its might. There should be a missionary guild connected with every congregation, with weekly meetings for old and young, with missionary intelligence and incidents of missionary life and work, and once a month an early celebration for the guild, for which service the Bishop would gladly authorize a special prayer of in-tercession for missions, for the sending forth of laborers into the harvest, and for an abundant blessing upon the faithful labors of de than blessing upon the laterium labors of de voted missionaries. Intercession for missions is a privilege which no earnest Christian ought to forego. No true disciple can afford to five so remote and separate from God as not to have the Church, which is His kingdom, its work and its prosperity always in mind. For the Church is God's gift to the world. It is not an institution of man's making. Around it and within it, as a Divine Kingdom, all successive conditions of human life and human cossive conditions or numan the and numan government grow and exist, and the one cer-tain end of all human institutions is fore shadowed and foretold in the world are become tion, "The kingdoms of the world are become tion, "Ine singtoms of the world are become the kingdoms of our Lord and His Christ," Once fill the heart with a realization of all that this means, and then pass on to the mar-velous truth that we, as monitors of the Divine Kingdom, are permitted to share in the work of making ready for the coming and is universally true that to arouse the proper missionary sentiment for one purpose is to arouse it for all.

THE WORKER.

With this number the WORKER enters upon its fifth volume. The value of a Diocesan paper is very great. Every churchman in the Diocese is made aware, by its monthly visits, of what Church work is going on in the Diocese: what new missions begun and old ones deepen and broaden the spiritual life of his revived; what spiritual blessings come to any parish; what glorious opportunities are constantly opening up for the extension of the Church. The monthly record of Church work has been helpful and encouraging. It becomes a history of the Diocese. Our beloved Diocese is acquiring a name and reputation for earnest, aggressive work for Christ and the Church such as it never had before. It is getting the reputation of a live, working Diocese, and the WORKER, by its simple record of monthly work, has helped to secure this. The paper has done much to stimulate interest in behalf of missions, both Diocesan and general. It has done much to awaken interest in the great work of endowing the Diccese. It has been a great comfort to many isolated churchmen scattered hither and thither within the borders of Indiana, whose hearts and faith have been thereby strengthened and refreshed.

We are thankful to all who have aided us by their annual subscriptions in maintaining it, The commencement of a new volume is a fitting time to pay up arrearages for past volumes and to pay in advance for the present. Relieve the mind of the editor in meeting scriptions.

service was on Tuesday evening at 7:30, and closed on Thursday evening at 8:30. Every one present felt that it was good to be there, and Father Grafton's searching addresses and meditations, full of spirituality and helpfulness, will long be remembered and cherished. The Quiet Day for women was well attended, and all who were there went away encouraged and strengthened in their spiritual warfare, and resolved when another opportunity offered to attend to be present. These Quiet Days are something new to our churchwomen, and they have to win their way to confidence. More and more, as the years go by and the opportunity is offered to enjoy them, will they be improved

The Bishop by these services is seeking to people, and to lift them up to a higher spiritual plane. The Quiet Day was a helpful instrumentality.

EASTER ELECTIONS.

On Easter Monday, in each and every year, the qualified voters of each parish shall assemble and elect Church wardens and vestrymen of the same, who shall in every case be baptized persons. The whole number to be elected to consist of not more than the number allowed by law, and the rector shall be ex officio a member of the vestry. Of the time and place of such election at least ten days' notice shall be given by the rector on an occasion of public worship.

VOTERS. All communicants members of the Church in regular standing and not under twenty-one years, and all other male persons who have been habitual worshipers or regular contributors for six months next preceding. The rector, the presiding officer, shall appoint two judges of election. The clerk and tellers shall, within ten days after such election, file with Relieve the mind of the editor in meeting the county recorder the certificate of such monthly bills by prompt remittance of sub-election required by law. Let every member of a parish attend the Easter Monday election and choose the best men in the parish to manage its affairs. ASSESSMENTS

The Diocesan assessments for the support of the Episcopate and expenses of the convention are due quarterly in advance-July 1, September 1, January 1, April 1. The treasurer reports of the amount due for the quarters that have already passed $1,500 is in arrears; that some of the larger parishes have said nothing. Indeed, it is well known that many of these parishes do not bestir themselves until just before convention to meet their assessments. This is all wrong. It is unbusinesslike. It makes the office of treasurer a disagreeable one, and it puts him to his wits' end to meet Diocesan obligations. Already ne has largely overdrawn the assessment account to meet his obligations, and will have to borrow money unless parishes meet their obligations. It is hoped that all arrearages for assessments for the year preceding may be met at Easter. The vestrymen and laymen of the several parishes should look after this business at once. There is no sense or reason in letting matters get into this slipshod, unbusinesslike way. The treasurer has notified the parish treasurers and rectors again and again, but no notice is taken, and evidently no responsibility is felt,

THE Lambeth Conference next July promises to be a memorable assembly. The Bishops of the Anglican Communion throughout the world have been invited and a large number of them have signified their intention of being present. The subjects to be discussed have all been set forth. The Bishop of the Diocese hopes to arrange matters so that it will be possible for him to go. It will involve an absence of four or five months, a space of time he would hardly feel warranted in taking were it not for the great importance of the meeting and the opportunities it will afford which may be helpful to the Diocese.

THE Bishop would like to have it understood that whenever his visitation occurs on Sunday morning he desires provision made and notice given for celebration of Holy Communion. The Bishop desires on these occaunite with him in Holy Communion.

Treasurer of the Diocese.

ENDOWMENT.

The Endowment of the Diocese has made such progress that it will be an easy matter, comparatively, to complete the pledges for it in every parish and mission should there be an appreciation of its importance. Each parish, each mission, has its own quota: that which, at 6 per cent. per annum, will produce its present assessment. It varies from $100 to $5,000. It is desirable to complete it before the convention in June, when the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Diocese will be celebrated. It would truly be a joyful celebration could we report the Endowment all pledged. It may not be possible for the Bishop to visit every parish and mission and solicit olis, has acted as superintendant of St. Philip's personally. He will reach as many as possi-

HOLY WEEK AND EASTER.

Year by year these holy seasons are taking a deeper hold of the children of the Church. The solemn services of Holy Week, the recitations of the old, old story of the sufferings of Bishop's expectation in adding to our orphanthe cross and the events that crowd around it, age fund. The dear children have done nobly. are calculated to decepen our appreciation of Christ's love, and of the Father's love for us men and our salvation. The three hours' service on Good Friday that is becoming observed in so many churches is especially calculated to deepen an appreciation of the sufferings of the cross. It is a fitting culmination of the penitential services of Lent, and help in preparation of the heart to celebrate the joy of Easter. May Easter joy in all our parishes be in proportion to our Lenten humiliation, and may there be such a rising to newness of life and consecration to the service and do during those precious days. I would of God as has never been witnessed before in so like to have come again amongst you all, our Diocese. May there be an impetus forward in all that pertains to the life and growth of the Church in our midst. May there be a deeper spiritual life, a personal consecration, such as we have not yet seen. Then will every interest of the Church prosper and grow, and no means will be lacking for mission work and Church growth.

LAYING OF THE CORNER-STONE Of St. Philip's Mission Chapel for Colored People, Indianapolis.

This was a most joyful event in the history of this missi n. It took place on Tuesday afternoon, February 7, at 2:30 o'clock. A large number full a hundred people-were presentmany of them colored. The Bishop was attended by Rev. E. G. Hunter, of Holy Innotended by Rev. E. G. Hunter, of Holy Inno-cents, and Rev. W. D. Engle. Mr. Edward Taylor was present with his cornet, and Miss Mary Engle played the organ. Several hymns distributed by the design of the great scene spread out before were sung with great heartiness by all present. After depositing the box in the cornerstone and laying the stone with the usual ceremonies, brief addresses were made by Messrs. Hunter and Engle and by the Bishop. Mrs. Hall, the devoted friend and originator of the mission, seemed very happy.

The chapel is well located and is accessible to a large population of colored people, and must be an instrument of great good to them. It takes away a represent, too, from the Church, which before this movement was doing nothing for the large population of negroes in our least of hearts—that the Master whom he are to flow the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of Bishop of Nova Social, let the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of Bishop of Nova Social, let the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of Bishop of Nova Social, let the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of Bishop of Nova Social, let the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of Bishop of Nova Social, let the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of Bishop of Nova Social, let the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of Bishop of Nova Social, let the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of Bishop of Nova Social, let the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of Bishop of Nova Social, let the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of Bishop of Nova Social, let the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of Bishop of Nova Social, let the providence of God, he is called to the more limportant office of God, he is called to the more limportant office of God, he is called to the more limportant office of God, he is called to the more limportant office of God, he is called to the more lim ing for the large population of negroes in our least or neares—une the masser whom we state. For the CHURCH WORKER,

A REMINISCENCE OF THE "MISSION." One year ago last Septuagesima Sunday Dr. Frederick Courtney began the "mission" in Charlet Church, Indianapolis, and the writer has received a note from him referring to the occasion, an extract from which will, I am sure, interest the readers of the WORKER. Dr. Courtney writes: "The thought brings with it many happy memories and much thankful-ness to God for all He permitted me to say and looked into your eyes, grasped your hands and felt the warm beating of your hearts."

And now, as we look back upon it, was there ever such preaching heard by any of us? Who can forget it, or, rather, who does not love to remember it? to remember 11.

The reverent, distinct and enlightening reading of the Word; the soul poured out in earnest, pleading prayer to God; the complete consecration of the preacher to the work for which he is called. Who that heard him will ever forget the wonderful influence of the speaker's tone, voice and manner upon his hearers as he delivered his searching message? For instance, that illustration to the mission workers of the Sunday-school teacher who workers of the sunday-school teacher who was telling her class that they "must come to Jesus," when one of the little girls, looking up, asked, "Have you?" "Have you?" repeats the speaker in that quiet but penetrating tone. There is no stir in the congregation, but there are deep searchings of heart

The sarcasm of the true prophet Micaiah; the wondrous scene of the vision he describes: "I saw the Lord sitting on His throne, and all the host of heaven standing by Him on His right hand and on His left," "do. LENT.

In every parish in the Diocese Lent is being observed with devout interest. Daily services and weekly celebrations of the Holy Communion are the general rule. The clergy, in connection with Lent, make it a season of preparing candidates for confirmation, and so Lent becomes a harvest season. In many for frequent children's services. This is a delightful feature of Lenten work. No doubt blessed results will come to the Church from the devout observance of this holy season. The spiritual life of many will be quickened; others who have grown cold and careless will have the love of God revived in their hearts and make a new consecration of themselves to God's service, whilst many will begin this Lent to walk with God. Oh, may it be a season greatly blessed to our Diocese!

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.

The missionary committee will watch with great anxiety the interest manifested this Lent in behalf of our own Diocesan Missions. It is to be hoped that in every parish the interest of the children will be directed in this channel, and that the Easter offerings, the fruit of Lenten self-denial, will be given to it. Better still will it be for a committee of faithful women to solicit in every parish and mission personally every member of the Church for a liberal offering. The amount apportioned to each parish will then surely be secured, and the committee has the means in hand to meet its obligations to its faithful missionaries.

OFFERINGS ON GOOD FRIDAY

The Bishop requests that on Good Friday the offerings, instead of being asked for Jewish missions, be requested for the education of young men for the ministry. The Bishop has now three candidates looking to him for aid in pursuing their studies, and needs assistance in that direction at once. An offering in all our churches on Good Friday will meet the demand. It has been found impossible to secure Sunday offerings from many parishes as requested by convention.

WE would call attention particularly to the rare opportunity offered by The Living Church of obtaining that valuable paper, with Rev. Mr. Little s "Reasons for Being a Churchman," for the small sum of $1.50, provided the name to which the paper is to be sent is not already on its subscription list We would advise our readers to avail themselves of this very liberal offer. It is to devote Thursday of the convention week to its celebration, to have Holy Communion and sermon by Dr. Bradley in the morning, historical papers on the Episcopates of Bishops Kemper, Upfold and Talbot in the afternoon, and a grand social reunion at some hall or hotel in the evening, with toasts and speeches.

Letter to the Children.

Dear Children: The month of February has been a busy one with you all. It has been your Bishop's privilege to welcome a number of children to the Roll of Hopor at Madison, at Richmond, at Grace Church, Indianapolis, and at Cannelton. This always gives joy to your Bishop. Brick offerings for the Orphanage have been coming in all the month. We make acknowledgments below. The attention of the children in our Sunday-schools will, during Lent, be called to Diocesan mission work. You have been generous helpers every Lent, and we hope you will not cease your earnest efforts in this direction. We hope many of you are able to attend on the Lenten services in your several parishes, and will derive great benefit from them. We hope many of the older boys and girls will be in the confirmation classes, also, during Lent, and being prepared to renew their baptismal yows in that holy rite at the Bishop's visit to your parish. The Church intends her baptized children should come early to confirma tion and the Holy Communion. Dear children, may you have a good Lent and a joyous Your friend and Bishop, Easter. D. B. THE Diocese is prospering wonderfully. Everything concerning the Church seems to have assumed the character of young lifestrong, aspiring, vigorous, promising. The outlook for the future is a most happy one.

ANY scholastic items for the August number of THE CHURCH WORKER will be welcomed by Mr. James Lyon, 477 North Pennsylvania street, Indianapolis. All other communications should be addressed, as usual, to Rev. George E. Swan.

THE Bishop of the Diocese was presented by the laity with a handsome purse to help defray his expenses in attending the Pan-Anglican Synod at London. It has been most Beach, Ind. This will account for sundry fittingly done in most Dioceses. We are glad that Indiana was not behindhand in this mat-the clergy of the Diocese. The staff is six feet long, made of ebony and silver, the crook, ivory and silver, terminating in a conventional oak leaf. It bears a shield, one side of which is the seal of the Diocese, and on the reverse this inscription: "Presented by the clergy of Indiana to their Bishop, the Rt. Rev. David Buel Knickerbacker, D. D., and his successors in office, at the semi-centennial of the Diocese, June, 1888." This and the seal are engraved. In the center of the crook is a Greek cross with floriated ends; on each side is a sparkling garnet. Springing from these costly gems are chased rays projecting between each arm of the cross. Connecting the staff with the crook is a large silver knob, with figures of the four evangelists surmounted by gothic canopies. The features of each figure are so well modeled as to be distinct at some distance from the observer; below each is his emblem in bas-relief. The staff when not in use is in four pieces, and rests in a leather case lined with purple silk.

All communications on official business connected with the Diocese should be addressed to the Rev. Dr. Pettis, President Standing Committee, Lafayette.

THE reception held on the 7th of June at the Denison House by the Bishop and the banquet after were characterized by an enthusiastic earnestness which was quite refreshing and enjoyable. The speakers were allowed five minutes each only, and it was very ludicrous sometimes to see a man drop in the midst of his speech, when the bell rang, with a suddenness which suggested complete mental and physical prostration; but still the speakers all contrived, in addition to brilliant scintillations of wit and humor, to express to their hearers their feelings of respect and esteem for their Bishop and their earnest wishes for his safety and enjoyment

Some hundreds of the most representative and earnest of the Bishop's clergy and lay supporters were present and showed by their speakers.

The Bishop left on the following morning for England, where he has since attended One of the most pleasing features of the with other Bishops from every part of the

FROM THE BISHOP'S ADDRESS.

Zion in Indiana; that the struggles and warlare of the past have prepared the way for glorious triumphs in the future; that the day of small things is giving way to greater and more rapid progress. We believe that the sons and daughters of the Church are appreciating more and more the great responsi-bility devolving upon them. We have here a grand and glorious heritage, situated as we are in the midst of 2,000,000 of people, with natural and material resources that place ours among the foremost commonwealths of our great country. With a people steadily improving in intelligence and culture, there is a magnificent work for the Church to do. I do not know of a more hopeful missionary field within the borders of our country than here at our own door. The time is steadily approaching when our Diocese shall have those educational and benevolent institutions that shall exert a power for good in the civilization and christianizing of our state. Our endowment will be completed at an early day, giv-ing a stability and permanency that will be felt in every department of our work. Our schools are full of bright promise of usefulness, and will be equipped at no distant day with all the facilities to make them a real power in seconding the influence of the Church, and one of the best instrumentalities in her perpetuation and extension. Our missions must be extended to take in every populous centre. and the Church's ministrations be made to reach the whole population of the state; hos-pitals and orphanages, homes for the aged and friendless, must be founded to provide for Christ's helpless and afflicted ones in His name. Our aged and infirm clergy fund must be carefully nourished and increased until the servants of Christ who have spent their lives in ministering at the Church's altars in this Dio-cess shall feel that generous provision has been made for their necessities in the time of need made for their necessities in the time of need and in their declining years, and that they will not be left in their old age and helplessness to the cold charities of the world. May we not hope that more and more, as the years roll on, the Church's children, to whom God has intrusted wealth and earthly substance, will realize their stewardship, and consecrate of this wealth for God and His Church? Shall we not each year find our people giving more liberally for our missions and the building of mission churches until this spiritual desert, so far as the work of our own Church is con-cerned, shall bud and blossom as the rose?

Brethren of the clergy and laity, let us labor Bretaren of the energy and analysis as moor together earnessly, perseveringly, hopefully, for this end. Let us take fresh courage from the story of the past, and press forward with renewed zeal to conquer this great empire for Christ, and diffuse abroad a healthful christian civilization that shall bring forth fruit in elevating the moral character of our whole people, and repressing vice and immorality, now all too prevalent,

PAGANISM.

One of the saddest sights to greet the eye in our Protestant cemeteries is the heathen urn enthroned above the memorials of the dee parted. What symbol of sepulture morn dreary, hopeless, despairing! Yet this pagat-ornament has so universally become the legit-imate Protestant symbol of the tomb that it is now a recognized finial to the shaft. Nor is this crematory idea the sole prerogative of those Christians whose heritage extends only to the Reformation. Many who profess a be-lief in the "One Holy Catholic and Apostolic Church," and whose history goes back to apos-tolic days, are just as prone to erect this hid-eous symbol as the others. To see a cross marking a grave in a Protestant cemetery FROM THE BISHOP'S ADDRESS.

Now is something conspicuous for its loneliWe can not help feeling, dear brethren, that ness. That which was the theme of the sposa brighter day is dawning for our beloved tle's glorying—"the cross of our Lord Josus theman at your leisure.

Christ"—has been practically supplanted by this heathen emblem of death, extinction, ashes. Horribile dictu!

Our brother from Japan who visited this Our protter from Japan who visited this parish some months ago tells us that in that pagan country, when a Christian convert dies, all the missionaries, of whatsoever creed, carry a large wooden cross before the corpse to the grave, and there erect this blessed symbol of life and hope as the head-stone of the departed. If such honor were paid the cross of Christ on If such monor were past the cross of chirse on these shores by these same religious bodies, what a revulsion of feeling, what a torrent of indignation would surely follow! The Protestants of Japan are seeking to christianize that country through honoring the emblem of our faith. The Protestants of America are glorifying paganism through the erection of the dismal urn.

But this doleful symbol does not wholly nonopolize our heathenish tastes. Look at the broken column that may be seen in any cemetery. How faithless, hopeless, this! Who shall dare say that any Christian life which God calls to Himself has perished before the time—that a life ended here was not full finished, and that God has nobler uses for it above? This the fractured shaft denies. Then, too, the urn has a rival in the not unfrequent seeping willow that ornaments the monument. And what a fruitful commentary does this furnish concerning the average Protestant ideas of death! We put our blessed ones in the ground, and with weeping, despairing hearts try to push them as far away as possible. All scripture, as well as all Catholic teaching, tells us that the dead are not very teaching, tells us that the dead are not very ever, banish them to some remonstrations, however, banish them to some remonstrations, and there are content to leave them in a state of weeping willow that ornaments the monument. there are content to leave them in a state of slumber or nescience against the resurrection morn. It is logical, therefore, that our pagan symbols should be in keeping with such pagan grief and uncertainty.

Let us give all honor to the spot that hal-lows our blessed dead. Not the ostentatious display in a costly shaft, crumbling under the influence of time and storm, and of as little influence of time and storm, and of as nittle use to the living as it is meaningless to the departed. Rather let it be marked with a simple head-stone symbolizing immortality and resurrection; and let our trues immortality and resurrection. The summer of the state of the summer of the the heathen, who are without hope.

WE HAD COMPANY,"

An oft'-urged reason for absence from church. There are some people that are always in their place in church. They have hosts of friends, but they never are kept home because they have company. Their friends know they are regular attendants at church, and another time is selected; and having established their reputation as Christians, their Christian habits are not disturbed. We know of no better advice to those who would like to attend church regularly than to urge them to establish a reputation. If a friend calls, state your intention to go to church, and invite him to go with you. If he declines, follow the rule which we know was adopted in one family: "If callers will not accompany us, let them stay till we come back." There is no discourtesy whatever in this. Church attendance is a matter of principle, and visitattenuance is a maceer or principle, and vest-ors admire principle; and they soon learn that you prize your relations to God more highly than any social, friendly relation that ever existed. Establish a Christian reputation and you will never have occasion to offer the excuse, "I did want to come so much, but company arrived just as I was about to get

HUNTINGTON .- The Rev. Mr. Adams, of Marion, holds two services here each month-on Tuesday evenings-in the Baptist Church. The average attendance is forty. Steps will be taken at once to secure a church lot. The amount asked from Christ Church, Huntington, for the endowment of the Episcopate is $150. Of this amount the Bishop promised to give $50 if $100 was obtained in the parish. to give $50 if $100 was obtained in the parish.

LAPORTE. -St. Paul's Church has been handsomely carpeted by the Young Ladies' Guild, at a cost of $250. The Guild is an efficient organization and very useful in the parish.

CLERICAL SUPPORT.

No question is more important to the weal of the Church than that of clerical support. It may be old, but it is new, and of the deepest interest to both clergy and people. In addition to what the Churchman has already said upon the subject, we give the substance of the report of the committee of the last convention of Massachusetts, to which the subject was referred:

Your committee finds the reason for its ap-pointment in the following sentences con-tained in the most suggestive annual address of our Bishop, who carries upon his heart all the interests of his Diocese,

The evident insufficient support of many good men is an evil of great magnitude, and ought to rest upon the hearts of all our laity unless conscience clearly acquits them of com-plicity in it. Many a devout and skilled la-borer in our parishes is wasting nervous and even spiritual energy on the question how he can feed, clothe and shelter those whom God has given him, when a quarter of a dollar more every Sunday from every head of a family in every sunday from every nead or a ramity in his parish would solve all problems and set the finances beyond all perplexity.' These sentences show that, notwithstanding the apparent respectability of the average salary, there is something wrong. But the reason for making this subject one for special consideration by the convention is that our good Bishop has here touched upon one of the most truly live questions of the day, the question whether there is no remedy for such a condition of things as prevails all over the land, and which makes the average minister, the older he grows, the more likely to be the vic-older he grows, the more likely to be the vic-tim of a wrong state of things.

We believe there is a remedy.

There ought to be a special "sustentation fund" in the hands of a special commission, which has in charge all such cases of hardship, which has it charge an each cases of insteamly, and guarantees that, whatever the parish may do or not do, so long as the Bishop of the Diocese can certify that his work is a good work, shall be sure of a living salary.

This would work for the good, not only of the mightage that for the good, not only of the ministers, but for the great good also of many parishes and missions.

For the time when there is some sudden straightening of the finances is often the very this example.

time when the worst possible thing that can happen is for the ministers to be driven off by starvation

Sometimes this state of things is simply the result of some whim on the part of a section of the parish, who, by holding the pursestrings, can accomplish a result which will result in parish misfortunes lasting through many years. At such a time, the assurance of independence through a "sustentation fund," a part of which is held in reserve for just such emergencies, will enable the faithful just such emergencies, will enable the lathrul and wise minister to tide over the difficulty, and bring his parish out again into smooth waters. And the mere knowledge on the part of these members of the parish, who are not always the most wise, or even the most scrupulous, that the minister has behind him such a source of independence, is enough in itself dissipate many a gathering storm.

There is a manifest evil to be remedied, and

Reading the financial report of a parish in the Irish Church under the present voluntary system, we find that the Church of Ireland has not entered upon the voluntary system with-out something to supplement it, namely, a "sustentation fund." We find among the regular annual offerings one, and that a large one, for this fund, and on the other side of this account we find a receipt for a good sum from that fund devoted to the support of the

We know, also, that the Scotch Church has long ago adopted a similar system. We know, also, that the Romanists and the Methodists in this country both owe a part of their power We believe that the time has come in the history of our Church when there should be Diocesan movements in this direction, and would be glad to see our Diocese lead off in the appointment of a commission, with the Bishop at its head, which should have this one avowed object of seeing to it that no minister should work in this Diocese without a fairly adequate support, according to locality and circumstances

It is true that the Diocesan Board of Missions is doing this work to a certain extent. But the work of such a board is chiefly the extending and broadening the field in the Diocese, and there is a temptation coming from the very rapid growth of demands for our Church to overlook the fact that a new organization often seems better able to sup-port a minister than it really is, and that the port a minister than it really is, and that the pledge it makes in its first enthusiasm is often far beyond its real ability. Now, when that is the case, the whole burden falls upon the minister, since the Board of Missions is utterly unable to supplement its original pledge.-The Churchman.

"THE principle that every religious sect is to maintain its own teachers and institutions is too reasonable and too well established in our country to need justification. I have been from my infancy a member of the Episbeen from my infancy a member of the Epis-copalian Church, and to that I owe and make my contributions. Were I to go beyond that limit in favor of any other sectarian insti-tution I should be equally bound to do so for every other, and their number is beyond the faculties of any individual. I believe, there-tives that it this as in sear rothers are fore, that in this, as in every other case, everything will be better conducted if left to those immediately interested. On these grounds I trust that your candor will excuse my returning the enclosed paper without my subscription; and that you will accept the assurance of my great personal respect and esteem."—

CHURCH SQUATTERS.

There is complaint of a class of people who, enjoying all the privileges of the church, yet shirk the payment of pew rents or sub-scriptions, as the case may be. Their names are often up before the vestry meeting, and they are in lively remembrance about Easter time, when the deficiency is harassing, or the expenses of the coming year are being provided for. We have used the word shirk; we have no thought of those whose resources will not allow them to do more than give the mite as the plate comes to them. For them the church has only open doors and welcoming arms. But these are not the people generally who ask privilege without payment.

It is not the good widow who comes to church in her plain attire who asks to be allowed to occupy a seat without pay, or who refuses to take and use a parcel of envelopes. refuses to take and use a parcel of envelopes, it is far more likely to be the honorable gen-tleman on a broad, elegant avenue, or the lady who leads in fashion, who will bliff the collector with, "Impertinence to send me this bill," or, "Sir, I have coupled that pew for years, and they would not dare to put me out; and they would not make the part of the part of

Now, we would not put these people out of the church. Poor souls! how they need it! But we would give these people a lesson in business. Finding their pew rent or their pledges far behind at Easter, we would put their obligations in the printed statement of the parish financial condition. We would give them the honor of showing that the Church considers them responsible. We knew this to be done in a parish. The first year there was some commotion, but ever after there was so much paying up that on Easter Monday there were very few names for the Treasurer to report.

Then, for that class of people who, abundantly able to pay, steal their church privileges, we would have the Church officers very attentive to them. They should have all the vacant pews in the church tendered for their hire, and they should have envelopes offered to them as often as a vestryman encounters them.

They should come to respect the Church for its admirable business energy.

Seriously, as long as the Church has no endowment, she must have good business management. The people who belong to her must support her. She will always have scope enough for her charities. The sooner and the better we teach that the the care of a man of his own soul and the souls of his household. so far as expenditure of money is concerned, is not at all different from his personal and family outlay, the better.

"I NEVER let any thing keep me from church on Sunday that would not keep me from work on Monday."

"HOWE GRAMMAR SCHOOL."

The closing exercises of this school consisted of a drama remarkably well performed on the evening of Wednesday, 13th, and of the usual declamations and original compositions on the 14th, or last day.

The drama was "Our Boys." Eight "dramatis personæ" were required, and all executed their parts admirably. If any distinction were to be made we should say the three best, in order of merit, were E. G. Burkam, of Lawrenceburg, Indiana; Reginald Pearce, of Portsmouth, Rhode Island; and P. A. Smedley, of Fort Wayne, Indiana.

The boys had been trained by the accomplished classical master, Mr. W. H. Jones.

On the 14th, at 2 o'clock P. M., the exercises of the last day began. It was noticed with pleasure that most of the compositions were upon such subjects as boys could master. We were told about "boats," bird's-nesting and base-ball, and a variety of similar topics, while some of the older boys ventured into deeper waters. The declamations of Pearce, Farwell, Foster, Ramsey, and the narrative recitation of Sands, attracted attention. Between the sets of declamations and compositions the boys sang, with surprising accuracy and effect, a number of their comic and graver school songs, closing at last with "Home, Sweet Home," sung always at the close of each term, The rector then distributed the prizes, consisting of books.

E. G. Newhall, of Detroit, and Frank Wade, of Lima, took each the first prize in mathematics awarded to their several divisions of the school. Reuben Newton and Wade Thayer, of Fort Wayne, received honorable mention in the first division. Wade Thayer received the prize in Latin; Frank Ramsey, of Aurora, Ind., in German. Alfred Washington, of Newport, Ky., took the prize in geography. John Farwell, of Lincoln, Nebraska, received the prize for best mark in decorum for the term.

A prize for "general excellence" was awarded to James Craig, of Lima, and one of the same order to Reginald Pearce, the perfect, whose conduct had earned "the love and esteem of his preceptors."

The exercises closed with an address and giving of the benediction by the rector.

The prospects of the school for next year are already so encouraging that steps are being taken to increase the accommodation. The constant friend of the school, Mrs. F. M. Howe, will provide, at great expense, new school room, recitation rooms, dormitories, bath-rooms, dining-hall, assembly rooms, etc., etc. When all are complete it is believed that no school in the country will exceed the " Howe Grammar School" in convenience and comfort, as it is believed that none does now in attention to the discipline and work of its pupils.

THE INDIAN BURBAU AND THE CATH OLIC CHURCH.

boarding-schools carried on by missionary and other bodies, where the government pays a certain amount per annum for each Indian scholar's support—the United States govern-ment expended last year the sum of $308,299,98 Of this sum the Catholics got $168,959,13, and all others, including Hampton and Lincoln, got $139,340.85. For contract day-schools the government expended $9,847.27. Of this the Catholics got $7,632.92, and all others got $2, 214.35. Summing them together, the government paid for the education of Indian youth in contract schools the sum of $318,147.25, of which $176,592.15 went to Catholic schools, and $141,555.20 to all other schools.

The Catholics of this country comprise from one-tenth to one-sixth of the population; the amount allowed to their boarding and day schools is 551 per cent of the total amount expended on these schools. The non-Catholic population of the country is from five-sixths to nine-tenths of the whole; the amount al-lowed to their schools is 44½ per cent, of the whole.

This enormous disproportion of the amounts thus expended in these schools has been the growth of the last few years. In 1884 the government expended on Catholic schools the aum of $35,263. In 1885 it was $10,142. In 1866 it was $104,197. In 1887 it reached the sum of $155,600 and $1 $176,592, or more than five times as much as in 1884.

When asked how it happens that the Catho-lic schools get so much, Mr. Atkins answers that they ask for more. This is not a fair answer, because Protestant schools find more difficulty than Catholic in getting what they ask for, besides the fact that the government interferes less with the Catholic than with Protestant contract schools. But the Catholic schools are very diligent in their asking. There is in Washington a bureau of Catholic missions, of which the Rev. P. L. Chapelle is president, and the Rev. Joseph S. Stephan is director, which devotes itself to forwarding the interests of the Catholic Church with the government. Con-tracts for the Catholic Indian schools are made with Father Stephan, The energy of this bureau deserves high commendation. Not bureau deserves mgn commendation. And simply the contract schools, but the government schools, supported wholly by the government, are also rapidly passing into the control of this bureau by the appointment of Catholic teachers, even where the Indians are all Protestant. Numbers of such cases we will mention if challenged. If we are not mistaken, the chief of the department of schools in the Indian Bureau and his assistants have both been Roman Catholics,

We have given these facts out of no ill-will to the Catholics. They have asked for all they could, and the government has given them all it could, not, we suppose, out of any preference to Catholics, nor because it believed the Catholics to maintain any better schools than the Protestants, but simply because it is believed that the administration has something to gain politically by favoring this one Church at the expense of all others .- Inde-

THERE are some members of the congregation upon whom the rector has called, during the last three years, many times, but who have never once crossed his threshold. And now what do you think some of them are doing? "Excusing their lack of courtesy." No, indeed, not they. "Keeping quiet so that no one will notice their impoliteness." Bless We premise that what we have to say is in no way designed as a criticism of the Roman Catholic Church. We respect it for its activity. It is wonderful the exquisite pain we contrive to give people whom we really love very much. We give it by snarling and snapping, saying sarcastic and biting things; the idlers of the family being busiest in this occupation.

WHEN traced to the true cause it will be discovered that pride and a selfish ambition lie at the bottom of nearly all Church troubles. The apostolic injunction is, "Do nothing through strife or vainglory.

THE Christian spirit loves with aid to go; Will not be sought, waits not for want to plead, But seeks the duty—nay, prevents the need.

GEOMETRICALLY, the cross is formed by one straight line crossing another; and spiritually it is formed the same way. It is the crossing of our will, our desires and tendencies, our of our will, our desires and tendencies, our passions, by the straight, unerring, unbending will of God. Wherever our wills do not run parallel with God's will there must be a cross.

A LIFE WORTH LIVING.

Thirty years ago the region about London docks contained as large a heathen population as any district in Africa. Back of the huge warehouses were innumerable courts and alleys, filled with fog and dirt, and every horalteys inter with tog and fire, and every hor-ror of sight, sound and smell. It was a ren-dezvous for the lowest types of humanity. The wealthy and influential class in this set-tlement were rum-sellers and keepers of gambling hells. Children were born and grew to middle age in these precincts who never had heard the name of Christ except in an oath. Thirty thousand souls were included in one parish here, but the clergyman never ventured out of the church to tea

A young man named Charles Lowder, belonging to an old English family, happened to pass through the district just after leaving Oxford. His classmates were going into politics, or to the army, or the bar, full of ambition and hope to make a name in the world; but Lowder heard, as he said, "a cry of min-gled agony, suffering, laughter and blasphemy coming from these depths that rang in his ears, go where he would." He resolved to give up all other work to help these people. He took a house in one of the lowest slums, and lived in it. "It is only one of themselves that they will have that they will hear, not patronizing visitors." He preached every day in the streets, and for months was pelted with brickbats, shot at, and driven back with curses. He had, unfortunately, no eloquence with which to reach them; he was a slow, stammering speaker, but was bold, patient and is earnest. Year after year he fived among them. Even the worst ruffian learned to respect the tall, thin curate, whom he saw stopping the worst street fights, facing mobs, or nursing the victims of Asiatic cholera.

Mr. Lowder lived in London docks for twenty-three years. Night-schools were opened, industrial schools, refuges for drunkards, discharged prisoners and fallen women. A large church was built, and several mission

Mr. Lowder broke down under his work, and rapidly grew into an old, careworn man. He died in a village on the Tyrol, whither he had gone for a month's rest. He was brought back to the docks, where he had worked so Across the bridge where he had once been chased by a furious mob bent on his mur-der his body was reverently carried, while the police were obliged to keep back the crowds of sobbing people who pressed forward to catch the last glimpse of "Father Lowder," as they called him. "No such funeral," says a catch the last gimpse of "Father Lowder," as they called him. "No such funeral," says a London paper, "has ever been seen in En-giand. The whole population of East London

PERSONAL RELIGION.

To absorb our attention on that outward direction of religious duty, the exercise of which is oftentimes delightful, and to shrink from the painful process which the inward work in our own soul demands, is but a veiled form of self-love. Each soul created by God is the expression of some thought of God, and it is given to it in its own way to glorify its Maker. If it could be the instru-ment of gaining the whole world, but itself be ment of gaining the whole world, but reselve lost, it would have failed in the original pur-pose of its creation. Nor, further, would the desire to be merged into the Divine life in another world, and to cease to possess an in-dividual existence, be a supreme form of selfsacrifice, if God created the soul in order that

Moreover, the neglect of personal religion so as to be solely absorbed with the interests of others would be detrimental to the very cause it was intended to further. It may be possible for a time to kindle others without being kindled oneself, but in the long run it will be found that the work depends upon the life. Those who have been most forward to spend and be spent for others have been most assiduous all the while in cultivating personal religion. The great apostle, in the midst of his manifold labors and sufferings on behalf his manifold iscore and squerings on behalf of others, tells us that he was all the while seeking the promotion of his inward life—
"This one thing I do." In the midst of his life of toil for others, he was ever himself "reaching forth to the things before." His love for his own soul was the stimulant of love for the souls he ministered to; and the pas sion to promote the good of others, it will be found, keeps pace, as a rule, with the growth of the spiritual life.

What that converse between the spirit of man and the personal God, which is the lifeman and the personal God, which is the life-blood of personal religion, consists in, it is hardly fitting now to speak. What passes in us when our thoughts and hearts rise up to Him! As of old, so still the angels of God ascend and descend on the mystic ladder of intercourse. On the one side, every faculty of the soul, and every affection-memory, un derstanding, will, imagination, joy, sorrow, hope, fear—are in turn called into operation in the acts of prayer, thanksgiving, praise and worship; on the other, all gifts, graces, blessings and answers to petitions descend from God to man. There are divine virtues, too, to God to man. There are divine virtues, too, to assist the natural powers of the soul in their ascent toward God—faith, hope and love, virt-ues infused into the baptized, which have God both for their source and object, and are the great cords which bind our souls to their Maker, Redeemer and Sanctifier; and gifts of the Spirit, divine movements, which fan the flame of devotion, and stir the virtues into action toward God

Four evidences of personal religion may be briefly noticed, as signs of its vigor and its depth. First, the sense of the presence of God, of His fellowship with us. It is recorded of Enoch and Noah, that they "walked with God." And to Abram the command was given,
"Walk before me, and be thou perfect."
Especially a restraining sense of God's presence in the midst of temptation and a hatred ence in the must of templation and a native of sin is a mark of personal religion. "I have set God always before me," says the psalmist; "He is on my right hand, therefore I shall not fall." Secondly, trust in God amidst trial and difficulty. The Divine companion when the property of the prope

Thirdly, there will be surrender of will to the holy will of God—a life of obedience, for can "Two walk together except they be agreed?" The rule of conduct of the religious man will not be formed from without. ligious man will not be formed from without, but from within; not from the opinions of men, but from the Spirit of God. And, fourthly, love for our Lord, which is the source of ministerial zeal, is also the animate. ing principle of personal piety. It is a gitt of the Spirit; the soul's response to the revela-tion of the beauty, love and self-sacrifice of Christ vouchsafed to it. It may reside only in the will, or extend to the feelings; in the one, it becomes "the foundation of service in the other, the stimulant of devotion and a fountain of spiritual delight. Recollection of God's gaze, trust in His goodness, obedience to His Spirit, and love for Christ—where these are, though as yet but in germ, there will personal religion be found.—The Churchman.

The Church of England Year-Book, 1888, presents us with some striking statistics which show the vitality and energy of the great Mother Church. On church building and church extension there were spent during the three years ending 1886 no less than $21,000,-000, or about $7,000,000 a year-these latter figures presenting the average of the last twenty-five years, beginning with 1860. The average number of deacons ordained in the average number of deacons ordained in the five years beginning with 1872 was 625, and for the past five years 789, showing a growth 0 26 per cent; while, in the mean time, the population has increased by less than 16 per cent. The number of children attending Church schools in 1856 was 1,940,000, at a cost ol about $19 per head. Though this number is slightly below the average, the grante samed have increased by $45,000. The growth for the past five years has been 25 per cent, against 16 per cent. for the growth in popula-tion. Between 1882 and 1886 the two chief Home Mission Societies received an addition Home Mission Societies received an addition of $70,000 to their funds, being an increase for of $70,000 to their funds, being an increase for that period of nearly 15 per cent. The collections on Hospital Sunday in Church congressions in London alone have grown from $49,000, in 1873. to $4142,500, in 1887. During the past ten years six new home sees have been created at a cost of about $2,500,000, against one in all the previous years since the Reformation. Perhaps the strongest evidence of the spiritual growth of the Church is to be found in the marked increase in the number of persons confirmed and made communicants being a growth in fifteen years of no less than being a growth in fitteen years of no less than 81 per cent. With a record of this kind, al-though much remains to be dene—and the spiritual destitution of some of the larger towns is simply appalling—the English Church has reason to go forward and be of good courage.

Mr. JUSTICE HARLAN, of the United States Supreme Court, recently stated in a speech in Washington that "the perpetuity of our in-Washington that "the perpetuity of our institutions depends on permeating this country with the principles of the Gospel of Christ," and Mr. James Russell Lowell lately closed an address with this sentiment; "What we want is an active class, who shall insist, in season and out of season, that we shall have a country whose recentages is measured not only by try whose greatness is measured not only by try whose greatness is number of yards woven, of hogs packed, of bushels of wheat raised, not only by its skill to feed and clothe the body, but also by its power to feed and clothe the soul: a country which shall be as great morally as it is materially."

THE Encyclical Letter of the one hundred and forty-eight Bishops of the Anglican Communion assembled in conference at Lambeth, England, is the result of "careful and quisite altar cross, a full set of beautiful brasses serious deliberation both in general conference and in special committees," The language of the epistle is most thoroughly and vigorously Saxon, and its extreme plainness and simplicity almost deceive as to the profundity of thought. We are at first surprised almost into doubt of the value of this contribution, but upon further study we realize the fact that here is agreement upon the fundamentals of some of the most difficult social and religious problems of the day. Clear, definite statements have been drrwn up and agreed to by one hundred and forty-eight Bishops from all parts of the world, representing the Anglican Communion, concerning vexed questions affecting the entire moral and religious world. The letter is remarkable for what it has left unsaid; much sifting has been done, far more than we can possibly know of, and much that was of little worth rejected and left unnoticed. Again, the resolutions adopted by the Conference, and given as the sense of that body, show, as we should expect, a sail from England on September 29 next, freedom from bigotry and narrowness that is

In the interior of the church are many beautiful memorials, such as the altar, an exfor the altar, and processional cross, in addition to which is now to be seen the magnificent Bishop's crozier (one of the jewels therein having been given by a Sunday-school class of Grace Cathedral), presented at the recent semi-centennial of the Diocese to Bishop Knickerbacker by the clergy of Indiana in token of their love, respect and appreciation of the grand work the Bishop is doing. A new pipe organ has been promised by one of the congregation, and a throne for the Bishop is in contemplation and is among the early possibilities. The number of communicants is growing rapidly; Sunday-school work being pushed forward; four distinct branches of mission work in full force, viz., the Parochial, Diocesan, Domestic and Foreign, and the greatest activity is displayed by all connected with this church.

Under the direction and instruction of the rector, the surpliced choir, numbering over twenty, are becoming thoroughly well drilled, and, supplemented as they are by some of the trained ladies' voices of the congregation, render the musical part of the service in a highly satisfactory manner, it being no unusual thing for full choral even-song to be given. It may be truthfully said that, considering the number of communicants belonging to Grace Cathedral, its temporalities are in first-Grace Cathedral, us temporanties are in inschass shape. A noted divine once said that "the first place to be converted should be the pocket," and, by the work accomplished by this congregation, strong evidences of spiritual growth are also shown.

To the Worker .

Having no services at home, I spent Sunday, the 5th inst.-tenth Sunday after Trinity-at St. Thomas, Plymouth, which I enjoyed very much. One pleasant feature of the day was a floral offering made by the Sunday-school in token of their love and esteem for their worthy rector (Rev. T. B. Kemp), who had just returned from a short vacation. Each class made its offering separately, when the superintendent, Mr. Coffy, arranged them in a very beautiful and exquisite motto, "Upward and Onward," which was adopted by the school as its motto. A VISITOR.

August 21, 1888

Church Worker:

The Rev. Dr. Kemp, of Plymouth, writes of his recent vacation, spent in the interest of his parish and the various missions under his care, as having been not only interesting, but invigorating. Two Sundays were given to St. Paul's mission, Hammond, where a good, spacious (new) hall has been leased and fitted up elegantly; new organ, seventy-five chairs. and all that pertains to the furniture of the room proper. Desk and chapel furniture are among the things needed to complete the work in this department. The work is thoroughly in hand-Sunday-school and ladies' guild. as well as the mission work, so well and faithfully performed by the officers in looking up the scattered members of the household of faith and in keeping up lay services in the absence of missionary. This mission and the one at Crown Point, twelve to sixteen miles east, will make a nice, compact field, and, with a residence, which, I am assured, will be provided, and a living stipend, will not be long vacant, if not already filled by the time of the next issue of the WORKER.

Rochester and Kewanna have both been visited, and the minister in charge appeals for help to enable him to secure good church on. 7.F. M. presched on Church work in America in St. Barnabas Church, South Lambeth, Sev. Mr. Edwards, vicar.

Monday, July 30, went to Durham. Even-worldly matters and the removal of some of the devoted ones, is a necessity, and must be net or we shall lose what we have already paid. Who will come to the rescue within forty days? Those desiring to do so will please remit to Dean Faude, Michigan City, or to Dr. Kemp, at Plymouth, for St. Paul's mission, Rochester.

The last Sunday in his vacation was spent in his old parish in Iowa, as were several days in ensuing week, where a perfect ovation awaited him, and in which town, just twenty years before, he called a meeting of those interested to see what could be done toward building a church. The result of that meeting was that within six months a new church and a good rectory were erected and occupied by the founder of the parish, where he remained nearly six years, until he was made chaplain to the late Bishop H. W. Lee, first Bishop of Iowa.

Thus was spent three weeks by your obliged servant and brother. SEXTON.

HOWE GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Rapids (Mich.) Eagle: For various reasons it is sometimes thought best by parents to send their sons away to school. In this case they often send to a distance, incurring much expense and preclud-ing themselves from the opportunity of knowby personal observation how their boys are doing. We print this morning an adver-tisement of the "Howe Grammar School." of Lima, Indiana, which, because it presents un-usual advantages, and because it is near, may interest those who have boys to send away.

Lima is about two hours' ride south of Kala-mazoo, on the G. R. & I. R. R., and four miles south of the Michigan line. The Howe Gram-mar School is a boarding-school for boys, under the auspices of the Episcopal Church, but ther the auspices of the Episcopai Onirch, but receiving pupils of all denominations on equal terms. It uses its title of "Grammar School" in the English sense as founding education upon language and is a school of the high-est grade, preparing fully for college or busi-

The late Hon. John B. Howe, of Lima, left his beautiful residence and thirteen acres to fall to the Church on the decease of his widow, in the interest of education; he added a quest of $10,000, whose interest should aid the work. To meet this and begin the enterprise at once, four years ago the Bishop of Indiana purchased a place immediately adjoining, con-sisting of a mansion of sufficient capacity and six acres of land. By gift of Mrs. Howe chiefly. and from some other sources, another property and from some other sources, another property of four acres has been obtained, a fully equipped gymnasium has been erected and large additions of school-rooms, dormitories, etc., made to the buildings. At a distance of about two miles from the school the Bishop has purchased a property of twenty-five acres. covered with a beautiful grove, and upon one of a chain of lovely lakes, where the boys enjoy, in their several seasons, boating, fishing and bathing under safe oversight. Four years ago the school began with two boys; the past year it had under its charge upward of thirty, twenty-two of whom were boarders. This increase and the promise of rapid growth have made necessary a further enlargement, and made necessary a nuruer emargement, and Mrs. Howe during the present summer and fall will erect new dormitories, school-room, bath-rooms, dining hall, etc., with all the latest improvements for health and comfort. The head of the school, Rev. C. N. Spalding, has devoted most of his life to the work of education and highest property of the work of education and highest property of the work of education and highest property of the work of educations and highest property of the work of the school of the voted most of his five to the work of education, and brings experience to the support of tions. The patrons of the school have heretofore been its advertisers, and it is by their confidence and good word that its success has become semmed

The improvements spoken of above are in rapid progress, and will be sufficiently advanced for the opening on September 12, and before the middle of winter will be entirely completed.

The boys who have been with the school in its earlier days will not object to see with their own eyes some of the improvements in process of making,

Schools are often founded with great gifts. and buildings are put up before scholars are obtained. The buildings are expected to create the demand, instead of the demand the buildings. Lehigh University, Johns Hopkins University, Leland Stanford University, are instances in point. Many others could be We clip the following from the Grand cited

To the friends of education it is no small encouragement that the wealthy, and therefore the worldly-wise, desiring to do the most good, devote their wealth to the cause of education. Doubtless they know from experience where greatest effects can be produced. Doubtless they know in what period of life they were themselves most influenced. Let us thank them for their testimony and their gifts. But the greatest schools, in the opinion of the writer, have not been thus founded St. Paul's, Concord, N. H., is an instance. Its founder, Dr. Shatuck, of Boston, purchased a been shipwrecked and are perishing. New Hampshire farm with but little upon it except its farm-house and an old mill-pond. In work began with one or two boys; it has grown into a school of hundreds, with magnificent buildings, and all that could be desired. It is better that life should so mold the body than that the body should determine the life. In one of her great poems, Mrs. Browning makes her heroine complain of a socialist who would regenerate humanity by making food cheap, that he is "not poet enough to understand that life develops from within.

It has thus developed. The great improvements which Mrs. Howe is now putting up are developments from within-answers to necessity. The school needs these improvements, and they have come full of life for the work. When they are completed, no school in the land will be better ordered for the comfort and well-being of its pupils than the Howe Grammar School.

In literary training it will be behind none Its corps of masters for the next year are all graduates with honor of distinguished institutheory. The rector and his pupils all live for its pupils full and thorough preparation Goodwin.

for college or business. If the pupil is to go to college, he will receive preparation for the most advanced college in the land; if he is to enter business, he will be prepared with firstrate English education, with knowledge of Latin sufficient to give him the power of expression that comes only from knowledge of the derivation of words, with practical bookkeeping, and with German and history.

On fulfillment of preparation for either college or business, a certificate of graduation will be given. Meantime the boy is being trained morally and physically. For the first, he is not permitted to do wrong, and he is being dealt with personally and with ceaseless care, that he may desire to do right and may acquire the habit of right-doing under the influences of Christianity.

Physically, everything is provided to recognize the play-impulse in youth and the reason for it. The reason for it is to perfect bodily growth and strength and beauty.

Our school provides every proper athletic game, trains her pupils in the gymnasium, and in holiday hours calls them off to the woods and the lakes, which have been made available and safe for their sports.

With such advantages, Indiana has her Diocesan school for boys, and parents will ex-perience no gain in overlooking their own school and sending to a distance.

Paper of Rev. Dr. Bradley, late of Christ Church, Indianapolis: St. James' Day, Wednesday, 25th July, was one of the most beautiful days of the present summer, and at 5 r. m. the grounds about St. Luke's Church were well filled with the parishioners and their friends, who assembled to participate in the solemn ceremony of laying the corner-stone of the new Sunday-school building. The order of service was put into the hands of all present. Promptly at five the bell pealed the service hour, and immediately the procession began its march from the robing room, through the church, issuing from the front entrance, and passing across the lawn to the sidewalk of the avenue and on to the southern extremity of the grounds, where the stone was to be laid, and where an awning was spread to shield the choir and clergy. The choir was in good force of numbers, though some members were absent on vacation; we think we never heard them to better advantage in the open air, surrounded by piles of rock, hewn and unhewn, and all destined speedily to become a part of the new structure. The extent of the building was apparent to every eye by the foundation walls surrounding the vast excavation. In the procession the ing the vast excavation. In the procession the choir was led by its cross-bearer, carrying aloft the spmbol of the Savior's crucifixion, and followed by the wardens and vestry, and the officiating clergy, the Rev. C. L. Letter to the Children.

LONDON, July 9, 1888. Dear Boys and Girls: How often I find myself thinking of you, and wondering what I can write to you that will be interesting! I am sure the boys, many of them, would like to have accompanied me when on board ship I asked the chief engineer to show me all about the engine, and let me go down to the stokers' place, where they keep putting in the coal. It was an awful poky place, and put one in mind of the infernal regions. The hot, close, dark place, the tremendous fires, were frightful, and yet for eight days and nights the poor fellows have to be down there keeping up the supply of steam.

I think the boys and girls both would have enjoyed Blarney Castle and the beautiful Killarney lakes in old Ireland, with their grand Subscriptions have been received as follows old ruins. I did not have time to try the since the issue of the August number. More hook and line and catch a great big salmon. I would like to have been able to describe the sensation of pulling in a twenty pound salmon. Possibly I may get a chance when in Scot-

I spent a couple of days in Dublin, and I ran across a nice thing in the beautiful Phosnix Park there that I am sure the boys would have thought great fun. I was riding on one of those queer jaunting-cars, sideways, with feet hanging down, when, all at once, I came on several companies of red-coats having a mock battle. They were popping away at each other, hiding behind trees, and creeping up over hills, and getting down into valleysnow one side winning and now the other. I kept in the midst of it for half an hour or more. Fortunately for me, they had nothing but powder in their guns, or I should have been killed or badly wounded. The only thing that was shot was a beautiful little fawn, There were hundreds of deer all about. I saw the exact spot where Lord Cavendish and Mr. Burke were murdered, three or four years ago, when coming out of the Government House, just opposite. I saw a great many beggars in Ireland; they were very persistent, and would say, "God bless your reverence, and may you have a good summer-for the love of God, please give something to an old woman who is very poor." Or, with a baby in their arms, they would say, "Good father, remember the poor little child," etc.

There are so many wonderful things to be seen in London that one is almost bewildered. The queer signs one sees riding on the top of the omnibus are very amusing, and then the great buildings, colleges, hospitals, museums!

I am sure the boys and girls would like to have been with me at the great Crystal Palace, where are gathered all sorts of queer and beautiful things from all parts of the world; a court as it was found in the ancient city of Pompeii, a Grecian room, another as it was in ancient Rome, or China, or Japan. The whole world seems to be represented.

Yesterday I visited a school of five hundred visit from a number of American Bishops, and cheered heartily the speeches made to them One of the good things they secured from the visit was what the boys of Howe Grammar School always get when the Bishop visits them, viz., a holiday.

I think the boys, and perhaps the girls, would enjoy a boat-ride on the river Thames, past Parliament House, up to London Bridge and the Tower. In the Tower you would see all sorts of ancient armor and crown jewels, and stand on the spot where a great many historical characters were beheaded. At Canterbury I am quite sure you would have enjoyed the dress parade of 1.500 red-coats, or British soldiers, and then to pass through the cavalry stables, looking at 500 splendid cavalry horses, each one having a soldier at its head, the stables as neat and clean as they could be and all dressed for inspection. I enjoy very much the beautiful parks of London-Hyde Park and Kensington Gardens and Kensington Museum.

There are no street railways in London, but plenty of omnibuses, and thousands of cabs ready to take you anywhere you wish to go for a shilling, or twenty-five cents of our

This morning I attended the Temple church-the old church that formerly belonged to the Knights Templar. It was curious to see the old knights in their armor, sleeping in marble; and here I found the tomb of Oliver Goldsmith. I heard the Archbishop of York preach an excellent sermon. On my way to the Temple I visited St. Clement's Danc Church in the Strand, and was shown the seat in which Dr. Johnson used to sit. Yesterday I visited the old church, and saw where John Milton was buried.

These ancient churches, filled with the tombs of historical characters that one has read about, are very interesting to an American. I was in old Smithfield market yesterday. and was where some of the martyrs of the Reformation period were beheaded. Covent. Garden market is another place I have visited to see how this immense city of 4,000,000 is supplied with food. They have all sorts of luscious fruit - peaches, figs, grapes, cherries. strawberries, etc., and quite as fine as any in America.

Well, dear boys and girls, I must stop. I am going to visit the great universities of Oxford and Cambridge soon, and may have something more to tell you in the September number of the WORKER. God bless you all.

YOUR FRIEND AND BISHOP.

Dear Boys and Girls of Indiana: Your Bishop, though far away from you, holds you in remembrance. When this number of the Worker reaches you you will be taking up again your school duties after your summer vacation. good schools, founded for the Christian education of the boys and girls of Indiana, and we sincerely hope that their work may be appreciated and they be generously patronized. With new zeal and devotion, your Bishop prays that you may take up your Sunday-school work, and that a long list may be added this year to the roll of honor of Indians of those who have committed to memory the Church catechism. Our child's cot in St. Stephen's Hospital and our Orphanage and Diocesan missions must have your interest this year also, and in various ways, as boys and girls know how, you must save some of your spending money for each. We have now an excellent start for the cot and Orphanage, and if each boy and girl will bear it in mind and determine to save for it, we shall be able to do more this year than ever before. The Bishop will be home about the first of November, and then he hopes to hear from many of you, sending him your savings for these blessed objects. In August your Bishop will be visiting Scotland and on the continent, seeing many of the wonders of the old world, some of which he will be glad to tell you about as he visits you on his return. With love.

YOUR FRIEND AND BISHOP.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS

The great work before the Church in Indiana is to generously support our Diocesan missions. With September we virtually enter upon a new campaign, and the WORKER would most earnestly present the obligations of Indiana churchmen to liberally aid in every way to promote its success. Diocesan missions means the extension of our branch of the Church of Christ within our own borders. It means the establishment of the Church in many towns where it is not now known in Indiana. It means the looking up and ministering to the churchmen scattered abroad. many of whom have lived for years without her ministrations. There is no question as to the importance of this work. There are at least fifty towns in Indiana where we should have church buildings, and where we can gather congregations if we have the means to put the living missionary in the field. Indiana churchmen have improved somewhat in their interest and in their gifts, but they have not begun to come up to the measure of their responsibility. Twenty-five hundred dollars per annum has been about the measure of our gifts thus far. It should be doubled this summer. Shall we not try to do this the present year? It can be done if in all our parishes and missions the members of the Church be systematically reached and each one be given the opportunity and be requested to give systematically and regularly for this particular object and according to their ability. There are numbers of lay men and women whom God has blessed with means who could and should give $100, $50, $25, $15, $10 or $5 each per annum toward it. They have been giving only small pittances hitherto. The church- Mitchell, widow of the late Rev. Thomas W. men of Indiana must wake up to the im- Mitchell, entered upon rest.

City and St. John's at Vincennes—these are all portance—the vital importance—of our own Diocesan missionary work. They must realize their stewardship and be ready to consecrate their substance for the glory of God and the extension of His Church. He shall then hasten the day when our own beloved Church shall burst the swathing bonds which have held it year. No Indiana churchman, we feel sure, back, and go forth conquering and to conquer. What say you, Indiana churchman? Will you rise to a higher plane of Christain giving, and put into our missionary treasury the means to do the work opening up before us?

GREENCASTLE.-Morning and evening servces are held in St. John's Church every Sunday, and there is also even-song every Friday evening. The church, which had been closed since the Rev. Augustine Prentiss resigned the rectorship in the spring, was reopened for worship on the sixth Sunday after Trinity. Mr. Oliver Matson, a student of Nashotah House, is the reader. When the Bishop visited this parish in April, he blessed the beau tiful Bible which Mrs. Hoyt, of Cincinnati, had given as an Easter offering in memory of her daughter, Miss Grace Emma Hoyt, who was a communicant of this parish, and who entered into rest from Cincinnati September 3, Conference upon the subject of temperance

The prospects at Worthington are still very encouraging. An addition of two acres of land has been recently made to our cemetery, which makes it a valuable church property. Arrangements have been made to put a new organ in the church and a furnace to replace the stove. The vestry, at its last meeting, voted to increase the rector's salary.

The prospects of the Diocesan school for girls for the coming year are most encouraging. The record of the school in the past insures its success in the future. Already more pupils have been entered than last will send his daughter elsewhere to school after investigating the superior advantages of this, his own Diocesan school.

THE Anglican conference states that, in its opinion, "a basis on which approach may be, by God's blessing, made toward home reunion" is supplied by the declaration made by the American House of Bishops at the last general convention, viz.:

(a) The Holy Scriptures of the Old and New (a) The Hoty Scriptures of the Und and New Testaments as "containing all things neces-sary to salvation," and as being the rule and ultimate standard of faith. (b) The Apostles' Creed as the baptismal symbol, and the Nicone Creed as the sufficient

The second resolution of the Pan-Anglican

"That the Bishops assembled in this Conference declare that the use of unfermented juice of the grape, or any liquid other than true wine, diluted or undiluted, as the element in the administration of the cup in Holy Communion, is unwarranted by the of our Lord, and is an unauthorized departure from the custom of the Catholic Church."

The fourth resolution, upon the "Sanctity of Marriage," is as follows:

(a) That, inasmuch as our Lord's words expressly forbid divorce, except in the case of fornication or adultery, the Christian Church the excepted case, or give any sanction to the marriage of any person who has been divorced contrary to this law, during the life of the ation or adultery, to be regarded, during the life-time of the innocent party, as a fit recipi-ent of the blessing of the Church on marriage,

(c) That, recognizing the fact that there al-ways has been a difference of opinion in the Church on the question whether our Lord meant to forbid marriage to the innocent party in a divorce for adultery, the Conference recommends that the clergy should not be instructed to refuse the sacraments or other privileges of the Church to those who, under civil sanction, are thus married.

The sixth resolution is on the "Observance of the Lord's Day," and is as follows:

(a) That the principle of the religious observance of one day in seven, embodied in the fourth commandment, is of Divine obligation.
(b) That, from the time of our Lord's resurrection, the first day of the week was observed by Christians as a day of worship and rest, and, under the name of "The Lord's Day," gradually succeeded, as the great weekly fes-tival of the Christian Church, to the sacred position of the Sabbath.

(c) That the observance of the Lord's Day as a day of rest, of worship, and of religious teaching, has been a priceless blessing in all Christian lands in which it has been main-on the part of some of the wealthy and leisurely classes of making Sunday a day of secular amusement is most strongly to be depre-

(f) That the most careful regard should be had to the danger of any encroachment upon the rest which, on this day, is the right of servants as well as their masters, and of the working classes as well as their employers.

Religious education must be added in order that secular education may be of any real service. The teaching of the head is one thing, and the heart quite another. Daily experience lect at the expense of the moral and religious natures you do but increase a man's power to do evil and place in his hands weapons with which to assail both social and religious order. Education is power, but it may be only for evil. With his mental vigor made strong, his memory copiously retentive, his imagination memory copiously retentive, in singination boundless in its play, his faculty of reasoning thoroughly equipped for profound argument, he may be a great thinker, a popular statesman, a splendid poet, and yet, as the habit of his life, be a splendid sinner, smart in the perpetration of crime and sin of appalling enormity.

The most faithful training in the usual branches of study can not give to our children branches of study can not give a our contribute the respect and love due their parents, the modesty so befitting woman, the industry and purity which confer happiness upon families, nor that love and service of God which se-cure happiness forever. What is there in geography, grammar, mathematics, what is lorie in logic and hydrostatics, to train man's moral nature, to make him benevolent, kind, just and good, to teach him to do right, and suffer his lot in life, and share its burdens with in-tegrity, patience and courage?—Dr. Hannibal (Landonia town parish paper:"

"'Churchmen never speak of the congregation as the 'audience,' or the church as the tion as the 'audience', or the church as the 'audience room'. They do not say, when going to service, that they are going to hear Mr. So-and-8o preach; they go to church chiefly to worship God, and to take part in the worship when they get there. Churchmen never use the word 'Catholic' when they mean 'Roman,' no ray 'Sabbath' when they mean the Lord's Day. 'They do not speak of those who were made,' members of Chief billions. the Lord's Day. They do not speak of those who were made 'members of Christ, children who were made' members of thrist, children of God and inheritors of the kingdom of heaven' in holy baptian as 'joining the Church' when they come to be confirmed. They do not speak of themselves as 'professors of religion', nor talk about their 'experience;' but seek, by patient continuance in well-doing, by diligent use of the means of grace, to make their calling and election sure. To 'confess thrist' is better than to 'profess religion.

"And now, may we add a few words? A surplice' should never be called a 'surplus." 'surplice' should never be called "value" in We do not call an 'alma baain' a 'plate,' nor a 'font' a 'font,' an 'offering' is better than a 'collection;' preaching a funeral sermon' is one thing, reading the 'burial office' another. The minister is not 'hired' any more than the governor of the state. The Church is not 'run' like a fire-engine. Don't call Smith an 'Episcopal,' eall him an 'Episcopalan,' if you like that term, or better still, call him 'a Churchman,' with a big 'G.'

SHOULD TIRED PROPIR GO TO CHURCH

Many of those who stay at home all day Sunday because they are tired make a great mistake. They are much more weary on Sunday night than they would have been had they gone to church at least once, as the time must often drag heavily on Sunday for the lack of something to do and to think about, and the consciousness of having spent the day unprofitably must sometimes add mental atisfaction to languor that follows idleness

Moreover, these tired people would often find refreshment for their minds and their hearts in the quiet services of the church. They would secure by means of them a change of mental atmosphere, and the sug-gestion of thoughts motives and sentiments, which are out of the range of their routine which are out of the range of their routine work. For a hard-working mechanic, sales-man, housekeeper, or teacher, the diversion of the thought to other than the customary themes might be the most restful way of spending a portion of the day of rest.

we happen to know of several cases in which this prescription has been used with excellent results. Those who wanted to stay at home because they were too tired on Sunday to go to church have been induced to try the experiment of seeking rest for their souls, as well as their bodies, in the church on Sunday, and they testify that they have found what they sought; that the observance has proved a refreshment rather than a weariness, and that their Sundays never gave them so much good rest when they stayed at home as they have given them since they formed the habit of church-going.—Good Company,

Concerning the man you call your friend, tell us, will he weep for you in the hour of your distress? Will he faithfully reprove to your face actions for which others are ridiculing or censuring you behind your back? cuing or censuring you beaind your back; Will he acknowledge you with the same cordiality, and behave to you with the same friendly attention, in the company of your superiors in rank and fortune as when the claims of pride or vanity do not interfere with those of friendship?

If misfortune and losses should oblige you to retire into a walk of life in which you can not appear with the same distinction, or entertain your friends with the same liberality. as formerly, will he still think himself happy in your society? And instead of gradually withdrawing himself from an unprofitable connection, will he take pleasure in profess-ing himself your friend, and cheerfully assist ong inneet your riend, and cheerituly assist, you to support the burdens of your misfort-une? When sickness shall call you to retire from the gay and busy scenes of the world, will be follow you into your gloomy retreat and listen with attention to your tale of sorrow? Will be administer the balm of consolation to your grave and lodge the dear remembrance of your mutual friendship in his heart as a treasure never to be resigned? The man who treasure never to be resigned? Ine man who will not do all this may be your companion, your flatterer, your seducer, but he is not your friend.—Living Epistle.

THE difference between a sinner and a Christian is that the sinner does as he pleases, and the Christian does as God pleases

It has been said that a tree will not only lie as it falls, but it will fall as it leans. From this we may draw a very important lesson in daily life.

The inclinations of the soul have a very important relation to future destiny. Do you portain relation to future destiny. Do you lean toward those things that are good, and pure, and true, or do you lean in the opposite direction? If you are to lie as you fall, and fall as you lean, then the general trend of your life is most important.

Every man is making his future, day by day. If he is casting out evil and cultivating the good, if he is in harmony with the divine and leaning Godward, and continues thus to do, the future is secure. One need have little anxiety how he shall fall, or where he shall fall, if he is leaning right.—Selected.

WATER-PROOF GARMENTS FOR RAINY SUNDAYS.

Not a real coat or cloak to wear over one's shoulders, but a few reasons why I go to church on rainy Sundays.

1. I find it possible to go out in the rain to attend to business or to hear a concert; why, then, should I stay away from church on account of bad weather?

account of pad weather?

2. I have promised to be Christ's faithful soldier, and surely one is a poor soldier who can not march in the rain. I never heard of "fair weather" soldiers.

3. I expect the rector to be there. I should be greatly surprised if he stayed away on account of a storm. Has he not a right to expect me, then?

I find that I need the prayers, the hymne the lessons and the sermons as much on such Sundays as at other times.

5. If I can not endure such a trifling in-convenience as a rain-storm, I am afraid my faith in God and love for Him are very weak.

6. I may not have many Sundays to spend on earth, and I want to make use of all that are given me to prepare for a better world

HOW TO FILL THE CHURCH.

There is room in it yet. Shall we depend upon the minister to fill it by attractive preaching? Upon the choir to do it by beautiful musio? They will be but poor dependence. A VERY curious and interesting experiment has been made at Fort St. Nicholas, Marseilles, with a new inflammable liquid invented by a Paris chemist. A little elbow leans upon your knee— Your tired knee that has so much to bear— A child's dear yees are looking lovingly. A child's dear yees are looking lovingly and looking your so that look of warm, noist fingers, lodding yours so tight; You do not prize the blessing overmuch— You almost are too lived to pray to-night!

But it is blessedness! A year ago

If in onese it as I do to-day;

Year in order it as I do to-day;

To catch the suchine till it slips away.

And now it seems surpassing strange to me,

That, while i wore the badgo of motherhood,

I did not kiss, more oit and tenderly.

The little ednit that brought me only good.

And if, some night when you sit down to rest,
You miss the elbow on your tired knee—
This restless curry head from off your breast,
If from your own the dimpled hands had slipped,
And ne'er would nestle in your palm again,
If the white feet into the grave had tripped—
I could not blame you for your heart ache then.

I wonder that some mothers ever fret
At their wes children clinging to their gown;
Or that the loctyrine when the days are wei,
II sould find a little muddy boot,
Or cap, or jacket, on my chamber flownII ould kies a rosy, resiless foot,
Ant hear it pattern my house once more!

If I could mend a broken cart to-day,
There is no woman in God's world would say
There is no woman in God's world would say
But an! the dainty pillow next my own
Is never rumpled by a shining head!
My singing birdling from its next has flown—
The little boy I med to kine is—dead.

THE first Sunday in November is designated as the Sunday for the annual collection in behalf of our own Diocesan Church Building Fund. The Bishop would earnestly press the importance of this fund upon clergy and laity of the Diocese. Let there be a liberal collection in every parish and mission. THE first Sunday in October is designated as the Sunday for collections in our churches for the education of our candidates for the ministry. The Diocese has now three or four such candidates depending on this collection for support. It is hoped that all the clergy will bear it in mind and exhort their people to liberality.

THE second year of the boarding department of the Diocesan school for girls opened on the 12th, with over three times the number of pupils with which it opened last year. The school offers advantages not to be obtained in any other school in Indianapolis. and it is a surprise to us that any churchman should think of sending his daughter elsewhere. The surprising success of the school is the best evidence of its worth.

Ir is most necessary to real, direct, personal contact and influence with souls that our clergy and people seek "the grace of continuity. It has become common to hear of "the restlessness of the clergy." Doubtless there is much unnecessary change, but are the clergy alone to blame? Various excuses are given. but the real one at the bottom generally is that the clergyman is trying to improve his financial condition. Not that our clergy are, as a rule, mercenary, but their stipends are too small to live on even if paid regularly and in full. They must live decently-their position compels it-they must educate their children in accordance therewith, they must exercise liberal hospitality. The clergyman must constantly buy expensive books in order to keep up his studies. Make the clergy comfortable and they will be more than willing to stay where they are.

Parishes have a good deal of restlessness also. Unfavorable comparisons are often made between visiting clergy or some prominent city clergyman. Criticisms, petty, trivial, unkind and unjust often, begin to float about after a few months. The attendance begins to drop in England, was very sad indeed. He was off, the revenues to decrease, and the parochial atmosphere to grow decidedly uncomfortable generally for the poor parson.

If a parish can get a good, devout pastor it ought to be content, and not seek for great administrative ability or special eloquence of speech. The men who have either one of these are scarce and very hard to obtain; those who have all are eagerly sought for the

MIND WHAT YOU READ.

An elderly man who had lived a godly life for forty years, once said at a public meeting:
"I had often heard people say it was right to read and see all you could, so that you might be able to judge for yourself as to whether things were right or wrong. I had heard a great deal about bad books and the mischief they did, and thinking it would be best to they did, and thinking it would be best to judge for myself in the matter, I determined, if one came in my way, I would read it. The chance son came, and I read the book; it was a very bad one. I finished it, thoroughly dis-gusted, and closed its pages, having fully made up my mind never to read another, and inthe mind to think no more about this one. Ahl dear young friends," he continued, "there I was mistaken. It is forty years ago since I read that book, but I have never been able to forget it; some of its blasphemous sentences are as fresh in my mind as the day I read them! Many a time in my life I would have given pounds and pounds had it been possible to have blotted them out of my memory; but this is impossible; and probably as long as my life, or at least as long as my reason shall last, I shall never forget them. Then take care what you read. Remember the words of the Lord Jesus, spoken before there were many books to read, 'Take heed how ye hear.' Don't go to hear what an infidel has to say; he may put blasphemous, unbelieving thoughts into your mind, which Satan will bring up again and again, often disturbing your peace, and acting like a poison. You may never be able to forget it.—R. T. S. Tract.

THE HABIT OF SELF-CONTROL .-- If there is one habit which, above all others, is deserving of cultivation, it is that of self-control. The habit of self-control is but the accumulation of continued acts of self-denial for a worthy object; it is but the repeated authority of the reason over the impulses, of the judgment over the inclinations of the sense of duty over the desires. "WHY WERE THE LITTLE CHILDREN BROUGHT TO JESUS TO BE TOUCHED?

SIR: A universal and most ancient custom among the Jews is the true explanation. Every child kisses the right hand of his parents morning and evening, also after service in the synagogue on Sabbaths and festivals, and after enjoying any spiritual privileges, such as reading the law. The parent then raises the hand that has been reverently kissed and (after the example of the Patriarch Ja-cob), places it upon the head of the child, at the same time repeating the first part of the priestly benediction in Hebrew, "The Lord bless thee and keep thee." In well-regulated bless thee and keep thee. In weirregulated families this custom is kept up even when the children have grown to manhood and to old age. The same is done by children to their teachers after school.

The blessing of a rabbi, especially if he be reputed a holy as well as a learned man, is sought by adults as well as by children; and it is considered a great privilege to have his blessing, or the touch of the hand of such a blessing, or the touch of the hand of such a man on one's head. It need not be added that grandparents and aged relatives are ap-proached for their blessing in like manner.

I am sure this custom existed in the days of our blessed Lord, and that, and nothing else, is the explanation of the touching inci detection in the rought their children to Jesus to touch them, i. e., lay His hands upon their heads, and pray for them or bless them. The priestly benediction is both a prayer and a direct personal blessing—"May the Lord bless thee," etc. A more set and formal bene-diction is also practised, in which the name of the child or person blessed is mentioned. the child of person bessed is menioned. It begins, "He who blessed our holy fathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, Moses and Aaron, David and Solomon, and Elijah, the prophet, may He bless N;" and the special grace demay ne biess 14, and the special grace de-sired, whether health, learning, prosperity, etc., follows; the blessing ending in, "Amen, so may it be accepted." In case of females the names of "Sarah, Rebecca, Leah, Rachel." etc., are substituted for those of "Abraham," etc their heads and blessing them (as is often done by aged relatives and rabbis to young chil-dren), only shows how deep was His love for the little innocent ones, of whom He declared "of such is the kingdom of heaven."

The opposition of the apostles is accounted for simply by the fact that this blessing of children was a thing which might be done any time and anywhere, and which was not really needful, and which any rabbi might do; and so they only considered the comfort and quiet of their Divine Lord, who might have been tired at the time, or desirous to be alone, but his love for the dear little ones overcame every other consideration.

MAXWELL M. BEN-OLIEL.

A MILWAUKEE clergyman, who has a reputation for brilliancy, generosity and getting into debt, and who was lately reported as being in financial straits, was waited on a few days ago by a wealthy parishioner, who asked him to figure out the amount of money it would take to free him from debt. The would take to free him from debt. The clergyman replied that it would take nearly $5,000. Whereupon the gentleman responded: "Well, your sermons have been worth that much to me above my pew rent and Church contributions. Please accept this," And he handed the clergyman a check for the sum permed. named.

Dr. Hall says that the best medicines in the world, more efficient than all the potations of the materia medica, are warmth, rest, cleanliness and pure air. Some persons make it a virtue to brave disease; to "keep up" as long as they can move a foot or wriggle a finger, and it sometimes succeeds. But in other cases the powers of life are so completely exhausted that the system has lost all its ability to recuperate, and slow and typhoid fever sets in and perate, and slow and syphologores are grave carries the patient to a premature grave Whenever walking or work is an effort, a warm bed and cool room are the very first indispensables to a sure and speedy recovery

KEEP cool. Nothing is made by fretting and fuming. This is good advice at all times, but especially during an exciting political campaign. If you expect to gain votes for your party you must use argument and not let your opponent think you are a braggard and falsifier. Sugar catches more flies than vinegar, and then it is always far better to keep cool and tell the exact truth.

ROMAN CATHOLICS very virtuously and very forcibly assert that the origin of the "Ppicapilan Church" is due to the fact that the Pope would not consent to Henry's divorce from Queen Catharine. "The Pope could not, all the Popes together, could not grant that divorce lawrilly." "It was against the law of God to grant it, and the Pope could not distrance with that Suprame law.

pense with that Supreme law."

This limitation of the Papal power is not good Roman doctrine. The Popes have asserted their power and right to dispense with the Divine law; and only a few days ago Leo MII deliberately proceeded to exercise his plenary power in this regard. The Duke of Aosto was brother to the Princess Clothilde. He fell in love with Clothilde's daughter, or at least he desired to have her to wife. But it was against the Divine law for a brother to marry his sister's daughter. More than this, it was against the canon law of Rome itself. It was against the canon law of home tasen. But the royal duke lusted for his niece. He and she were good Catholics. Uncle, niece, sister and mother were all willing; but there was the law of Godand the canons of the Cath and on festive occasions in the house by the olic Church forbidding incest. Something rabbis.

That our blessed Lord took up the children in His arms, in addition to laying hands on Supreme Pontiff alone could do that. It was invoked, and not in vain. Leo XIII did what all the Popes together could not do for King Henry VIII; he dispensed with the Divine law against an incestuous marriage. He per-mitted the Duke of Aosto to marry his own niece. Either the Papal power is growing greater as the ages roll on or the argument is

Moreover, Henry VIII would never have called upon Pope Clement VII to dispense with the law of God as to his divorce with Queen Catherine, if one of Clement's prede-Queen Catherine, if one of Clement's prede-cessors had not consented to dispense with the Divine law against his marrying his broth-er's widow. The Divine law, as interpreted by the Catholic Church, was as strictly opposed to Pope Julius giving permission to Henry to marry Catharine as it was to Pope Clement's giving him permission to divorce her. But why this sort of argument? The Popes have never yet, at least in modern times, refused to do, in such matters, what seemed well to them do, in such matters, what seemed well to them to do for some great reasons of Church or state. If Pope Clement dallied with the question of Henry's divorce for years, if he procrastinated and played with the question, it was not so much because he had any doubt as to the merits of the cause of poor Catharine's wronge or of Henry's lust, as because he was in doubt as to which had the stronger, longer arm, the Emperor Charles V, Catharine's nephew, or Henry, her husband. If he refused at the last to grant Henry's prayer, and license his divorce, it was not because "he preferred to lose a kingdom to the fath rather than license a wrong," but because victory rested upon the banners of Charles of Germany, and upon the banners of Charles of Germany, and the capture of Kome by his armies, including his aunt from Henry. All our own feelings and/sympathics are with the devout, true-womanly Catharine as against her tyrant, lust-womanly Catharine as against her tyrant, lustto the merits of the cause of poor Catharine's womanly Catharine as against her tyrant, lustful husband; but the question between the Anglican and Roman Churches must be settled, if ever settled, upon principles deeper than those put forth in the ad captandem arguments about Henry VIII founding the Church of England.—Exchange.

FAMILY RELIGION.

An editorial correspondent has favored us with an article on family religion. With some significance he asks if it is dying out among us. There is, he say, such a thing as family religion. There is, the say, such a thing as family religion. There is the religion of the individual, in which he draws nearer to God in personal service, obedience and relations; in private prayer and closet devotion, and efforts There is also public and organized religion, banded and concentrated in the churches and religious communities. But the families that, as families, practice religion, are becoming lamentably and alarmreligion, are becoming lamentably aud alarm-ingly few. Family prayers, grace said and blessings invoked upon the daily meals, the Bible regularly read and perhaps commented upon by the devout father or the pious and godly mother—these are beginning to be things of the long past, duties entirely disregarded amid the rush of our nineteenth century busiamout the russ of our innecental century ous-ness and pleasures. But, novertheless, it is a most alarming feature of the times, whether we regard it from the standpoint of the in-spired Word of God or its logical effect upon public morals and religion.

In the first place, the wrath of God is denounced upon irreligious families. Such families destroy the Church. * *
They do it in this way. The impressions of home life are the enduring impressions. If there God be recognized and His Word read and taught and inforced by precept and example by the godly father and mother, then the children and domestics and all who compose the home circle are prepared for the Church and delight in her services.

If otherwise, then they are secularized and hurt, the lip would not have taken that wicked made worldly; and if they see the heads of curve. Had we but known how the absence the household habitually rush from some and of the customary kiss would have made home meals to business and pleasure, without any recognition of the Divine Being, or their derecognition of the Divine Being, or their de-pendence upon Him, they are taught in the most forcible manner possible that God and His service are but secondary considerations, and worldly success, and gain, and obligations, the first. And the logical effect of this upon morals is obvious. God's law is not first to be considered, but policy, and success, and gain; and children are not trained to duty as Church members or to Godly living; and so Jacob is devoured and consumed, and his habitation made desolate.

A fearful responsibility is thus laid upon parents and heads of families and households. We heard, says eur correspondent, a most excellent lady say that she did not believe in family prayers. They made religion too common. She thought them deleterious upon the could be too common. For the country of the could be too common. On the country of the c day in seven. Often when clergymen are invited to meals with their parishioners, the worldly husband has to be reminded by his more thoughtful wife to refrain from carving the meat till the formality of a blessing, out of respect to the pastor, has been undergone.

These are "straw" that indicate a drift of worldliness and forgetting of God. In our opinion, true religion will decline more and more till the religion of the family is revived; till the father again becomes the priest of the household, and the mother its priestess, and God is an abiding guest beside the household

MYSELF AND YOURSELF,

The family should be the center of the best influences of which human nature is susceptible, and it is a great mistake to suppose that a good and happy home will come of itself in a well-meaning household.

Many elements must enter into a happy home life which do not appear on the surface, nor suggest themselves to a careless partici-pant. One of the most important of these is a practical recognition of the distinct personal practical recognition of the distinct personal rights of each member of the family. The best household discipline is that which se-cures as much individual freedom as is possible with implicit obedience and unquestioned restraint in necessary things. The most suc-cessful parental government is that which earliest enables the child to govern himself. Freedom should be afforded for the peculiar talents and tastes of each to develop natu-rally, and tender consideration shown, and special safeguards provided, for individual temptations and faults.  * One of the tempitations and faults. * * * * One of the unspoken and dimly comprehended grievances of children, especially older ones, is the failure on the part of the parents to allow the child to be himself in the best sense of the word. SHALL a husband keep his wife informed of his business affairs? This is a disputed ques-tion as a matter of theory, while as a matter of fact it is often determined by the character of the wife. Some women insist upon know-ing all about the affairs of their husbands, will actherage as real residuals. while others are as persistent in treating them with entire indifference. As a matter of theory, it seems to us that the more thoroughly a wife keeps herself informed of her husband's business condition and conduct the better it is for both. It is better for him, because a woman's moral sense is often a wholesome corrective of business practices, and her perspective is always better. It is better for her, because it gives her a new field of thought, and enlightens her natural impulses and feelings by the practical consideration of everyday life. It does not make her less womanly, but now and then it may make her more sen-

OUR Bishop sails on Saturday, the 29th, in the steam packet Alaska from Liverpool. He should, with favorable winds and seas, arrive at New York on the following Saturday. After a day or two's rest in New York he will probably arrive in Indianapolis about the 11th or 12th of October.

News from our parishes is scarce during the Bishop's absence. Not that the work is not being actively prosecuted, but that our clergy are not fond of advertising. They are content with doing their duty in a quiet, modest way, without seeking the praise of men. Most of them, doubtless, realize the truth that the successes which can be advertised are not those which are most precious, but generally those which are of least worth.

THE most real, enduring and precious successes of Christian endeavor must ever be the upbuilding of spiritual temples to be fit habitations for God. Direct work upon the souls of men is the most difficult and most real work the clergy have to do. It requires a love for souls, courage and tact for success, but nothing can take its place. Activity in improving or beautifying the church building, the cultivation of beautiful services, the preaching of eloquent sermons, all these are secondary in importance.

THE CHURCH HYMNAL.

Canon 23 of Title 1 of the Digest seems plainly to bind us to use only hymns "which are set forth by authority." A few clergymen in the Church do not regard themselves as bound by this Canon, but freely use "Hymns Ancient and Modern" and other hymnals. The majority, however, interpret this Canon in its plain sense and feel unable to use any other than "The Hymnal Old and New," as our American hymnal is called. This hymnal is full of faults. The hymns which it contains that are really good are entirely too few. Some are faulty from a poetic standpoint; a good deal of the poetry of the hymnal is wretched; some are faulty from lack of rhythm and ring; some from being mere metaphysical introspections of feelings and sentiments; a few even from distinctly false doctrine. All this has been spoken and written and acknowledged long ago. For years we have had a committee of the General Convention engaged in a revision of the hymnal, but the entire probability is that at least eight years will elapse before the revised book can be presented and adopted, and perhaps many more, Meanwhile learned, devout and gifted men have been constantly giving to the Church beautiful translations of the ancient hymns of Christianity and adding rich treasures of their own composition. Majestic, noble, dignified. rhythmic and beautiful hymns have been given us, suitable for every season and event in Church life and for nearly every phase of the Church's work. But we are tied down to use only the few really fine hymns we possess in our hymnal, and must be content at many times to find ourselves entirely lacking for a suitable and appropriate hymn for the season or occasion.

Our brethren in the denominations are more fortunate than this. They are able, without great difficulty, to incorporate into their hymnals the very latest and choicest contributions of genius, learning and spirituality. The more recent of these books are more valuable, from any standpoint, than our own, less defective in literary merit and more Churchly. The music, too, is of the best, and includes the noblest, purest and sweetest contributions of our eminent Church composers. Conservatism is necessary and right in proper proportion, but it may well be doubted if in this case it is not out of all proportion, entirely unnecessary, totally wrong and altogether harmful to the well being and progress of the Church. Some special legislation is plainly called for at once to allow, at least, a tentative use of other hymns or hymnals until the Church in this country is able to prepare and adopt a book adequate for its noble and most important use, and worthy of our branch of the Church Catholic. If such legislation is not obtained speedily we fear that the Canon will be more and more disregarded until future legislation and uniformity of use be very difficult to enforce,

Letter to the Children.

DEAR WORKER: After leaving Durham, August 6, we proceeded to Edinburgh, Scotland, where we fell in with several American Bishops. We found it an exceedingly interesting and beautiful city and spent a day delightfully in visiting places of interest-the Castle, Holyrood Palace, Cathedral, parks and museums, and from here also we made delightful excursions in a diligence to Roslyn Chapel and an interesting old castle reached by a lovely walk. Another day took us out to Melrose Abbey, a splendid ruin, and Abbotsford, the home of Sir Walter Scott, and kept just as he left it.

Thursday, August 9, we left Edinburgh for Glasgow, via the Trossochs, Lake Katrine and Loch Lomond, spending a night at Sterling on the way. It was a most charming trip over historic ground, through lovely scenery, by diligence, steamboat and cars. Spending a day in Glasgow, a busy commercial city of 700,000 inhabitants, we left for London on Saturday morning, reaching there in the afternoon on an express train that averaged fiftyfive miles an hour.

Sunday, August 12, we attended St. Paul's in the morning and St. Mary's in the even-

Visited also Crosby Hall, once a palace and residence of one of the Henrys, the old Roman bath and spring, several of the club houses of London, the markets; called also on Dr. Littledale, and found him most agreea-

Tuesday, August 14, made preparation and secured tickets for my visit to the continent, leaving at 8 P. M. for Antwerp via Harwich, reaching Antwerp at 9:20 A. M. Found it a great feast day-the festival of the Assumption-and visited the cathedral and several of the churches, which were all crowded and grand services going on. Visited the museum and gallery of paintings, where some of the best of Rubens' great paintings are retained in his native city; also the Plantin Museum. containing the printing presses and copies of the finest works printed in the establishment, which for successive generations did the printing of the best editions of the scriptures, missals, etc.

4 P. M. left for Amsterdam, not being able to secure hotel accommodations in Antwerp because of the crowd. Spent Thursday pleasantly in Amsterdam. Felt quite proud of the home of my ancestors and this beautiful city. Visited the Cathedral Museum, containing many of Rembrandt's, Van Dyke's and Snyder's best paintings, as well as of Reubens-it being the home of Rembrandt.

From Amsterdam went to Cologne. Early more dependent than we sometimes think on in the morning visited its glorious Gothic cathedral, one of the finest and most impressive I have yet seen. At Bonn took the steamer, on Saturday morning, November 18, up the Rhine to Mayence. A delightful day on the river. The old castles, full of historic interest, and lovely scenery made it a day long to be remembered. Spent Sunday at Mayence, on the Rhine. Met at the hotel an old Minneapolis friend. Attended the cathedral.

Monday, August 20, visited Worms to see the monument to Luther and the old cathedral; thence to Heidelberg, with lovely parks and noble walks, with its grand old castle and university. Here the English chaplain, Rev. Mr. Hall, showed me much kind attention, to these missions and the new pastor. entertaining me at dinner and acting as my guide over the place.

In the evening went on to Baden Baden, a great German watering place, with lovely parks and walks.

Thursday went from Baden Baden to Luzerne. Here had our first view of the grand old Alps, with their snow-capped peaks.

Wednesday made the trip up the lake to Fluelen and return. Charmed all day with the lovely scenery.

Thursday visited Berne, with its bears and queer performing clock, and old dam and lovely scenery; and thence to Freiburg to spend the night and hear its wonderful organ, one of the finest in the world.

Friday, August 24, came to Geneva to enjoy its lovely scenery, its grand view of Mt. Blanc, to rest and spend Sunday, preparatory to crossing the lake and the Simplon Pass into Italy.

GREENCASTLE.—The Rev. A. George E. Jenner, of Crawfordsville, celebrated the Holy Eucharist, administered the Sacrament of Holy Baptism, and preached twice in St. John's Church on the thirteenth Sunday after Trinity. The Rev. Levi L. Mr. Oliver Matson, who served most faithfully and acceptably as reader during his vacation, has returned to Nashotah House. It is hoped that the Bishop will soon secure a rector for this parish. HAMMOND, under the care of the Rev. Dr. Kemp, of Plymouth, has rapidly developed a very unexpected and most gratifying strength. It has recently called the Rev. R. C. Our congratulations are extended to Dr. Kemp and the Church in Hammond and Crown Point, and our best wishes

South Bend is to have a mission, commencing November 10. The rector of St. James's parish has invited Rev. H. E. Jephson to act as missioner. Mr. Jephson has special qualifications for this difficult work and has been blessed in it. We earnestly trust the Divine blessing will be given to this effort.

CRAWFORDSVILLE.—This parish has become vacant by the removal of the Rev. A. G. E. Jenner to Nebraska. Mr. Jenner has accomplished much good during his charge and we are very sorry to see the work at a standstill. We hope the vacancy will soon be filled and the full current of Church life resumed.

WARSAW.-The Rev. W. G. Woolford has left St. Andrew's vacant and returned to Virginia. The Bishop will doubtless find a new head for this parish upon his return.

FORT WAYNE.-The Rev. W. N. Webbe has left Trinity Church for a charge in Pittsburgh. In another column is an account of his farewell reception. He leaves many friends who will sincerely regret their loss. For eight years he has done faithful service, and it will be difficult to fill the vacancy his removal has

THE LIGHT THAT IS FELT.

A tender child of summers three Seeking her little bed at night, Paused on the dark stairs, timidly. "O, mother! Take my hand," she said, "And then the dark will all be light."

We older children grope our way From dark behind to dark before; And only when our hands we lay, Dear Lord, in Thine, the night is day, And there is darkness never more.

Reach downward to the sunless days
Wherein our guides are blind as we,
And faith is small and hope delays:
Take, Thou, the hands of prayer we raise,
And let us feel the light of Thee!

— Whittier, in Christmas St. Nicholas

THE LAYMAN.

Within the fold of our beloved Church are to be found two totally different descriptions of laymen-the negative and the affirmative. Reader, to which do you belong?

The negative layman may have plenty of faith, but he does not prove his faith by his works. He consults his own inclinations; he goes to church when and where he pleases, just as its suits his own whim and caprice; he acknowledges no law or duty to the Church other than his own pleasure or convenience; he takes no active part in Church work, although perhaps thoroughly equipped therefor mentally and morally; he neither feeds nor gives drink to any one either physically or spiritually; does no visiting to the sick, and, in fact, is, so far as "works" are concerned (apart from occasional attendance at the services of the Church and some small contribution to the financial support thereof, often grudgingly given), practically a negation.

His rector, recognizing his abilities and really wishing to utilize him, approaches him on the subject and is met with a torrent of excuses for not doing manifest duties. He is too busy during the week and must rest all day on Sunday; he likes to lie in bed on Sunday morning, read the newspapers and smoke his cigar, and then it is too late for service; he is unfitted for Church work; he can not teach at Sunday-school, and to the earnest entreaty of his rector he persists in responding in that hateful word "can't," and the minister gives up the seemingly hopeless task in despair of instilling into his mind and forcing the truth home that none of these excuses will avail one day, and that "to whom much is given, of him also will much be required,"

The affirmative layman puts himself and, so far as he can, his purse, at the disposal of his rector and the Church. The very first thing that ought to be converted being the pocket-

If his rector asks him to do anything for which he has a distaste or feels himself dis qualified, he sinks self in his desire to do his duty, and simply tries and tries to do the best he can with the talents God has given him.

He recognizes that his rector should be relieved of all temporalities possible, so that better service can be rendered by him to the spiritualities of his flock, and the layman who is really trying conscientiously to do what in him lies, can uphold his rector's hands in numberless ways and relieve him from manifold cares and annoyances, and perhaps thus reap the reward which will certainly belong to those to whom it can be said, "Inasmuch as tion is in session at St. Paul's, Laporte. The ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did programme is as follows: it unto me.

A word or two in conclusion to the priests of the Church. Who are responsible for there being so many negative laymen? Primarily, of course, the laymen themselves. Secondarily, however, you, our priests, are. You ask how? You all know of how great importance hearty lay co-operation is to you in all Church work; you recognize that in your congregation there are many laymen who could be utilized by you if you could only get them once enlisted; you try once or twice, but for some reason unknown to you failure is the result, and you too readily give up in despair. Therein lies your mistake and your responsibility. Never give up; be persistent and insistent. You want such and such laymen's assistance. "Be instant in season and out of season," and rest assured that, sooner or later, you will have them co-operating with you, and for the rest of their lives will be deeply grateful to you for being the means of bringing them to a knowledge of the privileges they have so long denied themselves. You will have the happiness of exemplifying the words, "He that winneth souls is wise," and both rector and laymen the joy, if they earnestly, heartily and soulfully perform the life work for which each was created, of some day hearing their Judge say, "Well done, good and faithful servants."

Eastman, Schleicher & Lee.

No. 5 East Washington Street, Indianapolis.

THE Bishop spent part of August and September on the continent in traveling through Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France. So far he has had perfect health and enjoyed his travels. He expects to sail on the Alaska from Liverpool September 29.

The Young Churchman Co., of Milwaukee, has recently published some timely words of Bishop Seymour upon the claims of the Roman Church. They have been most fittingly designated "Hot Shot." They deal most forcibly with the foundation error, viz.: "The Papal Supremacy." All who are desirous of knowing the truth in this matter should send for this little work. Net, 75 cents.

[From the Parish Messenger, Omaha, Nebraska.] The Rev. George E. Jenner has come into the Diocese from Indiana. He becomes rec-tor at North Platte. He gave us a call. We the Diocese from Indiana. He becomes rec-tor at North Platte. He gave us a call. We trust that both he and the "Church of our Savior" in North Platte will cultivate the grace of continuity. Nowhere in the Diocese has restlessness, with change, if not decay, been more manifest to the Church's hurt.

"I believe I have never been so remiss in sending what is due for our dear Church ps-per, and hope not to be so again. Absence from home and money scarce must be the excuse of a widow long past her 'three score years and ten, and poor in this world's goods. Trusting and praying that our dear Bishop may have a speedy and safe return, I am," etc.

THE substance of the brain is wasted by mental toil, by care, by grief, and must be built up again with brain food and abundant sleep. It is economy and health and wealth to eat nutritious food, and allow full time for sleep. It pays in every sense to take pains with one's food, and time is never better in-vested than in sound unbroken sleep.

A woman should devote a reasonable amount of time and thought to her personal appearance. A little attention to the blending of colors, to the style prevailing, to the "hang" of her garments, as we women say, will do more to produce the desired effect than any amount of expensive material and trimming

A NOBLE motive may dignify the most me-nial office, and a trifling service done in the niai omee, and a triting service done in the spirit of love and fidelity shines with divine luster. To bear with patience the little ills of life, the daily burden of care, to meet with a smile the changing fortunes of the hour, this is the highest wisdom. It is Christian philosophy.

The people do not appreciate the gospel enough to make sacrifices for securing its ministrations; nor are they as ready as they should be to hold up the hands of their pastor and assist him in his work. At 8:10 we took train for Pompei, where we spent the morning wandering through the streets of that ancient city that had been resurrected after a burial of 1800 years. Drove to Gads Hill, the home of Dickens, visited his study and home. Saw the grave of Dick, his favorite canary bird, which died in 1866. Went through the passage which he had built to his summer house, where he did most of his writing. Saw, also, the birth-place of Anne Boleyn, the queen of Henry VIII. The drive was a beau-tiful one. What justice, what principle of Christianity, warrants a people to demand the services of an educated man for a pittance, out of which he can barely, year after year, meet the most necessary expenses of his family, dooming him to an almost niggardly economy? What right thus to receive his labors during the best and most vigorous years of his life, when meanwhile his children are growing up to find him without the means of offering them a respectable education?

THE DOCTRINE AND WORSHIP OF THE CHURCH EPITOMIZED BY BISHOP HUNTINGTON.

1. Evangelical doctrine, embodied in Scriptural and fixed statements, wrought into every part of the service, summed up in an apostolic part of the service, summed up in an aposeone creed so simple as to be intelligible to a child, repeated always by the whole congregation, and thus rooted in the memory and the faith of young and old, its substance being "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, to-day and forever."

2. Congregational and responsive worship engaging all the people, employing not only the ear, but the tongue, the eyes, and appropriate and significant attitudes of the body-kneeling in confession and petition; standing up in praise with frequent singing; and stitug to hear the word; a worship conformating to hear the word; a worship conformating to hear the word; a worship conformating to the word of the blood attracting the attraction of parts of the blood attracting the attraction of language carefully prepared by the wisdom, and fragrant with the piety of ages; gathering up all the sentiments and desires suitable to social or common prayer, avoiding all that may offend common prayer, avoiding all that may offend reverence, dignity or a poor taste, and secur-ing a noble and beautiful solemnity.

In preaching, an adherence to spiritual and permanent subjects, with a reverential treatment of them by a ministry of three orders, ordained according to the apostolic model, customs extending through Christian history, and the present practice of about seven-eighths of the Christian world.

4. A system of holy education, training every baptized child to venerate and love his church as the mother to whom he belongs by a Divine covenant in a blessed and joyous in-heritance; to heed punctually all the ordin-ances that are a means of a heavenly grace, and to understand clearly the reason of the hope that is in him, as preparatory to the sacred right of confirmation.

5. A system of practical righteousness, coning all the great interests of life-such as youth, marriage, home, sickness and death-directly with the influence of the Church as "the bride of Christ;" teaching the people that every man, woman and child should render some practical service to the Divine that every man, woman his Church, under the rector should be considered to the Church, under the rector should be considered to the consideration of the youth, marriage, home, sickness and death

7. A good cultivation of the spirit of religous awe, including reverence for sacred times and places, a loyal respect for authority and law, a conservative manner of thought, obedient and gentle manners, and uniformity in ecclesiastical usages throughout Christendom. A high degree of spiritual power is ascribed to the two sacraments-Baptism and the Lord's supper: as Christ appointed them; they are administered and received with signal marks of veneration. Each part of the church building has its peculiar meaning and reasons. The minister, as a priest of God, always appears before the congregation in the robe of his ofbefore the congregation in the robe of his or-fice, the same everywhere, the simplest and plainest possible, "covering up all the chang-ing fashions of men," obviating all criticism or surprise, and designated by Jehovah as a symbol of purity.

8. A church polity conforming in its main outlines to the republican government under which we live, with legislative departments corresponding to the national, state and mu-nicipal authorities combining clerical and lay elements, with an elective representative sys-tem securing the rights of all, and reserving the exercise of spiritual discipline in the local Church to the clergy.

9. A liberal practice as regards the terms of participation in sacramental privileges, abstinence from pulpit controversy, and a char-itable spirit toward the members of all Christian bodies.

10. Christ having established a visible king dom in the world, which is the Church, "the pillar and the ground of the truth," a profound conviction arises that on earth our religion, like ourselves, must be of two parts—inward and outward, life and body, spirit and form, invisible and visible, that Christ Himself has determined certain characters or ordinances by which this Church should be everywhere and always known; and that a recognition of the doctrines of this Church, with a cheerful allegiance to it, is not only essential to the final preservation of historical orthodoxy, but would provide a remedy for many evils in our present disordered condition.

THE CLERGY AND THE PARISHES.

Congregations which desire to grow in members and spiritual strength should use every effort to make adequate provisions for the support of their pastors and their families. This is a duty expressly commanded, to the discharge of which God has promised his abundant blessing; a consideration not to be overlooked by men who believe the promises of God. And then, the earnest effort to provide suitably for the pastor gives a new impulse to his work. When a clergyman can see that his people are not indifferent to his needs, it gives him a fresh interest in them, and in all that he can do for them. His service is worth far more to them than otherwise it would be. As a rule parishes where ade-quate provision is made for their clergy have comparatively few vacancies.

And there is another matter in which I And there is another matter in which is think much might be done to make the clergy contented in their charges and to prevent needless changes; it is that our people should more often show the sympathy and appreciamore orien show the sympathy and, appreciation which they really feel for their pasted for the pasted in the ro say about a the cundary touchers.

satisfaction to each other; and, sometimes, with some feeling, of any special effort he may have made. But they are quite reserved about all this toward him. They seldom, if ever, give any expression to him of their estimate of his labors, or their regard for him. He may be quite unaware of the favorable opinion of him entertained by his parish-ioners. And when some opportunity for a change of field comes to him, he may be led to embrace it, quite in ignorance of the esteem and love of his peeple—which, if he had known, would have precluded all thought of I have known many such instances, change. where clergymen have accepted calls in new charges, and have thus bound themselves to make changes in just such ignorance; and when their prospective removal came to be known they have been greatly surprised and overcome by the strong expression of sorrow from the people whom they were leaving.

Timely expressions of approval, some kindly words of their appreciation from his people, are very precious to the clergyman; they do much to make him strong, to give him interest and courage in his duties. The clergy, with their high commission and responsibilithat their night commission and responsibilities, are still men, social beings and others. And because they are so made, they need the help and sympathy of their fellows. I commend this matter to the attention of our devout and thoughtful laymen, as possibly open. ing a way in which they may do something to abate one of the serious hindrances of the success of the Church

And I must charge my brethren the clergy that they may be careful that they do not that they may be careful that they do not make changes except it be for very good res-sons. They should remember that their rela-tions to their present charges have been brought into existence under the providence and by the will of God. These ought not, then, to be broken unless in following the plain leading of that providence. And if they had itself their present charges, it is in the highest degree probable they would find difficulties quite as hard to encounter in and dimenties quite as hard to encounter in other fields. Difficulties, what are they but hard tasks which God, who orders all, puts be-fore us that we may do them? And in the exercise of such resolute efforts may ourselves grow strong; may become able ministers of the New Testament—able to deal with that which opposes itself—able to reduce to the least the evil which can not wholly be reteast the evil which can not wholly be re-moved—able to bear patiently that which is inevitable—able to approach all classes of men —able to find, in all, for Christ, His sheep and lambs, His lost, whom he would fain have brought within His fold. As we should teach our people, so we must remember that our difficulties and hindrances are not accidents, but appointed for us by the wisdom which shapes them most exactly according to our needs, so that if we accept them as a part of our discipline, they are made most profitable to us .- Convention Address of the Bishop of Ver-

After the singing of an appropriate hymn, the rector, standing in front of the altar, in a short service of benediction formally dedicated the cross to the glory of God and to the memory of Dr. Killekelley, and likewise a pair of beautiful altar vases, an Easter gift to the church by St. Mary's Altar Guild, to the memory of the Rev. The following facts concerning the early history of St. James's parish may be of interest to the readers of the CHURCH WORKER:

St. James's parish was organized under Dr. Killekelley as rector in 1842, immediately after which organization the parish moved in the direction of building its pleasant place of worship, which was finished and consecrated by the late Bishop Kemper in 1843. After a fund for the church building had been started by request of the vestry, Dr. Killekelley went to England to solicit funds for the church building, securing quite a handsome sum. The following are a few of the names found upon that list? Queen Adelaide, Duke of Northumberland, Archbishop of Canterbury, Bishop of London, Archbishop of Armagh, Archbishop of York, W. E. Gladstone, M. P. and M. P. C., Rev. E. B. Pusey, D. D., and others of equal fame.

DEAR MUTE SERVICES

The quarterly report of the Rev. A. W. Mann, general missionary, shows continued and untiring work on the part of the missionary, and reasonable success attending his devoted labors. During the three months ending October 1, services were held in the Diocese of Indiana, at Christ Church, St. Paul's Church, and the State Institution at Indianapolis, and at St. Stephen's Church, Terre Haute. The services at the State Institution are regarded as especially important in that over three hundred souls are there reached. representing every part of the state. Important places not reached during the quarter will be visited at an early day. There are twenty-seven communicants reported for the Diocese, and four now awaiting confirmation.

IT is expected that the ordination of the Deaconate of Mr. Otway Colvin, of Peru, will take place in Grace Cathedral on Sunday morning, November 11, the sermon to be preached by Rev. Edwin G. Hunter, of Holy

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

From a report of a Committee on Christian Education, made to the Convention of Minnesota, we take the following extract, believing it to be most timely for our own Diocese:

"The rectors of our parishes, whether large or small, and the missionaries in town or country, are coming to realize more and more that the hope of the Church is in the young. That if the Church of Christ is to grow and to keep pace with the development of the country; if it is to mould society, leaven the customs of our people, Christianize and make effective the charities of the day, and exert the commanding influence over men that the living embodiment of our Lord's continual and loving presence on earth ought to carry with it, a generation must be trained up in the principles and practices of the personal Christian life. We must build up the Christian character by example, by instilling Christian principles in the early years, and we can only do this by gathering the future men and women into Christian schools where the Bible is loved and reverenced, and where daily worship is taught as a natural and necessary part of the life that is in training for another world."

Hence the importance of Christian schools These missions have been offered to Rev. in Indiana; and the Bishop on his return Lewis F. Cole, of Evansville. Mr. C. has the home rejoices to learn of the increased attendance of pupils in our schools. That Major Gould has made provision for another Bishop will be glad to secure so experienced year for the maintenance of St. John's Mission day school at North Vincennes, and that the attendance this third year is larger than ever before, numbering upwards of sixty papils.

DEATH OF BISHOP WELLES, OF MILWAUKEE,

The sad news of the death of this faithful man of God has filled us with sadness. He had been the intimate friend of the Bishop of this Diocese for thirty years,. For sixteen years they were co-workers together in the Diocese of Minnesota. They passed many delightful hours together on board ship, both in going over to and returning from the Lambeth Conference. It was painfully evident on the return voyage that the good Bishop was not long for this world, but the end was scarcely expected so soon.

Bishop Welles was a graduate of Hobart College, and studied theology with Dr. W. D. Wilson, at Geneva. Soon after his ordination in 1858, he came to Minnesota and entered upon mission work at Red Wing, founding the parish of Christ Church, maintaining through all his ministry a flourishing parish school, and building first a plain wooden church, and afterwards a substantial stone church and a rectory. He was a leading clergyman in that Diocese, a great helper to Bishop Whipple in his mission and school work; was Dean, member of the Standing Committee, and delegate to General Convention. He was chosen Bishop of Wisconsin in 1877, and consecrated in St. Thomas's Church. New York city, during the General Convention of that year, Bishop Whipple preaching the sermon. He has made a faithful, gentle chief shepherd. Under his episcopate the Diocese of Fond du Lac has been created, the Bishop Kemper memorial school for girls established, Nashota and Racine Colleges greatly Lima have been completed, admitting of a strengthened and developed, and the valuable and improved.

His was a lovely, Christian life, wholly devoted to the Master, unselfishly spent in advancing Christ's Kingdom. Grant him, O Lord, eternal rest, and let light perpetual shine upon him.

CROWN POINT. - This mission has been united with Hammond and committed to the most faithful communicants, who died from care of the Rev. Mr. Wall late of the Diocese of Ohio. Much interest is manifested in the work of the church, and now that regular services will be held with greater frequency, there will doubtless be soon built up a strong and prosperous work at this important point.

ELKHART.-Services have been continued with but two Sundays interruption during the summer. The congregations are good, and the prospects bright and encouraging. The city has been growing very rapidly, and the Church people are fully alive to the necessity of earnest, faithful work that they fail not to keep pace with the onward progress.

EVANSVILLE.—The Knight Templars have recently presented to the Rev. Lewis F. Cole a very handsome gold watch in testimony of their regard for him and regret at his leaving.

HAMMOND .- The Rev. Mr. Wall has entered upon the work at this place, including also Crown Point. Under the care of the Rev. Dr. Kemp, of Plymouth, very encouraging progress was made. The mission is regularly organized, and a room suitably furnished in which to hold services. Faithful pastoral work will doubtless develop a strong work.

INDIANAPOLIS.-Holy Innocents Church is continuing a quiet yet steady work. The Sunday-school has been changed to the afternoon at 2:30, and with the result of increased attendance. The Holy Eucharist is celebrated every Sunday at 9:30 A. M., except the first Sunday of the month, when it is at the 10:30 service. The church is open daily, and with morning prayer and litany Wednesdays Howe Grammar School, yet an increased and Fridays and the Eucharist upon holy number of students are in attendance, and days. The effort is to faithfully conform to the order of the Prayer Book in respect of services so far as possible. Papers and books are being gathered as the beginning of a reading room and library, and it is hoped to form one or two classes for instruction in the school-room adjoining the church. The room is open every evening, and any are invited to come in.

"Forward" is evidently the motto of this parish, and the "mind of Christ" the spirit and will of the brethren.

South Bend.-The Rev. Mr. Thompson is very busy with his school, which is in a prosperous condition. Church work is not forgotten, but is progressing with increased interest. A mission will be commenced November 10, with the Rev. H. E. Jephson as missioner. A quiet day in the way of preparation for the mission will be conducted by the Very Rev. Dean Faude. The rector has WORTHINGTON .- Church work is prospering. A new furnace has been placed under the church, and a new organ arranged for. 'A large addition has been added to the cemetary, which has been platted, and lots are being sold. The vestry are endeavoring to arrange for a substantial and merited increase of salary to the rector. The outlook for this parish is very encouraging.

Letter to the Children.

DEAR CHILDREN: Your Bishop is glad to be back in his Diocese and at work. At the services in Grace Church, as a welcome to the Bishop, Bessie Stansifer handed him a dollar for the orphan's fund, and the Bishop learns that Master Bassett, of Holy Innocents, Indianapolis, secured, during his vacation, $13 for the brick fund. That is an indication that the children have not lost interest in the orphanage fund.

The Bishop sincerely hopes that the children are going to take hold with new zeal of the blessed work of securing money for our orphanage building fund. Through Miss Upfold the following sums have been received during the summer:

From Christ Church, Madison, A. B. C., $2; Richard Armstrong, Terre Haute, 50 cents; Christ Church, Indianapolis, A. B. C., $9.75; St. Paul's, Laporte, A. B. C., $6.25; Trinity Church, Fort Wayne, A. B. C., $13.

The Bishop will be glad to hear from any of the children of the Diocese what they are trying to do to help the good work. We can not stay our hand until it is accomplished. The Bishop depends upon the children to aid in this matter, and hopes he will not be disappointed. Let's have a return from your summer work, dear children, in its behalf,

YOUR FRIEND AND BISHOP.

The Principal of the Diocesan School for Girls wishes to add his thanks to the above-A library of good books is necessary to the successful working of a Church school. As the school has no endowment nor other means with which to procure books, the generous response to the appeal of the Knickerbacker Literary Society has been most acceptable. Are there not others throughout t he Diocese that have suitable books for which they have no use? If so, they will be thankfully received by our librarian. Express

THE following table of diocesan contributions from a writer in the Pacific Churchman is of value and interest:

The statement shows the average contributions for Church purposes per capita in the various Dioceses in the United States for the past year. Its careful perusal is specially commended to those pessimistic brethren who are always harping on how much the Church is doing "back East," and who never have an doing "back East, and who never have an encouraging word to say about what we are doing here. If they would only cease this perpetual ding dong "back East," and do all they can to further the work of the Church among us, it would be an immense relief. It will be seen by an examination of the table that the Diocese of Western New York comes first, with an average of $28.87 to the communicant.
The Diocese of Chicago is second, with $28.72, and California is third, with $28.69. The three anapolis; Mrs. C. A. Wymer, of Crawfords-lowest are reported from Springfield, which ville, and Mrs. E. H. Gabe, of Bloomington, for

It will be seen from the above that the Diocese of Indiana takes a very honorable position in the way of giving: an average of $20 per annum per communicant, and nearly $2 above the general average per communicant for the whole church.

DEATH OF ISAAC L. BEACH, OF LA-FAYETTE.

On Wednesday, October 10, Isaac L. Beach, of Lafayette, after a brief illness, fell asleep. His funeral was at St. John's, on Sunday morning, October 14, the church being crowded. Dr. Pettis, Rev. Mr. Wilson, a former pastor, and the Bishop of the Diocese took part in the services.

Mr. Beach, at the time of his decease, was a trustee of the Diocese, and an alderman of the city of Lafayette. He has always taken an active part in the Church and Diocese. He was held in universal esteem in Lafayette as an upright, straightforward business man. and as an exemplary Christian. His family have the sympathy of the entire community in their affliction. The Diocese has lost a generous and faithful worker. No trustee was more regular in attendance at the meetings, or manifested a greater interest in the welfare of the Diocese.

DIOCESAN MISSIONS.

The surplus carried over from last year has been exhausted by payment of mission stipends of July and October quarters. We shall need $700 by the first of January to meet the stipends coming due at that time. What are the clergy doing to organize systematically for reaching every parishoner and securing generous contributions for this fund. No time should be lost Will not the women's auxiliary societies where they are organized undertake to aid in canvassing parishes for

DEATH OF MRS. SWAYNE OF MUNCIE.

This estimable Christian woman passed to her rest about the middle of June, after a long and severe illness, which she bore with patient resignation. She was well known in delightfully surprised at the magnitude of the Richmond and Indianapolis, and had made many friends in Muncie. The funeral service took place at St. Paul's, Richmond, her old parish church.

CHURCH BUILDING FUND.

The Bishop's recommendation, copies of which were recently sent to all of the clergy, contained the fac simile signatures of sixty-two Bishops. Since that time two have been added, those of Bishop Williams, of Japan, and Bishop Coleman, of Delaware. This makes sixty-four Bishops in all, who recommend an annual offering on the second Sunday in November.

GENERAL CHURCH BUILDING FUND.

The second Sunday in November is the time designated for offerings for this million dollar fund, unless it has been previously taken up during the year.

If any of our parishes have failed to take it up—and the acknowledgments thus far made indicate that many have—let it be attended to on that Sunday. It will be creditable to Indiana, if the opportunity is afforded, to allow our people to aid this grand fund. Already it has reached over $150,000, and is steadily increasing.

ORDINATION TO THE DIACONATE.

On the twenty-first Sunday after Trinity, October 21, in St. Paul's Church, New Albany, Frank J. Mallett, late a Methodist minister, was advanced to the Diaconate by Bishop Knickerbacker. The candidate was presented to the Bishop by the Rev. Frederick C. Jewell, rector of St. Paul's Church, Jeffersonville. The sermon was preached by the Bishop, who also celebraced Holy Comminion. A large congregation was present. Mr. Mallett, during his candidateship, has acted as lay reader in St. Paul's, giving entire satisfaction to the congregation. He will continue in charge of the parish during his disconate.

HOWE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

On Friday and Saturday, October 26 and 27, the Bishop visited the Howe Grammar School at Lima, as the guest of Mrs. Howe. He was delightfully surprised at the magnitude of the improvements there in progress. The old with a capacity for seventy-five. The new hall, providing new school room, assembly room, hospital and dormitories for thirty-two boys, is up to the beginning of the third story, and it is expected to have it enclosed before work is suspended for the winter. The basement will have steam heating, and contain bath rooms and closets. It will, in every respect, be a most complete cluster of buildings for school purposes, with every convenience for the work. The buildings form a quad of which any diocese may be proud, and will place it among the first-class schools of the country, The school now has twenty-five boarders. Mr. Spalding has the assistance of a fine corps of teachers, who seem heartily interested in their work. Mrs. Howe has been, indeed, most munificent in her provisions for the accommodation of the school, and deserves the sin cerest gratitude of the diocese. The reputacerest gratitude of the diocese. The reputa-tion of Mr. Spalding as a successful educator of boys is attracting boys from near and far. Among the pupils this year, California, Ne-braska, Illinois, Michigan, Kentucky and our own sate, are represented. There is still room for half a dozen more boys—in the lauditing that are completed. buildings that are completed.

Editorial.

THE Diocese of Milwaukee has called a special council for December 12 to elect a successor to Bishop Welles.

WE are sorry to note the discontinuance of the Kentucky Church Chronicle from lack of financial support. It was one of the best Diocesan papers that came to us.

THE Diocese of Fond du Lac has elected, to fill the place of Bishop Brown, Rev. C. C. Grafton, late of the Church of the Advent, Boston. He has not yet signified his acceptance.

THE House of Bishops elected Rev. J. Kendrick, D. D., of Southern Ohio, as Missionary Bishop of Arizona and New Mexico. Dr. K. is well qualified for the office, and it is earnestly hoped he will accept.

THE CHURCH WORKER is the official organ of the Bishop of the Diocese. All appointments made in the WORKER will be official notice to the clergy of his visitation to their morning, Holy Communion will be celebrated.

LAV PRADERS

The lay readers of the Diocese are requested to make their annual report of service rendered to the Bishop on the first of January. Application for renewal of license is to be made at the same time, endorsed by the rec-

THE Diocese of Southern Ohio has elected for Assistant Bishop, Rev. Boyd Vincent, of Assistant Bishop, Rev. J. Williamson Smith, D. D., President of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn. It is understood that he will accept.

THE Bishop has ordered one thousand mite chests to be used by the children in adding to the Orphanage fund. They will be ready by the first of the New Year and the first opening will be at Easter. They will be distributed largely through the Sunday-schools. It is hoped to get one in every Church family. Families may be supplied by applying to Miss Emily L. Upfold, 546 N. Donations of groceries and provisions, we feel sure, will be acceptable at such a time, and be an assurance of appreciation of their services that will be stimulating and encouraging. Few families but can spare something from their store that will make glad the Mrs. A. T. Irving, contains valuable informahome of their pastor at this blessed season.

THE second annual Missionary Council of the General Board of Missions, held in Washington, was most delightful and profitable. The presence of upwards of twenty-five of the Bishops of the Church added especial interest. The reports of the secretary showed that the receipts for missions had been larger than ever before and sufficient to meet every obligation of the Board and to close the year dear Church in Indiana. DIOCESAN ASSESSMENTS

Two quarters assessments are now due, and the Diocese of Pittsburgh. It is probable he the treasurer is greatly in need of the money will accept. The Diocese of Ohio has elected for to meet pressing Diocesan claims. Will not rectors and vestrymen attend to the matter at once and make remittances to the treasurer. Let us conduct the Dionesan finances on good business principles. There is no good reason why Church business should not be conducted on straightforward business principles. A little attention on the part of those whose business it is to look after these things in our parishes will make a most satisfactory condition of finances in this Diocese.

THE beginning of the year is a good time to subscribe for a Church paper. The Living Church, Chicago; the Churchman, New York City; the Standard of the Cross, Philadelphia, It is a good custom prevailing in many are all good weekly papers. One or the other of them should be in every Church family. The Spirit of Missions, organ of the General Board of Missions, published monthly at 22 Bible House, New York City, at $1 per annum, supplies invaluable information about the mission work of the Church, and should be taken by each Church family. For the Church Worker ST. JAMES', VINCENNES.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew, in this parish, is preparing to celebrate the first anniversary of their organization on St. Andrew's day. And with a view of creating a more general interest in this work throughout the Diocese, it is their hope and aim to make their anniversary something more than of local interest. It is designed to have the following services and meetings.

Holy Communion 9:30 A. M.; business ses sion in the afternoon, and evening sermon and addresses at 7:80 P. M., followed by an informal reception. Rev. Mr. Stanley, of Terre Haute, is to preach the sermon.

With a view to making the occasion of general interest to the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, the Bishop and each of the rectors in the Dio-Saturday, November 3, went to Richmond. eese having branches of Brotherhoods in their parishes have been urged to come and the rectors requested to bring with them delegations of their young.

Mr. W. G. Mather, of Cleveland, who is appointed by the General Council of the Brotherhood to the work of promoting new Chapters and of assisting and advising Chapters already organized, has also been urged to come.

Of how much general interest the Brotherhood will be able to make this meeting will depend upon how many attend from other parishes in the Diocese. Any way, there being only four Chapters of this society in the Diocese, they thought it worth the while to make the effort

In any event, the brotherhood in Vincennes will have their anniversary, and Rev. Mr. Stanley will preach the sermon.

Up to the present time, more than one hundred children have been enrolled at St. John's Mission School, North Vincennes. The school is in a very gratifying condition.

On Friday, October 9, Major and Mrs. W. P. Gould returned to Vincennes, after a year's absence on a tour around the world. They were given a reception at the rectory on Thursday evening, November 1, by the ladies of the parish, at which time many called to give them the welcome back that all feel.

A thing very much to be desired in connection with the mission work in North Vincennes, is a reading-room and free library. With a view to contributing something to this building fund, Major Gould will deliver a lecture in Vincennes sometime during the month of November on this subject: " Some Memories of a Tour Around the World."

The Sunday-school of St. James' parish has made the following new departure in the Sunday-school work of the parish: On the first Sunday in each month, instead of the regular Sunday-school exercises in the Sunday-school room, the children, with their teachers, assemble in the church, when evening prayer is read after which a half hour is devoted to a review of the Bible lessons gone over during the month past, and to a short sermon to the chil-dren. The review of the lesson, as well as the sermon, being given by the rector. At the close of the service an offering is taken up for Diocesan Missions, each child placing his or her offerings in an offertory envelope given them the Sunday previous. The plan seems

THE DEAF-MUTE MISSION.

The Rev. A. W. Mann, General Missionary, spent Sunday, November 18, in Indianapolis, holding three services, two at the state school, where 350 deaf-mute children are being educated. At the third service, held at Christ Church, at four o'clock P. M., he administered the sacrament of Holy Baptism to seven of those pupils from different parts of the Diocese, and gave them prayer books. On the following Monday, after taking the morning prayers at the school and visiting a few of the classes, Mr. Mann went to Terre Haute and held a service in the evening at St. Stephen's Church, At the "combined service," held with the Rev. Mr. McGloney, the following evening at St. Matthew's, Worthington, he baptized a deaf-mute man from Switz City. After the service, Wednesday evening, in the beautiful Viele memorial chapel of St. Paul's Church, Evansville, Mr. Mann went to Aurora and Lawrenceburg, where combined services were held, with the assistance of the Rev. D. B. Ramsey.

SPECIAL OFFER.

[From Bishop Brown's Annual Address.]

Preaching, no doubt, has its peculiar and most important uses. To reach men's hearts we must, somehow, reach their ears. But the formation of Christian character needs more than the voice of the preacher. Sermons alone will not educate the soul. Each child needs the close study of a loving pastor, the spiritual ministrations of a devout priest, the steady guiding, checking, encouragement and holy example that are possible only by years of familiar intercourse. Two or three years' residence in a parish can merely begin to bring the pastor into proper relations with his peo-ple, especially if the conditions of social life have elements in them so strange as those of which I have spoken. I desire to have the Institution office, as provided in the prayer book, used on the entrance of a rector into a parish, so that the people throughout the diocese may understand the Church's mind in this matter. The relation of pastor and people is not of an ordinary business character. There is nothing of quid pro quo in it, not so many prayers and so many sermons for so many dollars. The priest that assumes the care of souls, is bound priest that assumes the care of sound, is bound before God to care for them to the very best of his ability, according to the mind of God, and without the slightest regard to pecuniary considerations. He is bound to minister the sacraments as soundly, as conformed in every respect to the mind of Christ, in a hovel or in a prison, as in a church or a palace. He must preach the truth as fully and as persuain the preact the truth as fully and as persua-sively in a school-house or cottage as in the pulpit of the Cathedral. He must love the laborer's children as the children of those at ease—must baptize them, prepare them for confirmation and Holy Communion, and must enter heartily into their joys and sorrows, enter nearthy into their joys and sorrows.

Any negligence in pastoral work is negligence in God's work. It is failure in duty to God—not to man merely. The Christian pastor may not say: It will put me to great trouble to visit that poor sick man, I will get trouble to visit that poor sick man, I will get no moneyed reward for it—perhaps expose myself to contagion. He must remember that he is to do what the Great Sheperd would that he is to do what the Great Sheperd would do if He were yet on earth. No man without the heart for all these things, has any right to seek the holy priesthood. And even above and beyond this, the Church, in the solemn mostikon which she bids the Bishop make to mostikon which she bids the Bishop make to the truth that he made priesthood, enforces the truth that he made in the priesthood, enforces the truth that he made in the priesthood is to be and labora to the dividil flood build have been and labora to the dividil flood build have been and labors to the dutiful flock that may undertake labors to the dubril flock that may undertake in orderly ways to provide for his support and comfort, but must "seek for Christs's sheep that are scattered abroad, and for His children who are in the midst of this naughty world, that they may be saved." He belongs to Christ always and everywhere His time and streamth as not be beught for the to this inways and everywhere the time and strength can not be bought for any price by any congregation. This is the high ideal that the Church puts before all her pastors. This is the office which she insists that they This is the office which she insists that they shall carry with them into all parishes and mis-sionary fields. She makes them priests, and puts them under stringent vows to do all these things before she allows them to become rectors, missionaries and pastors, and they can accept special duties and ministrations only as subject to the conditions and obligations of their priesthood.

CANNELTON .- From St. Luke's comes the following words of cheer from the new rector, Mr. Avery: "After careful observation I find much to encourage and little reason to doubt that patient and persistent labor will meet with an adequate return. I have visited repeatedly all the families in the parish, and have been most cordially received. The services have been fairly attended, and the numbers are slowly increasing. The Sunday-school especially is doing well, and I have added a Bible class, under my own instruction, for the benefit of the more advanced pupils."

COLUMBUS, St. PAUL'S .- On Friday evening, November 23, the Bishop visited this mission, where a lot has been secured and money holding service at 7 P. M., and preaching. A raised for a church, which is to be built in the good congregation was present. During the spring of 1889. brief ministry of Dr. Brown, the church was greatly improved in its interior appearance, and chancel furniture added. The Bishop found the people greatly discouraged and disheartened by the sudden departure of Dr. Brown, in July. He had aroused a deep interest in behalf of the Church and excited hopes of future development and growth that were suddenly blighted by his departure from choir and the Bible classes received various them. A few faithful women have for years, by their zealous efforts, kept alive a flickering of the Church people in Garrett. flame. The Bishop endeavored to encourage them to a renewed effort, and appointed a committee to secure pledges for the support the early history of Emmanual Church. of a clergyman. It is hoped their efforts may prove successful.

EVANSVILLE, HOLY INNOCENTS'.- Rev. Mr. Cole resigned this church November 1, after a rectorship of three years and one month. During his rectorship he has baptized 90, buried 56, married 21 couples, presented 40 for confirmation, including outlying stations. He has had a monthly service at St. Stephen's, New Harmony. The church there has been reshingled, papered, painted and carpeted, and put in most excellent order. A monthly service was conducted at Mount Vernon, also The Ladies' Guild have $100 to their credit towards a lct fund. A general regret was expressed at Mr. Cole's resignation of this field.

FRANKFORT, St. LUKE'S .- Rev. Mr. Lassiter had the walls of the church kalsomined before leaving there, giving it a brighter and more finished appearance. It is hoped to secure a clergyman here at no distant day.

GARRETT. - EMMANUEL CHURCH, Garrett, built in 1877, chiefly by the gifts of President Garrett (of the B. & O. R. R.) and of the railroad officers, was fast becoming a ruin, when, in January, 1887, the Rev. Mr. Jephson took charge of it. The windows had been all broken, and the furniture in part, records destroyed, and only one communicant was to be found in Garrett. The church was put in order, and the first service held February 6, 1887. The work of rector and people since that time has been greatly blessed. Eleven stained glass windows, two very fine chandeliers, many thereby been made more comfortable for the time with the building of stone. The enlarge-

They have, as the fruit and reward of their labors, a church rich and beautiful, with sweet and sacred memorials of loved ones now in Paradise, and blessed with memories of solemn and heart-stirring service and earnest prayers and vows.

MICHIGAN CITY.—On Sunday, September 2, 1888, Dean Faude, of Trinity Church, Michigan City, commemorated the seventh anniversary of his rectorship of that parish. From his sermon, preached on that occasion, we gather the following interesting items: The Easter offering is always appropriated for missions, Diocesan and general, and special effort is made to have it represent the fruits of sincere selfdenial during Lent. The total offerings for missions in the seven years has been $4,016.26. leading every other parish in the Diocese. By making the Easter offering for missions presents as tokens and memorials of the love he has emphasized the importance of missions as being the chief work and glory of the Church. He speaks with gratitude of the erection of Barker Hall. Its erection and furniture has increased the value of the Church property $12,000. During his rectorship the rectory, Church grounds and Church building have been greatly improved, and a new organ, altar brasses, font and two sets of altar and lecturn hangings have been added, making an outlay of $5,000. Three thousand dollars has been subscribed, and the greater part paid, as the parish quota of the Endowment Fund. He pays in his sermon a fitting tribute to the Ladies' Society, the Young Ladies' Guild, and St. Andrew's Brotherhood for their cordial co-operation in every good work. The daily service and sermon in Lent, the weekly communion are spoken of as great helps in the spiritual development of the parish. During the year previous he had baptized 12 adults castle, and has accepted the appointment of and 15 infants, presented 30 for confirmation, ing at once upon his duties. St. John's, administered communion to the sick 7 times, taught a Bible class, led the choir, carried on two hours at Barker Hall. The whole record is one to be very thankful for, and we heartily congratulate the rector on the results of his seven years' labor. In the sermon he adverted to the great work before the parish the coming year in the erection of a new church building. To make this venture a successful one in every particular requires much more than the raising of the necessary funds. The INDIANAPOLIS.—Holy Innocents' Church and building not made with hands eternal in the work, and our working force, the increase of of numbers, the beautifying of our servicesall this, and much more, is the necessary attendant of the new and larger church, and to prepare for this he proposes a parochial mission, frequent reception of the Holy Communion, and regular and faithful attendance on the services, careful attention to the music of the Church, and to the cultivation of the social life of the parish.

NEW CASTLE.-St. James: On Sunday, November 4, a Harvest Home thanksgiving was observed in this church. The church was beautifully decorated with fruits and flowers for the occasion. The rector preached an appropriate sermon. The Ladies' Society realized $35 recently by entertaining the public on their rallying days. They are hoping to get both natural and illuminating gas put into the resignation by Rev. J.G. Miller of these parthe church, and make other improvements. Through his persevering personal efforts, aided by the parishioners, the old rectory has been repaired, painted and papered, and made more comfortable and attractive as a rectory. The people have responded willingly and generously. The church has also been put in good repair and fitted for natural gas.

PLYMOUTH .- The Sunday-school here is increasing in numbers so as to fill the church. On the first Sunday in November 117 scholars were present.

RICHMOND, ST. PAUL'S .- Rev. Joseph A. Blanchard will conduct a mission in this parish during the first week in Advent. Mr. Blanchard comes at the request of the Church Parochial Mission Society. He has the reputation of an able and faithful preacher. The prayers of the faithful are asked for God's blessing on the mission.

St. George's Mission is working for a fund to support a clergyman of their own, and thus become independent of the mother parish.

ST. PHILIP'S MISSION. - The Industrial School opened November 2. The attendance is constantly increasing, and as the strict rule

Twenty-six dollars was cleared for carpeting the chapel and other purposes. The Ladies Aid Society has adopted the plan of meeting once in two weeks, the ladies bringing work and sewing till tea time, when the gentlemen are invited to take tea with them. The Woman's Auxiliary have just filled a barrel of clothing to be sent to Bishop Leonard for his mission work.

St. John's, Bristol, and St. Paul's, Misha-WAKA .- It is with great regret we announce ishes. He has served them faithfully for three years. He has baptized in both charges fiftyfive souls, and presented forty-six for confirmation. He has raised the full quota for Diocesan endowment in both places, and has both churches greatly improved in their appearance. The people part from him with sincere regret, and he will carry with him to his new work the good wishes and prayers of his Bishop and brethren.

SOUTH BEND .-- Rev. Mr. Jephson held a mission in St. James' in November. The attendance upon the mission was fully up to the capacity of the church building. The influence of the mission must be good in increasing the spiritual life of the parish and awakening many souls to a realization of their responsibility to their God and His Church. The Bishop is to visit the parish in December for confirmation. Mr. Jephson, the missioner, has entered upon his new work in Toledo.

VINCENNES, St. JAMES' .- On St. Andrew's Day the first anniversary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was observed with fitting services. Holy Communion was celebrated at the morning service. The Bishop has learned that the Mission at South Bend was greatly blessed. The Mission closed Wednesday, November 21, with a grand thanksgiving and reconsecration service. At the celebration of Holy Communion, at 10 A. M., fifty-seven were present; thirteen were baptized during the Mission, and a class of thirty are preparing for confirmation. REV. E. G. HUNTER, of Holy Innocents', Indianapolis, has issued a little pamphlet entitled, "Practical Questions on the Church Catechism," with golden text, central thought and scripture illustration of each lesson, to which are added questions and answers on the following subjects: 1. The Bible; 2. The Prayer book; 3. Church history; 4. The Church seasons, with a second part containing brief lessons on the Collects, Epistles and Gospels.

This is a most admirable catechism, and has grown out of Mr. Hunter's experience of the needs of his own Sunday-school work. The clergy will find it very useful in their Sundayschools. It can be had of Mr. Hunter. In his preface he says: "The object of this manual is to give, in a concise and practical form, a brief analysis of the essential truth of the Gospel ofC hrist, as set forth in the Church Catechism, with such other matter as would

CLERICAL CHANGES.

It is a great privilege to testify to the loyalty of two of our clergy recently in standing by Indiana, though both were called to other Dioceses at greatly advanced salaries. May the good Lord remember and reward them.

The frequent changes and removals of the clergy is one of the greatest trials of the diana than the building up of a strong educa-Bishop. It is in most cases detrimental to the work. Whilst there may be in many Church. We must have room for forty or cases a lack of loyal and hearty support on the part of the people, in holding up the hands of the clergy, and standing by them, there is often also a lack of appreciation on the part of the clergy of what is being done in their behalf, and a readiness to sunder pastoral ties that is much to be lamented. The or $11,000 for the whole. Upon it, next seawork of the ministry requires often sacrifice son, they hope to erect a noble structure that and self-denial and faithful and patient continuance. A good deal of lack of support arises from lack of ordinary business capacity and management on the part of the clergyman: from neglect of the use of instrumentalities for bringing out the financial strength and support of the people. In many parishes it would be much better if the women of the congregation were utilized in the management of its finances. We know of some parishes in the Diocese where there has been great improvement brought about by choosing lady treasurers who had the time and willing aces to look after the finances. In many cases they supplement the feeble efforts of the busyvestrymen who have no time to look after parish and Church affairs, and prevent parish bankruptcy. It is desirable to utilize every lawful means in parochial success.

RIGHT DIRECTION.

The Trustees of the Diocese of Indiana have authorized the purchase of 220 by 200 feet. corner of Central avenue and Seventh street, Indianapolis, as a new site for the Young Ladies' Institute, the Cathedral and Orphanage. This is considered a very eligible location, easy of access by three street railroad lines in a growing and populous part of the city, not heretofore reached by the Church. It will give 100 by 200 feet for the Girl's School, 60 by 114 for Orphanage and 100 by 140 for Cathedral site. The necessity was forced upon them from the fact that our Girl's School in the second year of its organization as a boarding school has reached the limit of its capacity. LAY READERS.

The Bishop has received a number of reports from lay readers, showing a large amount of work done by them in the Diocese. A good deal more could be accomplished if in every parish and mission, the clergy would look out proper persons, train them in reading the services, and call upon them for assistance in reading the lessons and prayers and establishing stations where their services could be utilized. Every Christian layman should be willing to render this service for Christ and His Church. The clergy should not hesitate in pressing home the obligation.

THE Bishop would call the altention of the clergy of the Diocese to the annual retreat to be held, for their especial benefit, at Grace valuable piece of land at what is considered Church, February 20 and 21, to be conducted by Bishop McLaren. His hope is that there may be a full attendance. He requests that all who intend to be present will inform him as soon as possible that hospitality may be pro-

Bisbon's Visitations.

On the festival of the Epiphany, Sunday, January 6, the Bishop visited Christ Church, Indianapolis, in the morning, preached and celebrated Holy Communion. The new reccerebrated Holy Communion. The new rec-tor, Rev. J. H. Ranger, is getting his work well in hand and steadily growing in the esti-mation of his people. A Church Club has recently been organized of the young people of the parish. They have taken hold with enof the parish. They have taken hold with enthusiasm, and intend fitting up the chappel of Racine, thusiasm, and intend fitting up the chappel of Racine will stand by it. Under the wise neatly. The Woman's Auxiliary held a am dable management of the Bishop of Chimost interesting meeting at the Episcopal resc eage, of the Chappel of Racine, and the wise services of the Chappel of Racine, and the work of the wise services and able management of the Bishop of Chimost interesting meeting real real rescaled for the college. Services of the college of the colleg mittee was appointed to canvass the parish for means to secure a rectory and parish house. It is pleasant to chronicle these signs of progress in the mother parish of the city.

On the evening of Epiphany the three congregations, Christ's, St. Paul's and Grace met in a united missionary meeting in Grace Cathedral. The church was crowded, the service nicely rendered, and interesting missionary addresses were given by the Bishop, Dr. Jenckes and Mr. Ranger. An offering was made for Foreign Missions of nearly $17. It is intended to have these united gatherings in the different churches quarterly, if practica-ble, for the discussion and presentation of missionary work and intelligence.

On the 9th of January, the Bishop was called again to visit Southern Ohio, to hold confirmation in St. Stephen's Church, Winton Place, Rev. C. S. Sargent, rector. The Bishop's rela-tion to this parish is a very close one, because of the frequency he has been called to visit it during the disability of Bishop Jaggar.

The mission was organized about the time of the Bishop's disability and the only confirmations ever held have been by the Bishop of Indiana. He had the privilege of ordaining the rector, Deacon and Priest, of laying the corner-stone of their beautiful church and consecrating it. On this occasion a large congregation was present. The Bishopepreached and confirmed a class of eight persons. At a re-ception at the rectory after the service, the Bishop was very happily surprised by the presentation of an elegant sermon cover by the parishoniers, made by the sisters of St. John Baptist, N. Y. The rector, in appropriate words, expressed the kindly feeling and appreciation of his people and their desire in this way to testify to the value of the services that had

Saturday, January 12, the Bishop went to Crawfordaville to spend Sunday, and was the guest of Mrs. E. A. Binford, the Iriend of Bishops Upfold and Talbot. and for many years a devoted member of St. John's. On Sunday after Epiphany, January 13, the Bishop said morning prayer, preached and celebrated Holy Communion, twenty-three receiving.

Atternoon, at 250 be catechised the Sunday, loron the ministry, by school, and in the evening, after service said by the lay reader, Mr. Bell, preached. There was a good attendance at all the services. Mr. Bell deserves great credit for his faithfulness in caring for the Sunday-school and reading service and sermon every Sunday. Monda January 14, the Bishop celebrated Holy Con Monday, munion in private for an aged and invalid member of the parish, Mrs. Winn. On the Monday before, the Bishop said the burial service at the funeral of Mrs. Ingersoll, an aged communicant of the parish, mother of the senior warden and sister of Mrs. Biaford. The large congregation present at the funeral The large congregation present act an uneral testified to the respect in which the deceased was held. It is hoped that a glergyman may be secured for St. John's at an early day.

Tuesday, January 15, the Bishop was in Chicago in attendance on an important meeting of the Trustees of Racine College. Important measures were instituted for placing the affairs of the college in a much better condition than it has been, and strengthening the confidence of the Church in it as a grand educational center.

The Bishop of Chicago was appointed war-den for the present, with Mr. Arthur Piper, as assistant. Mr.Wade, a graduate of Racine, was appointed rector of the Grammar School.

pleasant surprise awaited him in a hearty re-ception by all the parishioners gathered at the home of Mrs. C. C. Kramer. An hour was spent delightfully, when we accompanied the treasurer of the mission, Mr. French, to his home where we were hospitably entertained during our stay. On Sunday morning at 9:30 we visited the Sunday-school, and were glad we visited the Stinday-School, and were given to find it kept up under Mr. Henry Kramer, lay reader and superintendent. Catechised the children. At 10:30, a good congregation was present, the Bishop said the service, preached and celebrated the Holy Commun ion, twenty-five receiving. At 7 P. M., the Bishop said evening prayer and preached. A larger congregation was present than in the morning. There is a good spirit prevailing in the mission and a determination to have a clergyman at an early day. Since my last visit the church had been greatly improved by kalsomining with appropriate texts.

PAROCHIAL PROSPERITY.

What are the conditions of parochial pros-"What will make our parish pros perity? How many men and women have said per?" How many men and women have said that! But what answer have they made? The answer nine times out of ten, we venture to say, is: "Oh, if we only had the right sort of man for rector."

Year after year that is what those of certain Year after year that is what those of Certain parishes say to the Bishop, to neighboring rectors and others. Their parish has never really prospered. There has been life and really prospered. There has been life and growth, of a sort, but of a sort only. The fact is the Church is hard to kill. The story is that a certain deacon of " the standing ord in Connecticut, used to warn his fellow-relig ionists against letting the Episcopal Church once get a foot hold, for, he was wont to say, "it is like the Canada thistle, easy to get but impossible to get rid of." He was right. It is a hardy plant. But, alas! it is only too often ptanted in a hardand ungenial soil. How sad the sight of its slow growth and stunted life in many a field.

And in such places the reason given for lack And in such places to they "have not had the right sort of men." It is true enough. They have not had the right sort of men, particularly not the right sort of laymen. A great deal of course depends upon the clergy; much also depends upon the laity. In our towns and smaller cities especially is this the case. In such places the prosperity of the Church depends upon the character of the people that are looked upon as its representatives. It will prosper wherever it has the right sort of men—l ymen. Herein is to be found the chief cause of parochial success and lack of success. There is the parish at ____, it has prospered from the beginning. Why? Because it has had in it the elements of prosperity. It had laymen of the right sort. And there is the parish at ____, it has really never prospered, and humanly speaking, it is not likely to for many a year yet; not until different men come to the front there. St Dives has had a long succession of rectors. It has always believed in a succession in the ministry. It has a history. It is not a happy one.

As it has been, so it is likely to be at _____, at least until in the ordering of an all-wise Providence it has a different sort of men it it.

A WELL-KNOWN financier in New York, who died lately, was noted during life for lavish wisdom which he gave to individuals, to charitable and religious purposes—in a word to every worthy cause. On one occasion he said, every worthy cause. On one occasion ne said, very bluntly, "You mistake. I am not generous. But when I was young man I had sense enough to see how mean and bellittling such a position was and I forced myself to give. At dimissory of Rev. D. Pettis from Bishop of a postudu was an 1 forced myself to give. A first I declare to you, it was hard for me to practive that the penny; but I persisted until the habit of liberality was formed. There is no Hammond, and licensed Mr. W. A. Van Bu-yoke like that of habit. Now I like to give."

On Sunday of the New Year, Epiphany, the congregations were large, and again a large number remaining for the Holy Sacrament. Holy Innocents' is still vacant, but will soon have a rector. The Chapel of the Good Shepherd still has a flourishing Sunday-school.

Fr. WAYNE .- Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Pyke tendered a reception at their West Berry street home, last evening, in honor of Rector A. W. Seabrease, of Trinity Episcopal Church, and for the first time, last Tuesday evening, amid his wife. The calling hours were from 7 to 10 o'clock, and during that time their friends and the parishoners of old Trinity streamed in and blessed Father, Son and Holy Ghost. out of the pleasant home offering their greetings to Rev. Mr. Seabrease and his wife. The Trinity Church congregation is highly pleased with the new rector and they speak in the highest praise of him as a pulpit orator. "In fact," said on of the vestrymen, "he crowds the church at every service, and that has been an unusual thing with us."

I began a course of lectures on the Church the 2d Sunday after Epiphany, in the evening, to continue six Sunday evenings.

Indianapolis, St. Paul's .- On Monday night, January 7, this beautiful Chapel was nearly destroyed by fire. The roof and interior wood-work burnt out, and the organ destroyed, leaving only the bare walls. An insurance of $1,000 on the building and $800 on the organ will prevent serious loss. We learn that it is intended to rebuild it. The WORKER extends its sympathy in this calamity.

Madison.-Christ Church had a glorious commemoration of the Christmas Festival; the church tastefully decorated, the music very grand, and a good congregation. The rector has the hearty esteem and cordial cooperation of his people.

"THE BISHOP IGNORES THEM EN-TIRELY.

So wrote a person who had lately moved into a vacant parish Now let us tell the story of this "ignoring." First, the Bishop had vis-ited that parish in its vacancy and counseled the vestry as to filling the rectorship, ond, for some time after the late rector left, the parish had declined to take any action. Third, an opportunity had offered to secure temporary services, but the vestry would not receive them. Fourth, the Bishop has been receive them. Frourth, the Bishop has been trying to find a rector, and has given the vestry names, but with a small salary and no rectory it is no easy thing; to supply a parish. Is the "ignoring them entirely?" Now, we do not blame the writer of this painful charge. No doubt this had been said to her when she asked why the parish was vacant.

This is not the first time we have heard this charge. Parishes, either by necessity or penuriousness, make the support inadequate save from a very limited class of the clergy; and then it is the Bishop's fault that they lie vacant. Do people think that the Bishop, military commander, can order out a Priest or Deacon, his word of command to be an-swered; I go Sir? It is hard enough to be wearied and worried day and night about

Unless you are satisfied that this is the case, believe me, (and pardon my plain-ness) you will be guilty of the sin of schism, which, however it may be considered by the which, nowever it may be considered by the world, is, by an inspired apostle, called "a deadly sin." FOREIGN MISSIONS AND THE CLERGY.

"The fault lies largely at the door of the There is reason to fear that many of clergy. them do not believe in Foreign Missions, and take very little interest in those nearer home.
The zeal in missionary work in any congregation will generally be about on a level with that which the rector feels, and when we look over the long list of non-contributing par-ishes, and note the ratio in many others of the missionary offerings to the sums expended for music and church adornment, we can not but conclude that the binding nature of our in one of their homes, and communicate with Lord's command, 'Go ye into all the world, the Bishop or nearest clergyman, they will

The Advent appeal of the Board of Mis-

TO THE GLERGY OF THE DIOCESE.

The Bishop would especially call the attention of the clergy of the Diocese to the quotas apportioned to the parishes and missions as given in the last WORKER, and ask their hearty co-operation in securing a good proportion of it at as early a day as possible.

The work of Diocesan Church extension is one of the most important interests committed to our care. Upon the liberality with which it is appreciated depends the success of our beloved Church in Indiana

The Diocese has done nobly in the past few years. This interest must not be suffered to lag nor the Diocese to lessen its interest, It should rather be on the increas

The raising of the quotas will depend on the interest of the clergy in furthering it. There should be a committee appointed in each parish to secure as the least sum needed the quota given. It should not be put off until the latter part of the conventional year but taken up at once and pressed to a successful issue. Dear brethren, is is too much for your Bishop to ask your immediate attention to the business? He feels the responsibility resting upon him in behalf of this work. Good and true men are laboring in the Diocesan missionary field. The means to meet their scanty stipends should not be wanting. Your people, when made aware of its importance and their responsibility, we feel sure will respond generously. The proper persons can surely be found who, for Christ's sake and His Church. will act as solicitors. Asking your immediate attention, I remain,

Your servant for Christ's sake, D. B. KNICKERBACKER. Bishop of Indiana.

ENCOURAGEMENT.

During the past month the Bishop has had three applications from towns not occupied by the Church for the establishment of regular services. In one case the effort will be made at once to secure a room and start a Sunday. school. The Bishop was glad to furnish the necessary prayer-books, catechisms and service books. In another, a Churchwoman desires to prepare a class for confirmation, and asks for prayer-books and instruction books, that the Bishop gladly sent. In another, an earnest Churchwoman has found about twenty-five persons friendly to the Church. and desires the occasional services of a missionary to minister to them. In all of these places the Bishop has held an annual service. and they have had little else. Of course the Bishop was glad to ask a missionary to visit this last place, and he will gladly do it. This only shows what earnest and willing hearts can do if they will. Wherever there is a handful of Church people, if they would find each other out, gather a little Sunday-school and preach the Gospel to every creature,' is gladly be looked after. Their spiritual mother, the Church, is ready and desirous to minister to them.

PARISH ASSESSMENTS.

We clip the following from the Minnesota Missionary, from which it is plain to be seen that other Dioceses are suffering like our own from carelessness and neglect of parishes to pay their quarterly assessments to the Diocesan Treasurer. The Treasurer requests the WORKER to call the attention of our clergy and vestries to the necessity of prompt payment of quarterly obligations. He is greatly embarrassed by their neglect to do so. Vestries and parish treasurers will greatly oblige earnest Churchman seeking the truth and the him and make the burdens of his freely reasons for customs which are new to him: I to the notices he has sent to them informing spirit to him. them of the amounts due at this time to the Diocese:

The report of the Treasurer of the Diocese has been handed us for publication, but it came a little too late to find space. The report shows neglect on the part of some parishes which ought not to be. The apportionments are made in accordance with the means of the parish or mission, and there is little excuse for either large or small parishes neglecting to pay their amounts regularly and promptly each quarter as was resolved should be done at the last annual council. The third quarter of the assessments is now due. Yet very many of the parishes have not yet paid for the first quarter. A glance at the report shows that among those who have been the most prompt to pay are the smaller parishes and missions, who, though poor, have been favored with a business-like treasurer or rec-This neglect is causing others to suffer. for. TO "AN OLD CHURCHMAN."

The editor will try to explain some of the things you ask about.

The black gown formerly worn was simply academic and not ecclesiastical. It was a badge of scholarship. The clergy of to-day prefer to preach in the garments of their high offices as ambassadors of Christ, and not in those of mere scholurshin

The stole has been used from the earliest ages of the Christian Church as an emblem of the Yoke of Christ, to be visibly worn by His ministry. If it was ever disused in the Amercican Church, it was through carelessness or ignorance.

The clergyman keeps his back to the people whilst at the altar because he is not praying to the people but to God. He stands in front of them as their leader, as together they appear before God, and offers their petitions.

The reasons for the eastward positions are given in another column.

The alms and elements are presented to God as a solemn offering accompanying prayer. They are not simply put upon the altar with one hand in a hurried, careless way. but rever ntly and devoutly as befits religious acts. They are elevated so that the people may follow their offering with their eyes as well as their hearts

The use of one cup instead of two, as sometimes practiced, is after the example of Our Blessed Lord's Institution. He used only the one cup.

The forbidding the congregation to say aloud the Lord's Prayer at the opening of the Communion service was done by the last General Convention. But this merely enforced what should always have been the custom, for that and the following prayer are for the clergyman's own use, particularly before engaging further in his holy office.

In answering these questions I have taken for granted that the questioner is a devout, given services easier by giving early attention have not imputed any carping or querrulous now six chapters, with a membership of

remember that what may be new to us is perhaps old enough in itself; that in spite of our natural predjudices all old customs are not necessary or good, and, contrariwise, all new customs are not unnecessary or bad, but that we must expect progress and development in the Church as in the world, if not saleen or

CONSECRATION OF REV. DR. KEN-DRICK FOR NEW MEXICO AND AR-

This interesting and important event took place in Trinity Church, Columbus, Ohio, Friday, January 18. Morning prayer was said at 9:30 A. M. At 11 the consecration service proper took place, Bishop Tuttle being the consecrator, assisted by the Bishops of Kentucky, Assistant Bishop of Central Pennsylvania and the Bishop of Indiana. The attending Presbyters were the Rev. Dr. Tinsley. of the Church of the Advent, Cincinnati, and Dr. Bodine, President of Kenyon College. The presentors were the Bishops of Kentucky and Indiana. The preacher, Dr. Rulison, Assistant Bishop of Central Pennsylvania. About thirty clergymen were present in the chancel in their vestments. A large congregation was The Bishop of Missouri was celebrant, the Bishop of Indiana being Epistoller. and the Bishop of Kentucky Gospeller. Judge. Prince, of New Mexico, read the testimonials of election; the Bishop of Indiana the authority from Presiding Bishop to consecrate. Dr. Kendrick takes the place of the lamented Bishop Dunlop, and is eminently qualified for this important mission field.

OUR DEAF MUTE MISSION.

Rev. A. W. Mann, our deaf mute missionary, spent Sunday, January 20, in Indianapolis, holding services for the mutes and baptizing four pupils of the State School. He has a class of seven awaiting confirmation on Septuagesima Sunday. The Church has no more faithful worker than Mr. Mann. His mission to the children of silence through out the West is a most important one.

We see by his annual report he only received from Indiana in offerings $23.67, besides his stipend of $125 from the Diocesan Board. During the year he has held 182 services in 63 parishes; celebrated 39 baptisms, presented 20 for confirmation, solemnized 4 marriages. Services in the thirteen years of his ministry, 1,893; baptisms, 458; marriages, 46; parishes served, 260. Present number of communicants, 340. Services, last year, 172; baptisms, 64; confirmations, 41; marriages, 3.

On St. Andrew's Day the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, in Cleveland, Ohio, held their third anniversary service in Grace Church, Cleveland. There was an excellent attendance throughout the session. The growth of this society has been most encouraging. In 1884, there was but one chapter. In 1888, four there was but one chapter. In 1888, four years time, there were 244 chapters, with a membership of 4,400. In Cleveland there are

THE EAST

In the aspect of their churches, the ancient Oristians reversed the order of the Jews, placing the altar in the east, so that in facing towards the altar in their devotions they were turned to the east. As the Jews began their day with the setting sun, so the followers of Christ began theirs with the rising sun. The eye of the Christian turned with peculiar in-terest to the east whence The Day Spring from terest to the east whence The Day Spring from on High had visited him. There the morning star of his hope fixed his admiring gaze. Thence arose the Sun of Righteousness with all heavenly influences. Thither, in prayer, his soul turns with kindling emotions to the altar of his God. And even in his grave, in quiet expectation of awakening to behold in the same direction the second appearing of his Lord, when He shall come in the clouds of heaven to grather His saints. heaven to gather His saints.

In the ancient Church it was a ceremony of general use and practice, the turning of the face to the east in their solemn adorations, which custom seems derived from the cere-mony of baptism, when it was usual to re-nounce the devil with the face to the west, and then turn to the east and make the covenant with Christ. Several reasons are given by the fathers for this. First, as the east, the place of day-spring from darkness, was the symbol of Christ, "the Sun of Righteousness." Secondly, as it was the place of Paradise, lost by the fall of the first Adam, and to be regained by the second Adam. Thirdly, that Christ made His appearance, on earth, in the east; thence ascended into heaven; and thence will again come at the last day. And fourthly, that the east, as the seat of light and brightness, was the most honorable part of the creation, and, therefore, peculiarly ascribed to God, the fountain of light and illuminator of all things; as the west was ascribed to the devil, because he hides the light and brings darkness on men to their de-

When we repeat the Creed, it is customary to turn towards the east, that so, whilst we are making profession of our faith in the Blessed Trinity, we may look towards that quarter of the heavens where God is supposed to have His peculiar residence of glory.-Wheatly.

Turning toward the east is an ancient custom, as indeed the most religious men have directed their worship some peculiar way. And this practice being intended only to honor Christ, the Sun of Righteousness, who And this practice being intended only to interest of which will always represent his anhonor Christ, the Sun of Righteousness, who hash risen upon us, to enlighten us with that and has given in trust to the Diocesan Board doctrine of salvation to which we then declare our adverse or the salvation. clare our adherence, it ought not to be condemned as superstition .- Secker

Most churches are so contrived that the greater part of the congregation faces the east. The Jews in their dispersion throughout the world, when they prayed, turned their faces towards the mercy-seat and cherubims, where the ark stood (2 Chronicles vi. 36-38). Daniel was found praying towards Jerusalem (Daniel vi. 10), because of the situation of the temple And this has always been esteemd a very becoming way of expressing our belief in God .-Dean Hook's Church Directory.

Why do you turn to the east at the Creed? The Church of England child's answer :-"And the glory of the Lord came into the house by the way of the gate, whose prospect is towards the east."—Ezek. xliii. 4.

- I turn to the East when I say the Creed, And this for reasons three:— First—Holy Church hath practised it, And she's the guide for me.
- I turn to the East when I say the Creed, For thence the rising sun, Through thousand circling months and years. His ceaseless course hath run.
- I turn to the East when I say the Creed, And my Redeemer bless, Who rose on our benighted earth, The Sun of Righteousness.

I turn to the East when I say the Creed, And look for my final doom, For thence, the Scriptures seem to tell, The righteous Judge shall come.

I turn to the East when I say the Creed, My reasons I have given; But not my eyes alone, my heart Must turn itself toward heaven.

So I turn to the East when I say the Creed, And tell me now, I pray, And tell me now, I pray,
Why any humble Christian need

A LIVE BISHOP

The Buffalo Commercial gives a graphic account of the labors and successes of the Epis-copal Bishop of Wyoming and Idaho, as re-cently narrated by that prelate in Buffalo. It is a story of moral heroism and success, not without suggestions as to our own work in the same field. We have many noble and grand men there, but they have no Episcopal supervision. Once a year a Bishop stops of long enough to hold a Conference at some convenient railroad town, goes through the disciplinary questions and sanctions the ap-pointments already blocked out, devoting a week to it, less the time necessary to reach, by rail, the next Conference, and there is no more Bishop to be seen for a year, when the same supervision of the temporal and spirit-ual business of the church is granted by an other Bishop, never occupying more than two weeks. During the year several Bishops whirl weeks. During the year several Bishops whirthrough the country on Pullman sleepers, but that is all. Is this the best thing possible? We have good preachers and good presiding elders there, but in all that vast empire, in which the church of the future is to be plant ed, we have not one Bishop except as above shown, while the Episcopulane have twelve resident Bishops. They live within their respective fields, and exert an influence that no flying Bishop can. Let ho one disparage the work of the presiding elders and pastors, but work of the presiding elders and pastors, but they are not Bishops. We want a Methodist scopal Church, with the emphasis on Episcopal.-The Indiana Christian Advocate.

ONE of our exchanges tells of a bequest whereby a Churchman, after providing for his relatives and friends, has left "for a re membrance" a sum to his parish church, the tuity the preparation of a student for holy orders at the Diocesan College, and also proorders at the Diocesan College, and also provides an annual offering of nearly or quite 5,053 the candidates for orders, 48. GIVING TO GOD.

The Rev. Canon Wilkinson, of the St. Peter's, Eaton Square, London, in preaching, once said," No one that I have ever met, who has really studied the subject, has come to the conclusion that the Bible warrants setting anist less than one-tenth; and those whom Gid hath prospered can do much more, I am not judging any one: I am only telling you the result, so far as I am aware, of all thoughtful investigation of the Bible on this subject, And I know an instance of one, not so rich as many in this church, who never used to give more than a casual offering on the Sunday, and possibly an occasional subscription, who now, since he has studied the Bible on this subject, has given £400 at least, this year, for the work of God at home and abroad."

DURING the past year Grace Cathedral has nearly doubled its communicants, having now about 125 as against 69 last year. The four distinct branches, into which the Woman's Auxilliary is divided, meet weekly, and the entire Auxiliary monthly. During the past year boxes and money have been contributed by this auxiliary to the amount of $550.

The congregations are very much enlarged and the offerings greatly increased.

ON THE Second Sunday after Epiphany, Judge Prince visited Indianapolis, in the interest of the American Church Building Fund. He gave two strong addresses, one at Christ Church and the other at the Cathedral Liberal offerings were taken at these services for this most practically beneficent fund.

THE Church of the Messiah, Providence, has lately received a gift of $50,000 for a new edifice. The new church will be a memorial to and addresses, with the memoirs of the late the son of the giver, Mrs. Gammell, and all sittings will be free.

The It will require $575 to meet the quarterly pay-Bishop of Indiana is under great obligations ment. It will require nearly $500 to be sent in the month of March. Will clergy and parishes make a note of this, and do their best to make up this sum this month? If the honest effort is made to secure the quota asked for in the January number of the WORKER, it will be forthcoming. The means must be used to reach every person. Every loyal churchman is asked to contribute at least a dollar a year for our missionary work in Indiana. The second Sunday in March is the regular quarterly collection by canon for Diocesan missions, a fitting time to press the matter home, and call on every one to make an especially liberal contribution through a committee of collectors.

Bishop's Visitations.

The Bishop spent the third Sunday after Epiphany, January Z', at Trinity Church, Peru, where he was entertained by Judge Mitchell. He found that Mr. Colvin was doing a good work, and had greatly revived the parish. Where before all was discouragement now is hope and a determination to work. The dol rectory has been rebuilt, papered and off rectory has been rebuilt, papered and ing an attractive and comfortable home for their minister, and now they are determined to take hold and greatly improve their church building in the spring. On Sunday forenoon, after morning prayer by Mr. Colvin, the Bishop preached, contirmed two persons and celebrated Holy Communion. At 4 F. M., at a children's service, the Bishop baptized standard of the spring of the spri

Monday, January 28, accompanied by Mr. Colvin, the Bishop visited White's Hall, near Wabash, an industrial echool founded by Mr. White, of Philadelphia, some years ago, having a farm of 700 acres. Here he found about eighty Indian children, among them twenty-one from one of our own mission at Pine Ridge Agency, Dakota, in Bishop Plare's jurisdiction. The Bishop and Mr. Colvin addressed the whole school in the dining room immediately after dinner, and then met the Church boys and girls, twenty-one in number, for a service and catechising. They seemed to be much pleased to be remembered and visited. Two of them had been confirmed, and most of them had received Christian inatruction from the Rev. Mr. Cleveland. The teachers promised to teach them the Church Catechism, and Mr.

Coloriu will visit them occasionally.

In the aftermoon the Bishop went to Delphi, where he was met at the station by Rev. Mr. Miller and the warden, Mr. Wasson. A pleasant service was held in the evening, Mr. Miller taking the service, and Bishop preaching. The Bishop conferred with the vestry after service, and it is hoped that the arrangement will be made to have Mr. Miller, of Logansprt, continue a Sunday evening service. He is keeping up the Sunday-school, aided by four faithful teachers. The Church property is in good repair, and a small debt is being provided for.

February 1, the Bishop visited Elkhart, and at special service at 2 F. M. baptized an infant grandson of the senior warden of the parish, Mr. Jones. In the evening, after evening prayer said by Mr. Rosevelt, the Bishop gave at alk on the Lambeth Conference. Mr. Adams is holding a weekly service at Bristol on Wednesday evenings, with a very encouraging attendance and general interest. The Sunday-school is kept up on Sundays at Bristol.

At St. John's, Elkhart, a very nice pair of brass candlesticks have been presented by the children of the Sunday-school.

February 2, Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the Bishop went to Aurora, was met at the station by Rector Ramsey and taken to Mrs. Langtre's for entertainment.

Fourth Sunday after the Epiphany, at 10:30 A. M., after morning prayer, said by Mr. Ramsey, the Bishop preached and celebrated Holy Communion. The offering was for Diocesan Missions. Evening went to Lawrenceburgh, where, after evening prayer, said by Mr. Ramsey, the Bishop preached. Good congregations attended both services. Spent Sunday night with Mr. Hibbits at Lawrenceburgh. There were no candidates for confirmation at either mission.

Monday, February 4, the Bishop left Lawrenceburgh for Salem, had to waif five hours for train at Mitchell. Reached Salem at 6 P. M.; was met at the station by Dr. Henderson and taken to Mr. Belknap's for entertainment. The Presbyterian Church had been secured for service. About twenty-five persons were present. Said evening prayer and preached, a decided interest is awakened in behalf of the Church here, some are seeking to know a monthly service which we shall try to arrange for them. Took the train for home at 930, reaching Indianapolis at 11 p. M.

Bishop Tuttle has made a computation from the reports in Church Almanae of the ratio of communicants to population in all the Diocese and the proportion given the past year by each communicant. He gives Indiana one communicant to every 876 of population and 45 in the number of Dioceses. Contributions per communicant per annum, 817-84. Number, 82.

Diocesan Items.

On February 4, at the residence of the Warden, Dr. Carter, our dear brother, Oliver Matson, a candidate for Holy Orders in this Diocese, fell asleep after a few days' illness, from heart disease and hemorrhage of the lungs. Mr. Matson was connected with St. John's Church, Greencastle, where he was baptized and confirmed by the Bishop. He was a graduate of De Pauw University, a young man of good promise and fine attainments. Everything that the kind-hearted Warden could do for his comfort and care was done. His mother was with him at the end. His death was peaceful. He was buried from St. John's Church, Greencastle, Wednesday, February 6, Rev. L. F. Cole and Rev. G. E. Swan officiating. The Holy Communion was celebrated and the vested choir rendered the music. A large congregation was present to testify their respects. Mr. Matson was a brother of Congreseman Matson.

BRIGHTWOOD, ALL SAINTS.—Rev. Dr. Jenckes of St. Paul's, and Rev. E. G. Hunter of Holy Innocents, aided the Missionary, Mr. Engle, by holding service, and preaching on weekday evenings during February.

BLUFFTON. — An earnest Churchwoman writes from this place to the Bishop as follows:

DEAR BISHOP—In accordance with your wishes, Rev. Geo. D. Adams has visited Bluff-ton with regard to the establishing of our dear Church in this place. He called upon me, but very much to my regret, I was absent from home. I have recently communicated with him, and the few who will form a mission are desirous and anxiously waiting for the long locked for precious services.

sion are desirous and anxiously waiting for the long looked for precious services. Mr. Adams promises us two Wednesday evenings per month. To say I am delighted with the prospect of having our dear Church in our midst but feebly expresses what I now in anticination.

The paper sent us for circulation in regard to support of expenses, I have taken around, and there are four responsible persons who have promised to do their part. We have concluded to form a sewing society or guild, meet once a week, and do what we can in this way. We very much wish to have your instruction in regard to the proper way to conduct our work, if we are not presuming and trespassing too much on your valuable time.

Bristol, Sr. John's.—A parishioner writes to the Bishop: "I thought that, in the absence of a rector, a few lines from an humble layman of this part of the Diocese would not be wholly without interest to you. Rev. F. W. Adams, of Elikhart, has been holding weekly services here on Wednesday evenings for several weeks past, and, I am happy to say, with the most flattering results. The attendance at these services is large. Never have I witnessed a more profound interest in the Church than is manifested here at this time, and with each service the interest is deepening. The parish is thoroughly united, all working as a unit for the advancement of the Church. On Wednesday afternoon, the 6th inst, there were five baptisms of children, and in the evening four adults, the result of Mr. Adams's work so far, and still there are more expected. All this is the more encouraging and will be confirmed in Holy Week. from the fact that nearly all come from other than Church families. Mr. Adams has surely won the hearts of our people, and much good will result from his visits among us."

CONNERSVILLE, TRINITY .- The missionary, Rev. F. C. Berry, writes: "The people here are taking quite an interest in their church and are doing everything in their power to forward its interests. Although few in number, they are good Church people and work together. They are very kind to me; most anxious to do what I suggest. They encourage me in FRANKFORT, ST. LUKE'S .- Rev. J. A. Mc-Glone has resigned St. Matthew's, Worthington, and accepted the charge of St. Luke's Mission, Frankfort, Mr. McGlone has done good work at Worthington and the people part from him with regret. He entered upon his new field of work Septuagesima Sunday under most encouraging auspices, and we look for good growth and prosperity in St. Luke's Mission from his faithful labors.

INDIANAPOLIS .-- Christ's Church Club is an active organization recently formed in Christ Church parish. They gave two entertainments in February that were well patronized and realized $85, with which they have kalsomined. carpeted and repaired the chapel, making it far more attractive.

The Woman's Auxiliary held their February meeting with Mrs. Spades, with large attendance. Mrs. G. W. Sloan read an excellent paper on "Mission Work Among the Mormons," and interesting letters were read from Bishop Leonard and Rev. Mr. Unsworth. Fifteen dollars was voted for Medical Mission at Wuchang, China, to which a special offering of $5 was added, making $20.

Grace Cathedral .- The Woman's Auxiliary met at the Episcopal residence, on the Circle, on Tuesday, February 5, thirty-two members being present. Mrs. Knickerbacker entertained them with reminiscences of missionary life in the early days in Minnesota, giving many incidents of her own experience. Miss Carleton rendered some excellent music. After tea the meeting adjourned. The next monthly meeting will be with Mrs. J. F. Johnston, March 5, when Mrs. Swan will give an account of missionary work in Northern Min-

Holy Innocents'.- The rectory of this parish was invaded one evening during February by about seventy-five of its parishioners, and its rector caned, it being his birthday anniversary. A delightful social occasion was made of it, and the presentation of the gold-headed cane testified to the faithful rector the affection and appreciation of his people.

St. Paul's .- The Woman's Auxiliary met at the residence of Mrs. John Roberts, on Central avenue, Monday, February 4, with good attendance. Miss Annie Roberts read an interesting paper on "Mission Work Among the Indiana:

The ladies of the Aid Society are preparing for an entertainment, to be given February 25, in aid of the fund for rebuilding their chapel.

St. Philip's. -- Natural gas has been put into this chapel the past month, and a beautiful stone font has been placed in position. On the fifth Sunday after Epiphany Rev. W. H. Morris, a colored deacon from the Diocese of Georgia, entered upon a three months' engagement as minister in charge. It is hoped it may be made at the end of that time permanent. When we remember that there are 10,000 colored people resident in Indianapolis, the Church should do something for their spiritual culture. Mrs. Hall has labored with great perseverance in their behalf, gathering a fine industrial school that meets on Saturday afternoons, in charge of Miss Upfold, and a Sunday-school under the superintendence of Mr. W. A. Van Buren, aided by Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Hall acting as organist and leader of the choir. It is hoped that Mr. Morris may reach out and gather in many adults to attach themselves to the mission.

LAFAYETTE, St. John's-Lost no time in taking steps to secure a rector. Rev. Clarence Buel, of New York, was called, but felt obliged to decline. Rev. H. E. Jephsen has since been called, and has the matter under consideration

LIMA, St. MARK'S .- Mr. Burnell, an old communicant and warden of this parish, passed away quite suddenly in the early part of January. He received the Holy Communion from his pastor on his death-bed. Mr. Burnell was an Englishman by birth, was over 80 years of age, and had accumulated great wealth. His funeral services were held by Mr. Spalding.

LOGANSPORT, TRINITY .- The Ladies' Society has recently placed altar vestments of green in the church, and thereby completed colors for the seasons. They are now about procuring an Episcopal chair for the sanctuary, and after Easter are hoping to repair the basement of the church for Sunday-school and Guild purposes. They are also giving a monthly offering for Diocesan Missions, at the request of the rector. The congregations and Sunday-school increase gradually. We hope and pray and look for a corresponding increase of spiritual power, and trust that this parish may go on to greater prosperity and greater work for the Master than in any period of its history. We want to fill the measure of our obligation to man and God.

NEW CASTLE, St. JAMES'S .- This mission has recently had a present from a parishioner of ruary 10. gyman in the mission. A nice tea was served, a pair of brass vases for the altar. Major Gould gave two lectures in the parish on Rev. Dr. Bradley, The attendance was good, Wednesday and Thursday, February 6 and 7, lege, died in Chicago, of pneumonia, February

It would be an addition of great advantage to the church property. I should be glad to hear if you think we had better try and secure the property, and if there is any fund, Diocesan or otherwise, which would aid us by loan or

PERU, TRINITY .- Five young misses in this parish interested themselves in securing a portion of the Diocesan assessment with the following result, the fruit of personal labor: Fannie Tracy, $5; Nellie Halet, $2.40; Nellie Daily, $2; Lillie Colvin, $3; Mary Mitchell, $2, The same interest in all our parishes would gladden the heart of our Diocesan Treasurer.

ROCHESTER,-On Monday, the 28th inst., after service, sermon, and celebration of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, pursuant to consent of the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese, and in accordance with the canon regulating the same, St. Paul's Mission, Rochester, was organized by the missionary, and the following communicants nominated to the Bishop as officers, viz.: Warden, Merritt A. Baker; Treasurer, John W. Jacob; Secretary or Clerk, Andrew Jackson; Thomas B. Kemp, President of meeting and Missionary.

RICHMOND, ST. PAUL'S .- Rev. Frank Hallam. after a four years' rectorship of this parish, resigned the first of January to take work in the Diocese of Mississippi. Mr. Hallam is an able preacher, and carries with him the best wishes of the Diocese of Indiana for success in his new field of labor. He left many warm friends behind him. The parish has requested Dr. Test to officiate during the vacancy, and will take steps at an early day to secure a rector. The parish is in debt a few hundred dollars, and an effort will be made to provide for this and to secure pledges for the support of a rector.

SEYMOUR .- A room has been rented by a churchwoman here, and a Sunday-school opened, the Bishop supplying service-books, prayer-books and catechisms.

TERRE HAUTE, ST. STEPHEN'S-A special service was held Septuagesima Sunday in St. Stephen's, for the Knights of Pythias, the rector preaching an admirable sermon that was well received. An offering was made in behalf of the Orphanage Fund of $19.45.

Wednesday evening, February 20, a delightful musicale was given at the Young Ladies' Institute by the teachers and pupils to their friends. The house was crowded with guests, who enjoyed highly the rich treat provided for their entertainment.

A very interesting service was held in Christ Church, Indianapolis, on Septuagesima Sunday, at 4 P. M. A large attendance of mutes and speaking people were present. On Wednesday evening a service was held in St. Paul's Church, Mishawaka. Addresses were made by Mr. Scott, Mr. Macfarlane and Mr. Lassiter.

SOUTHERN CONVOCATION

The Southern Convocation met in St. Paul's Church, New Albany, on Tuesday evening, February 4. There were present the Bishop, Revs. M. W. Heermans, of Madison; Jewell, of Jeffersonville; Abbott, of Vincennes; Mallett, of New Albany, and Rev. Messrs. Benton and Bamwell, of Louisville; Mrs. Nichols and Miss Upfold, of Indianapolis.

The missionary sermon, Tuesday evening, was by Mr. Heermans, and was an earnest plea for more interest in behalf of foreign missions and answering the objections often made. A good congregation was present. After the service a reception was tendered the Bishop and clergy at the rectory, at which a large number

It is stated, nearly all of the church people here have moved away." There has been but one removal, a lady who is away temporarily. The loss we have had, and feel deeply, is the regular visits and counsel of our dear friend and missionary, Rev. Cole.

The Presbyterians have church buildings worth about $10,000, are temporarily without a pastor, but have no idea of "abandoning the field." True, we are very few in number, without the dear service for months, not even a Sunday-school, but the little Guild meets every Thursday afternoon, making such articles as ordered or that meet a ready sale. We also give monthly entertainments with fair net proceeds. Last month we made appeal to the church guilds of the Diocese for a mite towards our church fund. Grace Guild. Muncie, responded generously, also Christ Church Guild, Madison, each five dollars; St. Luke's, Cannelton, and Evansville, each one dollar; others have written promising future aid. This month we are making preparations for a bazaar to be held after Easter. We hope then to select and pay cash for a lot on which to build a church, feeling sure that if we have a building regular service can be readily provided for

Altogether, we think the "work" here is encouraging, and hope our beloved Bishop will think we have "done what we could."

(Madison Courle

The Right Rev. David Buell Knickerbacker, D. D., Diocesan of the Episcopal Church of Indiana, arrived in this city last Saturday, and was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Heermans, at Christ Church rectory.

At 8 o'clock A. M. yesterday the Holy Communion was celebrated in the church, the Bishop and Rev. Mr. Heermans being celebrants. Considering the early hour of the morning, there was a fair number of communicants in attendance.

At the 10:30 morning service the Bishop preached an instructive sermon upon the words of our Savior to St. Peter: "Upon this rock I build my Church." The speaker argued that the Church of God is of Divine origin, and did not originate simply at the instigation of man, and advocated the Divinity of the Church on earth, that it was instituted by God for man's benefit. At this forenoon service the Bishop confirmed two persons In the afternoon the Bishop visited the Sunday-school, and interested the pupils by mixng with them and talking to them pleasantly During the evening services he gave a neces sarily condensed review of the prominent transactions of the great Lambeth Council, a conclave of Bishops of the Episcopal Church throughout the globe. The Bishop gave a very interesting statement of his own experi-ences and ecclesiastical work during his stay in Europe. He gave a description of the wonderful ancient edifices and places and things he saw in the several European coun-tries he visited. The Bishop is suffering from an aggravated cold, and his efforts in speaking in the morning and in the evening yesterday were painful to him. He departed for his other appointments of duty on this morning's

The Bishop says he hopes to have at least a half-dozen more new church buildings erected during the year 1889. He is a prelate of such zeal and working energies that he usually accomplishes what he aims at. He has been at work for some time to raise sufficient money to endow expenses of the Bishop's salary and other annual conventional obligations pressing upon the Diocesan treasury. LENTEN OFFERINGS

To the Children of the Sunday-schools in Indiana; Your Bishop asks your offerings during the Sundays of Lent, with one exception, in behalf of Diocesan missions as heretofore. Our Missionary Board depends upon your generous assistance in raising the means to pay our hard-working missionaries in Indiana, and more than this Lent. We hope you will do your best. The exception is Mid-Lent Sunday, March 21, when we ask a generous offering from every Sunday-school scholar in Indiana as a centennial offering for the General Board of Missions. For every scholar who brings an offering on that day, the General Secretary, Dr. Langford, will supply, through your rector a beautiful centennial certificate, signed by the Presiding Bishop Williams and office. the Secretary and Treasurer, that you have contributed to the children's Lenten offering for 1889, and your name will be enrolled as a contributing member of the missionary society, and reported to the Centennial General Convention which is to meet in New York October 2, 1889. We hope every one of our 3,500 Sunday-school children in Indiana will make an offering on that Sunday and receive a certificate, and the Bishop requests all rectors and missionaries to aid its accomplish-

On Tuesday, April 80, 1889, the celebration of the centennial of the inauguration of George Washington as first President of the United States is to be celebrated. The committee in charge has asked that that event may be duly celebrated throughout our whole land by divine service in our several churches at 9 A. M. of that day. The Bishop of Indiana gladly seconds this appeal, and recommends that that important event be celebrated in our own churches by special services and thanksgiving for God's goodness to our country and all in civil authority. The following words from the address of the committee are added. In the April number of the WORKER a special service will be set forth.

On the morning of April 30, 1789, the bells on the morning of April 69, 1709, the beins at nine o'clock summoned the people to the churches to implore the blessing of Heaven on the nation and its chosen President, so universal was the religious sense of the importance of the occasion.

We respectfully and earnestly request our fellow-citizens, of every name and race and creed, in this city and throughout the entire country, following the example of our fathers.

to meet in their respective places of worship, at nine o'clock, on the morning of the 30th of April, 1889, and to hold such religious services of thanksgiving and praise as may seem suitable, in view of what God has done for us and our land during the century which has elapsed since George Washington took the chair of state.

Religion and patriotism have been united hard-working missionaries in Indiana, and among us as a people from the very begin never did the Board need your generous aid ning; may they so continue forever.

Editorial.

THE Bishop has not yet received the two copies of No. 10, Vol. IV. He will be very thankful if some one will send them to him.

COMPARATIVELY few of the missionaries, Diocesan or general, heeded the call in the last WORKER for a report to the Bishop concerning their work. He will be glad to receive reports from all who have not already and missionary apportionments. The negmade them.

THE Bishop would suggest to the clergy of the Diocese that on Good Friday an offering be made in all our parishes, where possible, for theological education of candidates for the ministry belonging to this Diocese. This fund is overdrawn and greatly in need of being replenished.

EASTER will be a good time to remember the fund for the endowment of the child's cot in St. Stephen's Hospital, Richmond. Rev. R. S. Eastman and wife sent an offering of $2.50 the past month. The first offering for this purpose and the suggestion of the fund was from them whilst at Laporte, in memory of a dear little one taken to paradise.

Among the benefactors of the Diocese of Indiana should be included the names of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Morrison, who gave the lot on which the present Episcopal residence

LENT.

From all quarters of the Diocese we learn that this holy Lenten season is being well observed. The services are frequent and the attendance good. Classes for confirmation are being prepared, and the people generally are being instructed in the cultivation of personal religion, of private prayer, self-examination and self-denial. On his visitations the Bishop has never met with larger congregations, and there is a revival of interest in behalf of the Church in places where it was least expected. It is to be lamented that several parishes are without rectors; that in St. John's, Lafayette, St. Paul's, Richmond, St. John's, Crawfordsville, St. James's, Goshen, and St. Matthew's, Worthington, they have not been able to enjoy Lenten services. The great need at present is a greater appreciation in all our parishes of Diocesan obligations, and that parishes meet promptly their Diocesan assessments lect of this thus far through the year is giving the Bishop great anxiety. This anxiety may be dispelled if this Lenten season shall be improved in meeting fully these obligations. The Bishop would again urge this upon the clergy and vestries. What these are may be known from the report of the Diocesan Treasurer in this number of the WORKER.

The Assistant Bishop of Minnesota writes in his Diocesan paper as follows: "I do think that, as far as possible, Easter offerings should be given for missionary purposes. Too often they are used to make up deficiencies in current revenues which ought not to exist, and sometimes they go, without protest, into the Treasurer's hands the same as all other offerings. Easter is most emphatically the day of unselfish thoughts, and nothing should be done at such a time to chill or deaden this feeling. Lent, with its special savings and self-denials. should not be practically stultified by pouring these savings into our parochial pockets." is built, worth, at the time it was given, $11,000, The secret of the large missionary offerings is built, worth, at the time a wage course, as and five lots on North Meridian street, from and five lots on North Meridian street, from which has been realized $12,000. Mr. John B. Howe gave also $5,000 to the Diocese in the Diocese in the liberal words the Episcopal residence, and Mr. Chas. whole of their offerings on Easter are appropriated for missions. We hope our parishes will realize the truth avoice by the Built walk the off will realize the truth spoken by the Bishop of Arkansas and Indian Territory, Minnesota, and make their Easter offerings directly for missions and not for parish debts and arrearages.

EASTER.

On this great and joyous festival every Churchman is expected to keep the Feast, Every communicant is expected to receive the Holy Communion if possible. Churchmen, where there are no services, should arrange to go to the nearest point where services are held, and so enjoy the privileges of the Church. The offerings at Easter are expected to be larger than at any other service, the fruit of Lenten self-denial. If Churchmen are not connected with any parish, they can send an offering to the Bishop of the Diocese for Diocesan Missions or Diocesan Endowment. He will be glad to hear from such.

ST. PAUL'S, Indianapolis, St. Paul's Laporte, and St. John's, Elkhart, have paid in full their assessments the past month. Christ Church, Indianapolis, one half. May the heart of our Diocesan Treasurer be made glad by many of our parishes doing the same thing at Easter.

EASTER will be a good time to remember the Worker. We are greatly encouraged by the way subscriptions have been coming in, We hope they may continue to do so, and that those who have heretofore not been able to remit will do so for '89.

We wish all our readers a bright, joyous Easter.

WE give in this number of the WORKER a statement of the Treasurer of the Diocese of the amount paid on the annual assessment for the support of the Diocese and the amount delinquent. At this time the whole sum is due, The Treasurer needs the money. It is a sad record, and we hope Easter may not have passed without correcting it. $1,015.35, and $2,456.30 delinquent.

Many years ago when we had services here the missionary had given her a prayer book. It had been daily read and used and its contents noted, and when the opportunity for confirmation was presented she was glad to embrace it. On Tuesday morning at 10 c'clock I haptized an infant, celebrated Holy Communion at Mrs. Bowman's, ten receiving, and made an address. A little band of women here are working with a steady purpose of securing a church. They are also preparing a class for confirma-tion and doing what they can to promote the welfare of the Church.

Monday, March 18, in company with Mr. Seabrease, went to Decatur, county-seat of Adams county, having a population of 4,000. Here we were met at the station by Dr. and Mrs. McMillan, and taken to their home for entertainment. Part of the afternoon was spent in instructing three candidates for Holy Baptism and Confirmation, then made some calls. Service was held at 7:30 in the Baptist Church, with a large congregation present.
Mr. Seabrease said evening prayer, and

MISSIONARY REPORTS

FRANKFORT, March 11, 1889. Rt. Rev. and Dear Bishop: In response to your request for reports from missionaries, I beg to submit the following:

Worthington - Regular Sunday morning and evening service from January 1 to and including February 3, excepting January 27, lectures on his tour around the world, on which was given to Frankfort. A Friday evening service was also maintained. Bantisms, three; marriages, one. Sufficient money was realized from the sale of a few lots to pay for the addition to the cemetery. There was been called East on business, and the Lenten also on hand nearly sufficient money to purchase the new organ. If they have succeeded in closing negotiations for the old organ they will have a surplus for organ. There were no debts of any kind, to my knowledge, when I

Frankfort-Have held regular Sunday services since taking charge, February 10. Regular Lenten services are also being held, with Frankfort is going on as fairly as we can wish at present.

Requesting your prayers during this holy season of Lent, for myself and the work in Frankfort, I remain sincerely yours,

NEW CASTLE, IND., March 11, 1889. Rt. Rev. Bishop Knickerbacker: I beg to report that for the last quarter of a year (and for a period preceding) I have been engaged in missionary work at New Castle, giving services in the church on Sundays, morning and evening, and some other week days.

The membership is slightly on the increase, and with patience and continuous work good results may be expected. We number some excellent and loyal Church people. I remain, with sincere respect. W. H. BAMFORD.

TERRE HAUTE, IND., March 12, 1889. The Rt. Rev. David Buel Knickerbacker, Bishop of Indiana:

REVEREND SIR-I herewith present my re port as lay reader in the parish of St. Stephen's, Terre Haute, for the past year, and respectfully ask that my license be renewed.

St. Stephen's Sunday-school has an average attendance of over eighty children; the lesson is taken from the "Uniform Scheme," edited by the Rev. G. M. Shain, D. D.; this is usually supplemented by a talk on the passing "Church Season," from the rector. The Catechism also receives a due amount of attention, and a large number of the scholars hope soon to have their names placed on the "Honor Roll" of the Diocese. I can safely say that both in attendance and interest the school shows an improvement this year. The teachers without exception, are working earnestly to instil a deeper love for the Lord and His holy Church into the minds of the children

Last Sunday the "banks" for the "Orphanage Fund" were distributed both at St. Stephen's and St. Luke's Mission Sunday school. The rector addressed the children on the object for which the offering is to be made, and we feel sure of a liberal offering at Easter,

Your obedient servant.

THE General Missionary took the opportunity of having appointments for two success ive Sundays in the southern part of the Dio-cese, to spend a few days in Indiana, visiting the Howe Grammar School at Lima, and attending a "Retreat" at Indianapolis, conducted by Bishop McLaren.

The Bishop of Chicago has rare qualifications for edifying the clergy as well as others We all felt it "good to be there," and will, I am sure, cherish always a pleasant memory of the occasion.

Howe Grammar School is prospering well; beginning only four or five years ago with two boys, it now has twenty five boarding pupils and five day scholars. It is now being enlarged at a cost of some $23,000 or more, con-tributed by Mrs. Howe and her brother. The new building will soon be ready for use, giv-ing room for fifty boys. The location of this school is extremely pleasant and healthful. Bishop Knickerbacker also has at Indianapolis a girls' school of about the same size as our Akeley. It is already quite too large for its quarters, and is to have a new and larger building provided for it in another part of the city.—Church Helper, W. Michigan.

Adapted from the Pastoral of the Bishop of Iowa. THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF WASHINGTON'S INAUGURATION.

To the Reverand Clergy and Faithful Laity of the Church of Indiana:

BELOVED IN THE LORD-Tuesday 30th of April, Anno Domini 1889, is the centenary of the inauguration of George Washington as first President of the United States of America.

On the morning of April 30, 1789, the church bell's throughout the country called the people to prayer, to invoke heaven's blessing on the events of the day. That these prayers were graciously heard and answered, we, who review the history of the century past, may not doubt. Gratefully recognizing God's presence with His people for these hundred years, we may well ask His blessing on us for the time to come

I therefore call upon the reverend clergy and the faithful members of the Church in Indiana to assemble in their respective houses of worship, on Tuesday, April 30, A. D. 1889, for morning prayer, and for such acts of praise and thanksgiving as shall be befitting the occasion; and I would suggest to the reverend. the clergy, the reading of such portions of the inaugural address of our first President as indicate his reliance on God in his efforts to discharge the trust confided to him, and to add thereto such testimony to the religious character of Washington, and to the faith in God, on which the foundations of our nationality were laid, as shall be likely to impress upon all who gather in our sanctuaries the reverence we feel for our fathers, and our grateful recognition of their abiding trust in God.

In view of the fact that the Father of his Country was a baptized and communicating member of our American Church, and that the very words of common praper in which, a hundred years ago, he sought to draw near to his Heavenly Father, will be used in our churches in the commemorative services of this thirtieth day of April, Anno Domini, 1889, I desire that the people generally of the communities in which we have churches may be particularly invited to unite with us in our centenary observance, and thus participate with us in the reproduction of the very service used at St. Paul's Chapel, New York, one hundred years ago.

God bless and preserve our United States of America! D. B. KNICKERBACKER. Bishop of Indiana,

THE Civil Service Chronicle is a new paper just out, published at 23 North Meridian street. Its title is sufficient general indication of its contents. It is ably edited and well printed, and we hope it may long live to advocate the most important interests it speaks for.

CENTRAL CONVOCAT ON.

The Central Convocation held a most profitable and delightful session with St. James's Mission, New Castle, on February 26 and 27. There were present besides the Missionary, Rev. W. H. Letter to the Children.

Dear Children of the Church in Indiana :

It is always a great pleasure to your Bishop to speak to you through the columns of the WORKER. He wonders if you all try hard to improve the Lenten season. Are you very particular about your private prayers and reading your Bibles, and do you attend the Lenten services at church? I hope so, and that many of the older ones are in the confirmation class. Your Bishop hopes, too, that every boy and girl will secure a centennial certificate by making an offering to the General Board of Missions on mid Lent Sunday and if not on that Sunday that it will be attended to by your rectors and superintendants on some other Sunday. Our Board of Diocesan Missions never needed the help of the children more than during this Lent. We hope to receive as much as $500 from the children's Lenten and Easter offerings. It will cheer us very much if our expectation is met. Do, dear children, make some real sacrifice and self-denial that you may accomplish it. Wherever we go we find the Orphanage mite boxes, and we hope that they may all be filled. These are intended for the home, and that all in your home and your friends should assist in filling them. And now, dear children, may you have a happy, joyous Easter. May you rise with Christ to a higher, purer and holier life. YOUR BISHOP.

Offerings in March.-For Child's Cot. Rev. R. S. and Mrs. Eastman, Torr-sdale, Pa., $2.50. For Orphanage .- Willie Chesney, Rockville,

Two scholars of Emanual Sunday-school, Garret, have been added to the Roll of Honor. having recited the whole catechism.

MID-LENT Sunday comes to mark the passage of half the privileges of this dear time On Ash Wednesday our soul's desires were strong and solemn to mak : the most of all its opportunities. God, who knows the weakness of our mortal natures, knows, too, how many times we have failed to do so. The daily meditation and self examination, most important of all soul-helps, when we come to God in deepest privacy, and claim His help and strength for our own in all the little things, in all the great things of our perplexing lives, and our souls grow calm and strong in the assuring sense of His nearness and His protecting love, all this perhaps has been crowded out because of small hindrances which might have been overcome, and great is our loss for the lack of a little effort! Daily service omitted for insufficient reasons has paralyzed the private devotions, or attended irregularly has given to us only a portion of that spiritual help so generously and constantly offered by our dear mother to her children.

The Holy Spirit, denied full access, has not brought His lovely fruits in our lives as we had so earnestly desired. We are conscious of fewer acts of love and kindness for our dear Lord's sake, fewer victories over self, fewer words of Christian joy and comfort spoken to those who are making the same warfare with us against the temptations of the enemy, than its integrity for ourselves, our chi dren and our Savior has the right to expect from His our country. own. Peter like, let us go out and weep bitterly that in so many ways we have denied our knowledge of Him and cast our lot with the wordlings, while the Church bids us to fast and pray. We have cause to be sorrowful and to mourn for the non-fulfilment of our resolves We have cause to rejoice that still a portion of Lent remains in which to make good these

We can not fail to keep a Holy Lent if we but use the means provided. Daily meditation, with inner eyes fixed upon the cross of the Sacred Passion; daily prayers from hearts that lovingly stay near that cross: attendance at daily services; frequent communions, where higher and holier than angels' ministry, that of Jesus Himself, comes to strengthen and refresh us. Dear souls, be strong. For to those who persevere and are victorious over sin and self, comes at once a closer walk with Christ. a beautiful fruition of love, and joy, and peace in the soul. And after the sad, final strife comes the triumphant Easter. Strive that your joy in the risen Lord may be that of faithful and devoted disciples, greeting the Resurrection morning without remorse or fear, but full of unutterable love and gladness in that "Jesus lived and died and rose again

THE Lord's Day is a priceless heritage of Christianity. Without it there must inevitably be an unbroken round of toil for all wage workers-seven days' work for fifty-two weeks in the year. Without it must come physical and moral deterioration. Man's body is so constituted that it imperatively needs one day's rest in seven. The care of the higher nature demands one day in seven to be given up to its cultivation. Domestic love, obligations to wife and children, the responsibilities of family life, the necessity of family fellowship, all demand the setting apart of one day in seven from the usual avocation. The day of rest has its priceless advantages to the body and brain of every toiler, to his famsociety and the state. Shall we be so unwise as to surrender this priceless heritage? Shall we not rather guard it by all means in our wedges! Suffer no violation of its sanctities, of its privileges. Be zealous to preserve it in enable us to crush it out effectually!

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY.

Several of our parish branches are engaged upon special Lenten work. That of Trinity. Fort Wayne, is preparing an Easter box for a hospital. They have also pledged $50 for Diocesan missions

The Grace Church Auxiliary recently sent $16 80 to be equally divided between foreign and domestic missions.

Christ Church and St. Paul's, Indianapolis, are preparing a box of bed and table linen for a boys school at Cove. Oregon

Holy Innocents' will send a box of clothing at Easter to Miss Burgwin, for her work among the colored people. The Sisterhood of St. Stephen's Church, Terre Haute, will add some clothing to this box.

The girls of St. Philip's Industrial School work the first half-hour of Saturday's session on some articles to send with these to their colored sisters in Virginia.

Christ Church Branch has recently been called to part with their faithful and efficient Treasurer, Miss Kate Biggs, who died March 16. At a meeting called after morning service, Sunday, March 17, a committee was appointed to prepare suitable resolutions, also one to select and send a floral tribute, and the members agreed to attend the funeral in a body sitting in the north transept of the church.

The Secretary of St. Stephen's Branch, Terre Haute, writes: "Our missionory teas are well attended. Last Monday twenty-four were present. We have sent to Miss Emery $20 for General Missions, and $20 for Diocesan Missions to the Treasurer of the Diocese."

Mrs. J. R. Nichols, Vice President of the Central Convocation, sailed for Europe, Thursday, March 28, for a stay of several months.

WHAT IS IT TO BE A HIGH CHURCH-MAN?

- 1. To have a high view of Holy Scriptures as the written Word of God, inspired by Him to be true and containing all things necessary
- 2. To have a high view of the sacraments as being more than mere symbols or pledges and really effective means to our salvation; as ordained by Christ Himself to be means of grace, channels for the conveyance to us of His life and holiness
- 3. To have a high view of the ministry as established, authorized and empowered by Christ Himself, to be His ambassadors and the stewards of His mysteries.
- 4. To have a high view of the Church as 4. To have a high view of the Church as

If I have a choice between when the companion of the as being no mere human institution of recent origin and temporary character, but "founded upon the Aposiles and Prophets, Jesus Christ clother a tailor, who, though ignorant of the many friends not only in the parishes of those thimself being the chief corner-stone," and to believe art, belongs to my political party; places but throughout Elthart county. Is it very dreadful to be a High Churchman?

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS. [Extract from the Spirit of Missions.]

It is an extremely short-sighted, narrow, selfish and suicidal policy for any parish or congregation to exclude itself from participation in the general works of the Church on the plea that it has need of everything for it-Such a policy is opposed to the spirit of Christ and to the true principle of Christian development. If the individual members development. If the individual members were to follow the same course its folly would soon be seen and felt. We are building, or we have a debt, is not a good reason for refusing to give to missions. Forbid it that, tusing to give to missions. Foroid it may even for a time, under any pretext whatsoever, a Christian society should out itself off from the currents of life, or cease to contribute to the general good of the body to which it belongs. The reflex benefit from such communication of blessing will be worth more than it costs, and the money which is contributed will not impoverish the parish, but will stimulate its life and its ability to do for other things,

THOU THOUGHEST THAT I WAS ALTOGETHER SUCH AN ONE AS THY-SELF.

Would I, to save my dear child dutiful, Dare the white breakers on a storm-rent shore? Ay, truly, Thou all-good, all beautiful, Truly I would—then truly Thou wouldst more.

Would I for my poor son, who desolate, After long sinning, sued without my door For pardon, open it? Ay, fortunate To hear such prayer, I would; Lord, Thou wouldst

Would I, for e'en the stranger's weariness And want, divide, albeit it were scant, my store? Ay, and my enemy sick, shelterless Dying, I would attend! O Lord, Thou more!

In dust and sahes my long infamy Of unbolief I rue. My love before Thy love I set, my heart's discovery Is awest: whate'er I would, Thou wouldst more.

I was Thy shelterless, sick enemy, And Thou hast died for me; yet heretofore I have feared! Now learn I love's supromacy: Whate'er is known of love, Thou lovest more.

Now, it is not necessary for me to say to the Now, it is not necessary for me to say to such members of this association that this partisan method of appointing officials is unbusinesslike and prejudicial to the interests of the people. I shall not call the "snoils system." or ple. I shall not call it the "spoils system," or its advocates "spoilsmen"; for, while it is true that a painfully large number of office-seekers do think much more of their own private gain than of the public weal, it is equally true that many persons of honesty and intelligence are as much opposed to the system of civil service examinations as others are to the sys-tem of party control. "Spoils" is an offensive word when used by the opponents of the lat-ter system; and I doubt whether we can so easily convert its adherents to our views by calling them names and casting doubts upon their honesty of purpose as by temperate and rational argument. I would say, then, to the advocates of rotation in office, that I believe the system is contrary to business principles, and is therefore not the system by which the affairs of the nation may be most economically and efficiently administered.

suppose I were ill, and in urgent need of medical attendance; should I call in a skilled physician, in spite of his differing with me in polsician, in spite of his differing with me in poi-tities, or an indifferent lawyer who belonged to my own party? To sak the question is to answer it. And again, I sak the business men in this andience: Would you deposit your money in a bank, the president, directors, cashier and tellersof which were ejected every the water and sealength when ungacquignted cashier and tellers of which were ejected every four years and replaced by men unacquainted with the business of banking? Would you lives on its trains, if every four years a new president of the company were to discharge and the outgineers, firemen, brakemen, switch-and the outgineers, firemen, brakemen, switch-and the property of the supplier of steam engine?

The answer to all these questions being so exceedingly plain, why is it that the American people, who, surely, have never been ac-cused of a lack of common sense and practical chaeu of a fact of common sense and years agacity, should cling so tenaciously to a system that is unpractical and inefficient to the last degree? Is it because the people regard the government of sixty millions of men a simple matter—a matter simpler than the making of a pair of shoes, the conduct of a making or a pair or snow, the conduct of a bank, or the management of a railway? Par-adoxical as it may seem, I believe there is such a belief among the people. Vague and undefined as it is, there does exist a general feeling that, while a question of law or of medicine, of shoe-making or of carpentering, of painting or of music, does require special knowledge and training, a question of poli-Rhowieage and training, a question of pon-tics, on the contrary, requires no training at all, but can be settled off hand by any male individual that has reached the age of twenty-one.—From the Address of Prof. R. LABOR LEGISLATION.

"In the long run it is for the interest not only of the laboring but of the employing class to keep children out of the factories and to so far shorten the day's toil for all as will most highten the industrial efficiency of the wageearning class. Profits through a series of years are greater and sales of manufactured years are greater and saises of manacented goods better, when real wages and industrial efficiency are great that when low wages, long hours of employment or child labor result, as they usually will after a time, in lowered efficiency. Temporary interests of individual employers are often very different. If one of a group of ten employers can displace adult labor in simple operations by cheaper child labor, the other nine must at once do likewise or see their rival undersell and ruin them. Many parents, too, in their ignorance, selfishness or poverty will strive to secure employment for their young children in order to eny their earnings.

What has been done?

"Because of the economic reasons above referred to, it is idle to app al to the humani tarian instincts of the average employer or the very poor parent. Neither is organized labor very poor parent. Neither is organized above sufficiently strong or inclusive of a large enough part of our wage earning population to check the great evil. Legislation is the only effective remedy."—Edward W. Since the Bishop's last visit a new bell has been procured and bell-tower erected, a new dossal and altar vestments of violet, suitable for Lenten use, have been added. The church has been greatly improved through the zealous efforts of the la-dies. They are to have a bazaar after Easter. The Bishop was entertained by Mr. and Mrs.

for service had been made at the Jewish Synagogue, where, at 7:30 P. M., a good congregaagogue, where, at 7:30 P. M., a good congrega-tion assembled. The Bishop said the service and preached. They already have $175 in bank, and are to have a bazaar after Easter In Daux, and are to have a threat after Leaver, to add to it. The attendance at Lenten services has been very good and the daily meditations of the rector full of encouragement and instruction. Mr. Ranger is steadily growing into the confidence and respect of his people. The choir, under Mr. Lewis's faithful training, was never doing better work. During Lent the Ladies Guild has met weekly in the chapel for work.

Major Gold delivered his two interesting lectures during the month, from which substantial aid was secured for St. Philip's and St. George's Missions. The chapel is now a most Richard Owen, as usual.

4 P. M. visited St. Philips's Mission for the first time since the Rev. W. H. Morris en-tered upon his work. Found a very orderly and well trained Sunday-school. The scholars appeared well up in their catechism and two were received to the Roll of Honor. A few adults are becoming interested and attended the service. Dr. Jenckes was present and assisted Mr. Morris in the service. Mr. Morris is patiently and hopefully working. He reads the service devoutly and preaches admirably. The Bishop baptized a colored lad, catechised the Sunday-school and preached. Mr. Hall the Sunday-school and preached. Mrs. Hall presided at the organ. Miss Howland, we were glad to see, had returned and resumed her class. Miss Upfold reports an attendance of from twenty to twenty-five girls at the Sewing School Saturday afternoons. This school closes during the winter.

Evening, at 7:30, visited St. George's Mission. A large congregation gathered for the first confirmation at the chapel (it has been the policy hitherto to bring the candidates to the parish church). The choir of Christ Church were present and rendered the music. After evening prayer by Mr. Ranger the Bishop preached and confirmed five and ad-dressed them. A fund is being accumulated towards the support of a clergyman for this mission. There is needed much more per-sonal and pastoral attention in the mission than Mr. Ranger can give to it. Through lay assistance from St. Andrew's Brotherhood and the lay preachers of Christ Church a Sunday evening service is maintained and a Sunday

Every advantage that can be secured for the school, Prof. Lyon and his good wife will endeavor to secure. Evening went to Greencestle where, at 7:30, evening prayer was Greencestie where, at 7:30, evening prayer was said by Mr. Cole, a large congregation being present. The Bishop preached, confirmed a class of four persons and addressed them. Mr. Cole feels greatly encouraged by the prospects of his work. There is a grow-ing interest of the part of the peo-ple and an increasing attendance. Many are looking towards the Church as their spiritual home. Mr. Cole has now the aid of an excel-lent and capable lay reader, Mr. R. T. Jones, who was trained in the Church in St. Luke's parish, Baltimore, under Dr. Rankin where for years he was a chorister. The music of the service this evening was rendered by a choir of boys vested and who sang very well for the short time they had been under instruction. The rector's wife has trained

The Ladies Society has recently paid the interest on their church debt to Church Building Fund, tinted the inside of the church, put down a new carpet in the chan-cel and carpeted the vestry room. Arrange-ments are being made for a concert after Easter that will, it is hoped, be of substantial aid. A good Sunday-school is now meeting every Sunday

Tuesday in Holy Week the Bishop went to Muncie, where a large congregation greeted him and a most delightful service was held. The vested choir, under Precentor Nutt. is steadily improving. Service was taken by Mr. Henry, the rector; the Bi-hop preached, confirmed a class of ten persons and addressed them. Six of the class were men; four women were confirmed with their husbands, making a most substantal addition to the parish.

During this Lent the parish has paid off an old debt, incurred in the erection of their present church, and have raised and sent for ard their quota for Diocesan Missions, $60. Muncie is growing very rapidly and it is pleasant to have the Church keep pace with its growth. After the service the Bishop had the pleasure of meeting a lamily, father, mother, and three grown children, driven nine miles to the service. They were formerly parishioners of Christ's Church, Indianapolis. After service returned to Indianapolis.

Wednesday, April 17, went to New Albany, reaching there at 8 P. M., and finding a large congregation assembled. After evening prayer, said by Mr. Mallett, I preached on the events of Holy Week, confirmed eight persons and addressed them. Thursday, April 18th, I went to Knightstown 4 P. M.; entertained at tea by Mr. and Mrs. Bradford; service was held in the hall of the mission. The Bishop preached, con firmed two and addressed them, and cele brated Holy Communion. Services are held here twice a month on Sunday morning by Rev. W. D. Engle, who is in charge of the mission. Money is in the bank for purchase of a new lot. The mission is steadily growing in influence and numbers. The hall was well filled. After service returned to Indianapolis

EASTER.

Madison.—Easter was a red-letter day in Christ Church, Madison. A large number of communicants "came early into the sepulchre." The church looked very beautiful, decked with decorations, which were this year rich and elegant. A crowded congregation attended the second service. The choice music prepared by the excellent choir was finely rendered. Christ Church choir, Madison, has the reputation of being one of the finest and best drilled in the Diocese. Every member is an artist. They were never in better condition and voice than on this Easter. The chorus was especially inspiring. The children's festival service occurred at 2:30 P. M. At the night service every available seat was taken. and the church crowded to the sidewalk, Madison Commandery of Knights Templar attended in a body in full regalia, and pre-THE spring meeting of the Southern Con-sented a fine appearance. The rector, who is vention is postponed. No meeting will be a Knight Templar, and the Eminent Prelate of the Commandery, preached.

The services at New Albany on Good Friday and Easter were well attended. The offering on Easter, $100. Mr. Mallett closes his services on the Sunday after Easter and removes to Garrett. On Easter afternoon the Knight Templars attended St. John's, Elkhart, and were addressed by the rector. The offerings were more than a hundred dollars.

At St. Luke's, Frankfort, a boy choir sung for the first time on Easter day. The Knights of Pythias attended church in the evening and were addressed by the rector.

At Trinity, Michigan City, there were over one hundred communicants at the early service. The offerings for missions, $500, still keeping in the lead of every other parish in St. Paul's, Evansville, was crowded on Easter day and extra chairs were placed in the aisles to accommodate the crowd. The music was grand and attendance at the altar very large.

St. Thomas's, Plymouth, never had a more glorious Easter than this year. Three crowded services, beautiful flowers, sweet music and loving liberal hearts made the feast one of joy to rector and people. Every interest was remembered in the offeringsparochial, general and Diocesan missions. The ladies are papering rectory. The boys are putting water in the Riely grounds.

St. John's, Elkhart, had a very blessed Easterattendance; large offerings generous. The children gave $10 for Diocesan Missions and $5 for General Board.

St. Stephen's, Terre Haute, had a glorious Easter. The ladies had succeeded beyond their expectations in raising the debt of $7,000 on the rectory and to complete the Endowment quota. Their hearts were full of thankfulness. One hundred and seventy-five received Holy Communion. Offerings for Diocesan Missions, $98.85; children's offering for

St. James's, New Castle, is one of the most thriving of our newer missions. They had delighful services Easter Day, and a noble sermon from their rector, Mr. Bamford, on the Resurrection. In the even ng the children of the Sunday-school had a happy time. The superintendent, Mr. W. H. Murphy, had arranged a beautiful service. A special choir aided in the music. Easter cards were given by the superintendent to each of the sixty scholars of the school, and a copy of the Easter number of the Young Churchman, Glorious Easter services were celebrated at Trinity Church, Fort Wayne. The offerings aggregated nearly $700, covering up parish deficiencies. The children's offering was $60. Large congregations were present.

At St. James's, Vincennes, there was no more glorious commemoration to the Diocese. The offering was $500, clearing up all deficiencies. The Bishop confirmed four on Easter Tuesday,

From St. Luke's, Frankfort, we hear of delightful Easter services, crowded congregations and a new impulse onward.

At Rockville, Mr. Harry Hargraves raised $118 at Easter to make the last payment on the church. Everybody was glad, Delightful of interest. Our Sunday school has a healthy attended Christ Church, Indianapolis, at 10 A. tellectually, morally and religiously. M., and at 4:30, at Grace Cathedral, baptized two adults and made an address.

Easter was a joyous day for St. Paul's, Jeffersonville. There were two celebrations of the Holy Eucharist. At the early one there were blessed two beautiful brass altar vases and a handsome silk banner with cross for the Sunday-school. The music at the high celebration was superb, some of the best talent of the city assisting. The offering was for the building fund of the new church. The carol service in the afternoon by the children was a great success, the offering for the general missionary fund being good.

DIOCESAN CONVENTION.

The Fifty-second Annual Convention of the Church, in the Diocese of Indiana, is appointed to meet in Grace Cathedral, Indianapolis, on the evening of Tuesday, June 4, 1889. This will be an important convention. Every clergyman should make it his duty to attend, if possible, and every parish and mission should see to it that it is represented by one or more laymen. These should be a layman from every parish. We need their presence and help in the deliberations of the Convention. Section 6, of the Constitution, reads: "It is the duty of every clergyman, entitled to a seat in the Convention, to attend the meetings thereof, and it is the duty of every parish to make special provisions for the necessary expenses of the minister when attending the Convention, and furthermore, it is the duty of every parish to send the full number of lay delegates to which it is entiled, or one, at least, to represent it in convention.

The Bishop's address will be given on Tues day evening, and it is expected that Rev. Dr. Langford, Secretary of the Board of Missions, will be present and make an address.

The Fifth Annual Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will take place on Tuesday morning, June 5th, in Grace Cathedral. Dr. Lang. ford will preach the sermon, the Secretary's reports will be read and, after lunch, papers on various branches of womans' work will be read, followed by conversation and reading of missionary letters.

Wednesday evening there will be the usual missionary meeting and report of the Board of Missions. The reception at the Episcopal residence will be omitted as greatly interfering with the missionary meeting. The Bishop and Mrs. Knickerbacker will be glad to see the members of the Convention, or churchmen of the city, at any time during the session of the Convention. On Thursday evening it is hoped to arrange for a general meeting in behalf of young men, under the auspices of St. Andrew's Brotherhood, and to Indiana; the presentors, Bishop Seymour, have Mr. Houghtaling; of Chicago, Mr. of Springfield and Bishop Knight, of Mil-Mather, of Cleveland, and Rev. Letter to the Children.

Dear Children of the Church in Indiana:

Your Bishop knows that you have had a happy Easter. How much joy does this sweet festival of the Church bring to children What pretty Easter cards and eggs many of you received! I feel sure that I shall have many names added to our Diocesan Roll of Honor from the fruits of Lenten study of the catechism. How anxious I shall be, and our Missionary Board, also, to learn the result of your Lenten offerings for Diocesan Missions. We shall hope to publish them all in our next number of the Worker. I hope, too, that you have all received one of the beautiful Centennial certificates, prepared by Dr. Langford, for every boy and girl of our Sunday-school who makes an offering during Lent for the General Board of Missions. II you have not received them ask your rector about them and give him no peace until you secure one from him. Your Bishop will want to hear from his 1,000 mite chests for the Orphanage. He expects them all to be filled and returns sent in to him as soon as possible after Easter. He will report on them also next month. He hopes to realize $1,000 from the mite chests alone. God bless you all dear Your Friend and Bishop, children.

D. B. KNICKERBACKER.

THE number of deaths we hear of during the past month are greater than usual. St. John's, Bristol, has been greatly bereaved in the death of its venerable senior warden, Mr. R. L. Hanford, for forty years or more a faithful officer of the Church, always in his place when the house of God was open; always the friend and helper of his rector; always ready with his means to do what he could for Zion's welfare. His presence was a benediction; his life a bright and stirring example of Christian consistency and devotion. The Bishop will sadly miss him in his semi-annual visits to St. John's. In his last hours he was minis tered to by his pastor, Rev. Mr Adams, who said the last sad offices at his burial.

Alfred Major, of Shelbyville, died March 25th. At the Bishop's last visit he found him prostrated by sickness and quite feeble. He at that time remembered the missionary work of the Diocese and the WORKER with a generous offering. Mr. Major was an Englishman by birth and a communicant of the Church. His home had been the Bishop's home at each of his visits to Shelbyville. He took a warm interest in the work of the Church in the Diocese. He was a lawyer of eminence and a prominent citizen of Shelbyville. The whole community lamented his untimely disease.

Another good man and churchman passed away on April 2d, the Hon. Jesse P. Siddall, of Richmond. He was an eminent lawyer and honored citizen of Richmond. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Test, now in charge of St. Paul's. Mr. Siddall was confirmed by the Bishop during Mr. Hallam's ministry. He is spoken of by all as a devoted husband, a warm friend and an exemplary man.

Early in the morning of April 1st, died Mr. W. P. Bingham, a vestryman of Christ's Church, Indianapolis. He was the son of a clergyman of our Church, always regular in attendance and full of interest in the Church. At one time he was a brother in St. George's mission. He leaves a wife and five children to mourn his untimely death.

At Fort Wayne, March 31st, Mrs. Martha A. Meriwether fell asleep after a long and painful illness patiently borne. She survived her venerable mother, Mrs. Reed, of Jeffersonville, but a few weeks. Possessed of a bright, cheerful disposition, broad sympathies and generous heart, Mrs. Meriwether left many friends to lament her death. She was buried at Jeffersonville, her former home.

St. John's Parish, Jeffersonville, has been called on to mourn the loss of its oldest member, Mrs. J. G. Read, who had been a resident of the city over fifty years. She remembered the Church in her will, leaving it the sum of a thousand dollars. Her youngest daughter, Mrs. M. A. Meriwether, of Fort Wayne, died a few days later in that city, and they were placed side by side with the offices of Holy Church.

A patient has just left the Hospital, who had two children with her part or all the time while there. We hope the Child's cot Fund will grow large enough for us to have a cot, to be used all the time to relieve some little sufferer. It is intended that children shall give to this fund, but we hope that "grown-up" people will take pleasure in giving too. To our friends who wish to send us a gift, we will say that we need table cloths two and onefourth (21) yards and two and one-half (21) yards long. There are here two church families and a district growing very rapidly as a prospect for the future.

BISHOP KNICKERBACKER'S RETREAT.

Through the courtesy of Bishop Knicker-backer, the rector attended the annual Retreat backer, the rector attended the annual Kerreat for the Diocesan Clergy of Indiana, at Indian-apolis, upon Tuesday, Wednesday and Thurs-day, February 19th, 20th and 21st. It was one of those helpful and inspiring occasions that never lose their effect. Bishop McLaren, of Chicago, conducted the services and his of Cheago, conducted the services and his thorough acquaintanceship with the needful details and his power of analytical thought made him a leader par excellence. The services were held in Grace Cathedral, especial benediction. The churchliness manifest throughout, the stirring exhortations, discriminating definitions, close analyses, grasp both of the temper and needs of the time, discernment of indi-vidual clerical dangers and suggestions of the vidual elerical dangers and suggestions of the remedy, call for our hearitiest acknowledge-ments. Rightly used, such a course must leave an abding impress upon the entire assemblage. We could not but offer the prayer of one of the reformers: "Deepen these impressions, O Lord and make them lasting." "Bett. Lenis Revora to 8.9. Trail. lasting."—Rev. A BEAUTIFUL CEREMONY.

Pupils of the Young Ladies' Institute Plant an Oak and Linden on the School Grounds.

The lot at the southeast corner of Central avenue and Seventh street has been bought by Bishop Knickerbacker, and upon it an Epis-copal Cathedral and school-building are to be erected, the latter for the Young Ladies' In-stitute. The congregation of Grace Cathedral will occupy the other building. Preliminary work on the school-building will be carried on this year, and it is proposed to have the structure of pressed brick and stone. It promises to be one of the handsomest and best adapted for school purposes of any in the state. The ground was broken yesterday, when the class The of '89 followed the appointed custom of Arbor friends. They gathered about the tree, and the dedicatory song, composed by the class, was sung.

When woods and slopes grow April hopes, And times are waxing later. We bring a token of love unbroken, To our dear Alma Mater.

We plant this tree, our gift to thee, A hope and a young ambition. Time comes to all, and may it fall A sure and glad fruition.

Be patient, sure, and so endure The old and honored morals, The old and honored morals, So grow to strength and fame at length And furnish classic laurels.

We now invoke with this our oak Heaven's supremest fate, Upon our class good will to pass To the future graduate.

Professor Lyon then called in order for the several exercises. The first was a paper by Miss Daisy Lemon, who gave a short sketch of the custom of tree planting, seven years being the length of time since it was generally taken up. She referred to the states added each year to the list of those in which the custom prevails. She gave various reasons why they selected the oak—these being its history, strength, growing qualities, etc. The mem-bers of the class were earnestly asked to re-semble it in its best particulars, and to remember it, and visit it, and let the thought of the tree in after years bring to memory the happy days of their school life.

happy days of their school life. Misses Helen Each member of the class. Misses Helen Vail, Kate Elmunds, Daisy Lemon, Pearl Schmuck, Daisy Tully and Nellie Austin—then threw a shovelful of earth upon the roots. After the short ceremony nec successful planting of the tree. Rev. George E. Swan, rector of Grace Cathedral, made a few remarks regarding the tree and trees in genrenal which were received with applause. The closing song, also composed by the class, was rendered to the tune of "Nearer, my God, to Thee.' It was:

Nearer our future home,
With happy hearts,
We come and breathe a prayer
Bet-ire the day departs.
So by our juy to be,
Nearer, our God, to Thee,
Nearer, our God, to Thee,
Nearer, Near earer to thee

The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Edwin J. Hunter, of the Church of the Holy Innocents'. Thus ended the brief but pleasant and successful tree planting of the class of '89 of the Indianapolis Young Ladies' Institute.—Indianapolis Journal.

HOW HIS NAME WAS CHANGED.

The presence of Bishop Knickerbacker in the city yesterday administering the rite of confirmation recall's the story of the venerable Bishop, now dead, who used to go about the country baptizing, and who was slightly deaf. One day a lisping mother took to him a little girl baby in long dresses, whose name was to be Lucy.

"What shall I call this child madam?" asked

"What shall I cauthis cultu madam?" asked the Bishop, "responded the mother. "What?" exclaimed the Bishop, who could scarcely believe his ears. "Lucy, thir," repeated the mother.

OH! that man would accept the testimony of Christ touching the blessedness of giving. He who sacrifices most, loves most; and he who loves most, is most blessed. Love and sacrifice are related to each other like seed and fruit; each produces the other. The seed of sacrifice brings forth the fragrant fruit of love, and love always has in its heart the seeds of new sacrifice. He who gives but a part is not made perfect in love. Love rejoices to give all; it does not measure its sacrifice. It was Judas, not Mary, who calculated the value of the alabaster box of contraent. He who is infinitely blessed is the minite giver; and man made in His likeness, was intended to find his highest blessedness in the completest self-giving. He who receives and does not give is like the Dead Sea. All the fresh floods of Jordan cannot sweeten its dead, salt depths. So all the streams of God's bounty can not sweeten a heart that has no outlet; is ever receiving, yet never full and overflowing. If those whose horizon is as narrow as the bushel under which they hid their light could be induced to come out into a large place and take a worthy view of the Kingdom of Christ and of their relations to it, if they could be pursuaded to make the principle of Christian giving regnant in all their life, their happiness would be as much increased as their useful-ness.—J. Indiana has been blessed with a bountiful harvest this year. This assures financial prosperity to our state and we trust corresponding financial prosperity for all Church work. The cry of hard times can not be offered as a plea for not contributing toward Church and Diocesan expenses.

THE CHILDREN'S EASTER OFFERINGS

Will the clergy please have the following letter read to those to whom it is addressed? To the children who are contributors to the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society in

In behalf of the Bishops and all the mis sionaries, domestic and foreign, and in behalf of our whole Board of Missions, we heartily thank the boys and girls, one and all, who have contributed to the Children's Offering for Missions in this centennial year. The number of those who have contributed this year is much greater than it has ever been year is much greater than it has ever been in any year before, and when the money is all in it will prove to be the largest amount that has been given by the children in any year. Already more than 150,000 centennial certification of the children in any year. cates have been sent out, and it is likely that many thousands more will be called for.

The children have taken a great deal of pleasure in doing what they could to help the missions and missionaries. In many in-stances the gifts have been the fruit of self-denial. One Sunday school of colored childenial. One Sunmy sensor of control chirdren, all of whom were poor, sent an offering from every child. Some earned money in one way and some in another way. In one of the schools the largest gift was from a little boy who was paralyzed and blind and totally helpless. Lying upon his bed, he kept his box beside him to remind callers of the missionaries of the Lord Jesus. Another little fellow gladly sent his velocipede money. have done remarkably well.

The list of names is very long, and when all have been received they will be arranged according to Dioceses and presented to the General Convention, as the names of children who have contributed toward the support of missions in 1889.

With God's blessing, your gifts will prove a great help, and be very useful in spreading abroad the good tidings of salvation. The Church must look more and more each year for support of the missionary work to the for support of the missionary work to the boys and girls who are now learning to give. May God bless you and make you glad to do all the good you can and to be laithful soldiers and servants of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

READING-ROOM OF ST. JAMES'S, VIN-CENNES, IND.

A brief communication in the May number of St. Andrew's Cross, respecting the work of the Brotherhood in this city, has brought at least one inquiry for particulars, with the suggestion that the Brotherhood at large might be benefited by an explanation of the work and the attendant results. My willingness to comply with this request is only limited by the amount of space I can command in the Cross for the purpose.

To be brief, the parish of St. James's, of this city, has established a mission in a suburb known as North Vincennes, with a day-school attachment. In his zeal and kindness, Maj W. Penn Gould, a retired officer of the U. S W. Pehn Golid, a reture of more of the 0.5.

A, added a room to be used solely as a reading-room. This he endowed with about four hundred volumes of good books, for young and old, daily and weekly papers, juvenile weeklies and magazines. To the Brotherhood now devolves the pleasant task of maintaining this reading-room, and though it has been in existence but a few short months—possi-bly five—the results are in every way grat-

It is a pleasant thing to contemplate-a lot of boys, of various ages, in this room amusing themselves playing dominoes, checkers, krokinole, or chasing the "Pigs in Clover," instead of scouting around the streets and alleys, and under cover of darkness forming habits that will forever shut them out of the babits that will forever shut them out of the enjoyment of a true life. Of course, we do not consider that all are fish that come into our net, but find contentment in the belief that we are doing good to at least one of

So far the nightly attendance is from fifteen to twenty-five persons, young and old. The room is open only on week-day evenings, from 7 to 9:30 o'clock. It is in charge of a janitor, and two or more members of the Brotherhood are visitors during the week, the purpose being for each detail to spend at least two evenings there—four, if circumstances will permit. In our Brotherhood, as in every-thing else, there are drones, and the work devolves upon a few members, but I have yet the volves upon a new ineligible of the volves upon to hear of a single complaint on that score.

We estimate that the cost of maintaining this room will be $100 per year, and if we may measure its future by the past, the investment is one that will pay a profit of 500 per cent. It reaches a class that would be otherwise unapproachable, and the good it will do is already apparent.
H. S. Ruppy, Secretary.

THE Church Helper, of Western Michigan has the following admirable article, to which are appended the initials of the respected Bishop of that Diocese. It will hit many parishes and some clergymen nearer home:

"PREACHING ON TRIAL.-Yes, that is it pre-

the parish wish 'to look him over.' The plan the parish wish 'to look him over.' Inte plan is admirable for the parish. Man, woman and child all pass their judgment. Should he not suit, all that remains is to hand him his fee and politely see him off.

"But how for the rejected candidate? By leaving his parish he has announced that he is a plant of the parish he has announced that he is a properly the parish."

see he went to —, and they would not call bim; and the poor minister has the mortifi-tion of his rejection.

"This whole procedure is utterly destruct-ive of scriptural bonor for the ministry. It brings down the curse, 'He that despiseth you despiseth Me.' Go into a parish where they have been having candidates, and hear them talk of the clergy they 'have had to preach.' What a burlesque, shall I say, on a minister of God for men! Let this candidating business go on for months in a parish, and people like to have it so, and the demorand people like to have it so, and the demor-nization is such that when a call is made it is 'a man accepted by us,' instead of 'a mes-senger, watchman, steward of the Lord, com-ing to be over us in the Lord. 'Yes! We honor the clergyman who sternly refuses to do this thing; who says, 'You can come into my parish; I'll tell you where I lived and labored; you can go to my Bishop and my clerical brethren; you may take any and every honorable way to know me and my work; but not one step will I take

"And we believe that more parishes call clergymen who take this dignified stand than clergymen who take this dignified stand than call the candidating ministers. The people who take this course know in their hearts that it is an utter sacrifice of dignity in the man and the minister by whom it is ac-

What is to be the destiny of the world? From the present appearances it will be whatever the English speaking peoples make it. Their rapid advancement to places of influence and increase of numbers is marvelous. In an article, printed in the Youth's Companion, Hon. W. E. Gladstone, of England, calculates that in the last one hundred years the number of in the last one hundred years the number of those who habitually speak English has in-creased from 15,000,000 to 105 000,000, and that in the year 1900 the number will be in-creased to 120,000,000. If this ratio of increase should continue, in the year 2000 it will be the enormous aggregate of 840,000,000. Now, in the eleven decades to intervene between this time and that, what will these English-speaktime and unit, what will these English-speak-ing peoples have accomplished? As to the United States, Mr. Gladstone reckons an in-crease of population to 550,000,000. This wil-leave 250,000,000 for England, her colonies and leave 290,000,000 for England, for colonies and scattering, distributed probably as follows: England, 100,000,000; British Possessions in America, 80,000,000; Australasia, 90,000,000; scattered elsewhere, 20,000,000. These estimates, as Mr. Gladstone remarks, seem "sufficiently startling," but, he continues, "It is an estimate founded on references to the past, which, if not mathematically determinate, are liable to error within very narrow limits." Now, is it saying too much that these Englishspeaking peoples, no doubt the dominant race of the world now as it will be then, so widely distributed and in such vast numbers, will hold the destiny of the world in their hands?

"COMFORT us, O compassionate Savior, for "Personting on Traint.—Yes, that is it pre-cisely! And we wish the clergy would re-fuse to do it. We know the evasions. A especially for him whom Thou hast just taken polite letter goes to A. B. C., asking him. The principal object to which I would call 30 00 your attention this year, is our Diocesan 24 00 Church Home and Orphanage. The lot bought by the children's offering and the money raised last year by the A. B. Has not the time 25 00 come to begin this work in earnest? May I suggest, as one plan, the organization of a Building Ten of King's Daughters in each 10 00 parish and mission, pledged to work for this worthy object until it is accomplished. Who 300 00 will begin?

In October next the triennial meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in New 6 00 York during the session of General Convention. Letter to the Children.

DEAR BOYS-Your Bishop arrived safe and sound at his old fishing ground on Clear Water Lake, Minn., on July 18. He is located in a beautiful grove on the bank of the lake, in a cottage looking out across the water. He has a hammock swung beside the cottage, where he will repose when not out fishing, and one for Mrs. Knickerbacker also. We have tried the fishing for two days, and though the weather is very warm and dry, yet we have been able to catch some beauties. The afternoon of our arrival we went down to a deep hole just in sight of our cottage, and pulled in a dozen fine bass. The next day, with a young nephew to row us, we gathered in twice as many. Next week we shall have our hand in and visit the cave and Lake Augusta and Big Island. Then look out for five-pound bass. A friend in an adjoining cottage caught three big ones on Friday, averaging five pounds apiece. How I wish some of the boys were here to go out with me. It is so restful up here, the nights cool. We have no trouble in sleeping nine and ten hours every night. With much love.

Your Bishop, D. B. KNICKERBACKER.

Dedication of New School Building and Closing of School at Lima.

Howe Grammar School closed its fifth year with examinations and interesting exercises on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 25, 26 and 27. A considerable number of visitors were present from abroad, who were delighted with the appearance of the grand new school buildings and the manly deportment of the boys. On Tuesday afternoon, from 2:30 to 4 o'clock, there was a reception in the parlors of the school for Bishop and Mrs. Knickerbacker and friends from abroad, at which the ladies and gentlemen of the village quite generally called, and spent a pleasant hour and a half in social intercourse. In the evening at 7:30, the beautiful St. Mark's Memorial Church was crowded, the vested choir of the school rendering the choral parts of the service most delight'ully. The Bishop silver badge. The afternoon was given up to preached and confirmed a class of five, two being boys from the school who had been baption of prizes, the school rooms being filled tized and prepared by the Rector. At the close appropriate adnesday morning at 9 o'clock, the church was again well filled and Holy Communion cele- Ramsay, of Aurora, and then Sweet Home was brated by the Bishop. At 10:80 the school sung and the Bishop pronounced the beneand clergy present, robed at the residence of the school, and led by the highly pleased with the exercises and all vested choir, proceeded to the new school voted the Howe Grammar School a first class building in procession, singing on each floor institution for the education of youth. distinguished husband, for the accommodation of the school, and paying a well-deserved tribute to the principal, Rev. C. N. Spalding, for the good work he had accomplished in the brief space of five years, in establishing a school that was an honor to the Diocese, and full of happy promise for the future. He also acknowledged, with gratitude, the promised donation of $500 for a library for the school, in memory of Samuel Burnell, long associated with Mr. John B. Ho e in business and in the Church, from his children, Mrs. Nicholls and Mrs. Gunther.

The Bishop was followed by Dr. Fair, of Grand Rapids, Mich., in an eloquent address on the true end of all education, and especially of Christian education. The singing of a hymn and the benediction closed the interesting exercises of the morning, and the many friends present viewed with delight the accommodations of the new building, consisting on the first floor of a reception room, two music rooms, school-room for sixty boys, and four recitation rooms; on the second floor rooms for sixteen boys and four teachers: third floor, sixteen rooms and teachers' rooms, and fourth story, the hospital.

The principal's residence containing office, parlors, dining-room, boys' reading and reception room, and dormitory for sixteen boys, guest-room, matron's room, rooms for help, kitchen, etc., all built of yellow brick. The main hall is connected with the dining-room by an outside corridor. The gymnasium is outside. In the basement of the main hall are twelve bath-rooms and closets, and the whole group of buildings is heated by steam and supplied with hot and cold water and good sewerage. The cost of the whole property is about $85,000. It is situated on six acres of land, giving ample campus for play grounds and sports of all kinds, there being a base ball ground, lawn tennis courts, etc.

On Wednesday evening there was delightful dramatic entertainment with music by the school glee club. The crowd in attendance was beyond the accommodation and all were greatly pleased. On Thursday morning there was a lawn tennis tournament that occupied most of the morning. The winner of the game, Philip Williams, of San Francisco, was presented with a beautiful declamations and compositions with distribudresses were made by Dean Faude, Rev. Mr. diction. "ABIDE WITH MR."

A correspondence has been going on in the columns of the Standard on the subject of hymns, in the course of which the practice of departing from an author's original has been condemned. The well-known hymn, "Abide with Me," is one such that has been mentioned among the mutilated hymns, and Mr. Maxwell-Lyte publishes the exact words of his father's copy. He remarks that the MS, is not simply on a loose sheet, but the last of several poems, in a MS. volume, in his father's handwriting. It may, therefore, be inferred that he considered the hymn revised to his satisfaction, or he would hardly have copied it into a volume containing other, apparently, completed poems:

Abide with me: fast falls the eventide; The darkness thickens, Lord, with me abide! When other helpers fall, and comforts fiee, Help of the helpless, O, abide with me!

Earth's joys grow dim: its glories pass awa Change and decay in all around I see, O Thou, who changest not, abide with me

Not a brief glance I beg, a passing word; But as Thou dwelt'st with Thy disciples, Lord, Familiar, condescending, patient, free, Come, not to sojourn, but abide with me.

Come not in terrors, as the King of kings, But kind and good, with healing in Thy wings, Tears for all wose, a heart for every plea— Come, Friend of sinners, and thus abide with me.

Thou on my head in early youth did smile; And, though rebellious and perverse meanwhile, Thou hast not left me, oft as I left Thee. On to the close, O Lord, abide with me!

I need Thy presence every passing hour, What but Thy grace can foil the tempter's power? Who like Thyself my guide and stay can be? Through cloud and sunshine, O abide with me!

I fear no foe, with Thee at hand to bless. Ills have no weight, and tears no bitterness. Where is death's sting? Where, grave, thy victory? I triumph still, if Thou abide with me.

Hold, taen, Thy cross before my closing eyes. Speak through the gloom, and point me to the skies. Heaven's morning breaks' and earth's vain shadows In life, in death, O Lord, abide with me!

THE LAMBETH CONFERENCE AND INTEMPERANCE.

[From the Southern Churchman.]

The following is the report of the committee appointed to consider the subject of the duty of the Church with regard to intemperance. The committee consisted of the Bishop of London (chairman), Colorado, Kilmore, Newcastle, The Niger, Pennsylvania, Kochester, Saskatchewan, Sierra Leone, Sodor and Man, and Zululand:

"It is not necessary to say much of the sindiness of intemperance in itself, or of the widespread mischief that is caused by it. If it can not be considered the most simitul of all sins, it is difficult to dony that it is the most mischievous. And whenever large masses of the people fine masses can only obtain it at wages too law to sustain healthy life—the evils caused by intemperance press with heavier weight than ever they did before. The Church can not be justified in witnessing this enormous amount of sin and misery without endeavoring to ascertain whether any special means can be discovered for met that yagen means can be discovered for met that yagen and persistency.

"The experience of the last fifty years is strongly in favor of the use of the special means which have hitherto achieved whatever success has been achieved in steming the strong current of this widely prevailing sin. It may be true that, if the whole Church had been thoroughly alive to the extent and nature of the mischied, much and party and lair, it is the perseverance and insistence of the Church, and without here is the temperance societies that has awakened the Church, and without these societies we have no evidence to show that much or even anything would have been done to deal with the evil. The temperance societies have compelled the attention of the public as large, and have been done to deal with even! The temperance societies have compelled the attention of the public as large, and have by so foliag profile no doubt that furnishmens is now regarded with much more severe condemnation than before these societies began their work, and the change is largely, if not entirely, due to them.

The ten presence societies have compelled the medical profession to study the subject with more care than before, and the result of this study has greatly influenced both their utterances and their practice. The science of medicine is so complex and difficult, and the practice of medicine has been so largely influenced by the subject of the indicate and the practice of medicine has been so largely influenced by the subject of the indicate and the practice of medicine has been so largely influenced by the the indicate and the practice of the indicate and the practice of the indicate and the subject of the indicate and the subject of the indicate and the practice of insurance edices. THE GERM THEORY.

Frankly outspoken people often express their surprise as secsessions to Rome from our communion. At first they are unable to uncertaint how such things can happen, then being obliged to admit that such things do happen, they are forced to assign a cause, or clergyman's past record is searched for "Romalizing germs." Sometimes she Church is blamed for retaining such "germs" in her formularies, but no one ever thinks of assigning a cause which may exist among lay people. The Fapacy, however, does seem to many minds to afford a refuge from the lay pope or proper, who can be such as the such

The editor preached to ninety people on Sunday morning, in a building whose appointments were almost sumptuous, but the pew cushions were better than the aitar cloth. The building was set down in the midst of a dense population of souls, who were entirely unreached, and the rector's hands were completely tied by vexatious local conditions.

The power of the gospel is felt when a preacher looks into many faces waiting for a message, not a few luxurious liturgical loungers, who slap him with their closed pocket-books, and return him and his Master the insult of a few bits of silver from 'heaps of money." The germs of Romanism in such men as the Faulist swere perhaps here. Hampered bysend conductive the poor. Rome is at the faulist way for the poor. Rome is attentive not so much from her doctrine, so from her popular side. A reporter who visited the new Roman Bishop of Detroit, Dr. Foley, to inquire about his elevation, found him at the altar early on a week day morning with a congregation of two hundred, probably an average attendance. Many a shining pulpit light has been quenched by the deadness out doctrine would mean explusion from that particular pulpit. Another "germ" is the sense of weakness which Protestant clergymen have, and are able to contrast with the, at least apparent, influence of the Roma

A large proportion of our difficulties seem to be connected with our vestry system. When a parish has a representative body of ten good christian men, all as actively religious as the did accors of the early Ohurch, devoted to the vest of the church, and instant in season, sealth of the casen, to uphold her, what a happy man the rector of that parish is! But when as is so often the case, a full vestry can not be obtained without admixtures of all sorts of opinions and shades of worldliness, he enters straightway into an almost Egyptian bondage. The record of unpaid salaries in our little laxy parishes in many parte of the country is a scandal. A clergyman is callet to be, not as a straight of the country is a standard of the country is a standard of the country is a standard of the clique, and a half starved servant at a little clique, and a half starved servant at a little clique, and a half starved servant at that. Something must be done whereby, without taking away the financial responsibility of these parishes, no clergyman should ever be dependent upon them, but as long as his work is satisfactory to the Bishop and Dioceses have about the property of the start of the states ought to the property of the start of th

Revolutions ought ordinarily to be looked upon as a calamity, and also for the man or minister who has the revolutionary spirit! Occasionally, however, it happens that a clergyman achieves the turning up-side-down of a parish without spilling out any important element. The most important elements in feel-ment. The most important elements in feel-ment. The most important elements in feel-ment of the views, has been called to an influence of the views, has been called to an influence of the views, has been called to an influence in the part of the contraged "old timers." and then filled it to overflowing with the needly souls who are willing to be trained and taught in real earnest Church-maship, thus trebling the parochial influence. How much we could do in many places were it not for obstructiveness among Church people! The sense of proprietorship in the church, elder sons like the one in the parable, who are insufferably annoyed that the prodigal didn't stay away! Well, the ideal will come in good time, but some of us may have

When we see a clerryman on $1,200 a year, and a house that costs the rent of another one to heat, who is the spiritual peator of men with millions upon millions of money, whose incomes are sometimes $150,000 a year, we are struck with a certain incongruity. The one clergyman can attend to all the important people well enough, if he can stand the contrasts which are being thrust upon him all the times by his maders. We would suggest to improve the "setting" of the good men who missier to them. But better than this would be to employ more missionary clergy in our parishes. Twelve hundred dollars will satisfy a saint who is also a financier. Let us have more saintle—The Michigan Churchman.

The following is from an English Vicar: In this large and extensive parish many persons this large and extensive parise many persons have from time to time opened their griefs to me. Persons have come from a distance to consult me. The duty is a most unpleasant one, from which, while always ready to discharge it when called upon, I shrink, from an unaffected feeling of my own incompetency to discharge it properly. I frequently have di-rected people to seek other advice, and some-times that of laymen, as in the case of children, whom I have referred to their parents, husbands to wives, and wives to husbands. From my own experience, I should arrange those who come to a clergyman for advice, under the following heads

1. Persons who have their consciences burdened with great sins.

2. Persons of unsound mind, morbid feelings or heated imagination. 3. Persons of scrupulous conscience and not of strong intellect.

4. Persons who from the circumstances of the times have a vague idea that they ought to confess.

The system I adopt is simply that of the Church of England, which would discountenance the habit of confession.

When I have given them advice or comfort, and have put them in the way of regulating their own minds, I dismiss them. I tell them to come up no more, or only when new doubts or perplexities occur to them. But the Romish system adopted by Mr. — and his friends system adopted by Mr.—and mis triends being the reverse in principle, is also the re-verse in its effects. We assist people in their difficulties and sorrows, but when we have as-sisted them, tell them to confess to God alone and no longer to come to us. But they, regarding confession as a means of grace, must urge men to have recourse to it, and must be hypocrites unless they themselves confess. nyportres uniess they themselves comess.

How comes it to have passed that while Mr.

— was my curate, he never thought of coming to me for confession? that he never thought of it till six years after he had left my church? How is it that no curate of my church (and I have had many), no officer, lay or clerical, of my church has ever made a confession? How is it that not a single memcontession? How is it that not a single mem-ber of my own family, not one of my own dear children, for whose spiritual welfare I am bound before all things to watch, ever come to me or go to any one else for confession? It is because I hold that while confession? It is because I not unit write contes-sion may be occasionally necessary as medi-cine to a mind diseased, it is the exception, not the rule; and I teach them to regulate their own minds and go to confession to God their own minds and go to confession to God alone. How is it I never go to confession myself? Often, very often, in my life I have required and sought "ghostly counsel and ad-vice," but in my early years I sought and opened my griefs to a friend who was, and is, a layman; and for the last two and twenty years I have obtained it from one who is bound to me by the closest ties that can bind together two human beings. The great aim of the priest who hears confession should be to enable the person to do without confession, as the aim of the doctor should be to enable his patient to do without a doctor.

A NEW CONSECRATION.

We of the clergy need, above all others, to give our hearts to the mission work. We can not make others believe unless we believe our-

There are no new themes for the ministry; no new ways of giving to God. But we all need a new consecration to Christ, and a firm, unwavering belief that the Gospel of the Son of God will do for all heathen folk what it has done through the ages, leading wander-ing, weary souls to the glorious liberty of sons of God and heirs of everlasting life.

We have faithful men and women who give their time and talents as our agents. We have earnest and devoted missionaries. We are not without encouragement. But we want to see the whole Church animated with the spirit which now possesses but a few. And it is by these few that the rest are to be awakened. They who are out of the way will never convert themselves. They who are indifferconvert themselves. They who are indiner-ent will not become zealous of their own ac-cord. They who are in darkness will not be-come enlightened with their own light. It would be a great gain if every member of the Church could be fed to press home upon him self the personal inquiry: Do I cel the re-sponsibility of giving the Gope I to those who have it not, as I ought to feel it? Am I manitesting the interest in missions which I ought to show? Am I giving according to the Apos tele's rule? Am I one of the many who do not care much about the missionary work of the Church or am I one of the faur who have Church, or am I one of the few who do? Let us begin this inquiry each with himself. If our own hearts are lighted with the love of Christ we shall give light to others. We shall be each a source of energy and power. If we have at heart the provence of the contract of th Church, or am I one of the few who do? have at heart the progress of the Redeemer's Kingdom in the world, we shall strive to in-terest others; and we shall not strive in vain. The word of the Lord which, we speak will not return to us void, but it shall accomplish that which He pleases, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto He sends it. -- Board of Mis

RT. REV. D. B. KNICKERBACKER, D. D., Visitor.

The object of this school is to enable Churchmen of Indiana to procure for their daughters, in their own State, that Churchly training and those other educational advantages they have hitherto been compelled to seek in the Eastern States or in Europe.

The school has passed the experimental stage.
As the best evidence of its success, and its best recommendation, the Principals call attention to recommendation, the trincipals can attention to the fact that the school has grown steadily since its establishment, until to-day enlarged accommo-dations are necessary. The fourth year of the school will begin in September with eightesn teachers, and with courses of study more complete than those of any other school for young ladies in Indiana.

The Collegiate Department.

This department is designed for those who wish to pursue a more extended course than is usual in English, mathematics, the sciences, etc. Graduates of high schools, and other schools, can, with advantage, spend a year or two in this

The Preparatory Department.

THE 12th Sunday after Trinity is observed in many parishes by a remembrance of the noble work of ministration to the children of silence-the deaf and dumb of our land. Offerings in Western parishes are made for Rev. A. W. Mann, whose life is devoted to ministering to their spiritual needs. Mr. Mann and his work is known to the clergy of Indiana, and we feel sure he will be grateful for any remembrance of his work made on that in warm weather as in cold, the monthly pay- Sunday through the offertories of our Indiana

Diocesan Items.

Diocesan items are scarce in these dog days when clergy and people are having for the most part their vacations.

Grace Cathedral has been rebuilding and will be completed and ready for occupancy by the middle of September. It will be much larger and more commodious, and for the money expended, $8,500, a marvel of cheapness. The new organ, costing $2,500, built at Louisville and presented by Mr. Delos Root, it is expected, will be complete and ready for use at the completion of the church.

Mr. Swan spent a month in Minnesota and returned to the city about the first of August, and has been kept busy looking after new church and organ. It is expected the consecration of the Cathedral will take place the cation. We have bought four lots, on which last Sunday in September.

Another event of great interest this month has been the laying of the corner-stone of the new and beautiful stone church erecting in Michigan City. We have been furnished with the account to be found in another column.

The Bishop and Mrs. Knickerbacker arrived home on Friday, August 30, and the Bishop entered upon his work immediately, spending Sunday with the vacant mission at Worthington.

BLOOMINGTON .- It is expected to let the contract for the erection of a beautiful church here early in September. The church will be eligibly located on a corner lot. The plans have been drawn by Reed Bros., of Evansville, architects of St. Paul's Church and chapel. The ladies connected with the mission are beginning to work with zeal for the furnishing of the new church.

BRISTOL-It is expected Rev. J. Turner, after his ordination to the Disconate at South Bend, September 8th, will be appointed missionary at Bristol and Warsaw.

Mr. McGlone's sermons and lectures are interesting, thoughtful and attractive. The singing at this church, both the chants and hymns, is good. The boy choir is rapidly improving."

HAMMOND-This town has suffered severely the past month in the burning of the great packing house of Hammond Bros. It will be a serious loss to our mission there, many of whom are connected with it. The Bishop has to build a church, for $1,100, which was to be paid within sixty days, or we forfeited $50. We had raised $950 as the time expired, and were behind $150. In order to save this $50 we asked a kind friend to come to our aid, which he did, making the loan. We then paid for the lots and had the deed made out to the proper authorities of the Diocese. So this gentleman holds the deed until we pay him the $150 which he so kindly loaned to the mission. Is there not some noble-souled man or woman of the Church in this great Diocese who will for the love of Christ and the grandeur of this noble work pay this small amount? This is, without exception, the most promising mission work in the State of Indiana, and money given to it will give a royal return and a munificent percentage to divinely disposed contributors.

The population of Hammond is steadily increasing, although St. Paul's Mission has suffered severely by the removal of several excellent families, faithful workers and liberal contributors. We also keep an eye on East Chicago, a new and growing town, where the COLUMBUS-Rev. J. G. LAYING OF THE CORNER STONE OF TRINITY CHURCH, MICHIGAN CITY.

Three P. M. of August 14 was appointed for this interesting event. A large congregation assembled at this hour, when Dean Faude, assisted by Rev. F. W. Adams, of Elkhart, Rev. Walter Scott, of Laporte, and Rev. R. C. Wall, of Hammond, conducted the services. After the processional hymn and prayers by Dean Faude, he read a list of deposits in the cornerstone, and Rev. R. C. of population of 1880 will in all probability be increased by the census of 1890 to 2,225,000. Many of its cities and towns are growing steadily in population. As a rich agricultural state it is improving constantly by careful culture and improved methods. Between thirty and forty million bushels of wheat, one hundred and twenty million bushels of corn, vast quantities of oats, barley, rye, hay and potatoes and fruit constitute an increasing source of wealth, whilst cattle, horses and hogs add materially to its resources. The experience of nearly six places it could reach. This would be only years in Indiana convinces us that in no part two cents a week for each. Thus far we have Indiana is a growing state. The 2,000,000 of the country is a grander and more hopeful only reached an average of half of this sum. Shame it is that when there is such a grand field before us Churchmen should withhold the means that will enable us to cultivate it effectively. Brother Churchmen, shall we not do better this year than ever before? Shall not our Diocesan missionary contributions be doubled? It will be, if every Churchman realizes his stewardship and does as God has blessed him.

OUR SCHOOLS.

The Howe Grammar School will enter upon its sixth year the 11th of September. We are pleased to learn that the school will have large additions to its numbers. In addition to most of the old boys who will return, at last report the rector had received applications for the admission of fifteen new boys. It will not be long before the new buildings and increased accommodations will all be occupied. The school should be a source of pride and pleasure to the whole Diocese. No better school for boys can be found anywhere.

The Indianapolis Institute will open in its old quarters on September 17. Arrangements will be made for the accommodation of a few additional boarders this year. But the school will be greatly cramped for room and growth until our new buildings can be erected. We hope the way may open for this by spring. The

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY.

The Diocesan Secretary desires to correct a mistake in last month's WORKER, whereby the total amount raised by the various guilds for parish work appeared to be the total of Auxiliary offerings. We wish it were so truly. The total of Auxiliary offerings in money and boxes was $1,513.98; of woman's parish work reported from thirty-two parishes and missions, $10,541.70. This sum would have been much larger if all the parishes and missions had heeded the Bishop's request and sent reports of their year's work.

HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL.

Never in her history as a commonwealth has Indiana been favored with a more bountiful harvest than the present season. This calls for thankfulness, and it is a good custom to observe a Harvest Home Sunday, decorate the church with fruits and flowers and grain, and render thanks especially to God. This should come in September, at the close of the harvest, and need not interfere with the due observance of Thanksgiving Day. We hope many parishes will observe the festival, and not forget in their offerings the good work of St. Stephens Hospital.

LEGACIES FOR CHURCH WORK.

Two of our parishes have received legacies recently by the wills of deceased members of $1,000 each. They will in both cases prove of great help, the one in building a new church and the other in aiding in sustaining a weak parish. These pious souls have thus perpetuated their good work and shown their love for their Savior, contributing to help forward the good work of the kingdom after their departure hence. We mention them as being worthy of imitation. We wish all our Church people, to whom God has given means to leave behind, would remember the work of the Church of God by consecrating some of it for His glory. There are many Diocesan interests that might be thus strengthened-Scholarships in our girls' and boys' schools, the Missionary Fund of the Diocese, the Aged and Infirm Clergy Fund, our Diocesan Orphanage and Home for the Aged, etc. All these should in time receive remembrance from Churchmen of Indiana. They can not do better with their money than by showing forth their gratitude to Him who has given them the power to get it; who has crowned their life with mercies without number, and who through His Church and her benovolent work demands this at their hands

LEWIS B. MARTIN, Treasurer of the Diocese. TERRE HAUTE, IND., Aug. 21, 1889.

WE clip the following from the Church Record and wish the clergy of Indiana would give it attentive reading. In every town in our Diocese there are hundreds of people perfectly indifferent to religious duties, who, if the clergy would look them up, get acquainted with them, and invite them to Cheaper than any Place in the City Church, and seek to get their children into the Sunday-school, could be gathered in What is greatly needed in all our old parishes and missions is an infusion of new blood and new life. The clergy if they will apply their afternoons to this kind of pastoral work would soon find it would tell in the increase of their congregations and confirmation classes. Sturdy, aggressive, pushing work is needed in all our parishes. A little, nay, a good deal of enthusiasm and faith in the Church and her blessed means of grace:

The Church of To-day has the following ex-cellent words to say about struggling parishes:

"Many a little parish is struggling to maintain itself in village and town against social lain itself in village and town against social influences and prejudices, and minister and people are disheartened. The weakness of the Church is readily explained in such way as to make the outlook well night hopeless. All the influences are said to be against the Church, and all the people are represented as lawing other religious associations and in-

"But are there not in every community persons and families, particularly among the peor, who have no Church connection, to whom this Church can and ought to minister? There is no town or village where there are not scores of poor and neglected people who can be won by kindness. It would be the greatest gain if the clergy and people in our small parishes would give up thought concerning persons of means and social position as alone desirable acquisitions to the Church, and go after those who have no such recom mendation to a modern parish.

"The thought of clergy and people has been confined too much to those who could pay for a good pew and people of influence. In this country, the children of the poor of this generation are very likely to be rich in the next, But whether there is such proceed is ours, the Master's mission the precious souls in every community.

All this is very true. How many times have we heard the expressions, "Some of the best people in town were in Church this morn-ing." "If we only had a rector who could get hold of the best people!" Nay, we have known of a parish of the kind where the people actually murmured because the rector interested himself in the most degraded people in the town; people who were positively outcasts from all the churches for a reason which they could not help, and which came to them by nature.

In 1875 there were confirmed in England 138,000 persons, and in 1888 the number was 217,000, an increase of 58 per cent. in thirteen years, which was four times the growth of the population.

CLEAR WATER LAKE, MINN.,

August 15, 1889.

Dear Boys and Girls: Your Bishop has had a delightful month at his old resting-place. Clear Water Lake, and will return to his Diocese and work September 1st, thoroughly rested and prepared for hard work for another year. He has caught a great number of fish, fishing about three days in the week. and each time coming in with a fine string of bass, pike, pickerel, etc. The largest string was thirty-eight in number and weighing more than he cared to carry. We have had some rather exciting and interesting adventures. One day with a friend and our nephew and namesake David to row us, we got caught at the head of the lake, about three miles from home. There came up a tremendous windstorm, preventing our return. In a little About har per ner and how we should get to. along the lake we discovered what we thought was a picnic party, and determined to make for that point and throw ourselves upon their hospitality for dinner. We were fortunate enough to find them camped by a nice cold spring of water, and to have abundance of everything good to eat, and they very cheerfully provided us with a fine dinner. My friend determined, after dinner, to go home afoot. My boatman and I determined to stick by the ship, and get into port if possible. We thought if we could get across the arm of the lake into the shelter of the woods on the opposite side, we could take the waves across. So we started. Alas! in crossing the arm the high waves struck our frail boat sideways, and stranded us on the high projecting bar.

We got pretty thoroughly wet in the operation, but finally reached the shelter of the opposite bank, and got on pretty well until we attempted to cross, when we had to pull with all our might with two pair of oars, and save a pretty good wetting. We fetched up at home in time for tea, the good people feeling quite anxious for our safety,

Yesterday we had another rather exciting adventure. We were out fishing alone with a nephew, having a splendid catch. We were fishing with two poles, one a reel and the other a bamboo. Whilst reeling in a fine pike, a big pickerel struck the bamboo and pulled it out of the boat into the water. I did not care to loose it, and so handed the reel to the oarsman to reel in, and sprang forward, catching pole and fish. On straightening up, after sitting in the same position for two hours, I was rather stiff and tumbled into the water. I need not say I was in a bad fix, a little bit dangerous. As I went over I caught hold of the boat and hung on until I could determine what to do. Telling our boatman to bear down hard on the opposite side, I gave a good spring and threw myself back into the boat, shipping it about half full of water. This we bailed out in part, and determined, as we had half a dozen frogs left and the fish were biting pretty well, to use them up.

of luck. We had a nice string of twenty-one eral were from Rensselaer, Monticello, and fish on our stringer, had just caught a fine bass and was stringing him, when I saw the other pole bending as if there was a splendid bass after it. Letting go of the stringer, and, as I supposed, giving it a twist around the oarlock, I went for the bass, and had just gotten him into the boat when we saw our stringer disappear in the deep water, with twenty-one and hold services. fine fish, the fruits of three hours' hard work and a ducking.

Well, this seemed too bad, and we went home discouraged, yet thankful that we had come out of it so well, and were glad to reach home in safety and to get some dry clothes on our adventure but to do without fish for breakfast one day.

We have a number of bright, interesting boys and girls here, and they have a good time fishing, hunting, gathering ferns, flowers, shells and cornelians, and have all sorts of fun playing horse, ball and lawn tennis.

Two loons have been shot, three owls, one hawk, five skunks, besides quails.

On Sunday, at ten o'clock, we have a Sunday school for them, and they seem to enjoy it very much. They have all improved in health and color, including the Bishop. We shall be sorry to part with them.

And now, boys and girls, your Bishop hopes you have all had a pleasant vacation and will enter upon your school work for another year with renewed zeal and interest, and that you will also be determined to improve your Sunday-school advantages. We should like to welcome at least 250 boys and girls to the Roll of Honor this year, and we must also go to work right hard to increase our Orphanage Fund. We must have one cent a month at least from every boy and girl in our Sundayschools this year. A monthly offering I am sure all can spare without missing it. We hope your pastors and superintendents will co-operate in this way to further this good

Praying God to bless you, your friend and BISHOP.

THE DANGER OF DELAY.

Few have been the rich men but who have purposed that in due time they would be better, more generous, more noble, more devout-ly religious. But with so many the time never came because death came first.

You can well imagine the surprise and shock of such a coming. The man was in his private office, examining and signing papers of immense value and importance. Strict orders had been given not to admit anyone, under any circumstances, when lifting his eyes, the rich man was startle to behold by his side a presence he had already felt. "How came you here without announce-

"My coming has been long announced, and this meeting is by appointment." "Do you come as friend or as foe?"

"I come merely as a servant, to say your presence is required by your Master. "I have no master," says the rich man, "nor do I ever intend to have or obey such a

It is not mine to grant even a day. "Give me but an hour, then, to pray and repent

"In such an hour," said Death, "prayer would be fear, and repentance but remorse. And to the rich man the room grew black as night, and in the one last moment upon earth he thought of the man he had wronged, the children he loved, the dog he had kicked, the grave of the mother who had taught him to pray, and then, alone and poor, he went from his office, never to return again.

FAMILY PRAVER

Among the canons of the Diocese of Ken-tucky is the following: It shall be the duty of every communicant in this Church, who is the head of a family, to live in the daily exer cise of family worship; and it shall be the duty of all rectors and parish ministers from time to time to bring this matter publicly before their respective charges. Perhaps this law is not as generally known as it might be, and attention is, therefore, called to it. As Canon Liddon truly and beautifully says, the Canon Luddon truly and beautifully says, the practice of family prayer is the sure mark of a household in which God is known and loved. "Depend upon it," he continues, "the worth of a practice of that kind can only be measured by its effects during a long period of time; and family prayers, though cocupy ing only a few minutes, do make a great difficult of the control of the con How, indeed, can it be otherwise, when each morning, and, perhaps, each evening, too, all the members of the family—the old and the young, the parents and the children, the mas ter and the servants-meet on a footing of perfect equality before the Eternal, in whose presence each is as nothing, or less than nothing, yet to whom each is so infinitely dear that He has redeemed by His blood each and all of them? How must not the bad spirits that are the enemies of pure and bright family life flee away—the spirits of envy and paide, and untruthfulness and sloth, and the whole tribe of evil thoughts, and make way for His gracious presence in the hearts of old and young alike, who, as He brings us one by one nearer to the true end of our existence, so does He, and He alone, make us to be 'of one mind in a house,' here within the narrow presence of each home circle, and hereafter in that countless family of all nations, and kin-dreds, and people, and tongues, which shall dwell with Him, the universal parent of all eternity."

proposition has been made to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the organization of St. James Episcopal Church, of this city, next fall. It is expected that the affair will more tangible shape within a month or so.

On Monday evening, October 7th, 1839, a meeting was held at the residence of Mr. George Davis, in this city, the object being the organization of an Episcopal Church congregation. Rev. B. B. Killikelly presided and stated the object of the meeting. It was resolved to organize a congregation of the Church and the name St. James was selected. The following wardens and vestry men were elected: George Davis, Senior Warden; Jas. W. Greenhow, Junior Warden; Samuel Langton, George Cruikshank, John I. Cruikshank, A. T. Ellis and Joseph Somes, vestrymen. Dr. Somes was elected treasurer and George W.

A committee was appointed to secure the town hall for the holding of Sunday services, and the record shows that this committee accomplished the object for which it was named. Rev. Killikelley was elected rector, and afterwards he visited the eastern states and England to secure funds for the building which was afterwards erected (1842), and is still standing on the corner of Fourth and Busseron streets. The Queen of England contributed streets. Ine Queen of England contributed £10 for this purpose, Hon W. E. Gladstone, then a plain M. SUNDAY OBSERVANCE.

The Movement Gaining Ground.

In line with the policy inaugurated by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, and followed by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Michigan Central, Bee Line, and other roads operating in connection with the Vanderbilt system, to discontinue, as far as practicable, all labor on their railways on the lst day, an agreement has just been reached to close all the city ticket offices in Buffalo on on Sunday. This will give a large number of men an opportunity to attend church and secure a well-earned rest, and the railways interested are entitled to great credit for this movement. The example should be followed

Owing to the arrival of delayed trains it may be found impossible to close the depot ticket offices, but there is no reason why the city ticket offices of all the railways in the country should not be closed on Sunday.

Chicago, Buffalo and Indianapolis have adopted the "Sunday Closing" rule. What city will be next to have its name placed on the new roll of honor.

BIBLE classes are most necessary, but individual Bible study is far more so. A man may attend Bible class Sunday after Sunday, and yet at the end of the year know nothing more of it than he did at the beginning. When a man reads his Bible, not because he ought to, but because he wants to and loves to, he will be anxious that others should do the same and get the same love for it that he has. THE average confirmations last year in Indiana per clergyman was 11. The year before it was 13 each. This year, with all the James's Church, South Bend, Sunday, the 8th parishes and missions filled, it promises to be much larger than any previous year.

THE rector of South Bend, Rev. Thompson, welcomed a new parishoner to his home and parish in the birth of a daughter. He has presented fifty for confirmation in the year and a half he has been in South Bend.

REV MR. BAMFORD has resigned St. James's evening services there.

THE fourth annual convention of St. Andrews' Brotherhood was held at Masonic Temple, Cleveland, Ohio, on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, September 26-29. An interesting program of addresses and meetings was prepared, and no doubt much benefit was derived. The work of the Brotherhood is increasing in importance each year. We hope our Indiana Chapters were represented at the Cleveland meeting. We hope, too, that we shall have to chronicle the organization of new Chapters the present year. The Bishop expects to be present at the above meeting in Cleveland.

ORDINATION OF REV. CHARLES TUR-NER TO THE DIACONATE.

This interesting event took place in St. of September. Mr. Turner comes to us from London, Canada. He has been pursuing his studies with Mr. Thompson, and teaching in his school, and assisting him in parish work. Mr. Turner passed creditable examinations, and will be a valuable addition to the clergy list. He has made many friends during his stay in South Bend, who testified their regard for him by a generous donation to assist him Mission, New Castle, and become assistant of in going to housekeeping at Bristol. BISHOPTHORPE PARK.

Under the direction of its superintendent, Mr. W. E. Robinson, this park is becoming a thing of beauty. He has had a force of workmen engaged all summer in clearing it out, and grubbing out the underbrush, cutting out roadways, and walks, etc. Several fine natural springs have been discovered. The Bishop has the promise of two cottages to be erected in the spring for the use of the clergy in time for next summer's occupying It promises to be a lovely summer home for the clergy and families.

SEMI-CENTENNIAL OF ST. JAMES'S PARISH, VINCENNES.

It has been decided to celebrate this event in connection with the autumnal meeting of the Southern Convocation, November 12 and 13. Preparations are being made to make it an interesting occasion. Niblack on the Vestries, --- will tell the story of the work of the women. Full particulars and the program of the Convocation will be given in the November WORKER.

OFFERINGS.

The second Sunday in September was the quartery offering for Diocesan Missions. The treasurer of the Diocese reports small returns thus far. Will rectors see that one quarter of their quota for the year be sent in at an early day. On the 1st of October one 'alf of the Diocesan assessments become due for the year. Few parishes have made any remittances as yet. The treasurer needs the money to meet Diocesan obligations. He will have to pay a considerable sum to the treasurer of the General Convention in October, to meet the assessment upon the Diocese. Will parish treasurers see to it that their obligations for the Diocese are promptly met this year. On the first Sunday in No-vember an offering, an annual one, is asked for our own Diocesan Church Building Fund. The demand on this fund to aid in building fund. The demand on this fund to aid in building mission churches in the Diocese is greater than ever and liberal offerings are asked for this most important department of our mission work. All offerings should be remitted BLOOMINGTON .- Mr. Cole writes that the basement of the new church is complete, the lumber ordered, and will be on the ground by the 20th. The carpenters will be able, Mon day, to move on the work. We hope to have the church ready for occupancy in November. Mr. Cole visited Cloverdale on Monday evening, the 9th of September. He had more than 150 at service, and but one person pres ent who had ever attended our Church service before. It was all new, but using the little service was well received, and he has many invitations to come again. Mr. Cole has also held service at Stinesville, where we have a few English Churchmen.

ELKHART.-The Rev. F. W. Adams spent part of his vacation at the East, and a portion, by invitation of the Sisters of St. Mary, at Kenosha, Wisconsin.

The Rev. Charles Morris, of Evansville, spent his vacation with parishoners, at Alexandria, Minnesota, and proved himself a successful fisherman.

The Rector of Holy Innocents', Evansville writes: "I have gone to Mt. Vernon every fortnight, on Thursday evening. We have rented permanently the Jewish synagogue for our services, and organized a Sunday-school of 50 children, which is in a flourishing con-

The Rev. E. G. Hunter, of Holy Innocents Indianapolis, spent his vacation in Minnesota, visiting friends in his old parish. His parishoners kindly provided a purse of $25 to help him to spend his vacation pleasantly, Holy Innocents' has lately received a very handsome black walnut altar, credence, two very fine chancel chairs, and altar furnishings, kindly and generously given by the parish at Woods' Hall, Massachusetts. This parish has had occasion to acknowledge generous aid previously given by friends, and brethren, at Woods' Hall, towards enabling them to reduce their parish debt.

The Rev. J. H. Ranger, during his vacation. supplied St. John's, Rockville, with Sunday-afternoon services. This was most acceptable to the little band of Churchmen in this mission. Christ Church, Indianapolis, was supplied during the vacation of their rector by Rev. Mr. Gemble, a Canadian clergyman, who made many friends during his stay. On Sunday afternoons he officiated at the Surgical Institute, and in the evening at St. George's Chapel. His services were most acceptable.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson gives two Sundays in the month at Crawfordsville, one at Attica, one at Covington. In Crawfordsville time and patience will be required. This parish has suffered severely by removals. Mr. G. L. Bell, our lay-reader and catechist, has moved to Deposit, N. Y. Mrs. Dr. Smith, who was of great assistance in the music, has recently re-

At Grace Church, Attica, there is an attendance of about forty in the morning, and of twice that number in the evening. This is truly encouraging. The missionary hopes to have evening week day services.

At St. Philip's, Covington, though a small band, they are working faithfully and the missionary is encouraged by the interest manifest

The mission at Knightstown has purchased an admirably-located corner lot for their future church, at a cost of $165. It has a width of 63 feet and a depth of 125 feet. The means to purchase the lot has been raised in the mission.

The Rev. Dr. Kemp has organized a mis-Monday, September 9, spent at South Bend, service books, we got along nicely, and the sion at Kokomo, and the work there promises well. It is a city of 8,000 population, and when the church once gets a foot-hold there is no doubt he would feel grateful for against the innovations of men. Thus viewed it must grow. It is hoped to secure a lot and build a church in the near future.

Dr. Kemp spent part of September at Detroit, Michigan.

The Rev. Mr. Miller, of Logansport, returned from the east September 14, and entered with renewed energy upon his work.

The Rev. Mr. Colvin, of Peru, writes, "I have had no vacation during the summer, but have held the regular services here and at Huntington, At Huntington we have secured a large room, centrally located, which has been beautifully furnished. The congregations have been comparatively large, and the attendance at communion very good. A Sunday school has been organized with about thirty scholars. Some have expressed a desire for confirmation. Each Sunday I hold morning and evening service, superintend Sunday-school and teach a Bible class.

"We are now repairing the church building at Peru and putting in a pipe organ at a total cost of three hundred and fifty dollars, Have also bought an organ for Huntington. People outside of the Church have subscribed People outside of the Church have subscribed | It is alleged by those who would bring the liberally to the above. The rector of Lafayette already notices many signs of encouragement in his work, and trusts that these signs may develop into realities. Mr. P. C. Lutkin, of Chicago, has been secured as instructor in music and about to the Roman Faith than Henry VIII. greatly add to the interest of the services

The Rev. J. D. Stanley, of Terre Haute, spent his vacation at Maxinkuckee and Chicago.

We have received a copy of the Michigan City Evening News, for Sept. 14, containing a pic ture of the new Trinity Church, and the rector's 8th anniversary sermon. The picture we hope to give in the November number of the WORKER, as also some extracts from the interesting sermon. The statistical items of the sermon are as follows:

THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND REFORM-ED NOT BY BUT IN SPITE OF HEN-

dates her origin from the period of the Refor-mation; and that the Reformation was effected through the agency of the licentious Hen-ry VIII. It is difficult to believe that the spirit of partisanship at its greatest height could dictate a statement so utterly at variance with all the facts of history. For there lived not in his day a more devoted adherent thirty boys are in training for the choir, with prospects of having a fine choir which will and was rewarded by the reigning Pontiff ten eletters of the application with the title of "Defender of Faith," This only to himself, something in this order: with the title of "Defender of Paith." This much, however, is true: Henry resisted he claim of the Pope to exercise jurisdiction within the realm of England. And when at Henry's death his son Edward came to the throne, the papal power had been so broken that the work of reformation in doctrine began and continued under the auspices of the pious prince. No doctrine of the Church of England was changed duving the region of England was changed during the reign of Henry. On the contrary, all the most offensive teachings and usages which had overspread the primitive faith and practice were held by him; and that, too, with a pertinacity which seemed to be making amends for one act of disloyalty to Roman supremacy by the most rigid maintenance of all Roman teach-But could it be shown that the Reforino mation did take place under the auspices of Henry VIII. What then? Is it anything new that the Almighty should make the licentiousness and wrath of man to praise Him?

INSPIRATION.

Now and then a lecturer gains a little cheap applause by sneering at what he calls "

Dr. Samuel Kinns, in a recent lecture given in the Earl of Shaftesbury's drawing-room, described fifteen creative events which Moses had placed in the correct order of sequence, according to the latest discoveries in science.

The bearing of this fact upon the inspiration of Moses may be seen from the following summary of Dr. Kinns' remarks:

Dr. Kins then proved that the number of changes that can be made in the order of fif-teen things is more than a billion, viz.: 1,807, 674,368,000,

Therefore, if Moses placed fifteen important creative events in their proper order, without the possibility of traditional help, as most of them happened millions of years before man was created, it is a strong proof of his inspira-tion. For, group them as one may, and take off a further percentage for any scientific knowledge possessed by him, still the chances must be reckoned by hundreds of millions against his giving the order correctly without against his giving all other correctly without a special revelation from God.

To lead his auditors to appreciate this, Dr. Kinns mentioned that a clock beating seconds would take over 30,000 years to tick a billion

If any fifteen different events could be written down once in every ten minutes, it would take 24,000,000 of years to write all the varia-tions that could be made in their order, writing them day and night without intermission.

To further illustrate it, he distributed slips only to himself, something in this order and not one corresponded with his. He told them that if all the people in the world were to try to imitate his unknown order, there would still be a thousand chances to one that the whole 1,200,000,000 attempts would be incorrect would be incorrect.

Or, in other words, if all the people in a thousand worlds, each having a population equal to our own, were to try, there would still be a probability that not one list would agree in sequence with the unknown list. After this he asks how will the skeptic explain the marvellous, nay miraculous, accuracy in sequence of the Mosaic cosmogony.—

The Bishop and Mrs. Knickerbacker made a visit to Bishop and Mrs. Whipple at their home in Faribault, August 24th. It was a great pleasure to find both quite recovered from recent severe illness, and in their usual health. It was also a great delight, in company with the Bishop, to visit the educational institutions of the Church established there, and to witness the wonderful work accomplished in the brief period of thirty years by this wonderful man, and his co-workers.

We first drove to Seabury Divinity School, where in addition to Seabury Hall, built at a cost of $50,000, we inspected the new Johnson Hall just completed, containing the excellent library of the institution, recitation rooms and rooms for students. It was built by a legacy of the late Mrs. Huntington, of Cincinnati, Ohio, at a cost of $50,000, who also bequeathed $50,000 for its endownent. The institution has ten acres of ground and two professors' houses. The number of students of Divinity are usually about thirty, with five professors, and is partially endowed. No better theological school can be found for the training of the clergy, and the Diocese has reason to be proud of this noble school of the Prophets. Near by is the original hall, in which the sainted Breck began the work, made of bass-wood and capable of accommodating half a dozen students. The Bishop of Indiana delivered the first commencement address of this institution thirty-one years ago, under the shade of forest trees on these same beautiful grounds.

From Seabury Hall we were driven to St. Mary's Hall, a noble building erected at a cost of $100,000, and which provides accommodations for 100 daughters of the Church, This school is the glory of the Church of the northwest, and an honor to its beloved Bishop, ago in his own residence. This school has upwards of 150 pupils, and when its new buildings are completed, can accommodate 200 or more.

Truly, the Bishop of Minnesota, by the generous aid of liberal friends, has laid foundations for Christian education that shall be an honor and blessing to the American Church. Long may he be spared to witness the abundant fruits of his earnest labors for Christ and the Church. Opposite the Bishop's residence is the noble cathedral, which he has also been permitted to erect and consecrate. Never in its history was the Diocese of Minnesota doing more for reaching its entire population, with the services of our dear Church, than at present. It has a noble band of clergy, and an assistant Bishop, who co-operate with its venerable Bishop in pressing forward in every direction for fresh conquests for Christ and the Church. It was delightful to spend a day with this good Bishop, with whom, for twenty-five years, we were permitted to be a co-worker.

THE BISHOP'S VISIT TO MINNEAP-OLIS.

The Bishop and Mrs. Knickerbacker spent a delightful week in Minneapolis, and officiated on Sunday, August 25, in his old Parish of Gethsemane morning and evening, and in St. Andrew's in the afternoon. On Monday evening in the parish rooms we were tendered a reception which gave the opportunity to take by the hand and receive loving greetings from five or six hundred old friends and co-workers of former happy days. Our whole stay was most delightful. The Rector of Gethsemane was kind enough to give the offerings ($62) of the morning service at Gethsemane for our work in Indiana, for which we were deeply grateful.

WE clip the following from the Purish Visitor, of Lake City. It tells the sad story of the probable death by drowning of one of the brightest young men of St. Paul's, Richmond. a faithful communicant and Sunday-school worker. Our heart goes out in sympathy for the afflicted family:

Mr. N. Platte Robinson, a young gentleman of refinement from Richmond, Ind., who has been spending his vacation at Lake City, has been missing since Friday evening, the 8th Mr. Robinson hired a boat with the ininst. tention of going out to take a swim, as was his daily custom, but failing to return a search was instituted, which resulted in finding only the boat with its appurtenances. From these indications it is the opinion of the most hopeful that he must have met his end in the cruel waters of Lake Pepin. Mr. Robinson was a devout Churchman and a regular attendant at all the services of the Church during his brief stay among us. May the all-merciful God sustain his sorrowing parents and family in the sad affliction.

Letter to the Children.

DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS: The Bishop will write you a very short letter this month. He intended to give in this number of the WORKER a very nice letter he received from a little girl in St. Paul's Sunday-school, New Albany, but has mislaid it. She enclosed a gold dollar for the children's cot fund for St. Stephen's Hospital, Richmond, which she had received as a prize for selling the most tickets for their annual Sunday-school picnic. The Bishop is very thankful to her for remembering this fund and he does hope a good many of our boys and girls will remember it this year and that it may be increased very much. No gifts for the Orphanage Fund came in in September. Your Bishop expects you to bear it in mind, and save all you can for it. He received a dear little girl to the Roll of Honor at Logansport, who had learned the whole of the Church catechism and she was scarcely seven years old. How many of you are trying to get on the Roll of Honor of Indiana Perhaps the Bishop may see or hear something in New York that will be of interest to you. If so he will be glad to tell you of it in the November number of the Worker. NORTHERN CONVOCATION.

The autumnal meeting of the Northern Con vocation was held at Trinity Church, Logansport, the Rev. B. F. Miller rector, on Tues day and Wednesday, September 17 and 18. Of the clergy there were present, besides the Bishop, the Dean, Revs. Walter Scott, Frederick Thompson, George W. Adams, of Marion, Edwin S. White, of the Central Convocation, and the rector of the parish. Laydelegates were present from Delphi and Logansport. The wife of the Rev. William Wilson took the place of Miss Upfold in behalf of the Woman's Auxiliary. On Tuesday, after evening prayer, said by the Rev. Messrs. Scott and Thompson, an able sermon was preached by the Dean, after which an address was made by the Rev. Mr. White. On Wednesday at 9, morning prayer was said, followed by an interesting paper by the Rev. Walter Scott on Parochial Missions, which was discussed by the clergy present. At 10:30 the Holy Communion was celebrated by the Bishop, assisted by the Dean and the rector. At 11:30, at the Woman's Meeting, the Bishon and Dean addressed the large number present. which was followed by an able paper by Mrs. Wilson, of Lafayette, on Woman's Work in the Church, resulting in the formation of a Chapter of the King's Daughters, and the dun so earnestly our patrons for the means to taking of steps towards organizing an auxiliary. At the business meeting at 2 in the afternoon, Trinity Church, Peru, was selected readers who have not sent in their subas the place for the January meeting of the scriptions for the present year or for last Convocation. by the clergy present. At 4 in the afternoon a good number of Sunday-school scholars and teachers were present, when the rector presented one for the Roll of Honor. The children were catechised by the Bishop, and brief addresses were made by the Rev. Mr. ett, Mr. Wasson, of Delphi, and Mrs. Wilson. The rector reported fifty scholars on the roll. From 5 to 7 a delightful reception was held in the rectory at which many of the parishoners were present. At 7:30 a missionary meeting was held and addresses made by the Rev. Mr. Thompson on Foreign Missions, the Rev. George D. Adams on Domestic Missions, and the Bishop on Diocesan Missions. The hospitality of the good people of Trinity Church was most cordial, and the attendance upon all the services exceedingly good.

On the same evening (Wednesday) a missionary meeting was held at Delphi, at which addresses were made by Dean Faude and by Mr. Scott. Though the attendance of clergy was smaller than usual, through various causes, the Convocation was most delightful and helpful to those present.

TUTE. FOURTH YEAR.

The friends of the school have every reason to be greatly encouraged by its rapid development. Prof. and Mrs. Lyon have labored with great self-devotion to build up a school which shall be a credit to the Diocese and the state, and they are succeeding beyond expectation. Several new departments have been added, and everything that can be looked for in the education of a daughter by a parent is provided. Their labors are receiving an appreciation that must be most encouraging, and show the great need of a new school building. Every seat in the school room is taken, and more than twenty boarders are occupying rooms in the Institute. On Tuesday morning at the opening of the school the Bishop and Mr. Swan were present, and many friends of the pupils. The opening devotions were conducted by Mr. Swan, and the Bishop made an address to the pupils, welcoming the new ones, and setting forth the true object of the school.

The fourth year bids fair to be a very prosperous one for the school.

At this time (September 12) the WORKER is in debt $150 to the printer, as it has been for some years. The printer should have his money. He would have it if the large number of people who have been receiving the paper and reading it and contributing nothing for its support would at this critical time remember it by sending it to the editor, Mr. Hunter. It is not pleasant to be obliged to keep this little paper alive. There should be no need of it. We ask, then, that 300 of our

SIXTH YEAR OF HOWE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

The friends of Christian education will be pleased to learn of the opening of this school with a large reinforcement of pupils. Twenty-one new boys entered, making forty boarders. Mr. Spalding has three masters and three prefects to assist him. Five boys entered from Indianapolis, four from Terre Haute, three from Goshen, two from Lafavette. one from Peru, one from Logansport, two from Fort Wayne, three came from Chicago. several from Michigan, one from Wisconsin. one from California, one from Kansas, one from Evansville, one from Aurora, one from Lawrenceburg, two from Newport, Kentucky. With its new equipment of buildings all patrons were well pleased. There is a good prospect of several additional pupils. They were a fine looking set of boys. It is a matter of congratulation to the Diocese that this school is so steadily progressing, and the efforts of its principal to build up a first-class school so well appreciated.

Mrs. Howe has reason to be proud of the steady growth of the school.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

All intelligent Churchmen will be interested in the proceedings of the General Convention, which meets next month, in New York City. It is the Church in council assembled by its representatives, legislating for the general interest and vellare of the Church in the United States. It meets but once in every three years. Each Diocese is represented by four clerical and four lay deputies, thus giving each Diocese and equal voice in its deliberations. Thus is emphasized the intelligentations of the second of the control of the Diocese. Some persons there are each of the Diocese. Some persons there are each of the Diocese. Some persons there are each of the Diocese. They seem to think it is "not equal." To which it might be replied in the words returned to the ancient people when they complained of the Divine appointments, "But are not your ways unequal, saith the Lord?"

This will be one of the questions to be dis-

This will be one of the questions to be discussed, and an attempt will be made to establish a "proportional representation," i. e. each Diocese to be represented in proportion to its number of communicants.

Another topic will have a vision of the Prayer Book and Hymon. The least General Convention spent about three-four time in revising the Prayer Book but even then did not complete the work. It will be continued in the coming convention, when it is hoped the business will be wound up, and we shall hear nothing more of Prayer Book revision for another century. Other subjects of discussion will be the change of name of the Church, the appellate court, marriage and divorce and the mission work of the Church and a continue of the continue of

The general convention of 1889 will be of special historic interest, as it is the centennial of its final organization in 1789. Much interset will be taken in its proceedings on this account. The growth of the Church during the century, the contrasts between the beginning and close of this period, the outlook into the deliberations of this centemph rane to the American Church, and related as it thus is to the past and the future, the clergy and people throughout the land can not do better than pray earnestly that its deliberations may be guided by God. For this a prayer is provided in the Frayer Book to be used during the special of the convention. Why can not be special of the convention. Why can also special contents the family altar, as well as in the public services of the Church? It reads as follows:

"Almighty and everiasting God, who by Thy Holy Spirit didst preside in the council of the blessed Apostles, and hath promised through Thy Son Jesus Christ to be with Thy Church to the end of the world; We beseen Thee to to the end of the world; We beseen Thee to come the total the tota

A DUTY ON BOTH SIDES.

It is folly to assert that a parish will graw and develop in spiritual and temporal efficiency without a recognition and employment of the social element. The church is the househeld of God. And this term would indicate that there should be fraternal communion and fellowship among those who together say "Our Father." The Gospet teaches us our duty in the injunction of St. Paul, fill the law of Christ." For other and so fulfill the law of Christ. The control of the social distribution of the control of the social and kindly attention the one to the other. The exchange of courtesy and politices which we find, is only such as taste and congenitally suggest; the same, and no more than would exist if there was no associated together of the control of the social and kindly attention the one to court of the social and congenitally suggest; the same, and no more than would exist if there was no associated to the social action of the social attentions, a pleasant word, a fraternal greeting, and if possible "the open door."

A successful parochial organization is one where the parishioners, one and all, realize and perform their duty and responsibility in and perform their duty and responsibility in this regard. The pastor can not discharge the obligations that rest upon the Church, however unwearied he may be in his vis-itations. Besides there is but a small fraction of each day that he can devote to this duty if he would faithfully perform and more im-portant ones. He must make careful preparaion for pulpit instruction by diligent study, he sick and afflicted must hear from him the twords of consolation, and the poor may require the charity which he is appointed to dispense. Besides these duties, which are so sacred that they must be allowed to hold the highest place, there are manifold interruptions daily occurring, which consume time and from which no apparent good results can be observed, unless it may be a growth in that rare and beautiful virtue of patience which rare and seautitu virtue of patience which the pastor is required to display. Fearing an unjust and severe judgment, the pastor oft-times devotes himself to pastoral visiting at the expense of more valuable but unappreciated services to the congregation. We would acts services to the congregation. We would ask if the people owe no duty to the pastor in this matter of social intercourse? We are tenacious of this, that they are fully as much obligated to visit the pastor as he is bound to visit them. If the call is merely a polite and social attricts are arises as in the call is merely as polite and social attention, ordinary etiquette would give him the right to expect that his visits should be returned, and to assert plainly that there is a duty in this important matter on both sides. -Diocese of Nebraska.

THE CHORAL SERVICE.

The late Henry Ward Beecher, who visited England a few years ago, in one of his letters gave the following graphic description of the effect upon himself in listening to the choral service of the Church of England:

"The service began. You know my mother was, until her marriage, in the communion of the Episcopal Church. This thought hardly left me as I sat, grateful for the privilege of worshiping God through a service that had expressed so often her devotions. I can not tell you how much I was affected. I had never had such a trance of worship, and I shall never have such another view until I gain the

"I am so ignorant of the Church service that I can not tell the various parts by their right names; but the portions which most affected me were the prayers and reasons which the choir sang. I had never heard tay but of the supplication—a direct prayer—sung by the choir; it seemed as though I had heard not with my ear, but with my soul. I was dissolved; my whole being seemed to be wafted gratefully toward God. The Diversence arose before me in wondrous majesty, ineffable gentleness and goodness, and seemed irresistibly, yet gently, drawn toward God. My soul, then thou didet magnify the Lord, and rejoice in the God of thy salvations "And then came to my mind the many exaltations of the Psalms of David, and never before were the expressions and figures so noble and so necessary to express what I felt. A PLEA FOR THE "CLERGYMEN'S RE-TIRING FUND SOCIETY."

Its History: It was organized in 1874. It has grown to have 400 members; and from its membership fees of $12 a year, it has now $44,000 in its treasury. We assist to day sixty-$44,000 in its treasury. We assist to day sixty-five annuitants, dividing the interest on our capital among them according to years of membership.

Its Object: This society was organized to build up a fund in the church, which should build up a rund in the church, which should eventually be able to give to every member a reasonable pension at the age of sixty years. In age and strength our society is yet in its infancy. To do its work effectively it should have a million dollars invested. All membership dues and all gifts go to swell this capital fund, the interest of which only can be

Its Nature and Scope: It is not a charity, like our "Aged and Infirm Clergy Funds," nor is it local in its application. It is for the nor is a force of the supplication. As is for the whole Church; any clergyman at any age may join it and become partaker of the benefit. The charity idea is not agreeable to clergymen, but a pension fund is. As in the army and navy the old are justly provided army and navy the old are justly provided to the control of t for by the state in this way, much more should it be so in the Church, where salaries are smaller, but where the life surrender is just

Its Necessity: The Church can not exist Its Mecessity: Ane Unuren can not exist without ministers, nor can she prosper unless the best talent fills her pulpits and waits at her altars. "Like priest, like people." If the Church would secure the best she must make it appear that the clerical profession is both honorable and safe. A bridge, with the planks not laid at the farther end, is unsafe to cross, and the ministry, as a profession, is unsafe until the last plank, the pension fund, is pro-vided. The Retiring Fund Society is trying to make the clergyman's life secure, that to make the clergyman's life secure, that young men may not fear to give themselves to it. Will you assist to lay the plank to make old age honorable in the ministry of our Church? Poverty in youth is bad enough; of the plank to avert a threatening evil, to forestall disaster. to averta threatening evil, to forestall disaster, to strengthen the weakest part of our church life to-day. The Church is stirred and rest-less under a sense of something wrong in this matter of clerical support, especially for the aged. of life to them.

What we Want: We want a lay co-operative membership of five hundred; these pay $1200 a year, and may name their own beneficiaries if they desire. We want contributors who will give us $100 a year. These are patrons of the society. We want offerings in Churches and contributions of any amount the ability and heart of the giver may prompt him to send us. NUMBER OF JEWS BAPTIZED IN A YEAR.

The Rev. J. de la Roi, missionary of the London Society for Promoting Christianity amongst the Jews in Breslau, Germany, has recently collected statistics concerning the to range from 1,000 to 1,500 annually. Commenting upon these ascertained facts, the Rev. A. Bernstein writes as follows to the Jewish Intelligence, the missionary periodical of the London Society:

"Now, if the average of Jewish converts an nually is from 1,000 to 1,500, the friends of the cause of Christ among Israel have reason to rejoice and be thankful. For, considering the probability that there are not more than 5, 000,000 of Jews in the whole of Christendom, the number is a very large one. According to the same ratio, the number of converts in India ought to be annually 60,000 or 80,000, and in China proportionately 100,000 or 80,000 and in China proportionately 100,000.

tians in the world."

There is, moreover, a peculiar oblication owing by Christians to the ancient people of God. From them we have received all that spritually we hold most sacred. The debt can never be paid. But, surely, we should spare no effort to extend to the descendants of this rane of all others. spare no effort to extend to the descendants of this race, of all others, what we may of that Gospel of peace of which every sinning, sor-rowing, dying human being has woeful need, and which the Master came and suffered and died that He might give to all.

When parishes are vacant and are loking when parisites are vaccant and are roking most earnestly for a rector to supply and ter-minate the vacancy, may I indicate what seems to me their best and wisest way of pro-

Let the vestry of such a parish, from observation of the clergymen whom they know, or from inquiry among their friends, and in confrom induity among their triends and in consultation with the Bishop, make up their minds who would be the suitable person for them to invite to the rectorship. Then, at a regularly summoned vestry meeting, let them adopt a resolution that he be so invited, and then extract their street the and then instruct their secretary to send this invitation, and to embody in it the clear statement of the amount of salary that is offered. and when and how often the same will be paid.

If the clergyman accept the invitation, and the vestry and parish gather about him, to stay up his hands and to cheer him in his work, one may hopefully look for growth and strength there. Loyal and helpful parishion-ers are wonderful forces for making a dull preacher animated, and for changing a cold and distant minister into a bright and warmhearted pastor. If he do not accept, let an other suitable clergyman be fixed upon, and policy of endowment. other suitable clergyman be fixed upon, and the invitation, as before, be promptly sent to him. It may be that three or four or more clergymen may each say "No, thank you," to the same call. No matter; this is surely their percogative, and their reasons for declining must be presumed to be wise and good. The must be presumed to be wise and good. The because of the declination, and ought cheerily to go right on to call the next best man. Keep vigorously and promptly and cheerfully

Keep vigorously and promptly and cheerfully at this one work of writing, say I, to all vacant parishes until your pastor is secured. May I frankly add—speaking from my knowledge of how clergymen of the best sortiele, and from my experience in these matters—that one of the most unwise and improper courses to be pursued is for the vacant parish to ask any clergyman to come and officiate for them on trial, as it were, and with a view, if he and they are mutually pleased, to his becomine their rector. For many reasons. view, it do and they are introduced processes, so his becoming their rector. For many reasons that could be pointed out, this is indeed an unwise way of proceeding for the parish, and no right-minded clergyman can suppress the instinctive feeling that it is not the way of due respect and regard for him. If a vestry wish amiss to remark that after a call has been made it is perfectly legitimate and quite hon-orable for the invited clergyman to say, if he wish, I will come some Sunday to visit and officiate before I decide. - Bishop of Missouri.

It is sad to think of the waste of time in the hit-and-miss, unsystematic instruction in Sun-day-schools. The want of directness and continuity is like dashing buckets of water on the thinby is like dashing outsets or water on the side of an overshot water-wheel. Out of the mass of pabulum that is apread out before children, an intelligent boy or girl may pick up a few truths, but they float around in their brains like a lot of loose marbles, rather than a days of season cash. their brains like a lot or loose marbles, rather than a cluster of grapes, each one connected by a vital bond to the vine. It is a difficult matter to teach an undisciplined mind, young or old, to see that the distinct value of a truth or out, to see man the distinct value of a frum lies in its relation to the whole of truth. In the "New Education" there is no end of "sur-prising "methods" for educating children with electric speed; but for Christian education, no modern inventions, nor new-fangled theories can strand by the side of steady instruction in the catechism (made to mean to boys and girls what it says), the Christian Year, and the Service of the Prayer Book, Year, and the Service of the Prayer Book. For laying the basis of an assured faith, of the true idea of what worship means, and of the regulation of a right practical life, no system nor method can do anything like that what the Church does in this simple and effective teaching of youth.—Church and Forum, California.

Perhaps one of the most sensible utterances on the subject of Episcopate Endowment Funds is that of the Bishop of Southern Ohio, the Rt. Rev. Boyd Vincent, D. D. He says: the Rt. Rev. Boyd Vincent, D. D. He says:

THE two veteran missionaries, Father Himes, of South Dakota, eighty-five years of age, and Father Birne, of Colorado, eighty-three years of age, were present in New York at the meeting of the Board of Missions. They were both hale and hearty, and appeared good for many years yet of earnest work for Christ and His

The Church Unity Society held a very interesting meeting in New York on the evening of Monday, October 7th. The Bishop of Maine, chairman of the House of Bishops, presided. Many of the Bishops and other clergy were present. Instructive and hopeful addresses were given by the chairman, by Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota; Dr. Parkhurst, a thoughtful Presbyterian divine; Dr. Philip Schaff, of Union Theological Seminary, and Dr. Nevin, of Rome, Italy. On Tuesday morning the Holy Communion was celebrated, at Grace church, by the Bishop of Pittsburgh, the president of the society, and a very enjoyable breakfast followed, at which about forty guests sat THE complete organization of the down. THE BISHOP'S JOURNAL.

Sunday, September 29, spent at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., preaching in Bethesda church in the morning, and in the evening made an address on Church Work in Indiana, Monday and Tuesday, September 30, and October 1, spent in visiting my old home in Schaghticoke.

Tuesday afternoon, October 1, went to New York.

Wednesday, October 2, and following days spent in sessions of General Convention.

Sunday, October 5, spent at Elizabeth, N. J.; 7:30 A. M., celebrated Holy Communion in Christ church; 10:30 A. M., made an address on Church Work in Indiana; 4 P. M., visited mission Sunday-school of St. Peter's, and addressed the children; evening, in St. John's church, Elizabeth, Rev. Mr. Glazebrook, rector, made a missionary address.

Saturday, October 12, took part in consecration of Rev. Dr. Leonard, Assistant Bishop of ing upon their earnest labors. Ohio.

Sunday, October 13; 10:30 A. M., present at the fiftieth anniversary of St. Mark's church. Brooklyn, Dr. Haskins, made an address and celebrated Holy Communion; 3 P. M., made an address at the Sunday-school of same church, in which, at one time, I had been a Bible class teacher and superintendent; 8 P. M., in St. Philip's (colored) church, New York, Rev. Mr. Bishop, rector, preached. This parish has a beautiful church, and large congregations, with a lovely, hearty service.

Sunday, October 20, 10:30 A. M., delivered an address in Church of the Redeemer, Brooklyn, on Church Work in Indiana; 3 P. M., visited St. Luke's Sunday-school, Brooklyn, Dr. Bradley, rector. Was glad of the opportunity of looking on the grand, new parish building, and to see and speak with the model Sunday-school, with its excellent body of teachers. It being intercession day for Sunday-schools, we were glad to unite in the service arranged and conducted by Dr. Bradley. We found among the teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Parker, and their daughter Lizzie, who are as devoted to good works as when with Dr. Bradley in Indianapolis. 7:30, evening, delivered an address on Church Work in Indiana, in St. Mary's church, Brooklyn, Rev. Dr. D. V. M. Johnson, rector. Dr. Johnson was a missionary at an early day in Michigan City, and retains a warm interest in Indiana. Though seventy-eight years of age, he continues in active duty as rector of a large parish.

BISHOP WILMER once gave a choir leader a lesson in hymnology in this wise: The singer had picked out a hymn beginning, "How glad for me when death shall come," or some such mornful sentiment. "Now," asked the Bishop, "do you mean that? Will you be glad? Think a, minute-you are going to sing that? Is it real?" The man flinched (who would'nt) and the Bishop got him to take "Rock of ages," or something of the sort, and the leader returned street improvement, while Mr. Joshua Luthulz happy estate of each as for his own felicity.—St. to his choir a wiser and a thankful person.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

GOSHEN .- On the first Sunday in October, St. James's welcomed its new rector, the Rev. I. B. Mead, who brings with him the highest testimonials of faithfulness and efficiency in former fields of labor.

NEW ALBANY,-The Rev. A. B. Nicholas, of the Diocese of Ohio, has been received into the Diocese, and entered upon the rectorship of St. Paul's church the middle of October. He was cordially welcomed by his parishoners; and, under his wise administration, we look for growth and prosperity in this important parish,

WORTHINGTON.-The Rev. Lewis Cass Birch entered upon the rectorship of St. Matthew's the second Sunday in October. This parish, for many months without a rector, will now, with renewed zeal, enter upon the work before it. Mr. Birch comes from the Diocese of Minnesota, where he has done efficient work at Wa-

DELPHI.-The Rev. B. F. Miller, of Logansport, is continuing his work at this place, and reports encouraging interest. He holds a service every Sunday evening at 7:30, coming over from his home parish after his second service, which is now held at 3 P. M.

INDIANAPOLIS .- Holy Innocents' church held its annual Harvest Home Festival the last Sunday in September. The church was tastefully and appropriately trimmed with flowers, vegetables, and fruits. The service was fitting the occasion, and was heartily rendered. The Rev. Mr. Bamford has kindly and generously placed upon the altar of this parish a much needed pair of brass vases. A band of missionary gleaners has lately been organized, whose work is to collect weekly, one or two cents, for missionary purposes, from all members and friends whose names they can obtain. They make weekly returns to the rector, and meet as a missionary society the first Saturday afternoon in the JEFFERSONVILLE .- St. Paul's has completed payment on church lots on which their new church is to be erected. They have also a $1,000 in hand towards a building fund. They are preparing to build of stone, and have taken steps towards securing plans. ey are going carefully forward and will in good time have a church that will be a credit to this part of the KENNARD.-The five faithful communicants of St. Philip's have cause for thankfulness that their efforts to make their church comfortable, have been successful. During the last month the chancel has been enlarged and carpeted, and natural gas been put into the church for both heating and lighting, the side walks and street have been graded and gravelled so that the church can now be comfortably reached in all weather. The members of the Society of Friends, whose church is reached by the same street, and other citizens co-operated in the was particularly helpful in other outside work. Augustine.

To add to all this, the chancel chairs from Holy Innocents', Indianapolis, the handiwork of the Rev. George B. Engle, when he was rector of that parish, have been presented to the Rev. Willis D. Engle, the minister in charge, and by him placed in the chancel.

LAPORTE.-A local paper records a very agreeable surprise to the Rev. Mr. Scott and family on the evening of Saturday, October 19th. Something over a hundred members of St. Paul's church came to offer their congratulations upon the thirtieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Scott. Mr. Truesdell. in a very happy and touching speech, on behalf of the assembled guests, presented Mr. Scott with a purse of $113, as a slight token of regard in which he and his wife were held by the congregation. After a brief reply in thankful recognition of the spirit which prompted this manifestation of the love of his people, Mr. Scott invoked the Divine blessing upon those present. A very pleasant social evening followed, during which refreshments were served, and vocal and instrumental music rendered.

LOGANSPORT .- The rector reports a Harvest Home Festival October 6th. The church was beautiful, the service hearty, and the people joyful. A band of "King's Daughters" has been organized and is now at work. They hope to be able to help St. Stephen's hospital, and the orphanage. The parish guild is excellent, and has entered upon its fall work with zeal and interest.

Madison,-The Rev. Mr. Heermans has been celebrating the second anniversary of his entrance upon the rectorship of Christ church. In his sermon he gave a review of the work of the past two years, and feelingly spoke of the "hearty cordiality in which he had been received by the parishoners of Christ church, and the affectionate good-will shown to him and his family, which encouraged him to stronger and more persistent efforts in advancing the cause of his Divine Master, and all the paramount interests of the parish. A local paper, in closing a review of the service, speaks of Mr. Hermans as " a zealous pastor, a consistent Christian minister, strong as a pulpit declaimer and exhorter, kind and zealous in his priestly work in visiting his people, administering comfort to the distressed and needy, and congenial as a gentleman to all with whom he becomes associated in social relations."

South Bend,-The Rev. F. Thompson has arranged with Mr. Graham, General Secretary of the American Church Temperance Society, to hold a temperance mission in this parish, from November 24th to December 4th. We trust the temperance work may receive a new impetus by this effort. Mr. Graham has the reputation of being an able speaker, and will doubtless draw forth great attention and

It must be remembered that our Board of Missions are striving to attain an average of one dollar per annum from each communicant to enable them to do their work, and meet the opportunities for extending the Church, open to them. This is barely two cents per week. The figures given will show what parishes have reached the maximum, and gone beyond it; and how many have fallen below, and far below it.

GENERAL CONVENTION OF 1880.

The opening services of the Convention in St. George's church, New York, were of a glorious character. About fifty Bishops in procession marched up the aisle preceded by the vested choir, and were arranged in the chancel. The sermon, an able review of the influence, and history of the Church on this continent during the past century, and its missionary work, was by Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota. The Holy Communion was then celebrated by the Presiding Bishop, a large number of the faithful communi-

One of the most interesting events ocpeople, and $110,157 for Foreign Miscuring during the General Convention was the semi-centennial celebration of the rectorship of Rev. Dr. S. M. OUR SHIPS AT SEA.

How many of us have ships at sea, Freighted with wishes and hopes and fears, Tossing about on the waves, while we Linger and wait on the shores for years, Gazing afar through the distance dim And sighing, will ever our ship come in? We sent them away with laughter and song,

The decks were white and the sails were The fragrant breezes bore them along, The sea was calm and the skies were blue, And we thought as we watched them sail away, Of the joy they would bring us some future day.

Long have we watched beside the shore To catch the gleam of the coming sail, But we only heard the breakers' roar Or the sweeping night-wind's dismal wail, Till our cheeks grow pale and our eyes grow dim, And we sadly sigh, will they ever come in?

Oh! poor sad heart with its burden of cares, Its aims defeated, its worthless life That has garnered only the thorns and the tares, That seared and torn in the pitiful strife, Afar on the heavenly golden shore

Thy ships are anchored forever more.—Selected.

THE OBSERVANCE OF FRIDAY.

We are now far enough advancee in the outter life of our parish to endeavor to bring out more fully the inner life of the Church. The Church has set before us certain feast and fast days as helps in spiritual growth. Taken together they constitute the Christian year, the year revolving around Christ the Sun of Righteousness, as in our civil and solar year, the earth revolves around the sun. It begins with a preparation for the coming of Christ, and when that life has ended on earth by the ascension into heaven, the Holy Spirit descends, and we are then led to contemplate the Triune God in His majesty and glory, and to show our faith by our works, in the conduct which is taught us in the last half of the Christian year as flowing out of the true contemplation of the life of Christ.

We are sometimes asked why, when other Christians observe Wednesday as their day of weekly prayer, do not we join with them, and so have unity in some one thing? Rather might we ask, why have they changed the day which was observed by the Church long before these different sects were born, and which has such strong and urgent reasons for its observance? Friday is the weekly reminder of the crucifixion of our Lord, as Sunday is the weekly commemoration of the resurrection. It is therefore the one day of all the week for whose religious observance there is good Christian ground. To observe some other day and to pass over this commemoration of the crucifixion does not seem to the Church as among the things she is at liberty to do. She has urged her children to observe the day as one of the days of fasting on which she enjoins such a measure of abstinence as is suited to special acts and exercises of devotion. The day is to be used for self examination, for special prayer and for meditation on the atonement of Christ. Ought we not to be aware that festivities are not consistent with a proper observance of the day, that parties, balls, excursions, and the like are incompatible with any serious contemplation of the suffering of Christ for us men and for our salvation? Those who are striving to find how little they can do for God, and still be religious, will perhaps not welcome this attempt to restore a proper observance, but there may be some who will gladly seize upon any opportunity for advancement in holiness. Let Friday, then, find us in the house of God, and in our closet kneeling and searching out our sins for which Christ was crucified; even at our tables let it be seen that we are not forgetful of the Christian duty of self-denial; by at least restraining our appetites if we do not wholly fast. In many families it is the custom to have no meats on that day. While one may eat as much of other things as will make up for this, and so have the form of godliness but not the power thereof, yet even in such cases the custom serves as a reminder of the day and its duties. In gratitude to Him who hath loved us and given Himself to die for our sins on this day let us give it its proper observance.-The Rev. 7. 7. Faude, anniversary

THE Church Record Co., No. 2, Cooper Union, New York city, has published "Roman-ism and Sectarianism," by Rev. Geo. C. Betts, rector of Grace church, Louisville, Kv. The book deals with the Church position in regard to schism, and gives special attention to Romanism, Presbyterianism, Methodism, Baptists, Campellites, Unitarians, and Infidels. It sparkles with bright sayings, is replete with historic facts, and is full of manly courage. It is a book for everybody. Price: Paper 50 cents, cloth $1.

THE Statesman, published in Chicago, is among the first of its class of magazines. Among its contributors are practical representative men fully alive to the great needs of the day. The October number merits a careful reading. THE Magazine of Christian Literature is a new enterprize devoted to the live religious topics of the day. THE Scientific American is probably the most complete and valuable of the various publications in the interest of the artizan. It is published by Munn & Co., of New York, the oldest patent soliciting firm in this country, if not in the world. Besides the Scientific American, the firm also publish the Scientific American Supplement, the export edition of the Scientific American, and the architects and builders edition of the Scientific American. The first two publications are issued every week, and the latter two the first of every month.

THE most important artistic event that has taken place in the United States is the competition - still undecided - for the grand cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York, which has drawn forth designs from very many of the best architects of this country, and of Europe. The American Architect, recognizing the great importance to the artistic and ecclesiastical world of these designs, has arranged to present to its subscribers and the public a series of the best, with great care for their value and interest, beginning with those that were especially invited by the committee. These designs will appear at short intervals, beginning Saturday, October 5, in extra double numbers, and will attract widespread notice and criticism as opening a new architectural era for America, with the inception of what is planned to be for all time the noblest ecclesiastical monument in the new world, and the finest expression of American character and genius in art and architecture.

GIVING.

In St. Luke vi. 38 we have evidently what may be called the true method of getting rich: "Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your

Thus expressed, the relation between giving and riches is somewhat different from the commonly accepted one. The ordinary precept would be "Get rich in order to give;" here it reads, "Give in order to get rich." The common statement would be, "Measure your gifts by your riches," this says, "Measure your riches by your gifts,"

One thing follows at once from this, it would have been almost a cruelty for the Saviour to set this rule before the world, if any one could make answer: This rule can not apply to me, for I have nothing to give. No, the answer that the Saviour Himself has given in a very practical way. For if you were to ask the question. Who is the richest person mentioned in the Bible? I should at once answer by pointing you to a scene near the entrance to the temple courts. Jesus sat there watching the so-called rich men casting their gifts pompously into the treasury. One silently steals by Him and drops in a penny, all the living that she had. The Lord himself at once pours into her bosom an untold wealth, the gold and silver and gems of which have been bright and sparkling ever since, and become brighter as the world grows older. Who can tell what a mine of wealth that penny has become? Who can tell how many hidden veins of true riches have branched out from that one scene? Yes, many a life which has before seemed utterly poor when suddenly brought face to face with the spirit of giving which was in that poor widow, and become a sharer in that spirit, has found itself rich, rich with the riches of God Himself, "Who spared not His onlybegotten Son, but freely gave Him up for us all." S. H. Hilliard, in " The Diocese," Mass.

"I HAVE been a member of your Church for thirty years," said an elderly Christian to his pastor, "and when I was laid by with sickness for a week or two, only one or two came to visit me. I was shamefully neglected." "My friend," said the pastor, "in all those thirty years how many sick have you visited?" "Oh," he replied, "it never struck me in that light. I thought only of the relation of others to me, and not of my relation to them."

A congregation, anxious to get rid of their pastor, were considerably perplexed how to do it without hurting his feelings. After considerable discussion they concluded to inform him they were obliged to reduce his salary. A delegation was appointed to wait on him and notify him of the fact. "Brethren," was his reply, "I have been with you in prosperity and I will never desert you in adversity.

UPON the banners of the Church let us emblazon, as in letters of light, our motto: The STAINED, ENAMELED, EMBOSSED, CUT AND world for Christ in our own generation; and let us take up the work anew, with a firm purpose, by God's help, to overtake every living soul with the message of the gospel before this generation shall pass away.

THOUGHTS ON TITHES.

Rendering tithes to God is a priviledge granted to men, not to rich men, but to all men, because all men require the continuance of God's bounty and the poor not less than the rich. For a poor man to say that he can not afford to pay thithes, is to say that he can not afford to be an honest man, that he can not afford to increase in faith toward God, that he can not afford to obtain God's blessing on his temporal affairs, that he can not afford to be delivered from anxiety about Street, Indianapolis, Ind. himself and his family.

Suppose a poor man and wife were anxiously talking over the matter, and the Lord came to E. O. McCormick, Gen. Passenger Agent. them, as of old, saying: If you desire it, God will continue to watch over and bless you, give you health and strength to work, provide you with employment, to secure you good wages, bestow wisdom in using them and comfort in the enjoyment of what you purchase; but then you must deal honestly with Him and render to Him His tenth; or if you prefer it, God will leave you to yourselves and permit you to keep all you can obtain without His help, for He does not claim tithes when He does not give increase. Which offer would the man and his wife think it most profitable to accept?

Again, suppose a poor man oppressed with want and worldly care goes to his deacon for help and his pastor for comfort. When the former has given him some pecuniary relief, what shall the latter say to him? If he wishes to provide him with a word that may be as a lamp to his feet and as a star of hope, can he find one more suited to his case than Malachi 3: 10-12? Is there a Bible text more easily obeyed, more pointedly connected with temporal affairs, more positive in its assurance of blessing, more adapted to quicken hope in a man ready to perish through despair.

If a poor man can be taught this truth, and lifted up into the faith and practice of it, it is doing more for his help than the promise of an annuity, for the will or ability of the promiser might fail, but God's providence shall never fail .- From Tithes and Offerings, by C. W. Boase, Esq.
